''A long time ago, I was driving in San Francisco to an interview and I realized I didn't have a map,'' the author said during a recent stop in Los Angeles. ''I didn't know where I was, but I was able to navigate by inner radar, which was completely accurate. That made me curious. I wanted to know how it works.''

Intuition, she says, ''functions like a satellite dish in your brain. It picks up sounds and images and transposes them onto the screen of your mind. Sometimes you get a feeling because of the input coming into that satellite dish and you sort it and decide whether to trust it or not. It's a function of intellect, but it's not logical.''

''Sixth Sense'' is a ''book for skeptics,'' Nadel said. Unlike other books that focus on the psychic component of intuition, Nadel and her co-authors focus on ''the brain's inherent ability'' to choose a proper course of action without a lot of hard facts.

Lots of people employ intuition in making decisions, and not all of them are at the racetrack.

CBS News anchor Dan Rather, who granted Nadel an interview, freely admits using hunches on the job, as do a lot of other reporters.

Former astronaut Edgar Mitchell and artifical heart inventor Robert Jarvik speak of times when they played hunches, and played them right. Film director Francis Ford Coppola follows his sixth sense as does Milwaukee Brewers Manager Tom Trebelhorn. Nadel says there are many other business leaders and public notables who play their hunches, although they don't talk too much about it.

''Intuition is a survival trait that most people have,'' Nadel said.

She recounts the story of a friend who was driving on the freeway when ''he had a sense that a driver nearby was going to do something dangerous, even though no one was driving in an unnatural way. In a few minutes, someone cut into traffic without signaling. He would have been hit if it weren't for intuition.''

A lot of people have had similar experiences, she says.

So how does the intuitive process work? There are a lot of theories.

The one Nadel favors comes from Dr. Paul MacLean, chief of brain evolution and behavior at the National Institute of Mental Health. He believes in the triune - or three-in-one - brain model, positing that humans have not one two-sided brain but three: the reptilian or primal brain, which creates patterns or routines; the limbic system, the origin of all emotions; and the neocortex, also known as the right and left brains, which, respectively, control reason and creativity. He believes intuition is a function of the right neocortex and logic is in the left.

Based on that model, ''Sixth Sense'' provides a framework for using all three brains. To do so, Nadel says one must first accept that rational thought is not the only valid mental experience.

Intuitive powers can only be released by momentarily suspending rational thought, she says. The ideal is to reach a balance in which the individual can think both intuitively and rationally at the same time.

''Becoming more intuitive is a process of learning to notice how you think and respond,'' Nadel said.

Intuition is not a myth. It's a real, trainable ability.

Women's intuition is not a myth, either, says Nadel. It's just misnamed.

''The first six months I was researching this book I couldn't get men to give me interviews. Then I found out that I was OK as long as I referred to hunches rather than feelings. Women have intuition. Men have gut feelings. It's all a matter of linguistics.''

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (JULY 16) UPI - Tom Cruise, 28, is a motion picture phenomenon, arguably the brightest young star on the screen.

Since his discovery in ''Taps'' in 1981, Cruise has reeled off a string of nine successive hits without a single box-office failure.

Granted, he got his feet wet in some early pictures, ''Losin' It,'' and ''The Outsiders.'' But once he starred in ''Risky Business'' in 1983, he became Hollywood's hottest property.

He followed with ''All The Right Moves,'' ''Legend,'' ''Top Gun,'' ''The Color of Money,'' ''Cocktail,'' ''Rain Man,'' ''Born on the Fourth of July.''

His most recent is ''Days of Thunder,'' a picture he initiated, stars in and helped put together.

He has worked with such Academy Award winners as Paul Newman, Dustin Hoffman, Robert Duvall and director Oliver Stone - and held his own with them all.

He was nominated for an Oscar himself last year for his performance as Ron Kovic in ''Born on the Fourth of July.''

Cruise has attained superstardom, an anointed status that comes with bankability. If a producer has Cruise and a script he can count on borrowing $30 million to finance a movie.

On screen Cruise has a high likability quotient. He's not tall, but he's dark and handsome, and two out of three ain't bad.

Off-screen, Cruise is a case of what you see is what you get.

Born Thomas Cruise Mapother IV on July 3, 1962, in Syracuse, N.Y., the young star was married to actress Mimi Rogers, who divorced him last year. He is now single and apparently enjoying it.

The other day he sauntered into a Westwood hotel suite in a dark suit, white dress shirt and conservative blue necktie. His black shoes were polished. He looked a bit hung over. Some of his buddies had surprised him with a birthday party the night before.

Cruise is self-confident without being cocky. His intelligence is evident in the concentration he gives to questions and in his quick responses.

His boyishness pops to the surface when discussing his favorite forms of recreation: race car driving and sky diving. He laughs and speaks with rapid enthusiasm on both subjects. He examines his career openly and subjectively.

''I think I progress as an actor with every movie I make,'' he said. ''When I met Ron Kovic, I saw an overt person. His emotions were very immediate and apparent. Cole Trickle, my character in 'Days of Thunder,' is into mind games. He's like an onion you're peeling throughout the movie getting to know him slowly, layer by layer.

''I began thinking about how I would play Cole four years ago when I wrote an outline and got some writers to work on it. I wanted to do a story about the people of NASCAR, not a race car movie.

''Cole is a guy who sits there and thinks. He hides things he doesn't want anyone else to know. He doesn't trust anybody.''

Cruise rejects the idea that ''Days of Thunder'' is an extension of ''Top Gun.''

''This script is a lot better developed, and the character I play is far more complex,'' he said.

''I've become more demanding of what I do. I've gotten smarter about script and character. I ask more from the project itself in terms of working with better people.

''It's like putting together a Super Bowl team every time you make a movie. You want the best players possible.''

His enormous popularity allows Cruise to demand quality scripts, major co-stars and top flight personnel in all departments.

''It goes beyond money,'' he said. ''I've been fortunate to work with fine actors and great directors. I want to work with Oliver (Stone) again and Barry (Levinson, who directed him in 'Rain Man').

''I want to surround myself with people who know more than me. I want to be the student. Believe me, if I have all the answers, we're in serious trouble. I want to challenge people, not have them agreeing with me.''

Cruise brought considerable expertise to the role of Cole Trickle. He raced for two years as a member of Paul Newman's team after they co-starred in ''The Color of Money.''

''I'd never been a NASCAR racer,'' he said. ''But I'd driven in competition. It helped me play the part with authority.

''Newman got me interested when he put me in a car on a short test track. My first big high came when Jim Fitzgerald (Newman's teammate) took me to Road Atlanta and taught me things about driving and the track.

''That was four or five years ago. I really got buzzed. Then I drove 190 mph at Daytona and I could feel the G-force building up. I looked into a turn and told myself there's no way this car will hold the road. The walls were streaking past.

''The first time you hit that kind of speed, you're right on the edge. It's exhilarating and, for a lap, absolutely terrifying. For a moment my arms wanted to lock up. I had my foot to the floor and I was screaming to myself just to break through the fear.

''Once I broke through, I became relaxed and felt every inch of the car that moved, because on every lap the track changes.

''I've never known a higher high. I was maxed out. That day I decided to make a race picture.

''A couple of days later, I wrote the outline for 'Days of Thunder.'''

By CHARLES S. TAYLOR

ATLANTA (JULY 16) UPI - Five years ago, the first Asian tiger mosquito was found in this country, touching off fears that the aggressive biter - which can carry a variety of diseases - could cause epidemics.

Now, some public health officials wonder if the tiger mosquito might be just a pussycat.

Although it had spread into 17 states by the end of 1988, the mosquito has not been reported in any additional states in the past two years, said Dr. Chester Moore of the federal Centers for Disease Control.

Also, Moore said, there have been no outbreaks of diseases traceable to the mosquito.

The worst reports that have surfaced concerning the insect have been that in some areas of the South it has replaced other types of mosquitoes as the most fearsome biters, said Moore of the CDC's insect-borne disease laboratory in Fort Collins, Colo.

Right now, Moore agrees that the Asian tiger mosquito represents more of a nuisance than anything else. But he does not agree with the assessment of some other scientists that the mosquito is not a potential danger to the public health.

''I don't think I'd be willing to say that yet. It takes a number of years for mosquitoes to become established. It has not become terribly abundant farther north yet except in some areas,'' he said, adding ''there are no guarantees it won't become a health threat.''

Moore predicted bluntly that ''at some point in the future, this mosquito will become involved in the transmission of LaCrosse encephalitis,'' a potentially fatal brain infection that occurs in the northern areas of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys. He also believes it will spread into more states and indeed may already have done so.

''I know a number of people who have said it's not going to be a problem. On the other side, there have been those who say it's going to be a major health threat. I still think the truth lies in the middle,'' he said.

Moore, who has been keeping tabs on the mosquito since it was first reported to federal health authorities, said it is possible that the pest infiltrated more than 17 states but has not been detected because some state and local health departments do not have the resources to track it.

The tiger mosquito was unknown in this country before August 1985, when a mosquito control inspector found some specimens near a ship channel in Houston. Health officials believe the insects entered the United States in stagnant water that collected in used tires imported from the Far East.

Known scientifically as Aedes albopictus, the tiger mosquito got its nickname from the silvery stripes that run across its wings and black body. ''It's kind of pretty as mosquitoes go,'' said Moore.

In addition to LaCrosse encephalitis and yellow fever, the mosquito is a carrier of the organism that causes a tropical ailment known as dengue fever. Also known as breakbone fever because of the arthritis-like pain it causes, dengue fever can be very debilitating, although usually not fatal.

Moore compares the belief that the tiger mosquito will not become a public health threat to complacency surrounding the gypsy moth a generation ago. The moth, a horticultural pest, was a problem only in the northeastern United States for 20 to 30 years, and the belief was that it would never spread. ''Now we've got it all the way out in Colorado,'' he said.

The states where tiger mosquitoes have been reported are: Alabama, Arkansas, California, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Ohio Tennessee and Texas.

Summing up the tiger mosquito's five years of residence, Moore said: ''The bad part is that it still is very much with us and is being transported around by the movement of scrap tires.'' The good part is that it has not spread disease so far, and more regulatory and chemical controls are being considered, he said.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) COMTEX - The 8-K report filed at the SEC shows Cannon Pictures Inc. had been informed by Trihoof Investments, B.V., cancelled its tender offer with Cannon Pictures as a result of a break in an agreement between Trihoof and Pathe Communications Corp. regarding that offer.

Pathe had declared Trihoof in default under the terms of an agreement between itself, Trihoof, Cannon, and Reta Properties Inc. That default, as a result of Trihoof's failure to deposit $5 million in escrow as per the agreement, has caused Pathe to consider itself no longer bound to that agreement. Trihoof said it will continue negotiations with Pathe in an attempt to restore the agreement, which default resulted in Trihoof's cancellation of its tender offer with Cannon. Trihoof has stated that it intends to amend that tender offer to accord with the current situation.

On July 5, 1990, Ovidio Assonitis, chairman of the board, CEO and director of Cannon, was removed from those positions by the corporate board. William Immerman, vice chairman and director, was also removed from his positions by the directors of Cannon.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) COMTEX - The 8-K report filed at the SEC shows Home Federal Savings Bank of Alabama competed a public offering of 34,600 shares of common stock, or 35.08% of the bank's stock portfolio, on June 12, 1990. The bank recognized a net gain from the transaction of approximately $1.94 million. Proceeds of that sale went to general corporate purposes.

During the month of June, the value of the bank's common stock (FHLMC) on the New York and Pacific stock exchanges increased markedly to $80.00 per share. Previous artificial depression of the value of the stock through restrictions on trading, since relieved by the stock's public trading, allowed the stock appriciation.

As of March 31, 1990, the bank's allowance for commercial and consumer loan losses summed to $230,000, or $1.5% of the bank's non-mortgage loan portfolio. The several months prior to this June 10, 1990 public statement, witnessed a decline in employment in the textile manufacturing industry, a major business in the marketing area of the bank. The bank, with regard to the development, stated that it continually reevaluates the necessity of increasing its provisions for loan losses based on economic conditions, loan portfolio diversification and consideration of historical loss, among other things.

On July 19, 1990, however, the bank's board of directors adopted an official formula of calculating general allowances for loan losses in the bank's non-mortgage portfolio. The formula is based on length of delinquincy and is subject to certain subjective adjustments.

GROUP LED BY CHOCTAW SECURITIES LP OWNS 993,475 SHARES (11.60%) OF JUSTIN INDUSTRIES INC (TICKER: JSTN) OF FORT WORTH, TX.

ANNOUNCEMENT:

Justin Ind Inc's rejection of Choctaw Securities' offer to acquire Justin Ind Inc. at $18.50 per share in cash, has prompted Choctaw to consider, among other things, making a new proposal or commencing a tender offer to acquire Justin Ind Inc. while simultaneously seeking to remove Justin's directors to facilitate acceptance of the offer.

On July 13, 1990, certain members of the reporting group filed their counterclaims, third party claims and answer in the Justin Industries Inc. v. Choctaw Securities LP et al action.

In the filing, the group alleged, among other things, that in violation of federal proxy rules, Justin's proxy statement for the March 23, 1990 annual shareholders meeting failed to disclose that "golden parachute" severance agreements were being awarded to the executive officers of Justin and that the board of Justin improperly failed to provide the group with access to certain corporate books and records, pursuant to a demand letter dated May 15, 1990.

The group members have entered into an engagement letter with PaineWebber, dated July 13, 1990 and the agreement of limited partnership has been amended to eliminate any time period by which a limited partner is required to give notice of withdrawal from the partnership.

Tokyo (JULY 16) - Saudi Arabia and Kuwait are planning to place orders for about ten large tankers with Japanese shipbuilders, a report here said Monday.

The newspaper Nihon Keizai Shimbun said Saudi Arabia was planning to construct a total of 15 of a 280,000-ton-class large oil tanker over the next five to seven years.

The Middle East oil-producing nation has sounded out Japanese shipbuilders whether they could build around 10 of the planned 15.

Kuwait meanwhile has already asked South Korean shipbuilding concerns to make two such large tankers and plans to place orders for an additional two vessels, the report said.

The economic newspaper said the move was aimed at strengthening crude oil transportation capabilities and establishing an integrated network from production to petroleum product marketing.

Tokyo (JULY 16) - Ending a 37-year borrowing history, Japan Monday repaid eight million dollars to the World Bank, the last repayment of a 75-million-dollar loan it took from the Bank for a highway project, officials said.

Japan first borrowed 22 million dollars from the World Bank in December 1953 to finance a thermal electric power station. During the 13 years from 1953 to 1966, the World Bank provided a total of 863 million dollars of STOCKHOLM (JULY 16) - Swedish pilots working for SAS airline on Monday began a second 24-hour strike in support of pay demands, and disrupted the airline's Nordic and European flight schedule.

SAS, which expected to cancel about 30 per cent of domestic, Nordic and European flights, was making extra use of Norwegian and Danish crews who were not involved in the dispute.

SAS groups the national airlines of Denmark, Norway and Sweden, but the strike was not affecting the airline's inter-continental flights nor charter flights.

The Swedish pilots staged their first strike on Thursday, and began their second protest because negotiations on Sunday night between SAS, the Swedish pilots' association and a mediation commission did not result in any settlement.

The pilots are demanding pay increases of 10 per cent. Last week SAS rejected a mediation proposal of seven per cent.

The airline has said that Swedish pilots earn about 32,000 Swedish krone (5,300 dollars) per month and that any increase would undermine the company's ability to compete.

The pilots have warned that they will strike on Friday and on July 23 and 27 if a solution is not found.

BANGKOK (JULY 16) - The Bank of Thailand plans to tighten foreign borrowings by local commercial banks after they were found to be using overseas funds for local lending, bank officials said Monday.

Bank governor Chavalit Thanachanan said this had resulted in an unfavorable increase in lending during the first half of this year.

Foreign capital brought into Thailand during the first six months of this year amounted to 104 billion baht (4.16 billion dollars) compared to only 66 billion baht (2.64 billion dollars) during the same period last year.

Mr. Chavalit said he would invite commercial bank executives for talks on July 27 to seek their cooperation in reducing credit extensions during the second half of 1990.

Officials said the central bank would only concentrate on slowing capital inflow in the form of loans. Direct and indirect investments in the stock market would not be affected.

One measure prepared by the bank is to increase the cost of foreign loans.

If necessary, private companies will be required to deposit part of their overseas loans with commercial banks. The banks will be required to re-deposit the loans with the central bank.

LONDON (JULY 16) - British retail sales fell 2.8 percent in June over the May level, reducing the year on year rise to just 0.9 percent, the central statistical office said Monday citing provisional seasonally-adjusted figures.

The month on month fall was much steeper than the 0.7 percent forecast by analysts after retail sales rose 1.4 percent in May on both a monthly and year on year basis.

Industrial production was down 0.4 percent in May over the April level on a seasonally-adjusted basis after a revised 0.3 percent rise in April, the statistical office said.

This was against forecasts of stagnation or a slight rise.

On a year on year basis, industrial production was up 3.2 percent and manufacturing production was unchanged.

The monthly fall in industrial production in May was largely due to a 2.5 percent fall in energy production, with manufacturing production up 0.3 per cent.

The Treasury welcomed the June fall in retail sales, which sparked an immediate rise in rates on state loans.

The pound rose slightly in response to the figures, to 2.9820 Deutsche marks against 2.9802 ahead of the announcement and 1.7995 dollars from 1.7980.

BERLIN (JULY 16) - Less than three weeks after the introduction of the Deutsche mark in East Germany, economic union has brought havoc to agriculture as businesses face threats of bankruptcy.

"After all I am 60 now and ready for early retirement", Siegfried Schliemann of Berliner Strickmoden knitwear said in an interview. But when his company, nationalized by the communists in 1972, was returned to him last month, he was ready to accept the challenge of steering it into the market economy.

One month on and with economic union in between, Mr. Schliemann is less optimistic.

Since July 1 turnover of the three stores that market Berliner Strickwaren knitwear has plummeted 90 percent. "People just stopped buying, or they buy on the other side" in West Berlin, he said.

Mr. Schliemann, who was a communist party member until November when the Berlin Wall was breached and East Germans were free to go West for the first time in 28 years, employs 260 people.

They have done great jobs but economic and monetary union brought about a "mess" that is ruining small and medium-sized enterprises, Mr. Schliemann lamented.

"A sweater from Berliner Strickmoden was something special in East Germany", he said proudly, but with economic and monetary union Berliner Strickmoden may not be competitive enough on an all-German market.

The East German Association of Small and Medium-sized Companies said 30,000 jobs have been axed in the small and medium-sized industries in two weeks.

In Berlin 37 companies have been turned over to their former owners, and another 150 in southern Saxony.

"Many people who sought to recover their former enterprises gave up when they realized the sheer size of the difficulties ahead", Klaus Osang, a state official in charge of overseeing privatizations in Saxony, said.

The situation is no brighter in the agricultural sector.

"Pigs in the 'May 1' cooperative get fatter every day because nobody wants East German-made foodstuffs", Juergen Nitzsche, chairman of the cooperative near here said, adding that there was each day less chance that they could ultimately be sold.

MUSCAT (JULY 16) - The Gulf sultanate of Oman, which operates outside the OPEC cartel, has decided not to go ahead with a planned oil-production increase in order to help bolster prices, the Oil Ministry said here Monday.

A ministry spokesman quoted by the Omani News Agency said Muscat had frozen plans to increase Oman's oil production from 650,000 to 700,000 barrels a day.

He said the decision was made after the five Gulf producers in OPEC agreed at a meeting in Riyadh last week to respect the cartel's production ceiling.

The United Arab Emirates, whose output last month was estimated at 1.95 million barrels a day, pledged to produce no more than 1.5 million.

Over-production by some members of the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries is considered a key factor in the inability of world prices to rise to OPEC's reference rate of 18 dollars a barrel.

The Omani spokesman said he hoped that a group of non-OPEC producers comprising Oman, Mexico, Angola, the Soviet Union and Malaysia could agree on freezing their production to "support the efforts of OPEC."

Oman is a strong supporter of cooperation between members and non-members of OPEC, whose ministers are to meet in Geneva on July 25 to fix the cartel's policies for the rest of the year.

DAMASCUS (JULY 16) - Syrian President Hafez al-Assad returned here Monday following a three-day visit to Egypt and talks with President Hosni Mubarak, official sources said.

Mr. Assad and Mr. Mubarak left the Egyptian port city of Alexandria earlier in the day for a tour of the Sinai Peninsula.

The two leaders had spent much of their time discussing the possibility of Syrian-Iraqi reconciliation, which Egypt hopes will take place before an Arab summit in Cairo this November.

Mr. Mubarak said Iraq and Syria had lately halted press attacks on one another while Mr. Assad assured journalists that "we will reconcile some day."

It was Mr. Assad's first visit to Egypt in 14 years and served to cement the end of a bitter Egyptian-Syrian feud, triggered by the visit to Jerusalem in 1977 of former Egyptian president Anwar Sadat.

Syria over the years has been sharply critical of Egypt's relations with Israel, although it agreed last December to restore the diplomatic ties it severed in 1977.

But the Assad-Mubarak summit produced no indications that the Syrian leader had dropped his basic objection to the 1979 Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

He reiterated his preference for an international Middle East peace conference, rather than direct talks with Israel, as a forum for securing a regional settlement.

ANKARA (JULY 16) - The breakaway Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus (TRNC) said Monday it had lodged a strong protest with the EEC over the decision by the Cypriot government to apply for community membership.

The Turkish-Cypriot news agency TAK, monitored here, said the TRNC had delivered a memorandum to the EEC presidency, currently held by Italy, describing the July 4 application as invalid.

It said such a move would only be acceptable once talks between Turkish- and Greek-Cypriots had resolved the Cyprus problem.

Cyprus has been rigidly divided since Turkish troops occupied the northern third of the island in 1974 after right-wing Greek-Cypriots staged a short-lived coup backed by the military junta then ruling Greece.

U.N.-sponsored talks between the Cypriot government and the TRNC, which declared its independence in 1983 and is recognised only by Turkey, have failed to resolve differences on the political shape of a reunited Cyprus.

The TRNC has threatened reprisals over the EEC application, including occupying a now abandoned Greek-Cypriot resort near the buffer zone dividing the island's Greek- and Turkish-speaking regions.

The Varosha resort near Famagusta, controlled since 1974 by Turkish troops and an important symbol for displaced Greek-Cypriots, has been left deserted by the Turkish-Cypriots to be used as a bargaining chip in inter-communal talks.

MOSCOW (JULY 16) - NATO secretary general Manfred Woerner on Monday invited Soviet armed forces chief of staff General Mikhail Moysseyev to visit NATO headquarters in Brussels, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Mr. Woerner, the first secretary general of the North Atlantic Treay Organisation (NATO) to make an official visit to the Soviet Union, issued a similar invitation to Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev on Saturday, who acccepted it. No date has yet been fixed.

The former West German defence minister said he felt a visit from Gen. Moysseyev to NATO would allow "a continuation of the dialogue opened with Moscow."

Speaking to the Supreme Soviet, Mr. Woerner told deputies that "the time for confrontation is over" adding that a unified Germany would "strengthen the stability of everyone" as a member of NATO.

BY RICHARD NYBERG - AFP

ABIDJAN (JULY 16) - While rebels on Monday continued their seven-month fight to topple President Samuel K. Doe, a host of interest groups were jostling for position in the face of Liberia's unclear political future.

For the moment, Mr. Doe is still in control of the government, but most of his cabinet members and top advisers have fled the country as National Patriotic Front of Liberia (NPFL) rebels close in on the capital Monrovia.

Many ministers are in neighboring Sierra Leone where peace talks which have been adjourned four times have yet to produce a political solution to the bloody civil war which has claimed more than 5,000 lives.

The newest peace initiative, under the aegis of the 16-nation Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS), is expected to resume in Freetown Tuesday.

The rebels have so far held the uncompromising position that there will be no cease-fire nor peace in Liberia until Mr. Doe, who seized power in a bloody military coup in 1980, has resigned.

NPFL forces have had the upper hand in the fighting almost without exception throughout the 300-kilometer (190-mile) march from northeastern Nimba County -- where they entered the country December 24 -- to the gates of the capital.

But even Liberians who would like to see Mr. Doe removed are hesitant about the future.

Many ask themselves if life under rebel leader Charles Taylor, a fugitive former government official charged with embezzling about a million dollars, would be better than what they have endured under Mr. Doe.

The United States, Liberia's largest backer and a "facilitator" in the current peace process, has also expressed concern about Mr. Taylor's alleged links with Libya.

Mr. Taylor, whose embezzlement charges were dropped by the government last month in a general amnesty for NPFL rebels, at first would not talk about politics in a post-Doe era.

But the NPFL has recently outlined proposals for a 24-member interim government made up of representatives from each of Liberia's 13 counties and others hand-picked by the rebel movement. They also plan to hold general elections five months after Mr. Doe's departure.

Some groups, taking into account the NPFL's military position, have come out in support of Mr. Taylor.

In a statement Saturday in Freetown, a group calling itself "the displaced Liberians temporarily residing in Sierra Leone" said it "supported the aims and objectives of the National Patriotic Front."

The statement was signed by Reverend Walter Richards, student union chief Alfred Sieh, Togba Nah Tipoth from the leftist opposition Movement for Justice in Africa (MOJA), Baccus Matthews of the United People's Party (UPP) and J.S. Guannu of the Liberia People's Party (LPP).

These groups benefited from a decision by Mr. Doe last month to lift a ban on all political parties. But it was not clear how the NPFL rebels would accept political outsiders moving in near the end of their armed struggle.

Liberian religious leaders who organized the first round of peace talks in Freetown last month have not openly supported the president or Mr. Taylor.

On Friday, Jaiah Massaquoi, leader of the Liberian Patriotic Forces (LPF), told Agence France-Presse here that his people in the United States, Europe and Africa would "rally around" Mr. Taylor in an interim government.

MOSCOW (JULY 16) - Forty-three climbers died, including two Swiss nationals, when an avalanche swept away their camp as they were preparing a final ascent on one of the Soviet Union's highest peaks, Mt. Lenin, the Radio Moscow publication Interfax reported Monday.

The disaster occurred Friday after an earthquake shook the Pamir mountain range in the Tadzhikistan republic, bordering China, Interfax said.

Most of the dead were from the northern city of Leningrad and other parts of the Soviet Union. Two Swiss climbers were also killed when the wall of snow hit their camp.

A search was underway Monday for the bodies.

The climbers had pitched camp at 5,300 meters (17,225 feet) in preparation for a final ascent on 7,134-meter (23,186-foot) Mt. Lenin.

HARARE (JULY 16) - The ruling Zanu party supports the actions of party members charged with violence and common assault during general elections earlier this year, a senior Zanu spokesman was quoted as saying Monday.

The official Herald newspaper reported that Foreign Minister and Zanu information secretary Nathan Shamuyarira criticised a magistrate who had convicted and sentenced a member of the party's youth wing for attacking a representative of the Catholic Commission for Justice and Peace with a brick.

The magistrate told Robert Chiwara, who assaulted a member of the Catholic human rights group observing the March elections in the town of Karoi, that he was misguided and irresponsible and that he stood alone because the government had disowned him by prosecuting him.

Mr. Shamuyarira said in an interview however that the youth was not alone ''because the party is going to pay his fine and ensure he keeps his job.''

He criticised the magistrate for making what he called political comments and said some members of the ruling party had been murdered in Karoi.

SANTIAGO (JULY 16) - A strong earthquake shook central Chile early Monday sending thousands of panicked residents pouring into the streets, but police had no immediate reports of casualties or damages.

The quake struck at 10:53 a.m. (1453 GMT), rumbling along a 1,200 kilometers (745 mile) between the town of Vallenar in the north and Concepcion in the south. At some sites, the quake lasted for 90 seconds.

Santiago is about midway between the two towns. Thousands of panicked Santiago residents poured out of their homes and offices when the temblor rumbled through the capital of four million people.

Telephone communication was also interrupted in the capital and other areas of the country.

In Santiago and nearby Valparaiso, the earthquake registered five on the Mercalli scale which runs from 1 to 12. A 12 reading is "damage total, lines of sight disturbed, objects thrown into the air."

CABANATUAN, PHILIPPINES (JULY 16) - Soldiers and Red Cross workers were searching late Monday for survivors trapped in the rubble of a college which collapsed in this northern city during a powerful earthquake.

"It hurts. Get me out of here," 16-year-old college freshman Mylene Gabor pleaded as soldiers tried to pry her legs loose from under a concrete slab.

School administrators said six bodies had been recovered from the rubble, and a total of 35 out of an estimated 70 students trapped inside the six-storey Christian College of the Philippines were believed dead.

The Office of Civil Defense in Manila said 11 other people were also reported killed elsewhere in Nueva Ecija.

The school building's middle section collapsed when the earthquake, measuring 7.7 on the open-ended Richter scale, struck at 4:26 p.m. (0726 GMT). After the dust settled, the structure looked like a compressed sandwich.

Soldiers milled around an ashen-faced teenager, offering words of comfort and wiping blood off a gash in her forehead.

She said the tremor struck while she was with a cousin during a class break.

Rescuers aired requests over the radio for special equipment, including cranes and jacks, as well as engineers and medical officers from U.S. military bases located near here to help dig for survivors under the rubble.

LONDON (JULY 16) - North Sea Brent crude oil for September delivery climbed 40 cents per barrel on the London futures market Monday to stand at 18.25 dollars per barrel at mid-afternoon.

Brent crude for spot delivery was 17.35 dollars per barrel, the highest for two months.

Traders said the market hit its new trading range early Monday morning, as London reacted to already firmer sentiment in Far East markets following news of a pledge from the United Arab Emirates (UAE) to reduce its output from an estimated two million barrels per day to 1.5 million.

Although such undertakings have been made before without results, analysts here said that the market appears to be prepared to believe it this time, because companies involved in UAE's oil production had already received notices of a 20 per cent cut in allocations from its Murban field last week, while Japanese UAE customers have since been given notice of a 30 percent cut in volume with effect from August 31.

The oil market has of late shown little concern over the effects of any OPEC production cut agreement at the cartel's meeting in Geneva on July 25 analysts said, since the level of oil company stocks was considered high enough to prevent the market from tightening.

"But the feeling now is that we were too casual about the level of stocks -- the market is indeed fairly tight," said Ian Graham of County NatWest Woodmac here.

"Until now the problem facing OPEC in its attempts to control prices through production quota cuts has been its failure to get the UAE, and to a lesser extent Kuwait, to toe the line," he said. "Now the signs are that they have achieved that."

Jeremy Hudson of Shearson Lehman Hutton agreed. "The news from customers tells us that the UAE means business this time" he said.

Meanwhile, recent encouraging noises from a number of OPEC members have been interpreted as signalling a successful meeting next week.

"An OPEC statement for the end of the Geneva meeting is being sorted out now, said Mr. Graham. "The last thing they (the members), want is to come out of the meeting looking as if they have failed."

LONDON (JULY 16) - Britain called Monday for the release of prisoners detained in Kenya in recent weeks amid calls for multi-party democracy and expressed "anxieties" over political unrest there.

Foreign Office Minister William Waldegrave conveyed the message in a meeting here Monday with Kenyan High Commissioner in London Sally Kosgei, a spokesman said.

Mr. Waldegrave "expressed our anxieties on the situation" in Kenya and "urged the early release of detainees" during his talks with Mrs. Kosgie which were described as "friendly."

Mrs. Kosgei said Britain's position was "well-understood" in Nairobi and said "political dialogue is underway," the spokesman said.

On Sunday, an Anglican bishop in Kenya called on President Daniel arap Moi's government to step down and said its crackdown on dissent was fanning the flames of unrest in the wake of anti-government riots that have reportedly left 22 dead.

Before leaving, Ms. Bhutto told Bahraini Prime Minister Sheikh Khalifa bin Sulman al-Khalifa that Pakistan did not want a military confrontation with India over Kashmir, which has already sparked two Indo-Pakistani wars.

Some 800 people have died this year in unrest in the northern Indian state of Kashmir, where Moslem militants have been waging a separatist campaign.

Pakistan, which also controls a part of the Kashmir region, has called for a referendum to determine the Indian state's future status and has rejected Indian charges that it has materially aided the separatist movement.

Sheikh Khalifa told Ms. Bhutto his government sought "a lasting solution to the Kashmir problem through dialogue and negotiations," officials said.

Ms. Bhutto also visited Iraq, Kuwait, Morocco and Algeria to gather support for Pakistan's position on Kashmir ahead of a meeting in Cairo July 31-August 4 of foreign ministers from the Organization of the Islamic Conference (OIC).

Mr. Yaqub Khan arrived Monday in the western Saudi Arabian city of Jeddah for talks with his Saudi counterpart Prince Saud Faysal that Saudi sources said would centre on the OIC meeting and the Kashmir issue.

NEW YORK (JULY 16) - United Nations Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar, reporting to the General Assembly, praised South Africa Monday for steps taken towards removing racial barriers and liberalising public life.

"South Africa has reached the threshold of a new area," he said. "The political process on which it has embarked holds encouraging prospects of leading to the dismantlement of apartheid."

He added: ''The bold and courageous policy to which President (Frederik) de Klerk has committed his government opens up distinct possibilities for the dismantling of the apartheid system.''

The report was based on the findings of a U.N. delegation which toured South Africa recently and spoke with representatives of the government and opposition.

Perez de Cuellar said that although de Klerk's liberalisation moves were encouraging, there was a feeling in South African opposition circles that more needed to be done to ''establish an atmosphere favourable to free political activity'', adding that ''the political process towards the dismantlement of the apartheid system is still at an early stage''.

He said measures were needed to redress ''social and economical imbalances, particularly in the areas of housing, education, employment and health''.

PRAGUE (JULY 16) - Seven Cubans took Czechoslovak diplomats hostage in the Czechoslovak Embassy in Havana on Monday, national radio announced here.

The radio quoted a journalist working for the Czechoslovak news agency CTK in Cuba as reporting that the Cubans burst into the embassy and beat the diplomats.

The reporter said the forced entry was strange and he puzzled over whether it was a provocation by the authorities following Prague's refusal to hand over 12 Cuban dissidents who sought refuge in its Havana embassy a week ago.

Another five dissidents are in the residence of the Czechoslovak charge d'affaires in Havana and three more are in Spain's embassy.

The dispatch did not say if the hostage-takers were armed.

JERUSALEM (JULY 16) - Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir Monday criticised the United States and the European Economic Community for giving too much importance to the Palestine Liberation Organisation.

"If the United States and Europe had not given so much importance to the PLO, I have no doubt that we would have found Palestinians outside this organisation who would be ready for peace," Mr. Shamir said after a meeting with a group of Belgian MPs.

"There are increasing signs from the U.S. and various Arab mediators that there are efforts to resume the dialogue between the PLO and Washington. This cannot serve the cause of peace," the premier added.

"The PLO is a terrorist organisation that cannot and will not be associated with the peace process," he said.

Arab officials meeting in Tunis said Monday they would try to revive the U.S.-PLO dialogue broken off by Washington last month over an abortive Palestinian commando attack on Israeli beaches.

Mr. Shamir also said that contacts between Israel and EEC countries had become "more difficult" and called on the community to "take greater account of Israel's interests especially because of Europe's moral commitment towards us."

EEC foreign ministers Monday agreed to set up a permanent mission in the Israeli-occupied territories to administer EEC aid to Palestinians.

The EEC also announced a new diplomatic campaign, starting next week, to press Israel on its handling of the 31-month old Palestinian uprising and to revive the Middle East peace process.

The foreign ministers of Ireland, Italy and Luxembourg are to meet with Mr. Shamir next Monday before going on to Tunis for talks with the PLO.

"We are seeing a bid (by the EEC) to link political issues to economic problems," the Israeli prime minister said.

Israeli leaders are concerned that the EEC may apply economic pressure on the Jewish state in exchange for political concessions on the Palestinian problem and the occupied territories.

BUCHAREST (JULY 16) - The trial of Nicu Ceausescu, the playboy son of executed dictator Nicolae Ceausescu, resumed on Monday in the central Romanian city of Sibiu, the Rompres news agency reported.

Nicu Ceausescu, 38, is charged with "genocide" for his role in the crackdown by the security forces on protests in Sibiu in December in which 89 people were killed and 200 injured according to prosecutors.

He also faces charges of illegal possession of weapons.

The trial began on May 26 and was suspended on May 30. It was due to reopen on June 25 but was delayed until Monday due to the nomination of Doru Viorel Ursu, who had been responsible for the case, to the post of interior minister.

The proceedings Monday saw testimony from General Iulian Vlad, a former head of the Securitate secret police, who was interrogated regarding his telephone conversations on December 16 and 17 with Nicu Ceausescu, who was then first secretary of the Romanian Communist Party in Sibiu.

General Vlad said that during their conversations, Nicu Ceausescu "had requested information on events in Timisoara," where the December rebellion that led to the ouster and execution of his father began.

The general also said that he had asked Nicu Ceausescu on December 18 if he wanted a bodyguard -- he had not had one for several years -- and the offer was accepted, according to Rompres.

Asked if he had had any other telephone contacts with Sibiu, General Vlad said that he did not remember.

Former Domestic Trade Minister Anna Muresan took the stand, and denied accusations made by Nicu Ceausescu during earlier proceedings that she had called him after the flight of his father on December 22 to ask him to come to Bucharest and take command of the party and the state, Rompres reported.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) - The World Bank will decide "within the next couple of months" whether to resume reform-oriented loans to China that were suspended in the wake of last year's Chinese army crackdown on pro-democracy demonstrators, a spokesman said Monday.

The spokesman said bank Vice President Moeen Qureshi told Shanghai Mayor Zhu Rongji at a meeting here Saturday that World Bank officials were readying a series of loans that support China's economic reforms and would submit them for approval to the board of governors.

He added that so far no board member had raised any objection to the resumption of these loans, which would fund agricultural, infrastucture and environmental projects.

The loans being considered had been scheduled for consideration by the board last year but were suspended in the wake of Beijing's Tiananmen Square massacre that left hundreds of people dead.

At their summit last week in Houston, Texas, leaders of the seven leading democracies indicated the bank might resume some loans to China depending on future developments there.

The World Bank did not stop providing humanitarian loans to Beijing in the wake of the Tiananmen carnage. In the fiscal year ending last June 30, it made available to China loans totaling 590 million dollars for agriculture, education, reafforestation and earthquake-related reconstruction.

Meanwhile, Chinese sources here said Mr. Qureshi, who recently returned from a trip to China, told Mr. Zhu the bank was considering extending two loans worth 250 million dollars to Shanghai for industrial reform, urban transportation and environmental projects.

The sources said Mr. Qureshi, a Pakistani, said that during his Chinese trip he had been impressed by Shanghai's Pu Dong special economic zone and that the Bank would consider helping Shanghai build a financial center there.

Mr. Zhu, 62, is leading a delegation of Chinese mayors on a three-week U.S. tour aimed at attracting U.S. investment to China.

During his stay in Washington, where he arrived last Wednesday, he met with National Security Adviser Brent Scowcroft, Deputy Secretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger and leading members of Congress.

The Chinese delegation was Monday in Wisconsin and was due to visit Illinois, Minnesota and California before returning home.

CARACAS (JULY 17) - An OPEC ministerial meeting this month in Geneva will be aimed at assuring a reference price of 18 dollars a barrel, the cartel's secretary general, Subroto, said here Monday.

His statement to reporters came after a meeting with President Carlos Andres Perez of Venezuela, a founding member of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Mr. Subroto of Indonesia arrived Sunday to take part in a petroleum seminar that began Monday and ends Friday.

He told reporters the foreign ministers of his country and those of Nigeria,

Algeria and Venezuela had been instructed to discuss with colleagues of other OPEC member nations the possibility of calling a summit of OPEC heads of state or government.

He said no time or place had been proposed for such a summit, originally called for last year by Mr. Perez.

The Geneva ministerial meeting is scheduled for July 25.

Sunday, Mr. Subroto said there would be a consensus in Geneva to keep quotas set in May in a bid to raise oil prices from 14 dollars to 18 dollars a barrel.

LAGOS (JULY 17) - A continuing decline in the price of oil in international markets may affect Nigeria's 1990 oil revenue estimates that are based on 16 dollars per barrel and a production figure of 1.611 million barrels per day, Minister of Budget and Planning Alhaji Abubakar Alhaji said here Monday.

Oil contributes about 95 percent of the nation's total annual revenue, according to officials.

In the first five months of this year, Nigeria recorded an excess in its oil revenue: a total of 26.857 billion naira (3.38 billion dollars) was realised as against the estimated amount of 16.095 billion naira (two billion dollars) expected within the same period, the minister said at a news conference.

Nigeria, made 4.564 billion naira (575 million dollars) from the non-oil sector as against the expected 3.76 billion naira (473 million dollars).

Production of crude oil in the first quarter of 1990 was 1.6 million barrels per day as compared to 1.5 million in the corresponding period last yaer, he said, attributing the increase in the output to the hike in OPEC production level from 18.5 to 22.0 million barrels per day.

TOKYO (JULY 17) - Marubeni Corp., Japan's leading trading company, said Tuesday it would team up with South Korean and Taiwan companies in a project to produce fiber board by recycling scrap wood in Canada.

The three companies - Marubeni, South Korea's Hyundai Corp. and a Taiwan trading firm - have signed contracts with the British Columbia-based Caribou Fiber Board Co. to buy fiber board products.

Marubeni officials said the government of British Columbia will finance about one-third of the 22 billion yen (147 million U.S. dollar) project, while the three traders were to pay the rest.

Caribou is expected to start construction of a fiber board plant in Williams Lake in July for completion in mid-1992.

The Canadian firm was recently founded by local engineers to recycle scrap wood in lumber production, which is currently burned, causing pollution problems.

The three traders will purchase about 70 per cent of the plant's planned annual fiber board output of 300,000 cubic meters (10.5 million cubic feet), they said.

Marubeni is expected to take the largest amount of 100,000 cubic meters (3.5 million cubic feet) annually. The fiber board may become a major substitue for lumber imports from tropical areas, they said.

MANCHESTER, ENGLAND (JULY 16) - Holidaymakers flying out of the northeastern English airport of Manchester over the next week will be given free condoms as part of a campaign by local health authorities to increase awareness of health risks abroad.

Travellers will also be handed pamphlets containing information on how to avoid AIDS and other sexually-transmitted diseases, campaign organizers said Monday.

"Given that people are more promiscuous on holiday, we would like travellers to have safe and not dangerous sex," Sarah Stewart, a director of the company that supplied the condoms, explained.

Those involved in the campaign have said they will exercise the utmost discretion when handing out the condoms and stressed that they would not of course be giving them to children or nuns.

MOSCOW (JULY 16) EFE - A Soviet airport manager who had been threatened unless she left her job has been killed in a bomb attack in the disputed Nagorono-Karabakh region, the scene of recent ethnic violence, the official Tass news agency said Monday.

The explosion, which the Interior Ministry called an attack, destroyed her home and seriously injured her son. Her husband escaped with slight injuries, Tass said.

The Sunday night attack on the manager of the Stepanakert airport, Yevgeniya Ishjanova, followed repeated threats of violence unless she quit her job.

Her husband, Georgy Sasrtaryan, said he had also received threats in which he was told to convince his wife to leave her job.

Tass said Ishjanova had been trying to increase disipline at the airport to insure that flights from the Armenian capital of Yerevan arrived on time.

Nagorono-Karabakh, a region whose population is 85 percent Armenian, is part of the southern Soviet republic of Azerbaijan and is under a state of emergency.

The neighboring republic of Armenia has claimed the region, sparking ethnic unrest and hundreds of deaths in the past two years between Armenians and Azeris.

BUENOS AIRES (JULY 16) EFE - The Argentine government Monday closed 28 branches of a leading state bank and laid off of some 2,200 workers as part of President Carlos Menem's drastic economic austerity measures, officials said.

The closure of branches of the Banco Hipotecario Nacional (BHN) by Menem's Peronist government is part of a scheme to restructure the state banking system within a broader plan to control Argentina's soaring inflation, provide much-needed market stability and get the country's shaky economy back on its feet.

The bank was founded in 1946 by former president Gen. Juan Domingo Peron to fund homes for Argentina's poor and the closure of its branches, many in isolated rural communities, has angered hundreds of small savers.

Trades unions, who claim the restructuring of the banking system will cost 5,000 jobs, fear job losses from the BHN closures although the government has promised to offer bank employees other public sector jobs.

Parliamentary deputies from Menem's own Justicialist (Peronist) Party have protested the closures.

Three months ago the government cut jobs and closed branches of the state-run Banco Nacional de Desarrollo which was established by Peron to grant loans to small and medium-sized businesses.

FROM THE BULLS:

"I think the psychology is still right for more upside," says DENNIS JARRETT of KIDDER, PEABODY. "We've only begun to see the use of the confetti and champagne; there is more yet to come." (CNBC "Business View" 7/13)

RICHARD EAKLE, head of EAKLE ASSOCIATES, sees the Dow climbing to 3200 by the end of the year. "We're in the throes of a major explosion in smaller stocks," he says. ("USA Today", 7/16)

"There is an obvious chance for a correction, but I wouldn't be surprised to see the Dow continue to edge higher," says DON HAYS, director of investment strategy at WHEAT FIRST BUTCHER & SINGER of Richmond, Va. "I expect the Dow to move to 3050 next week and then a little correction to set in. Looking further ahead, I am expecting in three to six weeks a budget compromise and then a discount rate cut. My guess is the Dow will climb to 3550 this year." ("Investor's Daily", 7/16)

NED DAVIS, head of his own research firm, believes the Dow is headed as high as 3180 in what he sees as the "final blow-off phase of a bull market." But he says earnings problems are being masked by solid performance by a few multi-nationals benefitting from a lower dollar and fears a recession next year. But for the short-term, he says "everything is falling into place so there is tremendous pressure for the bears to capitulate." ("Barron's", 7/16)

EDWARD KERSCHNER of PAINEWEBBER predicts the stock market could move up 10% or 20% over the next 12 to 18 months, putting the Dow at 3250 to 3550. He says the Fed's move on interest rates could give companies confidence that money will be available for prudent needs and "give the profit outlook a boost later this year and into 1991." (WSJ, 7/16)

Where does the market go from here? "Well, it looks higher," says ERIC MILLER, investment strategist for DONALDSON LUFKIN JENRETTE. "It was a good week and it tended to indicate that the bullish bias is still present and that almost all news is treated as good news and I think it would take some new dimension of worry to put the market at risk." Miller says this worry will concern the economy, but he doesn't expect any turbulence until August or September. (CNN "Moneyline", 7/13)

I'm very comfortable with the market," says DAVID HOLT, director of technical research for WEDBUSH MORGAN. "All my indications are bullish for the short-term." (Reuters, 7/13)

STOCK MARKET:

The market will take it's direction today from IBM's earnings report, says SHEARSON'S MICHAEL BENSON from London where Big Blue shares are unchanged in early afternoon trading. Benson says the consensus is for $2.34 per share. "If you get a number like $2.50 or better, [stocks] could fly." (FNN "World Business Update", 7/16)

Expect some profit taking today, says PETER GRENNAN, director of stock index futures for SHEARSON LEHMAN HUTTON. "If you were a trader who was long this market and you had profits, your natural inclination would be to take them." Grennan says the natural spot to take those profits would be after a three-day, 100-point jump in stocks. "The market can't maintain that kind of momentum." (CNN "Business Morning", 7/16)

"This is the most unloved, unappreciated bull market I have ever seen," says ROBERT BROWN of FERRIS BAKER WATTS in Baltimore. "Everybody is thinking this thing is going to crash again." ("The Washington Post", 7/14)

"We may have come too far, too fast," says HUGH JOHNSON of FIRST ALBANY CORP. "We're getting on thinner ice." He says "there are some good things that are happening here and you have to ask the question: Does that panoply of factors justify the rise in stock prices? My unambiguous answer is, maybe." ("USA Today", 7/16 and "The Washington Post", 7/14)

"The earnings outlook for the Dow industrials looks pretty good," says ALLEN SIMPSON, who runs SIMPSON CAPITAL MANAGEMENT CO. in Philadelphia. "I believe the Dow is reasonably valued and is waiting for the Federal Reserve to ease interest rates before moving higher. 2 "I think most of the inflationary pressures on the economy have been eliminated." ("Investor's Daily", 7/16)

"Sure, stocks are pricey, but they could still go up," says JON GROVEMAN of LADENBURG, THALMANN & CO. He says money managers flush with cash don't want to miss out on further market gain. "Most money managers are like sheep. They won't buy because they want to, but because they have to." ("USA Today", 7/16)

"Can the market go higher? Absolutely," says STEVEN EINHORN, market strategist for GOLDMAN SACHS. "The Fed's easing should give it further momentum. But I am not inclined to chase it." He thinks bonds are a more sensible investment now. ("Barron's", 7/16)

Despite today's 377-point gain in the Nikkei, KEITH OLSON, portfolio manager for BROWN BROTHERS HARRIMAN, says inflationary pressures in the Japanese economy will continue to be a drag on stock prices. "Data just released suggest strong economic growth in Japan, rapid money supply increase, continued increases in land prices and consumer prices creeping up." (CNN "Business Morning", 7/16)

"Transports are off the chart [Friday]," notes JAMES WRIGHT, chief investment officer at BANC ONE ASSET MANAGEMENT CORP. He says the weak transportation group "has been one reason technicians have said this market was vulnerable." (Reuters, 7/13)

STOCK TIPS:

JOSEPH McNAY, chairman of the ESSEX INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT GROUP, says anyone thinking about jumping into the stock market now should be very careful. "You don't want to buy stocks that have gone up a great deal," he says. "We are at a point where you are buying an equal amount of risk and reward. I'd be inclined to find unusual, evolving opportunities." He says two stocks in that category are CHEMICAL WASTE MANAGEMENT and SAFETY-KLEEN. ("Barron's", 7/16)

RICHARD EAKLE, head of EAKLE ASSOCIATES, is aiming his clients investments at companies with a market value of $100 million to $500 million. Among his favorites: AMERICAN TRAVELLERS, CIRRUS LOGIC, CONSILIUM, HYCOR BIOMEDICAL, EXAR and FAMILY DOLLAR STORES. ("USA Today", 7/16)

RITE AID is featured in the "Heard on the Street" column in "The Wall Street Journal" today. Analysts expect the stock to climb no matter the outcome of the trial of Rite Aid President Martin Grass in Ohio on bribery charges. "The investment community would react very positively to the cloud being lifted," says ROBERT ROTH of MERRILL LYNCH CAPITAL MARKETS. He rates the stock "above average" with potential to outperform the market 10% over the next year. (WSJ, 7/16)

Stocks of shoe manufacturers are showing emerging relative strength and MELVILLE is the highest quality play in the group, according to EUGENE PERONI JR. of JANNEY MONTGOMERY SCOTT in Philadelphia. The stock is breaking above a 12-month trading base in the mid-50s and Peroni looks for move to the mid-to-upper 60s over the next three-to- six months, with a downside of 53-54. Engineering concern MORRISON KNUDSEN has been stuck in a 49-55 range for some time, but Peroni sees the stock now showing tendencies to break out. Once it begins to do so, Peroni says the stock will move to 60 short-term with longer term potential to well over 70. (FNN "World Business Update", 7/16)

ERNST von METZACH of the $100 million VANGUARD SPECIAL ENERGY FUND, is bullish on PHILLIPS PETROLEUM CORP. ("Barron's", 7/16)

BARRY WILLMAN of SANFORD C. BERSTEIN & COMPANY has cut his earnings estimate for DIGITAL EQUIPMENT to $1.25 for the quarter ended in June, less than half the earnings for the same period in 1989. "I can't see why the company should show any strength soon," says Willman. (NYT, 7/16)

#90197m0002 07/16/1990 ~Market Consensus Surveys

FALLS CHURCH, VA (JULY 16) MCS - A SAMPLING OF TODAY'S COMMENTARY COMPILED BY MARKET CONSENSUS SURVEYS, INC. IN TWO SECTIONS (1) STOCKS (2) MONEY & ECONOMY.

MONEY & CREDIT:

"The Fed was getting criticized for being excessively focused on inflation to the exclusion of other things," says WILLIAM DUDLEY, senior economist at GOLDMAN SACHS & CO. "Now it's like [Alan] Greenspan is saying 'Don't blame me for the banks tightening their credit standards; we are taking this into consideration, we eased to offset restraint.' But we don't see that much bank credit- tightening, so we think this will be just a small, technical move - just the Fed showing its sensitivity to bank lending practices." ("Investor's Daily", 7/16)

"The Fed undoubtedly signaled an easier stance with its overnight system repurchase agreements when the funds rate was trading at 8 1/4 percent," says PHILIP BRAVERMAN, chief economist at DKB SECURITIES CORP. ("Investor's Daily", 7/16)

"The initial market response to the Fed's action hints that investors are reluctant to give Chairman [Alan] Greenspan the full benefit of the doubt " says ROBERT DiCLEMENTE, a senior economist at SALOMON BROTHERS. "An easing of 0.25 percentage point may be benign in a sluggish economy, but it does little to lower inflation expectations. We share that concern." ("Investor's Daily", 7/16)

"A quarter-point [drop in interest rates] isn't a heck of a lot," says FRITZ YOHN, corporate economist at AETNA INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT GROUP. ("USA Today", 7/16)

"A quarter-point move in the federal funds rate "isn't likely to engender much more than a marginal improvement in corporate profitability," says BRIAN FABBRI, chief economist at MIDLAND MONTAGU ECONOMICS. He says it will take another quarter-point drop to stimulate a drop in the prime rate and spur consumer borrowing. (WSJ, 7/16)

The actual effects of a credit easing may take some time in reaching the consumer, says ALLEN SINAI, chief economist at BOSTON CO. ECONOMIC ADVISERS. "Banks will take as long as possible before they lower rates." Another chief economist, NORMAN ROBERTSON of MELLON NATIONAL BANK, explains, "Banks are under exceptional earnings pressure, and have every incentive to maintain margins right now." (NYT, 7/16)

Despite widespread applause for lower interest rates, there are naysayers who believe the move will have negative effects. "I think the Fed is a little premature," says WAYNE F. WONG of MARINVEST INC. "The faster you ease, the sooner inflation will come back." (WSJ, 7/16)

"I am not totally bearish, but we have had a good move" in interest rates, says PAUL L. KASRIEL of NORTHERN TRUST COMPANY. In order to push rates down any further, Kasriel believes the bond market needs "further evidence of a weak economy or a budget deal out of Congress." He points out that "the market is very vulnerable to any bad news." (NYT, 7/16)

Analysts do not expect easing of U.S. monetary policy to have significant impact on global interest rates. "The rest of the world is cultivating its own garden, and they're not going to rush to follow the Fed in an easing mode," says MARK FRANKLIN, economist at CREDIT SUISSE FIRST BOSTON LTD. (Reuters, 7/13)

"The [bond] market performed very rationally," says CHARLES SCHAEFER, manager of BNY SECURITIES' treasury sales unit. "The trial balloon that was floated yesterday was validated today [Friday]." (Reuters, 7/13)

"I still think the market is trying to nitpick what [Alan] Greenspan said " says CARL AMENDOLA of HYPOBANK. He stressed there was a difference between the Fed easing in response to a credit crunch by banks and easing because of concern about the economy. "[Greenspan] came very close to the line but he hasn't crossed it yet." (Reuters, 7/13)

"By the end of next week we could definitely be trading below 145 yen," says RICHARD CAMERON of CHEMICAL BANK, who attributes Friday's weakening dollar to expectations of a Fed easing in the states and tight monetary policy in Japan. (CNN "Moneyline", 7/13)

THE ECONOMY:

ALLEN SINAI, chief economist at the BOSTON CO. ECONOMIC ADVISERS, says Friday's report of a 0.5 percent rise in retail sales last month is "a welcome sign for a beleaguered sector of the economy. The question is whether it's a one-time reversal of a string of weaknesses or the start of something new." ("The Washington Post", 7/14)

"The recovery in June [retail sales] wasn't broad-based enough to believe the consumer will expand his or her purchases," says PETER GREENBAUM, economist at SMITH BARNEY, HARRIS UPHAM & CO. He notes that June sales were actually down 1.5% from June of 1989 if inflation is taken into account. ("Investor's Daily", 7/16)

"The [wholesale price] report was completely in line with expectations as far as the final number is concerned," says JERRY JORDAN, senior vice president and chief economist at FIRST INTERSTATE BANCORP in Los Angeles. MICHAEL NIEMIRA, economist for MITSUBISHI BANK LTD. in New York, noted that the 0.2 percent increase was due largely to sharp gains in auto and tobacco prices. "If you did not have these two big spikes, the index would have been unchanged." ("Investor's Daily", 7/16)

While much of the United States may be teetering on recession, "This is not a recession of the unemployed," says ALBERT SINDLINGER, owner of SINDLINGER & COMPANY, which recently completed a survey that showed individuals harbor a great deal of unhappiness over their current economic situation. "This is the employed becoming ever more squeezed," says

Sindlinger. (NYT, 7/16)

"A mere quarter-point decline in the fed funds rate will not reinvigorate the economy, nor will it ameliorate the credit conditions [Alan] Greenspan spoke about," says MICKEY LEVY, chief economist at FIRST FIDELITY BANCORP. He says he is "decidedly more optimistic" about inflation than the Federal Reserve, the administration and the consensus forecast. "I think that the Fed wants lower inflation and is backing it up with action. And we're just starting to reap the rewards." Levy predicts inflation for 1991 will be around 3.5%. (WSJ, 7/16)

There is "a good chance that in the 1990s the United States will be among the countries with the lowest inflation rates in the world," says EDWARD YARDENI, director of economics at PRUDENTIAL-BACHE SECURITIES. By year end, he predicts an annual inflation rate of 4%, and sees that rate falling below 3% by 1993. "The supply side of the global economy is likely to expand as rapidly as the demand side," says Yardeni, which means that, "companies will find that prices are harder to raise." (WSJ, 7/16)

"There are many problems areas and only a few pockets of prosperity, none very inspiring," reports CLAIR ASKLUND, an expert in regional economics at DRI/McGRAW-HILL. "Most of the country is slipping back from the lively 1980s into nothing exciting economically." (NYT, 7/16)

"I think the S&L crisis has yet to be played out," says ROBERT FRANK, managing director of ALEX. BROWN & SONS. "I still think we're in the discovery phase of how deep and how bad the situation is. I think because of the uncertainty created by the fact that we really don't know where the bottom is." ("Wall Street Week", 7/13)

IN WASHINGTON:

Look for a new, broad-based energy consumption tax along with increased alcohol and other excise taxes to come out of congressional negotiations on the budget deficit, says SALOMON BROTHERS' STEVE BELL in Washington. The real battle will come over trading a reduction in capital gains taxes for an increase in the top bracket income tax rate to 33%. "I can tell you that many Republicans, including those [in] the negotiations, are absolutely against that tradeoff. ... That gives the president and others a problem." (CNN "Business Morning", 7/16)

The SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION says unknown purchasers made more than $1 million in illegal insider trading profits by buying the stock and options of CONTEL CORP. in advance of a merger announcement Thursday. ("The Washington Post", 7/14)

The COMMODITIES FUTURES TRADING COMMISSION appears to have the Senate votes to block the Bush administration's plan to transfer oversight of stock-index futures to the The SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION.

MONTVALE, N.J. (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Mercedes-Benz of North America will begin reconditioning off-lease vehicles today (July 16), providing dealers a new source of quality used Mercedes cars.

This move builds on the company's already established pre- owned car program, which has been in effect since January 1989 and includes factory-backed warranties. MBNA's venture into reconditioning will provide dealers with access to an inventory of retail-ready used cars which will give customers who may not be able to afford a new Mercedes another alternative to drive the marque and be assured it meets the standards of Mercedes-Benz.

"We are, in essence, providing another product to distribute to our dealers so they can more fully serve their customers," says Lewis Marchiona, MBNA national used car manager. "Dealers will have a market-ready product, without having to tie up manpower or resources to recondition the cars themselves."

Initially, at least 100 cars a month will be processed in a new 20,60-square-foot reconditioning center adjacent to MBNA's Jacksonville, Fla., zone office. The majority of these vehicles will be coming off lease through Mercedes-Benz Credit Corporation, which represents the largest single source of used Mercedes-Benz automobiles for dealers. Approximately 40 percent of MBNA's 75,000 annual sales are leased, with 25 percent through MBCC.

The reconditioning center will have the capability to perform mechanical and safety-related repairs, as well as body and paint work, on MBNA's full range of models. After vehicles are reconditioned, they will be re-distributed through the Mercedes-Benz franchised dealer network.

MBNA's decision to recondition off-lease vehicles came from the increasing demand from dealers and customers for quality used Mercedes-Benz cars. Providing dealers with an additional source of these cars will help broaden their customer base. Recent studies by marketing research firm Bruskin Associates show that 62 percent of the sales of pre-owned Mercedes-Benz cars come from competitive-make owners, with 98 percent reporting a high degree of satisfaction.

It is estimated that MBCC lease maturities will increase in the next several years from 4,000 cars in 1990 to almost 12,700 in 1992.

MONTVALE, N.J. (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Mercedes-Benz of North America has made it easier for dealers to find a used Mercedes anywhere in the U.S. that meets the needs of their customers, thanks to a new pre-owned car locator system.

As of today (July 16), authorized dealers will have access to the Mercedes-Benz Locator System which provides a readout of used Mercedes-Benz cars located in dealer inventories throughout the U.S. Information available through the system includes location, model, year, mileage, color, upholstery, condition and options.

"This is a service that our dealers have been asking for," says Lewis Marchiona, MBNA national used car manager. "It provides dealers with a greater opportunity for making a sale, while at the same time offers the potential to match a customer with the specific car he or she wants."

The new locator system, which can be accessed through MB-NET, the computer network linking MBNA with its dealers, will also provide another avenue for dealers to use to balance their inventory of used cars. Once a dealer finds a desired car on the system he calls the dealership where the car is located and negotiates price and delivery terms.

The locator system is the same one used by the company's 410 dealers to locate new cars.

Eli Oxenhorn, president of Cheyenne Software, Inc., explained that this type of alliance is particularly important in an industry with such a high degree of specialization. "Customers are looking for total solutions to complex problems. By combining the expertise of two companies such as Cheyenne and SMC, the customer is able to purchase a technically sophisticated solution in one integrated package. We are delighted to be working with SMC to bring this product to market. We hope to expand our relationship in the future by developing additional joint offerings."

Geof Karlin, director of marketing for SMC's systems division, is also delighted with the new arrangement. He said, "Our Intelligent Hub product provides physical network management, while Monitrix furnishes management of the network operating system. He also said "The combination of the two products results in several unique features, including added physical security via a clock/calendar, event alarms from network components, and physical event logging."

Standard Microsystems Corp. (SMC) also located on Long Island, N.Y., is the maker of the first ARCNET network board, is now repositioning itself and moving into the broader LAN marketplace. It was the first with ARCNET cards for fiber optic networks, the Macintosh, and the EISA bus. Now SMC is expanding into the Ethernet and Token Ring environment. One of its biggest assets is its loyal and dedicated distribution/dealer channel. Revenues in SMC's systems products division doubled this past year.

Cheyenne Software, Inc. is a leading independent software vendor (ISV) for NORFOLK, VA. (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - The union that's in the thick of an organizing campaign among non-union supermarket employees in southern Virginia has negotiated a new contract bringing big pay increases and contract improvements to 1,600 workers at area Super Fresh, Sun Stores and Sav-A-Center stores.

UFCW Local 400 members at Super Fresh already had a significant edge in pay over their non-union counterparts in the area -- an advantage of as much as $4.00 an hour -- but the new contract, ratified overwhelmingly at a mass meeting July 15, provides for even more.

"The new contract is a powerful testimony to what a difference a union can make for supermarket workers," noted Local 400 President Tom McNutt.

"The wages, benefits and working conditions we've won at Super Fresh stores are the best possible advertisement we could have for our organizing efforts here. The gap between what our members have won and what non-union supermarket workers struggle for is enormous -- and it's growing."

Improvements to the Local 400 Super Fresh contract come at a time when the union is working to organize low-paid supermarket employees at Farm Fresh, Be-Lo, Gene Walters' Market Place, Nick's, Carnival Markets and Phar-Mor Pharmacies in Norfolk, Hampton, Portsmouth, Chesapeake and Virginia Beach.

Under the new agreement, Super Fresh employees will get wage increases of up to $1.50 per hour over the life of their new three-year contract, retroactive to February. Some workers get bonuses of up to $250 every six months in the second and third years of the contract, while the agreement also allows employees to participate in their stores' success by sharing an annual bonus of 1 percent or more of the store's total volume.

The new pact also guarantees that Super Fresh will continue to pay the entire cost of health benefits for eligible workers and their dependents, including dental and optical coverage, as well as sick pay for up to 26 weeks.

NEW YORK (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - The Cooper Companies, Inc. (NYSE: COO) announced that it has repurchased from Cooper Development Company (CDC) 183,591 shares (with a liquidation value of $18,359,100) of the company's senior exchangeable redeemable preferred stock owned by CDC, for a cash purchase price of $35 per share (an aggregate purchase price of $6,425,685). Gary Singer, co-chairman of the company, said, "We believe that this transaction will be beneficial to the company's common stockholders. The net effect of the reduction in preferred stock dividends will be an increase in net income applicable to common stock."

The company said that 31,000 of the shares purchased had been held in escrow to secure certain of CDC's environmental indemnification obligations to the company and that the purchase price for those shares had been paid to, and would continue to be held in, the escrow account.

PONTIAC, MICH. (JULY 13) PR NEWSWIRE - The following was released today by the communications counseling firm of Bassett & Bassett, Incorporated, for First Federal Savings Bank & Trust of Pontiac:

United States Federal Judge Avern Cohn ruled today (Friday) that Lawyers Title Insurance Company (LTIC) must honor its title insurance policy to First Federal Savings Bank & Trust (FFSBT) in the fraudulent $6.5 million Ewald loan.

"In this case, Lawyers Title insured First Federal against the possibility of a forgery and it must now make good its promise," Judge Cohn wrote in his summary judgment opinion.

FFSBT is a wholly owned subsidiary of First Federal Bancorp, Inc. (FFB). FFB is traded on the American Stock Exchange under the symbol FFS. FFB had total assets of $1.4 billion as of March 31, 1990.

FFSBT sued LTIC when LTIC sought to deny coverage of its title insurance policy to FFSBT on the Ewald loan.

"This ruling means First Federal Savings Bank & Trust will achieve full recovery of the $6.5 million it loaned to Henry Ewald," Leo Ottoni, president and CEO of FFSBT, said. "The reason banks buy title insurance is for protection against frauds like this one."

Ewald received a $6.5 million commercial loan from FFSBT last year, using as collateral an apartment building he claimed to own. It was subsequently learned that Ewald forged the deeds and never owned the building.

FFSBT recovered $3.5 million of the loan earlier this year in a settlement reached with an insurance company in which part of the loan money had been used as an investment.

FFSBT, headquartered in Pontiac, is the fifth-largest thrift institution in Michigan. FFSBT has 28 branches in six southeastern Michigan counties and employs approximately 400 people. FFSBT is a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank System and its deposits are insured up to the applicable limits by the Federal Deposit Insurance Company (FDIC).

Additionally, the partnership exchanged $200 million of a bridge loan it holds with RJR Nabisco Capital Corp. for $200 million stated value of a new cash-pay, 11.5 percent convertible preferred stock of RJR Nabisco Holdings Corp. The repurchase program, which begins immediately and is expected to conclude by the second quarter of 1991, initially will relate only to the exchange debentures. Purchases of any converting debentures will begin only after a planned exchange offer for the converting debentures and the exchange debentures is completed.

-- A separate exchange offer of $800 million in cash and $1.6 billion of the new cash-pay 11.5 percent convertible preferred stock for up to 85 percent of the senior converting debentures as well as a portion of the exchange debentures. Holders of the debentures will receive $333 in cash and $667 stated value of the new convertible preferred stock for each $1,000 aggregate amount of principal and accrued and unpaid interest. The exchange offer will be filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission shortly and is expected to commence in September.

-- If any funds are not spent on repurchasing exchange debentures or senior converting debentures in the repurchase program, the exchange offer or otherwise such funds will be made available to purchase exchange debentures and/or senior converting debentures through one or more all cash tenders at par plus accrued and unpaid interest commencing in the beginning of the second quarter of 1991.

AKRON, OH (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - BFGoodrich (NYSE: GR) reported today that net income for the second quarter of 1990 increased slightly over the second quarter of 1989.

Net income for the 1990 quarter was $55.4 million, or $2.10 per share, compared with $52.3 million, or $1.98 per share, in 1989. The 1990 results include a $20.5 million after-tax gain resulting from the sale of The Uniroyal Goodrich Tire Company to Michelin. BFG owned warrants to purchase equity in Uniroyal Goodrich and surrendered those warrants when Michelin purchased Uniroyal Goodrich in May.

Income from continuing operations was $34.9 million, or $1.29 per share, for the quarter, down 34 percent from the second quarter of 1989.

Second-quarter 1990 income also was affected by a higher tax rate. The company has exhausted its tax credit carryforwards, which reduced taxes in 1989.

Sales for the 1990 second quarter were $632.5 million, compared with $628.8 million in the second quarter of 1989.

BFG's Geon Vinyl Products business segment reported operating income of $24.7 million for the second quarter of 1990, compared with $57.3 million for the same period last year. While prices for vinyl products are still about 24 percent lower than they were a year ago, prices have improved during the second quarter of 1990 compared with the first quarter. BFG's U.S. sales volume for polyvinyl chloride resins and compounds for the second quarter of 1990 showed a strong increase over the year-ago quarter.

The Specialty Chemicals business segment reported operating income of $27.3 million for the second quarter of 1990, up 13 percent from the second quarter of 1989. The company's Tremco subsidiary reported particularly strong performance in its adhesives, roofing and sealants businesses in the United States. Higher volume in the TempRite(R) plastics, hydrophilic additives and latex business units of the Specialty Polymers & Chemicals Division also contributed to the increased results.

The Aerospace business segment reported $19.1 million in operating income, compared with $13.4 million last year--a 43 percent increase. The aircraft wheel and brake business, evacuation systems business and Tramco, which supplies aircraft maintenance, repair and overhaul services, performed particularly well during the quarter.

OAK BROOK, IL (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Chemical Waste Management, Inc. (NYSE: CHW) was denied a preliminary injunction to prevent the assessment of an increased Alabama hazardous waste tax, the company announced today. Following a Montgomery Circuit Court hearing, the court denied preliminary relief because, the court ruled, should the company prevail in subsequent legal proceedings, it could seek a refund of any taxes paid.

A hearing has been set for August 16, 1990, in the Montgomery Circuit Court to consider the company's motion to set aside the portion of the hazardous waste tax that applies only to out-of-state waste. This tax, effective July 15, 1990, adds an additional $72.00 per ton tax on all out-of-state waste disposed of at Chemical Waste Management's Emelle, Ala. disposal facility.

In addition, a trial in the company's lawsuit concerning the validity of the Alabama hazardous waste tax legislation has been scheduled for Oct. 9, 1990.

"Chemical Waste Management will start collection of this tax, as required by law," a company spokesman stated. "The company will pay the tax under protest, and will continue vigorously to contest the legislation," the spokesman said.

"Our company continues to believe that the Alabama fees are discriminatory " the spokesman said. "The portion of the tax which explicitly singles out out-of-state waste shipments on its face runs counter to the interstate commerce clause of the U.S. Constitution."

Chemical Waste Management has a network of facilities which it will seek to utilize in serving customers who are affected by the tax. However, the company is unable at this time to predict the extent of the impact the legislation will have upon its business.

MIAMI (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - General Development Corporation (NYSE: GDV) announced that the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida (Nesbitt, J.) on Friday had rejected the plea agreement earlier entered into by the company and the United States attorney to resolve the pending criminal charges against the company.

One element of that plea agreement had been the proposal to establish a substantial restitution fund for the the benefit of the company's home purchasers from 1983 through 1989. The District Court had appointed a Special Master to advise on the feasibility of the plan, financial and otherwise, before deciding whether to accept the plea agreement. The company and the United States Attorney have been unable to resolve to the satisfaction of the Special Master his objections to certain aspects of the original plan. The court gave the parties until Aug. 7 to submit an acceptable, revised plea agreement and restitution plan, failing which the Court indicated that it would set the company's case for trial.

In meetings held immediately following Friday's hearing, the company, the United States Attorney and the Special Master entered into serious negotiations on the terms of a substitute plea agreement and restitution plan which the company believes will be satisfactory to the Court at the Aug. 7 hearing. It is likely that the revised terms of the restitution plan would result in substantially larger claims for restitution than originally anticipated, with such claims to be treated as general unsecured claims in the company's reorganization proceedings.

Inspired by the six Range Rovers that successfully completed the first ever north to south off-pavement traverse of the Continental Divide last year, the GDE features the same tough components that were proven on the highest roads in North America.

The 400 individually numbered vehicles are the first of the 1991 models to be introduced. They feature Alpine white paint with special sport-textured Connolly leather seats. American walnut graces the fascia, center console and doors.

The no-nonsense front end is fitted with an aluminum brush bar and heavy-duty bumper. The standard front spoiler has been replaced with a high clearance off-road version that includes an undercarriage pan.

Taillamp guards and light alloy five-spoke wheels complete the look. Each GDE vehicle also has a special "Great Divide Edition" decal on the tailgate.

All running gear is the same as the vehicles that actually completed the Expedition, including the 3.9 liter, 178 bhp fuel injected aluminum V-8 engine, permanent four-wheel drive with viscous coupled center differential, two-speed chain driven transfercase and the world's best four-wheel, four channel anti-lock brake system.

"The Great Divide Expedition was a huge success for Range Rover and has generated enormous interest," said Charles R. Hughes, president of Range Rover of North America, Inc. "It helped us tell the world that great driving adventure can be had in a stock Range Rover on roads that are open to the public and driveable without environmental damage. Now, the Great Divide Edition is available for those who want to share the adventure."

The manufacturer's suggested retail price of the GDE is $44,500 with all Range Rover comfort and convenience features as standard including the premium sound system (without CD changer).

PITTSBURGH (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Integra Financial Corp. (NASDAQ: ITGR) today announced second quarter net income increased to $.71 per share from $.70 per share for the second quarter of 1989 and was $17.5 million and $17.6 million for those periods, respectively.

For the first six months of this year, net income increased to $1.41 per share or $35.0 million from $1.38 per share or $34.7 million for the first six months of 1989.

The corporation's year-to-date earnings included a $4.5 million increase in the loan loss provision compared to the same period one year ago. This increase reflects the corporation's continued diligence in monitoring the performance of its commercial loan portfolio. As a result, over the last 12 months, the loan loss reserve balance has been increased to $71.3 million from $56.5 million. At quarter's end, Integra's loan loss reserve to outstanding loans stood at 1.71 percent compared with 1.42 percent at June 30, 1989.

Commenting on earnings, William F. Roemer, president and chief executive officer, said, "We have seen improvement in a number of areas, including higher net interest income, a significant increase in non-interest income, and only a relatively modest increase in non-interest expense. However, the higher provision for loan losses this year continues to inhibit our ability to generate stronger earnings. As soon as we are satisfied that the provision can be reduced, we should begin posting a more meaningful increase in net income.

"Although Integra's non-performing assets increased from $65 million to $84 million during the past year, substantial charge-offs have been taken against our major non-performing loans. Based on a comprehensive review of our problem credits, management believes the current level of the loan loss reserve is adequate," Roemer added.

Integra's total assets were $7.6 billion at the end of the second quarter compared to $6.8 billion at year-end 1989. Deposits reached $6.5 billion, up 12 percent from the end of 1989. Lending activity was up a relatively modest 5 percent, with loans totalling $4.2 billion at June 30 as compared to $4.0 billion at year-end. The increase in assets and deposits was due mainly to the acquisition in May of 16 Horizon Financial, F.A., offices by Union National Bank, a wholly owned subsidiary of Integra. The bank paid a deposit premium of $12 million for the offices, which represented approximately $550 million in deposits. "The Horizon transaction expanded our Pittsburgh market share at a relatively low cost and should help the company leverage its sizable capital position to generate a better return on equity," according to Roemer.

"We welcome the Horizon customers and employees to the Integra family," Roemer said, "We are pleased to provide the same level of superior service to Horizon customers as we offered to those who already bank with Union National. The Horizon purchase reflects Integra's continuing interest in exploring growth opportunities which are beneficial to the corporation," he added.

During the first six months of the year, the corporation continued to purchase shares of its common stock in the open market. Though June 30, more than 465,000 Integra shares were purchased for reissuance under its various employee stock plans, its dividend reinvestment plan and for other corporate purposes. The board of directors has authorized the purchase of up to one million shares during the 12 months ending Jan. 31, 1991.

Integra common stock is traded on the NASDAQ National Market under the symbol ITGR.

Integra operates seven banks with 226 offices throughout 22 counties of western Pennsylvania. Those banks include First National Bank of Washington, First Seneca Bank, Gallatin National Bank, Keystone National Bank, McDowell National Bank, Pennbank and Union National Bank. In earlier statements, the corporation announced its intentions to consolidate its four northern-most banks, to consolidate its two southwestern Pennsylvania banks and to rename each of its banks. According to these plans, Integra will operate three banks, each bearing the name Integra Bank, by the end of 1991.

NEW YORK (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - W. R. Grace & Co. (NYSE: GRA) today reported a sharp increase in second quarter net income, up 16 percent to $51 million, as a result of excellent overall performances from the company's specialty chemical and specialty business operations.

Net income for the second quarter ended June 30, 1990 was $51.3 million, 16 percent higher than the $44.1 million earned in the 1989 second quarter. On a per share basis, Grace earned 60 cents in the second quarter, versus the 52 cents reported in the second quarter of last year. Sales for the second quarter were $1.6 billion, 8 percent above the 1989 second quarter sales figure of $1.5 billion.

"This is a superior quarterly performance for the company," said J. Peter Grace, chairman and chief executive of Grace. "There were improvements in several sectors of our businesses that will help further strengthen our results in the future," he added.

For the first six months of 1990, net income was $83.9 million, 14 percent over the $73.5 million earned in the 1989 first half. On a per share basis, the company earned 98 cents in 1990 compared to 86 cents earned in the first half of 1989. Sales for the first half increased 8 percent, to $3.1 billion from $2.9 billion.

The largest operating unit of the company, Grace Specialty Chemicals Co., reported a 10 percent advance in operating income after taxes in the second quarter, earning $69.8 million on sales of $880 million.

The chemical unit's gain was due primarily to significant advances in the company's packaging operations and sales of the company's high- speed drying equipment used by the printing industry. The fluid cracking catalyst operations are now experiencing higher sales volumes. Also, a more stable currency exchange rate in Latin America positively affected earnings from Grace's operations in that region.

NEW YORK (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - General Mills is preparing for the September introduction of its new winter cereal. According to Advertising Age, it's a lumpy instant hot oatmeal which, when the lumps dissolve in hot water, reveal chewy, flavored gummy bears.

The introduction of the oatmeal -- called Undercover Bears-- underscores General Mills' commitment to a kids-oriented marketing strategy in hot cereal. The bears inside the oatmeal come in four varieties: strawberry, maple brown sugar, a Private Eye pack of three flavors (apple cinnamon, fruit punch and maple brown sugar) and a Super Sleuth Assortment (cherry, cinnamon spice and strawberry).

Packaging and advertising will play up detective imagery, sources told Advertising Age; on the box is a dog investigating the cereal a la Sherlock Holmes.

An estimated $10 million network and spot TV campaign from Campbell-Mithun-Esty, Minneapolis, will run from September through March, the traditional hot cereal season. Couponing and direct mail product samples will support.

General Mills is third in the $750 million hot cereal category with more than an 8 percent share, trailing Quaker Oats Co.'s 61 percent and Nabisco Brands' 15 percent.

ABBOTT PARK, ILL. (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Abbott Laboratories (NYSE: ABT) has received approval from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to begin marketing its blood screening test for detection of antibody to hepatitis C virus (anti-HCV). Presence of anti-HCV in donor blood has been linked to the development of hepatitis C infection in recipients of blood transfusions. Hepatitis C infection is considered to be the developed world's most prevalent transfusion- related disease.

Blood bank officials predict that the incidence of post-transfusion hepatitis will decrease significantly with the advent of routine HCV screening.

There are an estimated 100 million chronic carriers of the hepatitis C virus worldwide. Exposure to blood is considered the prime -- but not necessarily the only -- risk of infection.

Abbott, world leader in medical diagnostics, introduced its first hepatitis blood screening test -- a radioactive procedure called Ausria -- in 1973, and has been the leading supplier of hepatitis screening and diagnostic tests ever since.

"Hepatitis C is the sixth blood screening test in Abbott's market leading product line," said David A. Thompson, vice president of diagnostic operations. "The HCV test runs on Abbott instruments used by blood centers worldwide and will be incorporated into our on-site data management system, which automates the recording of screening test results." Thompson added that the Abbott product has been available in Canada, Europe, Australia and the Far East.

The worldwide market for hepatitis C tests is estimated at more than $200 million. Initially a large majority of the tests sold will be for blood screening use, but the diagnostic market is expected to grow rapidly as additional HCV tests become available.

"We're looking for new diagnostic markers for hepatitis C that will allow physicians to confirm a diagnosis, determine the stage and severity of disease and monitor the efficacy of therapy," said David V. Milligan, vice president of diagnostics products research and development.

"Hepatitis C is an insidious disease because most people infected don't even realize it until years later, when it may develop into chronic liver disease, cirrhosis or, eventually, liver cancer," Milligan said. "Meantime, they are unwitting carriers of the virus, and if they donate blood, others may become infected."

Persons who have received blood transfusions are at risk, especially hemophiliacs, whose risk is compounded by repeated transfusions; drug addicts who share needles; and health care workers who accidentally stick themselves with contaminated needles.

But many cases are believed to be "community-acquired," meaning the virus is being contracted in other -- yet unconfirmed -- ways. The role -- if any -- of intimate sexual contact, either heterosexual or homosexual, in hepatitis C transmission is unclear, according to Milligan.

There is no cure, although research on specific treatments for hepatitis C are ongoing, including the use of alpha interferon as an investigational hepatitis C therapy.

Abbott developed its product under terms of a license with Ortho Diagnostic Systems, Inc., a subsidiary of Johnson & Johnson and Chiron Corporation, a California firm that successfully cloned the hepatitis C antigen in 1988.

Abbott Laboratories is a worldwide manufacturer of health care products employing 41,000 people. In 1989, the company's sales and net earnings were $5.4 billion and $860 million, respectively, with earnings per share of $1.93.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - U.S. Rep. Henry Waxman (D-Calif.) last week shocked the ad industry by announcing he will ask his 23-member House Health & Environmental Subcommittee to vote on his anti-tobacco proposal within two or three weeks, according to a front- page report in the July 16 issue of Advertising Age.

The bill -- the most comprehensive anti-tobacco advertising measure ever considered by Congress -- contains key provisions that would drastically alter how tobacco products are advertised and could amount to a de facto ban on ads for the entire category. It would:

-- Bar models, imagery, cartoon characters, most colors, slogans and other advertising staples from tobacco ads, permitting only a form of "tombstone" advertising showing the product package.

-- Bar tobacco sponsorship of sporting and cultural events. -- Permit state governments to separately regulate -- and perhaps ban -- tobacco advertising within their borders.

Advertising industry officials say they think they have the votes to defeat the bill in subcommittee. But Waxman's intent to press for a vote ignited speculation that he might agree to jettison parts of the proposal to win votes.

"I'm not sure what to make of it," said Dan Jaffe, executive vice president of the Association of National Advertisers and a former Senate committee aide. "Maybe he thinks he has the votes, although that is inconsistent with what we've been told when we've polled members...Or perhaps he wants to get people on the record to see if what they say behind the scenes is consistent with how they vote."

Advertising Age reports that on July 12, the final day of hearings on the bill, William Cahan, emeritus attending surgeon at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, showed a dead cancer patient's X-rays. "I do not work on Madison Avenue, but no one can take a look at tobacco advertisements and promotions today without realizing the extent to which the tobacco companies are targeting our youngest, our most immature and our most vulnerable citizens -- our children," said Cahan.

For the other side, First Amendment legal expert Floyd Abrams warned the subcommittee that the bill would trample on businesses' constitutional rights to truthfully advertise their products.

David Bell, president of Bozell, New York, also argued that the bill is unconstitutional. Further, he said, "Advertisements formatted by the requirements in this bill would be so ineffective, most companies would choose not to advertise at all." Bell testified on behalf of the Freedom to Advertise Coalition, composed of six advertising trade groups.

DIBOLL, TX (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Temple-Inland Inc. (NYSE: TIN) today reported that earnings per share for the second quarter of 1990 were $1.18 up 23 percent from the 96 cents per share earned in the second quarter of 1989. While combined operating earnings were down by $7.9 million to $82.4 million, net income increased 24 percent to $65.7 million due to a significantly lower tax rate. Total revenues for the quarter increased to $587 million from $489 million.

For the first six months of 1990, net income was $127.9 million, or $2.30 per share, compared with $107.4 million, or $1.94 per share, last year. Total revenues in the first six months were $1.2 billion in 1990 and $963 million in 1989.

The container and containerboard group had operating earnings of $40.1 million, down 26 percent from the second quarter of last year. Although box shipments remained strong, average selling prices of corrugated continued to deteriorate which, along with increased costs, caused margins to erode.

Earnings of Temple-Inland's bleached paperboard group were $23 million in the second quarter, down 18 percent from a year ago. Demand and pricing for this group's products remained stable. However, the Evadale mill had several unscheduled disruptions during the quarter, and one machine was down for six days for scheduled maintenance. Increased manufacturing costs and inefficiencies associated with the disruptions resulted in the decline in earnings.

The company's building products group earned $4.2 million in the quarter, down from $7 million in the second quarter of last year. Lower levels of residential construction resulted in weaker demand for many products and start-up costs associated with the south Louisiana sawmill reduced earnings. The start-up curve is on schedule, but profitability is not expected until early next year.

The financial services group continued its earnings turnaround with income of $15.1 million, of which $7 million was attributed to Guaranty Federal Savings Bank, which income is being consolidated for the first time this year. All segments of this group participated in the recovery.

PITTSBURGH (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - The Mellon Index of Economic Performance for Pennsylvania dropped in May, falling 2.2 percent, the bank said today.

The May decline was led by a decrease in goods-producing employment and substantial further weakness in housing permits and contract awards for commercial construction. The only positive contributor to the index was a rise in the length of the average manufacturing workweek.

May's decline erased the strong weather-related gain in the first quarter and left the index 4 percent below the year-earlier reading. Significant softness in goods-producing employment, car sales, and construction activity resulted in the drop in the performance index over the past 12 months.

In May, the Mellon Index of Economic Performance for Pennsylvania stood at 126.4, down from 129.5 in April.

DALLAS (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - MCI Communications Corporation (NASDAQ: MCIC) announced today that it has been awarded a three-year contract valued at approximately $25 million to provide long-distance telephone services for pay phones at Texaco-branded service stations throughout the United States.

The contract is the second largest such agreement ever won by MCI. The company's largest pay phone contract -- and largest contract of any kind -- is a five-year, $375 million pact announced last month to provide long-distance service at U.S. Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard installations throughout the contiguous United States, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

"MCI is proud of the confidence Texaco and its affiliate Star Enterprise have shown in our ability to deliver high quality pay phone service to their nationwide customer base," said Dan Crawford, president of MCI's Southwest division. "This contract broadens our substantial existing relationship with Texaco and strengthens our competitive position in the very important pay phone market."

Under the contract, MCI will provide long-distance services to some 3,500 pay phones at approximately 2,300 service stations owned by a subsidiary of Texaco, and Star Enterprise, which is owned by subsidiaries of Texaco and Saudi Aramco.

In addition, MCI will market its pay phone services to the 15,000 independently-owned, Texaco-branded stations throughout the United States, which collectively have about 23,000 pay phones.

The national pay phone market -- worth an estimated $2 billion annually -- was opened to competition by court order in late 1988. Previously, all pay phones were served by AT&T.

Pay phones premise owners and managers may now select the long- distance carrier of their choice for operator-assisted calls and receive commissions based on their volume of traffic.

MCI has vigorously competed for pay phone business, winning major contracts with Chrysler Corporation, Firestone, Inc., Peoples Drug Co., Marshalls department stores, Cumberland Farms convenience stores and the cities of Dallas and Philadelphia, among others.

MCI is the world's second-largest long distance provider, supplying a full range of voice, data and messaging services to businesses, residences and government agencies.

DAYTON, OHIO (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - NCR Corporation (NYSE: NCR) today reported that net income, earnings per share and worldwide revenue all achieved records for a second quarter. Worldwide incoming orders, expressed in U.S. dollars, showed a good gain in the quarter.

Earnings per share climbed 17 percent in the quarter to $1.66, compared with $1.42 per share for the same period last year. Net income, setting a record, rose 5 percent to $115 million versus the $110 million reported for the year-ago period. During the second quarter, NCR repurchased 2.2 million common shares under its share- repurchase program. This program continued to have a favorable impact on earnings per share while negatively affecting net income.

Second-quarter revenue, also a record, grew to $1,605 million, an increase of 5 percent over the $1,528 million reported for the same period last year. Charles E. Exley, Jr., NCR chairman and chief executive officer, said, "NCR achieved revenue growth on both a U.S. dollar and local currency basis. Operations in both the United States and overseas recorded gains in revenue in the quarter.

"The higher revenue together with the beneficial impact of cost containment measures on marketing, general and administrative expenses contributed to the increased earnings in the quarter," he said. "These benefits were partially offset by growth in research and development spending and the impact of the share repurchase program."

"NCR's worldwide incoming orders, expressed in U.S. dollars, showed a good gain in the quarter," Exley said. "Orders abroad established a new second-quarter record with a substantial gain over the prior-year quarter. These order gains offset a decline in U.S. orders."

Excluding the favorable impact of currency changes on backlogs, the U.S. dollar value of worldwide orders showed a small gain. On a local currency basis, worldwide orders were at the same level a year ago.

Worldwide order value in NCR bank automation systems reached an all-time high for a second quarter with particular strength noted in self-service financial terminals and item processing orders. Orders for the NCR TOWER family of supermicrocomputers also achieved a second- quarter high representing the third consecutive record-setting quarter for this product line.

NCR Corporation develops, manufactures, markets, installs and services business information processing systems for worldwide markets.

BUDAPEST (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Ford Motor Company (NYSE: F) today announced that it will invest $80 million to construct and equip a state-of-the-art plant in Hungary to manufacture high-technology automotive ignition coils and fuel pumps.

All the components will be exported to the European Community for use in Ford vehicles assembled in Germany, England, Spain, Belgium and Portugal.

The Hungarian government has approved an investment package that will enable Ford to increase the import of its vehicles from the European Community. These imports would be funded by hard currency sales generated by the Ford plant's exports.

Bruce L. Blythe, Ford of Europe's vice president for business strategy, said a site will be selected for a 16,000-square-metre (170,000-square-foot) manufacturing plant. The plant will begin operations in 1992 and will employ about 200 persons when it reaches full production. Employee selection will start very shortly and extensive training will take place next year.

"The products planned for the Hungarian facility will further reduce the environmental impact of Ford vehicles throughout Europe in the 1990s," said Mr. Blythe. "Each year the plant will export about 3.2 million sophisticated ignition and fuel-handling devices.

"The components are critical to achieving the low exhaust emission levels that will become standard across Europe in the mid-1990s. It is Ford's goal to establish a world-class operation in Hungary, fully competitive in quality, technology and cost with the best automotive component manufacturing anywhere."

Mr. Blythe confirmed that several European countries were considered for the investment.

"The Hungarian government has pursued investments to increase local production of high-technology automotive components, and this investment makes sense for Ford because of the close proximity to Ford's manufacturing and technical centres in Germany and its good connections with the rest of Europe," he said.

ATLANTA (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - In a move signifying its increased responsiveness to consumer concerns about privacy and to its commitment to fair information practices, Equifax Inc. (NYSE: EFX) announced today the creation of an Office of Consumer Affairs.

Larry Clemente, corporate vice president, will fill this full-time position and report directly to Equifax President and Chief Executive Officer C.B. (Jack) Rogers Jr.

Rogers said: "The purpose of this formal position is to be an ombudsman for consumers as we seek to maintain the delicate balance between the corporation's legitimate right to information and the consumer's right to privacy."

The findings of the recently released Equifax Report on Consumers in the Information Age underscore not only consumers' concerns about privacy but also their willingness to provide personal information for benefits when they are treated fairly.

Rogers added: "I am confident that Larry Clemente will represent the interests of consumers and ensure that fair information practices are an inherent part of all products and services that all business units in Equifax provide."

Clemente, who brings to the newly created position more than 40 years of experience with Equifax, said: "I am pleased and proud to serve in this new role which strengthens our partnership with consumers. The consumer conscience will walk the halls of Equifax, and consumers will now have an even stronger voice in the company."

The duties and responsibilities of the new office include auditing and monitoring Equifax procedures for interacting with consumers, looking at the possible impact on consumers of new products and services, representing the corporation in consumer forums, industry- and government-related activities, and identifying consumer issues that may affect the way Equifax does business.

Atlanta-based Equifax is the leading provider of information for consumer financial transactions. With 16,000 employees in 1,100 locations in the United States, Canada and Europe, Equifax provides information services and automated systems that help its customers evaluate risk and market products and services. CHARLOTTE, NC (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - NCNB Corp. (NYSE: NCB) today reported net income of $137.4 million for the second quarter of 1990, a 50-percent increase from the $91.5 million earned in the second quarter of 1989. For the first six months of 1990, NCNB's net income climbed 66 percent to $277.5 million from $167.3 million during the same period a year ago.

In the second quarter, earnings per common share rose 30 percent to $1.30, compared to second-quarter 1989 earnings per common share of $1.00. Year-to-date, NCNB has earned $2.64 per common share, a 45-percent increase versus the $1.82 per common share reported in the first six months of 1989. NCNB's return on common shareholders' equity was a strong 19.33 percent in the first six months of 1990.

Total shareholders' equity rose 53 percent from a year ago to $3.2 billion on June 30, 1990, while common shares outstanding grew by only 17 percent. Book value per common share of $28.77 at the end of the quarter was 37 percent higher than a year ago and more than 3 percent above the March 31, 1990 level.

Using 1990 transitional guidelines, Tier I risk-based capital for NCNB was $3.3 billion on June 30, 1990, or 6.64 percent of risk-weighted assets, while total capital of $4.8 billion represented 9.69 percent of risk-weighted assets.

NCNB's second-quarter average loans and leases grew by 10 percent to $35.3 billion and average earning assets increased by 14 percent to $54.8 billion. Taxable-equivalent net interest income was up 5 percent versus a year ago to $459.6 million. A lower net interest yield relative to the second quarter of 1989, 3.36 percent versus 3.65 percent, was the reason that net interest income growth trailed loan and earning asset growth.

The yield was down as NCNB prudently elected to use the liquidity generated by strong deposit growth to fund an increase in its investment securities portfolio. Since the yield on the conservatively invested portfolio is less than that on the loan portfolio, the net interest yield declined.

Average deposits grew to $48.1 billion in the second quarter, up 13 percent from last year's second quarter. Customer- based deposits, a stable, lower-cost source of funds, were up 19 percent to $41.1 billion as NCNB achieved further success in its drive to expand its customer base. NCNB's loan-to-deposit ratio in the second quarter was 73 percent, well below industry averages, giving NCNB substantial room to improve asset utilization going forward.

Second-quarter 1990 noninterest income increased 17 percent to $228.2 million from the $195.8 million reported in the second quarter of 1989. NCNB's recent investments in fee income-producing areas are beginning to pay off as trust fees, deposit and other service fees, and bank card income were all up more than 25 percent relative to the year ago quarter.

NCNB's second-quarter noninterest expenses were $450.5 million, as growth was held to only 7 percent versus the year earlier quarter. More than 75 percent of this increase related to the acquisition of more than 20 failed thrift institutions during the past year. In addition, when compared to the first quarter of 1990's noninterest expense of $436.5 million, core noninterest expense in the second quarter, excluding expenses related to acquisitions, rose less than 1.5 percent.

NCNB remains well-positioned in regard to credit quality as it aggressively dealt with this issue again in the second quarter. The allowance for loan and lease losses of $525.4 million stood at 1.46 percent of net loans and leases at the end of the second quarter, up significantly from the allowance of $394 million, or 1.20 percent of net loans and leases, on June 30, 1989. This increase is in recognition of weakening economic conditions and the resulting rise in nonperforming assets, as NCNB is committed to maintaining the capacity to manage problem credits as they arise.

Nonperforming loans amounted to $554.3 million at the end of the quarter, with the $525.4 million allowance for loan and lease losses providing 95-percent coverage. Nonperforming assets were $695.2 million, or 1.94 percent of net loans and leases, at June 30, 1990, compared to $599.1 million, or 1.75 percent of net loans and leases, on March 31, 1990.

NCNB also took an aggressive posture in the second quarter relative to loan charge-offs. Net charge-offs were $64.4 million in the second quarter of 1990, or 0.73 percent of net loans and leases, compared to net charge-offs of $54.1 million, or 0.64 percent of net loans and leases, for the first quarter of 1990 and $38.6 million, or 0.48 percent of net loans and leases, for the second quarter of 1989. These aggressive charge-offs and the strengthening of the loan loss reserve resulted in a significant increase in the provision expense in the second quarter. It rose to $84.1 million, up from $46.3 million in last year's second quarter.

Earnings results for the second quarter of 1990 reflect 100-percent ownership of NCNB Texas, compared to NCNB's 49-percent ownership interest in the second quarter of 1989.

NCNB Corp. is a bank holding company with $66.2 billion in assets and more than 900 banking offices in seven states.

NEW YORK (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - The board of directors of New Century Communications, Inc., parent of Edgell Communications, Inc., today announced that it has approved in principle a plan to restructure terms of the debt and preferred stock issued in connection with the company's 1987 leveraged buyout.

A successful completion of the plan should result in reducing and deferring certain cash interest and principal payments. Details of the plan will be communicated directly to the company's creditors and security holders. The restructuring is expected to be completed within several months.

By a short-term agreement concerning the exercise of remedies and the continuation of funding, the senior lenders will provide the company an opportunity to begin the restructuring process. For an initial period of approximately one month and subject to specified conditions, they will not exercise certain remedies available to them and will continue to fund the company's projected cash requirements. The company made its last quarterly principal payment and monthly interest payment to these lenders when due on July 2, 1990.

In connection with the pending restructuring plan, the company decided not to make a $7 million semi-annual interest payment on the company's senior subordinated debentures due July 16, 1990. The senior lenders also have exercised their right to block this payment for a period of up to 120 days.

Richard B. Swank, chairman and chief executive officer of Edgell Communications, said, "I fully expect the company, our lenders, and investors to agree upon the details of a financial restructuring plan.

"The resolution of these matters should not have any adverse effect upon operations of the company," Swank said, "and the restructuring should facilitate the company's operations going forward.

New Century Communications, Inc. and its wholly owned subsidiary, Edgell Communications, were created at the end of 1987 through a leveraged buyout (LBO) of the former business publishing, exposition production, and school supplies distribution businesses of Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Inc. by Kidder, Peabody Group, Inc., several members of Edgell's senior management group, and other investors.

LAKE SUCCESS, NY (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Staff Builders, Inc. (NASDAQ: SBLI), reported today revenues and net income for the first quarter ended May 31, 1990.

Revenues for the first quarter ended May 31, 1990 decreased 14 percent, or $6,518,000 to $41,430,000, from $47,948,000 for the quarter ended May 31, 1989. Net income for the first quarter ended May 31, 1990, increased 5 percent, or $13,000 to $296,000, from $283,000 for the comparable quarter last year. On a per share basis, after the deduction for the cash dividends on its redeemable class B preferred stock, the company's earnings per common and common equivalent share was $.03 in the current quarter and $.03 for the year-ago quarter.

The operating results for the first quarter ended May 31, 1990, reflect a decrease in revenues primarily relating to 12 offices of the business services division which were sold in the fourth quarter of fiscal 1990.

For the three months ended May 31, 1990 and 1989, revenues include $492,000 and $1,652,000, respectively, relating to the sales of certain assets and the sales of rights to establish and operate franchised temporary personnel service businesses in certain territories to franchisees under the company's Franchise Program.

During the first quarter ended May 31, 1990, while revenues have remained relatively stable, a continuing trend to expand home health care revenues has replaced those revenues generated from the hospital staffing market. Further, franchise operations have yielded increased revenues from prior periods.

As a result of steps taken in the prior year to strategically reduce general and administrative expenses, these expenses for the first quarter ended May 31, 1990, decreased approximately $1.8 million, or 14 percent from the comparable quarter last year. Additionally, the remaining decrease of approximately $600,000 is due to expenses relating to the 12 offices of the business services division which were sold in the fourth quarter of fiscal 1990.

Further, the fiscal year 1990 write-off of goodwill totalling $28,922,000, due to the diminution in the value of goodwill and an allocation of goodwill to offices which were franchised or sold, resulted in reduced amortization expense of intangible assets to $198,000 from $460,000, for the three months ended May 31, 1990, as compared to the three months ended May 31, 1989, respectively.

Additionally, interest costs in the current quarter versus the comparable quarter last year have decreased primarily due to a decreased level of borrowings. The sale of a majority of the business service division offices and lower overhead costs have resulted in reduced bank debt.

These factors, together with the elimination of costs associated with litigation which was settled in February 1990, have resulted in lower total nonoperating expenses in the current period.

The company anticipates that the results of operations for the remainder of this year will begin to reflect further improvement in operating income in connection with the continuing efforts in the company's home health care marketing emphasis, Franchise Program, National Accounts Program and cost containment process.

In commenting on this quarter's results of operations, Ephraim Koschitzki, president of Staff Builders, Inc., stated, "The positive effects of our continuing efforts on expanding home health care revenues, proceeding with the franchising of many office operations, emphasizing the benefits of our National Accounts Program and reducing general and administrative costs has begun to contribute to improved results of operations."

Staff Builders, Inc., provides temporary personnel and permanent placement services, including home care, hospital staffing and business services, to individuals, institutions, business and industry. The company presently has 129 offices in 29 states and the District of Columbia.

HAUPPAUGE, NY (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Robotic Vision Systems, Inc. (NASDAQ: ROBV), a leading manufacturer of machine vision-based inspection and measurement products for quality control and process guidance, announced today its withdrawal from the automotive robotic systems integration business and the closing of its Michigan facility dedicated to such activities.

RVSI also noted that its efforts to sell this portion of the company's business were not successful. Extremely aggressive pricing by a competitor has caused the company to lose significant orders over the past year resulting in a diminishing backlog for the automotive systems business.

The company said that the decision to close the automotive robotic systems integration business is a continuation of RVSI's shift in emphasis from project-oriented to product-oriented markets. This shift in emphasis has been facilitated by the introduction of two promising new products: the HR-2000, for automated printed circuit board quality control; and the 3-D Surface Mapper, a high-speed, high-definition challenger to the $500 million per year Coordinate Measurement Machine market.

Robotic Vision Systems, Inc. designs, develops, manufactures and markets advanced three-dimensional vision-based inspection and measurement products for industrial and military purposes.

NEW YORK, NY (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Brian Dittenhafer, president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of New York, announced today that 14 affordable housing projects, which will ultimately lead to the development of 795 housing units, were successful in the initial program offering based on their highest rankings in the program's scoring guidelines.

"I am delighted with the broad-based support we received from customer institutions, nonprofit and community organizations, state and local housing agencies and housing developers in our first offering of Affordable Housing Program subsidy assistance," said Dittenhafer. He went on: "This was an especially noteworthy accomplishment given the newness of the program, the complexity of the regulations and the relatively brief time frame in which the parties had to come together to submit their proposals and qualify for subsidy funds. I congratulate our Community Investment Group for its hard work and successful education effort. I should also point out that the subsidy funds provided by this bank are a charge against earnings. Those funds would otherwise be paid out as dividends to our stockholders, the home financing institutions of the district.

"Altogether we are providing over $4.4 million of subsidies for 14 customer institution projects to contribute to the financing of 795 housing units with an average of $5,500 of subsidy per unit. Among the successful applications there were six in New York State, five in New Jersey, two in Puerto Rico and one in the Virgin Islands."

In addition to the successful applications, there were a number that could not be financed owing to the statutory limitations on the bank's subsidy contribution imposed by the Affordable Housing Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act of 1989. These applications will be eligible for consideration, along with new applications, in subsequent offerings under the program. The next application period will extend from July 15 to Aug. 31, 1990.

Summaries of each project grouped by state and locality will follow. Each has its own human-interest story.

PLEASANTVILLE, NY (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Reader's Digest today announced the appointment of a new associate publisher, a search for a new advertising sales director, the creation of new jobs, and the elimination of others in the magazine's advertising sales organization.

John J. Donoghue, 48, who became publisher of the U.S. Reader's Digest last week, said, "We're fortunate to be implementing these changes from a position of strength -- we're up in a down market. We want to stay ahead of changes affecting our industry. We do not want to react. We're building a sales organization that will still be on top in the year 2000."

Richard D. Wright, 43, national sales manager, is promoted to the new position of associate publisher-sales development, reporting to Donoghue. Wright, who has been with Reader's Digest since 1971, previously served as Atlanta sales manager, Detroit sales manager and Midwest regional manager before becoming national sales manager in 1989.

In his new post, Wright will manage sales support services, develop new systems to integrate support services with successful sales, and tap new opportunities for special advertising sections in the magazine.

The job reductions involve mostly support staff positions. The people in those jobs will receive severance packages worth up to two years' pay, depending on the employee's length of service. They also will receive outplacement counseling and assistance.

Reader's Digest is the nation's largest paid circulation magazine. With a monthly circulation of 16.25 million, and about 50 million readers, only top-rated TV shows reach a larger audience.

The magazine's advertising campaign promotes the power of those 50 million people by stressing that if its readers were not allowed to buy popular products, such as Honda or Ivory soap, the brands would lose their best-selling positions.

The U.S. Reader's Digest ended its fiscal year on June 30 with record profits, although the company does not release figures because it does not break out profits for individual editions of the magazine. There are 39 editions published in 15 languages and read by more than 100 million people in every country in the world. Worldwide, the magazine had a total operating profit of $61.6 million in the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1989.

The U.S. magazine also is enjoying a strong year for advertising page sales, despite a generally flat market overall. For the nine-month period January through September, Reader's Digest paid advertising pages are up 30 pages over the same period a year earlier. The magazine's advertising closing date is 60 days before the issue date, which accounts for the longer period than reported by Publishers Information Bureau.

Reader's Digest Association is a global publisher of magazines, books and music and one of the world's leading direct marketers. World headquarters is in Pleasantville.

DETROIT (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Legislation being proposed in Congress for new taxes on energy would increase by as much as $1 billion per year the cost of Michigan's energy-intensive manufactured products, William T. McCormick Jr., Consumers Power Company's chairman and chief executive officer, warned today.

McCormick called both the proposed Btu (British thermal unit) and carbon energy taxes "regressive and inequitable to energy-intensive manufacturing states such as Michigan." He said such taxes, currently being discussed as part of federal budget negotiations, "would have a severe and damaging impact on the Michigan economy which has already paid a painful price to achieve new operating efficiencies in the past decade."

Consumers Power's chairman stressed that Michigan is among the top 10 states in overall energy consumption in the nation due to all the heavy manufacturing done in the state. A $1 billion per year "tax increase" would, McCormick emphasized, "adversely affect employment in the state and would contribute to further eroding both U.S. global competitiveness and our trade deficit situation since Michigan is the fourth-largest foreign exporting state." Michigan's total energy consumption is greater than the combined consumption of Maine, North Dakota, Montana, New Hampshire, Hawaii, Delaware, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont and the District of Columbia, McCormick said.

McCormick also said that the proposed energy taxes would "work a real hardship on Michigan's low-income and elderly fixed-income gas and electricity customers who are the least able to pay such taxes.

"Many of these people are already confronting 'heat or eat' decisions. Further burdening them with such regressive taxes would be absolutely unconscionable," McCormick said.

McCormick called the proposed energy taxes "uneconomic, regressive and inequitable," stressing that they "would be shortsighted public policy for both our state and the nation."

According to reports from Washington, D.C., the Bush administration and the Congress are considering a broad-based new tax on energy to help reduce the budget deficit. The tax would apply to various sources of energy, including gasoline, natural gas and oil and could raise an estimated $20 billion a year.

McCormick called upon Michigan's Congressional delegation, Gov. James Blanchard, Michigan legislative leaders and the state's largest industrial firms to vigorously oppose the enactment of any such energy taxes.

Consumers Power Company, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy Corporation (NYSE: CMS), is Michigan's largest utility serving almost 6 million of the state's 9 million residents in 67 of the 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

Sales for the six months ended June 30, 1990, were $230,133,000 compared to $204,348,000 for the same period in 1989.

The sales increases are attributed to increased shipments of commercial products in U.S. and international markets, along with higher shipments under U.S. government contracts. WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - First Eastern Corp. (NASDAQ: FEBC) today reported earnings per share for the second quarter ended June 30, 1990, were 19 percent lower than the comparable 1989 quarter, but 18 percent higher than the first quarter of 1990.

"While net interest income and other income increased and the growth in other expenses was held to 6 percent, an increase of 124 percent in the provision for possible credit losses reduced net income by 16 percent when compared to the second quarter of 1989," Richard M. Ross, Jr., chairman and CEO stated.

He added that the provision for loan losses was increased to recognize a higher level of loans outstanding, a modest increase in nonperforming loans and the effects of the current economic softness of some of First Eastern's borrowers. The reserve for possible credit losses as a percentage of loans and leases climbed from 1.11 percent at the end of the first quarter of 1990 to 1.19 percent at the end of the second quarter.

"Although our local real estate market has not been affected to anywhere near the same degree as New England and New Jersey, common sense says that eastern Pennsylvania is not altogether insulated from the problems of our neighbors," according to Ross.

During the second quarter, the company completed the acquisition of nine branch offices of Atlantic Financial and the related deposits. This acquisition, along with the merger with First National Bank of Wyoming, Pa., fueled much of the 13 percent deposit increase during the quarter ended June 30, 1990. Total assets increased 11 percent while loans and leases increased 6 percent.

As a percentage of total loans and leases, nonperforming loans increased to 1.67 percent from 1.52 percent at the end of the first quarter. Total nonperforming assets increased by 10 percent from the first quarter levels. The reserve for possible credit losses represented 161 percent of nonaccrual loans at June 30, 1990, compared to 164 percent at March 31, 1990. Primary capital to assets was 8 percent at quarter end, well above regulatory requirements.

TAMPA, FL (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Hillsborough Holdings Corporation today announced that Judge William J. Castagna of the United States District Court for the Middle District of Florida, Tampa Division, has adopted a recommendation submitted to the Court in April by Chief Bankruptcy Judge Alexander L. Paskay.

Judge Paskay's order had recommended denial of motions brought on behalf of certain asbestos claimants to have the Bankruptcy Court abstain from deciding a declaratory judgment action filed by Hillsborough and certain of its affiliates. The declaratory judgment action seeks to determine, among other things, whether or not Hillsborough and its subsidiaries are liable for asbestos-related claims against The Celotex Corporation, a former Hillsborough subsidiary.

As a result of the District Court's decision, absent any reversal on appeal, the Bankruptcy Court is empowered to rule on a motion for summary judgment which Hillsborough and its affiliates have said that they intend to file in the declaratory judgment action.

In addition, the District Court declined to rule on the asbestos claimants' motion that the District Court, rather than the Bankruptcy Court, try certain claims in the declaratory judgment action until after the Bankruptcy Court rules on Hillsborough's summary judgment motion.

MINNEAPOLIS (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Fingerhut Companies Inc. (NYSE: FHT) announced second quarter 1990 net earnings of $8.8 million, or 36 cents per share, a $4.2-million increase over second quarter 1989 earnings. Net revenues for the second quarter of 1990 were $263 million, compared with $242 million for the same period in 1989. For the first six months of 1990 total net revenues were $484 million, compared with net revenues of $463 million for the same period of 1989 and net earnings were $16.4 million, or 66 cents per share, compared with 1989 first half net earnings of $8.8 million.

Ted Deikel, Fingerhut's chairman and chief executive officer, stated, "The operating efficiencies implemented earlier this year continue to positively impact earnings. Changes in order handling and fulfillment have resulted in faster shipment of merchandise and an overall improvement in customer service."

The company also announced that it has declared its first quarterly cash dividend in the amount of 8 cents per share, payable on Aug. 13 to the shareholders of record at the close of business on July 27.

"This dividend is consistent with our plans when we went public and is indicative of the confidence we feel in the future earning power of the company," said Deikel.

FRESNO, CA (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - ValliCorp Holdings Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: VALY) today announced record earnings for both the second quarter and first six months of 1990 based on higher returns on average assets and improved asset quality.

According to J. Mike McGowan, executive vice president and chief financial officer, "Net income for the second quarter was $693,000 ($.16 per share) compared to $210,000 ($.11 per share) in 1989. The 230 percent increase in quarterly earnings reflects the partial attainment of the benefits associated with the merger of Fresno Bank of Commerce into Bank of Fresno and the addition of Merced Bank of Commerce, N.A., in 1989. While we have made significant strides, it will take a few more months to fully relize the operating, data processing and other associated overhead benefits."

For the six months ended June 30, 1990, net income was $1,267,000 ($.30 per share) compared to $531,000 ($.26 per share) for the same period in 1989. This represents a 139 percent increase in net income and a 15.4 percent increase in net income per share. Average shares outstanding during the first six months were 4,134,396.

Compared to June 30, 1989, total assets grew by 82 percent to $356,296,000 total loans increased by 87 percent to $243,792,000, and total deposits expanded by 78 percent to $321,001,000. The growth in comparative totals was principally the result of the combination. Total assets have seasonally declined by 2 percent from Dec. 31, 1989. Stockholders' equity is $29,591,000, or $7.14 per share, reflecting a primary capital to assets ratio of 8.67 percent.

The company's net interest margin increased to 5.91 percent during the first six months of 1990 from 5.63 percent in the same period 1989. The company also reduced overhead as a percent of total average assets to 4.58 percent from 4.75 percent. This was primarily the result of economies gained through the merger. Return on average assets during the first six months increased to .74 percent from .56 percent. In contrast to these improved trends, return on average equity declined to 8.80 percent from 9.55 percent. This decline resulted from the heavily capitalized position of one of the predecessor institutions. Management anticipates that the return on equity will improve during 1990.

"The first six months of combined operations was a period of great progress," stated John W. Brocks, president and chief executive officer. "We successfully focused on upgrading underwriting standards and the quality of our asset base which is reflected in net charge-offs declining from $333,000 in 1989 to a positive or net recovery of $93,000 in 1990. Furthermore, non-performing assets declined from 3.95 percent of total assets at June 30, 1989 to 1.57 percent at June 30, 1990. We are convinced that our strict underwriting standards, multilevel credit reviews and management of the declinquent and marginal loans are the keys to asset quality. We have dedicated the resources necessary to maintain and improve the quality of our assets."

Brocks noted further that, "While ValliCorp believes the Central Valley economy will outperform the rest of the country, the company will continue to maintain a conservative posture in its lending policies. We believe at this time that the dynamic valley economy will enable us to reach our growth objective in total assets of $500 million in 1991 without dilution to stockholder value. Our objective is to be the dominant local financial institution through a confederation of independent banks which stretches from north of Bakersfield to south of Stockton."

ValliCorp is a multibank holding company with two bank subsidiaries: Bank of Fresno and Merced Bank of Commerce. ValliCorp is California's only regional independent bank holding company headquartered in Fresno -- the heart of California's central San Jaoquin Valley.

CHICAGO (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Stone Container Corp. (NYSE: STO) and Waste Management of North America Inc. (NYSE: WMX) today signed an agreement forming a paper recycling joint venture that is expected to become the world's largest marketing enterprise for recycled paper.

The new company will have exclusive rights to all the uncommitted baled paper fiber collected by Waste Management's Recycle America(R) and Recycle Canada(R) programs. Stone Container will purchase all of its recycled fiber needs through the new marketing company.

Commenting on the venture, William P. Hulligan, president, Waste Management of North America, said, "Last year, we recycled approximately one-half-million tons of paper. By 1993, we expect to recycle five times that amount. Because it is essential that we develop markets for the materials we are recovering, it was natural for us to enter into this joint venture. We expect this enterprise will be a major step forward in paper recycling."

Morty Rosenkranz, executive vice president, Stone Container Corp., commented on his company's need for this partnership. "The timing of this joint venture is excellent. In 1990, our 24 mills around the world will utilize almost two million tons of waste paper, most of which will be old corrugated containers and old newspapers," Rosenkranz noted.

Total U.S. waste paper recovery in 1988 was 26.2 million tons. Projected recovery for 1995 is 39.3 million tons.

Howard Ingram, president of the new marketing company, emphasized the worldwide nature of demand for recycled fiber. "In addition to U.S. needs foreign markets have created a major demand for recycled fiber from the United States. Foreign demand for U.S. recycable paper has grown from 2.6 million tons in 1983 to approximately six million tons in 1989. We have projected a minimum of 10 percent growth of foreign annual demand for each of the next five years," he said.

Stone will be the major purchaser of the old corrugated and old newspapers both domestically and internationally. The new venture will also sell in the United States and export to customers worldwide.

"Under terms of this partnership," said Ingram, "Stone has granted us the exclusive right to their recycled fiber supply not used internally and Waste Management has given us an exclusive right to market their uncommitted recycled fiber supply. The combination of these two factors, plus our new organization's experience in recycling, positions us to become the world's leading marketer of recycled fiber in the very near future. My staff and I look forward to the challenge."

Ingram, who is Stone Container's vice president of recycled fibers and will also be president of the new company, will report to a management committee composed equally of Stone Container and Waste Management of North America personnel.

Headquartered in Atlanta, the new venture expects to establish offices on the West Coast and in the Northeast.

Waste Management of North America's Recycle America(R) and Recycle Canada(R) programs comprise North America's largest network of residential recycling programs serving 1.8 million households in 253 cities. In addition, 200 of WMNA divisions operate commercial recycling programs and the company manages 50 recycling centers.

Headquartered in Chicago, Stone Container is a major producer and converter of unbleached packaging products. Its product line includes containerboard, corrugated containers, kraft paper, paper bags and sacks, newsprint, market pulp, flexible packaging, packaging systems and natural gas.

CLEVELAND (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Society Corporation (NASDAQ: SOCI), a $15.6 billion asset Ohio-based financial services company, today reported earnings of $1.20 per share for the second quarter of 1990, bringing results for the first six months of the year to $2.36 per share. Net income was $39.9 million and $80.3 million for the respective periods.

Society's results for 1989 have been restated to reflect the Jan. 5, 1990 merger of Trustcorp, Inc. into Society, which was accounted for as a pooling of interests. Trustcorp in the second quarter of 1989 recorded a loan loss provision of $96.6 million which caused an after- tax loss for the quarter of $88.6 million and for the six-month period of $81.5 million. Because of the loss at Trustcorp, Society's restated results for 1989 are a loss of $60.0 million or $1.69 per share for the second quarter and a loss of $25.4 million or $0.74 per share for the six months. Society originally reported in 1989 net income of $1.20 per share for the second quarter and $2.35 per share for the six months.

Robert W. Gillespie, chairman and chief executive officer, stated, "1990's second quarter was favorable both in terms of reported operating results and in terms of progress in realizing the potential synergies of the Trustcorp merger. Among the positive factors was a slight improvement in net interest income when compared to 1990's first quarter. This occurred even though ongoing restructuring of the asset mix at the former Trustcorp banks is constraining consolidated loan and earning asset growth.

"Plans to capture productivity gains through expense and revenue synergies flowing from the Trustcorp merger remain ahead of schedule," continued Gillespie. "Our progress in integrating Trustcorp can be measured in part by trends of noninterest expenses. For 1990's second quarter such expenses totaled $147.5 million, compared to $152.9 million for the year earlier quarter and $149.8 million for 1990's first quarter."

Nonperforming loans at June 30, 1990, totaled $181.6 million, compared to an allowance for loan losses of $167.3 million. The allowance equaled 92.1 percent of nonperforming loans and 1.61 percent of total loans, essentially unchanged from 90.1 percent and 1.59 percent, respectively, at March 31, 1990. Net loan charge-offs for the quarter were $16.4 million, down substantially from $25.2 million in the first quarter. For the first six months of 1990 net charge-offs equaled .80 percent of average loans.

Society had 33,032,012 common shares outstanding at June 30, 1990. On July 9, the company announced an increase in the limit of its previously announced share repurchase program from 750,000 shares to 1,100,000 shares. The shares will be purchased in the open market and through negotiated transactions. The timing and amount of the share purchases will depend on market conditions. The shares purchased will be available for issue on the exercise of stock options and for other corporate purposes. To date in 1990, the comapny has acquired 748,300 shares under this program.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - The Oversight Board approved a plan that will allow the Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC) to provide, on a trial basis, financing for up to $2 billion of bulk sales transactions of RTC assets.

To facilitate sales of assets, the RTC will identify blocks of assets, including groups of commercial loans (both performing and non-performing), commercial properties, multifamily residential properties, and multifamily residential loans (both performing and non-performing). These groups of assets will then be sold in bulk packages.

The Oversight Board expects the bulk sales technique to expedite the movement of large blocks of commercial loan and real estate assets into private hands with sufficient private capital at risk. The terms of the transactions will shift to the private sector the responsibility for and cost of managing, maintaining and selling the assets, and will provide significant incentives for the maximization of asset recoveries. In addition, the government will share in the profits.

"The board is supportive of the RTC using the private sector in bulk sales transactions, particularly when the RTC can share in the upside gains in asset collections," said Peter H. Monroe, president of the Oversight Board. "This pilot program will provide us with a good opportunity to test the market for bulk sales of commercial properties and loans, which are among the RTC's most difficult assets to manage and sell."

In approving the RTC's proposal, the Oversight Board provided limited exceptions from certain provisions of its seller financing policy. To permit the RTC to experiment with the bulk sales technique, the Oversight Board exempted the trial transactions from the provision of the Strategic Plan that limits the use of seller financing to real estate assets.

The bulk sales technique may be used during the trial period for multifamily properties that are subject to the affordable housing provisions of the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act of 1989 (FIRREA).

PHILADELPHIA (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - HEM Research, Inc., announced today that the lawsuit which the DuPont Company has brought against it has been dismissed under the terms of a settlement between the parties. The litigation arose out of the parties' joint venture to develop Ampligen, an anti-viral drug owned by HEM. In total, the settlement is valued by HEM at substantially more than $5 million.

The joint venture was canceled by DuPont in 1988 following the termination of a major AIDS clinical trial. HEM subsequently determined that patients in that trial, all of whom received Ampligen administered from plastic IV bags obtained from DuPont, did not respond because the drug interacted with the plasticizer in the IV bags, causing Ampligen's bioactivity to be substantially impaired. All AIDS patients treated with Ampligen administered from glass bottles, some up to four years, have responded positively.

DuPont filed its suit against HEM on April 4, 1989. DuPont sought in excess of $30 million from HEM in this suit. Under the terms of the settlement, DuPont will pay HEM $2.75 million. In addition, DuPont will re-convey 2.7 million shares of HEM stock back to HEM. DuPont will also give up all its rights to Ampligen under the parties' joint venture agreement, including first refusal rights and royalty rights.

In a separate development, HEM also announced that the litigation which was filed by Peter M. Frost against HEM's chief scientist, William A. Carter, has been dismissed at Frost's request. That litigation was brought in Philadelphia Federal Court on May of 1989. No payment of any kind was made by Carter to Frost in connection with the dismissal of this case.

"We are very pleased by the favorable outcome of both of these cases, and we are particularly happy that the groundless allegations made against Dr. Carter have been completely disposed of," said E. Paul Charlap, HEM's chairman and CEO. "We can now move forward to aggressively continue our clinical testing of Ampligen as a potential treatment for a variety of illnesses, including AIDS, cancer, chronic fatigue syndrome and hepatitis. It is imperative that these tests be conducted as quickly as possible, so that the great potential which we firmly believe this drug has in the fight against these dread diseases can be scientifically established."

HEM Research is a biomedical and pharmaceutical company with executive offices in Philadelphia and Tavernier, Fla., and a research and development center in Rockville, Md. The company recently expanded its clinical trials of Ampligen in the United States for the treatment of patients with chronic hepatitis B infection, cylomegalovirus and chronic fatigue syndrome. In addition, HEM recently obtained Irish Ministry of Health approval to initiate investigative clinical trials of Ampligen in Ireland for the treatment of both pediatric and adult patients with AIDS related immune disorders.

PORTLAND, Ore. (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - The following statement was issued by Mark Rey, American Forest Resource Alliance executive director, in response to the adoption of rules by the California Board of Forestry curtailing timber harvests on private lands to protect the northern spotted owl:

"The projection by a group of distinguished economists and sociologists that the Jack Ward Thomas report would apply to both private and public lands was greeted with skepticism by several members of Congress and representatives of the environmental special interests. Nevertheless, the California board relied heavily on the Thomas report in its decision.

"This is one case where we don't enjoy saying, 'We told you so.' But we told you so. Our study team's estimate of the California impacts were based on an earlier version of the board's rules, which were largely unchanged.

"Furthermore, last Friday the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service issued guidelines for use by private land owners and state forestry agencies which specifically urged the state agencies to consider implementation of the Thomas report as the conservation strategy for the northern spotted owl.

"We stand squarely behind the projections of the distinguished panel of economists and sociologists. Their estimate of 102,000 lost jobs has been reinforced by the actions of the California Board of Forestry and the Fish and Wildlife Service."

SEATTLE (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - The Federal Home Loan Bank of Seattle (FHLB) and Pacific First Bank have teamed up with community organizations, nonprofit housing agencies and housing developers to create or preserve over 130 units of lower-income housing in the Puget Sound region, FHLB said today.

Through four programs, 33 units of affordable housing in Tacoma's Hilltop neighborhood will be created, and 99 units will be created or preserved in Seattle's First Hill, International District, and Capitol Hill sections.

Federal Home Loan Bank of Seattle (FHLB) President James R. Faulstich announced today that partial funding for the four programs will be provided through the FHLB's Affordable Housing Program. Through the Affordable Housing Program, member financial institutions such as Pacific First Bank can borrow funds from the FHLB at below-market rates, or receive direct subsidies, to support housing developers and community organizations in developing homeownership and rental housing programs targeted to lower-income families. The Affordable Housing Program was introduced by the FHLB this year.

The four programs are: TACOMA'S HILLTOP NEIGHBORHOOD - Financing provided by the FHLB's Affordable Housing Program and Pacific First Bank will assist the Martin Luther King Housing Development Association (MLKHDA) with acquiring and rehabilitating single family and multi-family sites to provide 30 units of rental housing. With the units located on various sites in the Hilltop neighborhood, MLKHDA will achieve affordable housing for lower-income or homeless families while avoiding the high-density properties commonly associated with low-income project housing. Other funding sources for this project include the City of Tacoma Community Development Block Grant Program and the Simpson Trust. The project is expected to be completed by June 1991.

SEATTLE'S FIRST HILL - The FHLB's Affordable Housing Program and Pacific First Bank will finance a distinctive program combining low-income housing and historic preservation. The Historic Seattle Public Development Authority will soon complete rehabilitation of the last of six homes it acquired on Seattle's First Hill. Located on Belmont and Boylston Avenues, the houses underwent major renovation and will now be used to provide 47 units of rental housing for extremely low- and low-income households. Other funding sources for this project include Security Pacific Bank, the City of Seattle, and the National Trust For Historic Preservation.

SEATTLE'S CHINATOWN/INTERNATIONAL DISTRICT - Funds to assist housing developer Paul Chow in renovating a deteriorated hotel into 22 units of low-income rental housing will be provided through Pacific First Bank and the FHLB's Affordable Housing Program. Located at 618 1/2 South Weller Street, the building is in the historical core of Seattle's Chinatown/International District and was built in the early 1900s. The 22 apartments will be on the second and third floors of the building, and the first floor will be retail space. The project is expected to be completed by February 1991. Other funding sources for this project include the City of Seattle.

SEATTLE'S CAPITOL HILL - The Capitol Hill Housing Improvement Program (CHHIP) will purchase and rehabilitate the 30-unit Melrose Apartments with funding provided by Pacific First Bank and the Affordable Housing Program. Located at 1520 Melrose Avenue near the Washington State Convention & Trade Center, the building currently provides housing for low-income individuals but is in need of substantial renovation. Once CHIIP acquires the building, improvements to the roofing, plumbing, electrical and security systems will be made and building access for the disabled will be enhanced. All existing residents will have a unit in the building without a rent increase. Other funding sources for this project include the Local Initiatives Support Corporation, Washington State Housing Trust Fund, and the City of Seattle.

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Seattle is a stockholder-owned wholesale bank providing credit and correspondent banking services to housing lenders. The Bank's mission is to promote the availability of housing finance and consumer financial services, and to support housing lenders' efforts to compete successfully in their chosen markets. CRESWELL, OR (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - It has come to the attention of Golden State Capital Corp. (OTC "Pink Sheets") that statements of its subsidiary's Con-Tech Industries Inc. manufacturing and profit projections have been published by various news sources, Golden State Capital said today. Neither Golden State Capital Corp., nor its subsidiary have published profit or manufacturing projections and will not endorse claims that have not yet been actualized. Con-Tech Industries Inc. manufactures the product Future Flush that saves water used in toilets by using a dual flush mechanism which provides a short flush for liquid wastes and paper, and a full flush for solid wastes. Savings of up to 70 percent of the water used in toilets can be achieved while maintaining service quality and reliability of existing toilets and without causing any material lifestyle change. Given that an estimated five out of every six flushes are for liquid wastes only, and that liquid wastes require up to 75 percent less water to flush out than solid wastes, Future Flush can generate substantial water savings to the consumer.

Con-Tech Industries Inc. was acquired by the publicly-held company Golden State Capital Corp. on May 25, 1990. Golden State provided an infusion of capital that will assist Con-Tech Industries Inc. in meeting the demand for the dual flush device in the market place. Golden State also brings significant management experience to the company. Randel Perkins, founder of the Perkins companies, a merchant banking and financial services company out of San Diego, is the new chairman of the Board of Directors of Con-Tech Industries Inc. Also joining the Con-Tech Board is Stuart Evey, past president and co-founder of ESPN. Jay Martin, a businessman also of San Diego, has joined the company on a full-time basis and also serves on the Board.

Con-Tech Industries Inc. currently employees 44 people and performs all assembly functions within its 25,000-square-foot facility in Creswell. Future Flush has been shipped to more than 25 states and three Caribbean islands, through promotion by more than 20 manufacturers' representative companies. Entry into the consumer market through retail, wholesale, direct response and mail order is the company's focus for the initial penetration.

Con-Tech's dual flush device is currently being examined by toilet manufacturers as an added value enhancement to their new and existing product line.

CAMBRIDGE, MA (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - T Cell Sciences, Inc. (NASDAQ: TCEL) today issued the following statement:

A protein which can interrupt the activation of a major component of the body's immune system can considerably reduce inflammation and tissue death following a heart attack, an article in the current issue of Science reports. Results of studies of rats administered a "complement blocker", a protein being developed by T Cell Sciences, Inc., showed a 44 percent reduction of the size of myocardial infarction following "reperfusion," the reflow of blood into the heart tissue after the blockage or clot causing the heart attack is removed. The studies published suggest that the complement blocker may be a useful inhibitor of tissue injury in autoimmune and inflammatory diseases.

The complement blocker, a genetically engineered form of a natural human protein, works by blocking the activation of specific proteins within the "complement system," a critical component of the body's immune response. If activated, the complement proteins kill cells and signal other parts of the immune system to destroy injured cells. In a heart attack the complement proteins are activated in response to damage to heart tissue cells resulting from a lack of oxygen caused by a clot. Temporarily inhibiting complement activation can allow many of the injured cells to recover. In addition to damaging heart tissue during reperfusion, the complement system causes tissue injury in autoimmune disease models, including certain types of arthritis and myasthenia gravis, as well as non-immune injury such as burn and ischemia.

The article, "Soluble Human Complement Receptor Type 1: In Vivo Inhibitor of Complement Suppressing Post-Ischemic Myocardial Inflammation and Necrosis," is authored by Harlan F. Weisman, Thomas Bartow, Michelle K. Leppo, Michael P. Boyle, Myron L. Weisfeldt, and Douglas T. Fearon of the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, Henry C. Marsh, Jr., Gerald R. Carson of T Cell Sciences, Michael F. Concino formerly of T Cell Sciences, Inc., and Kenneth H. Roux of Florida State University.

"Our complement blocker could prove to be therapeutically useful in treating several major diseases affecting in the aggregate more than 10 million people annually worldwide," said James D. Grant, chairman and chief executive officer of T Cell Sciences, Inc. "Animal studies are currently being conducted to determine the drug's ability to limit heart damage which occurs following a heart attack. We anticipate the filing of an Investigational New Drug submission to the FDA in late 1991 and the initiation of human clinical trials soon thereafter."

T Cell Sciences is the exclusive worldwide licensee of the complement blocker, cloned by Douglas Fearon of the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, and Dr. Lloyd Klickstein and Dr. Winnie Wong of Brigham & Women's Hospital in Boston.

T Cell Sciences is developing this product through a joint development program with SmithKline Beecham Pharmaceuticals and Yamanouchi Pharmaceutical Co., Ltd.

Using proprietary T Cell receptor and soluble receptor technology, T Cell Sciences, Inc. is developing pharmaceutical products to treat heart disease and autoimmune diseases as well as products for diagnosing and monitoring immune system disorders and cancer. Located in Cambridge, Massachusetts, the company currently markets products to the scientific community and an FDA approved test kit to the diagnostic market.

MIAMI (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Finally a justice system that eliminates duplication of effort, therefore increasing productivity while saving tax dollars and better serving the public by helping stop crime. Nixdorf Comuter Corporation of Burlington, Mass., today released its Criminal Justice Information System (CJIS) at the National Association of Counties Annual Conference at the Fontainebleau Hilton.

"CJIS is the latest release in a group of integrated software solutions for justice system professionals. CJIS has already proven itself to be efficient and effective in court systems," Norm Larsen, Nixdorf Computer's government director said. "CJIS not only helps these professionals perform their daily jobs better, but it helps justice systems tackle the issues plaguing them: reducing the mountains of paperwork they are producing and, even more importantly, tracking and stopping multiple offenders, thus serving due process."

Nixdorf CJIS is the answer to the public's pressure to streamline the justice system. The key to CJIS is integration. Powered by Nixdorf's Targon supermicro and superminicomputers, CJIS can unite all the judicial agencies in a county and between counties throughout a circuit into one integrated network. Currently, CJIS modules are running successfully in New Hampshire, New York, Ohio and Florida.

The Eighth Judicial Circuit in Florida is running the first totally integrated CJIS network. "We wanted to install our CJIS and have it running successfully before we announced its availability. The Eighth Judicial Circuit, with six counties including Alachua and Levy, offered us the opportunity to prove that CJIS can integrate an entire circuit: the courts and related departments, law enforcement departments, jails, public defenders and district attorneys," Larsen said.

NEW YORK (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - ISS International Service System, Inc. (AMEX: ISI) announced today that the company's board had approved the increased proposal of ISS International Service System A/S, Copenhagen, Denmark to acquire the approximately 1.3 million shares of the company not owned by it at $12 per share through a cash merger.

The company said that its board had approved the proposed merger today following the presentation to it of the favorable recommendation of the special committee of directors unaffiliated with ISS A/S the board appointed in this connection and the opinion of Shearson Lehman, the independent investment bankers retained by the special committee.

The company said that it hoped to have a special meeting of stockholders to act on the merger agreement in September and, subject to the requisite approval of the unaffiliated stockholder vote, to close the merger immediately thereafter.

ISS A/S originally proposed on May 7 to acquire the shares not owned by it at $10 per share cash merger price. As the company announced on June 28, after being informed that the special committee had concluded that the initial offer was not acceptable, ISS A/S determined to increase the proposed price to $12 per share, but advised the company that the offer would not be increased but would be withdrawn if not accepted.

POUGHKEEPSIE, NY (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Sono-Tek Corporation (NASDAQ: SOTK), manufacturers of unique ultrasonic nozzle spray systems, today reported that for the first fiscal quarter ended May 31, 1990, it registered a loss of $189,864, or 5 cents per share on revenues of $396,041, compared to net earnings of $125,336, or 3 cents per share, on revenues of $669,566 for the first fiscal quarter ended May 31, 1989. The decrease in revenues resulted from a decrease in sales to a major customer compared to sales made to this customer in the same period of the prior fiscal year. However, although there can be no assurances, the company believes that significant sales to this customer during the balance of the current fiscal year will be realized. Another factor adversely affecting sales was the formulation of new marketing strategies that have required the company's sales personnel to focus on development and training rather than on direct selling.

SHAMOKIN, Pa. (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Central Pennsylvania Financial

Corp. (NASDAQ: CPSA) today announced earnings for the year ended March 31, 1990, amounted to $3,667,000.

John M. O'Brien, president, in announcing the year-end earnings, noted a decrease when compared to 1989. Earnings per share for 1990 were $1.80 compared to $2.20 for 1989. There are an average of 2,042,303 shares outstanding.

He attributed the earnings decline to two major factors. First the commonwealth of Pennsylvania raised the Mutual Thrift Institution Taxes by some 5 percent a year in 1988 based on gross income which created a shortfall of approximately $500,000 over the last three years. Secondly, due to the perceived deterioration of real estate values during the fourth quarter, management said it felt it prudent to add $400,000 to the association's general loan loss reserves, increasing total reserves to $1,286,000.

Profitability ratios maintained their leadership status among peers in the industry with the company registering a .80 percent return on average assets; 9.70 percent return on equity and a capital ratio of 8.16 percent. The capital position of the company is extremely strong and far exceeds the risk-based capital requirements that will be phased in through 1992.

During 1990, the company was faced with a high rate environment due to unfavorable publicity associated with the industry that put pressure on net interest income. Despite this uncertainty, net interest income and net interest spread increased. Net interest spread was 2.58 percent in 1990 compared to 2.43 percent in 1989.

Overall, O'Brien said, the company's financial condition is sound, exceeding industry averages by wide margins. Although 1990 was a year of uncertainties and turbulent conditions in the financial services industry, O'Brien pointed out that stockholders equity increased by $2,942,000 or 8.1 percent to $39,346,000. Deposits grew by 9 percent to $400,179,000 and total assets increased $8,854,000 to $468,249,000. Additionally borrowing from the Federal Home Loan Bank was reduced $21.5 million to $5 million at fiscal year end.

The company, in addition to increasing stockholders equity, continued its quarterly cash dividend policy of $.10 per share and paid cash dividends of $756,000. Additionally a 10 percent stock dividend was paid in December 1989. Book value of the stock was $19.26 at March 31, 1990, compared to $17.83 at March 31, 1989.

O'Brien said fiscal 1990 results are gratifying since the year turned out to be such a difficult year for the industry. However, he added, the company performance will continue to rank among the best in the nation for institutions of comparable or larger size.

The company's annual meeting will be held at the Shamokin office of Central Pennsylvania Savings Association on Aug. 28, 1990, at 10 a.m.

Central Pennsylvania Financial Corp. is a unitary savings and loan holding company. Central Pennsylvania Savings Association and its Hamilton-Reliance Savings Division is the principal subsidiary of the company. KING OF PRUSSIA, PA. (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Universal Health Realty Income Trust (NYSE: UHT) announced today that the trust earned $1,853,931 or $.26 per share during the quarter ended June 30, 1990.

Cash available for distribution in the quarter was $2,778,203 or $.39 per share. On June 29, a quarterly dividend of $.37 per share was paid.

During the six months ended June 30, 1990, net income per share was $.55 and cash available for distribution was $.80 per share. During the six-month period, dividends paid were $.74 per share.

Results for both the quarter and six months ended June 30, 1990, were reduced because of the continuing default of the trust's $13 million mortgage loan investment in a psychiatric hospital. This default reduced the trust's net income and cash flow by $.06 per share in the quarter and by $.12 per share for the six-month period. In early July the trust received a $113,000 payment toward past due interest on this loan and continues to work with the owner of the hospital in efforts to sell assets and return the loan to current status. Despite this default, the trust's balance sheet remains strong, its cash flow remains sufficient to maintain its current dividend rate, and its other investments are performing well.

Also during the quarter, the trust incurred a $137,000 or $.02 per share non-cash expense to adjust its investment in the marketable securities of another healthcare REIT to market value as of June 30, 1990. For the six-month period this non-cash expense was $171,000. The trust's carrying value in the securities has now been written down to $221,000.

Universal Health Realty Income Trust, a real estate investment trust, commenced operations on Dec. 24, 1986. It currently owns eight acute-care, three psychiatric hospitals and one rehabilitation hospital and provides participating mortgage financing for a psychiatric hospital. The trust's shares of beneficial interests are listed on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol UHT.

DAYTON, Ohio (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - KRUG International (NASDAQ: KRUG) today announced its financial results for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1990. Results from continuing operations for fiscal 1990 showed revenues of $89.8 million compared to $84.7 million in fiscal 1989. Earnings from continuing operations were $2.8 million or $.69 per share compared to $3.0 million or $.70 per share in the prior fiscal year. Discontinued operations had a loss of $7.7 million or $1.88 per share in fiscal 1990 compared to a loss of $1.9 million or $.45 per share in fiscal 1989. The net loss was $4.9 million or $1.19 per share compared to net earnings of $1.1 million or $.25 per share for fiscal 1989.

The net loss of $4.9 million for fiscal 1990 was primarily due to additional provisions of $7.7 million for losses relating to discontinued operations. Due to a combination of market and economic factors, the time period required to dispose of the waste equipment businesses was significantly longer than the corporation had estimated. This resulted in additional operating losses in discontinued operations and negatively affected the prices the corporation realized from the disposition of the waste equipment businesses.

The repayment of $7.2 million in debt in fiscal 1990, increases in inventories and accounts receivable, funding of additional operating losses in discontinued operations, and the less than anticipated cash proceeds from the divestiture of the waste equipment businesses have negatively impacted the corporation's working capital, net worth and borrowing capacity. As noted in the corporation's fiscal 1990 audited financial statements, the restructuring of the corporation's domestic bank debt is required to maintain its current business operations.

The corporation currently maintains unsecured, demand lines of credit with its five domestic banks totalling $13.6 million (of which $13.1 million was outstanding on July 13, 1990). The corporation continues to review with its domestic banks a proposal from its lead bank under which the existing U.S. credit lines would be converted into a two-year, secured, revolving credit facility, with greater borrowing capacity than previously available. The corporation maintains bank credit lines in the United Kingdom that are adequate to finance its foreign operations.

The U.S. Aerospace operations are engaged in biotechnological research; and designs, fabricates and maintains automated test equipment, simulation and training systems; and designs and installs local area networks with emphasis on fiber optics. The U.K. Commercial/ Consumer operations manufacture housewares and garden products and distribute leisure marine equipment.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, MI (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Stoneridge Resources, Inc. (NYSE: SRE) reported results of operations for the three and nine months ended May 31, 1990. Revenues for the three months ended May 31 were $52.2 million as compared to $53.0 million during the same period in the prior year. A net loss for the current quarter of $2.2 million, or $0.17 per share, compares to a net loss of $0.5 million, or $.05 per share, in 1989. Revenues for the nine months ended May 31 were $107 million as compared to $128 million during the same period in the prior year. A net loss for the nine months ended May 31 of $8.5 million, or $0.70 per share, compares to a net loss of $1.1 million, or $0.14 per share, in 1989.

Included in the results for the three and nine months ended May 31 are after-tax charges incurred by the company's 52-percent-owned subsidiary,

Orange-co, Inc. (NYSE: OJ) aggregating $1.2 million and $4.8 million, respectively. These charges relate to tree losses resulting from the December 1989 freeze and losses associated with Orange-co's disposition of its investment is Chock Full O'Nuts. Agribusiness revenues for the current three and nine months were adversely impacted by a reduced supply of fruit due to the freeze and the resulting reduction in processing volume.

Results for the current periods include two months of operation attributable to Acceptance Insurance Holdings Inc., the company's insurance subsidiary acquired in April 1990.

Separately, Orange-co announced today it had signed a contract to sell a 200-acre grove in St. Lucie County. This sale is part of the asset restructuring plan previously announced. Most of the remaining 5,400 acres of citrus land which have been designated as being for sale are being actively marketed to numerous interested parties. Orange-co's restructuring plan, when completed, is intended to result in an essentially debt-free company with an improved cash flow and cash position.

ST. PAUL, MN (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Pentair Inc. (NASDAQ: PNTA), the St. Paul-based manufacturer of industrial products and paper, today reported net income of $7.0 million, or 50 cents per fully diluted share, on net sales of $294.9 million for the three months ended June 30, 1990. These results compare to second quarter 1989 net income of $10.3 million, or 80 cents per fully diluted share, on net sales of $303.9 million.

"The effects of a general economic slowdown affecting construction and paper markets were evident in the second quarter," said D. Eugene Nugent, Pentair chairman and chief executive officer. "Soft markets reduced sales opportunities and competitive pricing squeezed margins, resulting in disappointing second-quarter earnings."

In the Specialty Products Segment, Delta International earnings were hurt by slow housing and construction activity and recessions in Brazil and Canada. Porter-Cable Corporation, however, achieved record quarterly sales as a result of successful new product introductions. Though Federal Cartridge sales were down over second quarter 1989, earnings were comparable.

In the General Industrial Equipment Segment, Hoffman Engineering earnings reflected sluggish construction and maintenance activity in the automotive industry, a major market for that subsidiary. F.E. Myers, which in June acquired the name, assets and business of the Expert pump company, recorded second-quarter gains through expansion in consumer markets. Lincoln industrial and Lincoln Automotive performance continued to improve, with the latter recording earnings more than double those of second quarter 1989.

Paper Group earnings were affected by production slowdowns related to union contract negotiations at Niagara of Wisconsin Paper Corporation. Niagara productivity and earnings began to improve steadily after the company reached a new four-year labor agreement in mid-April. The markets served by Niagara and Lake Superior Paper Industries were seasonally soft, but appeared to strengthen as the quarter ended. Market pulp costs, which have put pressure on profit margins, now appear to be on a downward trend. Cross Pointe Paper Corporation experienced record sales and earnings because of unprecedented demand for premium papers made at the Miami mill from recycled fiber and product mix changes at the Flambeau mill.

Pentair, Inc., is a St. Paul, Minn.-based company comprised of 10 businesses which manufacture woodworking equipment, electric power tools, sporting ammunition, electrical enclosures, automotive service equipment, industrial lubrication systems, material dispensing equipment, pumps and paper.

LAKE HAMILTON, FL (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Orange-co, Inc. (NYSE: OJ) announced today that it had signed a contract to sell a 200- acre grove in St. Lucie County. A mid-August closing is expected. This sale is part of the restructuring plan announced previously. Most of the remaining 5,400 acres of citrus land which have been designated as being for sale are being actively marketed to a number of interested parties.

The company also announced results for the third quarter ended May 31, 1990. Sales for the quarter were $39,238,000, down from $52,984,000 reported for the third quarter last year. The company had a net loss before non-operating items for the quarter of $1,731,000 or $0.17 per share compared to a net profit of $218,000 or $0.02 per share in the third quarter of last year.

In addition, there was an after-tax, non-operating, non-cash charge in the third quarter of $1,191,000 or $0.12 per share related to tree loss incurred as a result of the December 1989 freeze. This charge brings the total net loss for the quarter to $2,922,000 or $0.29 per share. Following this quarter's charge, the company does not anticipate any further losses with respect to tree damage.

For the nine months ended May 31, 1990, the company reported sales of $93,982,000 vs. $127,930,000 in 1989, and a net loss before non- operating items of $5,158,000 or $0.51 per share vs. a net profit of $3,067,000 or $0.30 per share in 1989. Including the non-operating, non-cash loss of $4,736,000 or $0.46 per share reported in 1990 relating to freeze damage and the company's sale of its holdings in Chock Full O'Nuts securities, the nine-month loss for 1990 was $9,894,000 or $0.97 per share.

Sales for the current quarter and nine months were adversely impacted by a reduced supply of fruit due to the freeze. Ongoing operating results have been adversely impacted by the resulting reduction in processing volume. In addition, last year's results were favorably affected by certain asset sales and by high levels of bulk FCOJ deliveries to the futures market. In light of reduced supplies and in order to maximize operating margins, the company substantially reduced sales of bulk FCOJ and directed the majority of its product to higher margin value-added product segments.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Autodie Corporation (NASDAQ: ADIE) today reported a net loss of $14.8 million, or $2.89 per share, on sales of nearly $21 million for the third quarter ended May 31, 1990. Those results compared with net earnings of $1.5 million, or 30 cents per share, on sales of $31 million for the third quarter of the prior fiscal year.

For the nine months ended May 31, the company reported a net loss of $19.7 million, or $3.82 per share, on sales of $82.2 million. Those results compare with net earnings of $3.4 million, or 66 cents per share, on sales of $87.6 million for the first three quarters of fiscal 1989.

Sales declined 32.3 percent for the third quarter and 6.2 percent for the nine-month period compared with the same periods last fiscal year.

Autodie President and Chief Executive Officer Joseph N. Spruit said he was deeply disappointed by the loss, noting that problems the company acknowledged in the prior two quarters accelerated during the third quarter.

The quarter was adversely affected by losses due to cost overruns. The programs which were the principal cause of the year-to-date loss have been completed and shipped as of the end of the third quarter.

Autodie experienced its most difficult period in the third quarter. Spruit said, "The company has taken into consideration the added volume of work and greater number of personnel and is taking several steps to correct its problems." It expects to report better results in the fourth quarter.

Among other actions, Autodie has implemented an aggressive cost-containment program and has halted capital acquisition programs. In June, the company began to coordinate its work force with the tooling programs of the automakers and their suppliers.

The company's shop rates have been adjusted to reflect customers' demands for closer tolerances on products. The company has also implemented financial, administrative and manufacturing controls to handle the changing trends in the automotive industry.

As a result of the third-quarter and year-to-date losses, the company did not comply with certain financial requirements in various loan agreements. The company has entered into discussions with its key lenders to reach a long-term solution to this situation and, in the interim, has obtained agreements with those lenders through Aug. 31, 1990.

"We have received cooperation from our customers, lenders and suppliers during this difficult period. They understand that Autodie is uniquely positioned as a leading manufacturer of large-scale tools and dies, and their support is a vote of confidence in our future," said Spruit.

"Although this has been a difficult experience, I know that Autodie will emerge from these troubles a stronger company," Spruit said.

Autodie is a leading manufacturer of large-scale custom stamping dies and injection and compression molds. Autodie and its wholly owned subsidiary, Autobond Corporation, employ about 750 people.

AUSTIN, TX (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Dell Computer Corporation (NASDAQ: DELL) today won the seventh consecutive poll for customer satisfaction with personal computers conducted by PC WEEK over the past three years, leading Toshiba and Zenith in a survey of corporate buyers of 386SX-based laptop systems.

"Our record to date is unbroken: the top award in seven out of seven customer satisfaction polls for personal computers conducted by PC WEEK," said Michael S. Dell, chairman and chief executive officer. "We consistently compete against much larger manufacturers -- and much bigger names in the computer industry -- in the PC WEEK polls. The fact that we have achieved the top award in seven consecutive polls is an important indication that our direct, customer-oriented approach is succeeding."

In the latest poll, PC WEEK asked approximately 200 corporate volume purchasers of laptop systems to rank the computers on several wide-ranging attributes. The Dell System 316LT, Dell's first laptop computer, was voted number one in 11 of the 12 categories.

The system 316LT led its competitors by 20 points (on a scale of 100) for product support accessibility, and by 18 points for product support quality and repair-service availability. The Dell laptop also achieved scores of 90 or higher for overall performance and software compatibility.

"Our excellent combination of superior customer support and product excellence has gained increased recognition in the market," said Joel J. Kocher, senior vice president of U.S. sales and operations. Kocher noted that sales to major corporate, governmental and educational customers represented 45 percent of revenues in Dell's fiscal 1991 first quarter, up from 37 percent of revenues in the comparable, year-ago quarter.

Dell won the top spot in previous PC WEEK customer satisfaction polls for the Dell Systems 325, 316, 310, 386/16 and 200 (twice). Internationally, Dell has ranked number one in several corporate customer satisfaction polls. Dell's international operations employ the same direct-relationship approach to marketing personal computers that the company uses in the United States.

Dell Computer Corporation designs, develops, manufactures, markets, services and supports a complete line of personal computers compatible with industry standards. Dell pioneered the direct marketing of personal computers in 1984. Based in Austin, Dell has wholly owned subsidiaries in the United Kingdom, Canada, Germany, France and Sweden.

DETROIT (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Despite advertisements claiming the support of the Wayne County Commission, 2nd District Commissioner Alberta Tinsley-Williams is speaking out against Comerica Bank's proposed deal with the City of Detroit to build a 30-story office tower at the existing site of Ford Auditorium.

"My opinion on this matter was never sought," said Tinsley-Williams. "The impression that this project has the endorsement of the entire Commission is misleading at best. The issue was not formally addressed in a board meeting, but rather brought up and signed as a proclamation, at a session I was unable to attend."

Because of this, Tinsley-Williams wants to disassociate herself with the opinion of some of her colleagues who support the project.

"If I were given the chance to voice my opinion," she added, "I would have done everything possible to deny Comerica support because theirs is just an unacceptable proposal."

Tinsley-Williams feels that Comerica is being unnecessarily secretive about its plans for the riverfront project and should make its intentions clear.

"Comerica has been extremely silent about the actual building, showing only a makeshift rendering of what it would be like. Generally, with a project such as this one, an actual model with all dimensions would have been put together.

"So the question is, 'Does Comerica really intend to build an office building on this site, and will it really be just 30 stories? Or, is there collusion going on between Comerica and certain city officials?'"

Tinsley-Williams also feels City Council has given in too easily to the unrealistic demands of Comerica and should not be pressured into accepting such a low offer for what is a very desirable plot of real estate.

"Why is Comerica allowed to so boldly dictate to the city and City Council members the terms of the deal?" she asked. "We are not talking about some worthless parcel of land that they are gracious enough to take off our hands; we are talking about a very valuable piece of property.

"And come to think of it," she added, "based on the price they want to pay for it, Comerica is treating it like it is a worthless piece of land. The City of Detroit can do much better for its citizens, and I think they know it."

Bank officials have stated they will move Comerica out of Detroit if they are not given the land and loan on their terms, thus costing the city 1,200 possible jobs, she added.

City Council has used this as an argument for accepting Comerica's offer, but Tinsley-Williams feels they are being inconsistent on the issue of jobs.

NEW YORK (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Liz Claiborne, Inc. (NASDAQ: LIZC) and the United States Shoe Corporation (NYSE: USR) today announced that they have reached an agreement in principle whereby Liz Claiborne will assume responsibility for the operations of the Liz Claiborne shoe business.

As part of the transaction, Liz Claiborne would acquire certain assets of U.S. Shoe's Marx & Newman division for an undisclosed cash purchase price. U.S. Shoe has operated this business since 1981 under a license granted by Liz Claiborne, Inc. As part of the arrangements, U.S. Shoe will act as Liz Claiborne's footwear sourcing representative and will provide distribution support services for an extended period. The decision by Liz Claiborne, Inc. to initiate negotiations was based on its management's desire to further integrate the company's total merchandising and marketing approach for Liz Claiborne merchandise.

"In light of previous transactions with other licensees -- Handbags, Accessories and Fragrances -- Liz Claiborne's strategy toward more complete control of its name became increasingly clear, so its proposal regarding our footwear license came as no surprise," stated Bannus B. Hudson, president and chief executive officer of U.S. Shoe. "The key factors that led to an amicable agreement in principle are Liz Claiborne's willingness to fairly compensate U.S. Shoe and the paramount concern of both companies for continued retailer and customer satisfaction."

"Maintaining a close and ongoing relationship with U.S. Shoe is very important to provide continuity in delivery, fit and quality control so that we can assure that excellent customer service will be maintained," stated Jerome A. Chazen, chairman of Liz Claiborne.

The transaction is planned to become effective Aug. 3, 1990. Ian Wright, current president of Liz Claiborne Shoes, will continue in that position at Liz Claiborne, Inc. The footwear showroom will be relocated to Liz Claiborne's general showrooms at 1441 Broadway in New York City.

COSTA MESA, CA (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Viratek Inc. (NASDAQ: VIRA) today reported a second quarter loss of 12 cents a share compared to a loss of 33 cents a share in last year's second quarter.

The company attributed the loss to reduced royalties from sales of the antiviral drug ribavirin combined with the absorption of some marketing expenses resulting from its profit sharing agreement with SPI Pharmaceuticals.

Ribavirin is authorized in the United States and in 17 other countries, including seven European countries, for the aerosolized treatment of infants and young children hospitalized with severe respiratory tract infection caused by respiratory syncytial virus. It is also authorized in over 30 countries outside the United States for a variety of viral infections, including influenza, hepatitis and herpes simplex virus.

One June 15, it was announced that the Food and Drug Division of the Department of Health of Ireland approved the use of ribavarin capsules to treat patients infected with the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV), CDC groups III and IV A, in order to prevent or delay progression of the disease process to full blown acquired immunodeficiency syndrome (AIDS).

In another development, the company said it and ICN Pharmaceuticals Inc., its parent, agreed to exchange $5 million of advances due to ICN into additional shares of Viratek. The exact number of shares will be based on an estimate of the fair market value on the date of the exchange.

Viratek, listed NASDAQ, is engaged in the discovery and development of new pharmaceuticals based on nucleic acid research.

NEW YORK (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Ampal-American Israel Corporation (AMEX: AIS.A; NASDAQ: AMPLP) announced today that the board of directors of Ampal reviewed the proposed sale of substantially all of the industrial loan portfolios of Ampal's three development banking subsidiaries in Israel to Bank Hapoalim B.M. for their book value of approximately $875 million at Dec. 31, 1989, based upon Bank Hapoalim's June 28, 1990 offer.

Ampal and its development banking subsidiaries have been advised by Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc. and Ben-Shahar Associates of Tel Aviv, Israel, independent investment bankers, that the consideration to be paid by Bank Hapoalim for the loan portfolios is fair. The proposed transaction has been reviewed and found to be fair by independent board committees (consisting of people not affiliated with Bank Hapoalim) of Ampal and each of the development banking subsidiaries and by the board of directors at Ampal and has been approved by the boards of directors of each of the development banking subsidiaries. Ampal has also been advised that the transaction has been approved by the board of directors of Bank Hapoalim.

The offer from Bank Hapoalim, which is valid until Aug. 15, 1990, is subject to the approval of Israeli regulatory authorities and to the execution of a definitive agreement.

Ampal previously announced the commencement, on July 12, of a purported class action in the Supreme Court of the State of New York by three plaintiffs who claim to be holders of Class A stock of Ampal in order to enjoin the proposed sale of the loan portfolios or to set it aside on the grounds that the purchase price is unfair and inadequate. The management of Ampal said it believes that the action is without merit and announced that it intends to vigorously defend against it.

Ampal-American Israel Corporation and its subsidiaries are engaged in industrial, agricultural, real estate, hotel and tourist enterprises in Israel.

EDMONTON, ALBERTA (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - At the request of The Toronto Stock Exchange, Franklin L. Kobie, president and chief executive officer of Dreco Energy Services Ltd. commented on the company's belief as to the recent rise in price of its shares.

Dreco Energy Services released results of operations for the nine months ended May 31, 1990 on July 9, 1990. The results for the nine months reflected a 7 percent increase in revenues to $34,945,000, and a 27 percent increase in earnings to $1,936,000, resulting in a 33 percent increase in earnings per share to $0.40. Also, the company disclosed that an increasing percentage of its revenues were being generated from its downhole products segment with this increase principally generated by the increased fleet of downhole drilling motors utilized in horizontal drilling. The release of the earnings followed an announcement on June 14, 1990 that the company's Class "A" common shares would be included for trading in the NASDAQ system on June 18, 1990. Also, the company previously disclosed its activity in a rig construction contract for the North Sea.

As disclosed in part in the third quarter report: "Share trading prices have continued to reflect a discount from equity per share, and a low multiple of earnings in comparison to other companies in the energy services sector. Management believes that with continuing profitability a market for Dreco shares will develop in a price range more in line with the underlying fundamentals of the business."

The company believes that the increased visibility of the company in the United States investment community arising from the NASDAQ listing, the recognition by the investment community that the company's stock was undervalued in comparison to the stock of other companies in the energy industry sector, and the recent increase in interest in companies involved in horizontal drilling and North Sea operations have resulted in the recent increase in share price.

Dreco Energy Services Ltd., through its subsidiaries designs, manufactures markets and rents drilling equipment, machinery and tools in the drilling and servicing of oil and gas wells.

MCLEAN, VA (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - NVR L.P. (AMEX: NVR) announced today that, based on meetings with its lending banks, it anticipates that its working capital and mortgage warehouse credit facilities will be extended at the current levels at least through Aug. 31, 1990. NVR expects to have such extension in place by Monday, July 23, 1990.

NVR also announced that, due to the soft real estate market and the resulting decline in land values affecting the industry generally, its wholly owned land development subsidiary, NVR Development, has begun to restructure its separate loan obligations. NVR Development said that land development partnerships of which it is general partner did not make interest payments due today on loans for their land acquisition and development projects in Maryland and Virginia. Subsequent interest or principal payments will not be made until restructuring of these loans is completed. In addition, NVR Development said that it is engaged in continuing discussions with the lender under its $10 million unsecured working capital line, which is currently in default. While all of these loans are recourse obligations of NVR Development and its subsidiaries, only approximately $3.4 million are guaranteed by NVR L.P.

NVR L.P. said it is focusing on its core homebuilding and financial services operations, which are financed under the working capital and mortgage warehouse facilities. In addition, NVR's homebuilding operations are adjusting their product offerings and pricing to respond to current market conditions. The partnership said it is evaluating its land development projects (including NVR Development's projects) and is continuing to scale back certain of its homebuilding operations, including those in Florida and the Midwest. The partnership said that it will make provisions against earnings as a result, and that these provisions will cause a net loss for its second quarter ended June 30, 1990.

The partnership also said that it has recently retained the investment banking firm of Wasserstein Perella & Co., Inc. to provide financial advice and the firm of Kenneth Leventhal & Co. to assist in evaluating its real estate portfolio.

HOUSTON (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Commonwealth Mortgage of America L.P. ("CMA") announced today that it has completed the sale of its nationwide loan production operations to United Savings Association of the Southwest FSB ("United Southwest"). The sale included the purchase by United Southwest of over $200 million of CMA's warehouse of mortgage loans, most of CMA's loans in the pipeline, plus certain other assets. During the next six-month period, United Southwest has the option of assuming any or all of CMA's leases and leased equipment and purchasing CMA's owned equipment relating to the production operations. The estimated sales price was approximately $240 million, including amounts attributable to the net book value of assets, with post closing adjustments to be completed as soon as practicable.

The sale to United Southwest is part of a plan to complete liquidation and dissolution of CMA, which was announced on June 22, 1990. Following CMA's announcement of its plan to liquidate, the New York Stock Exchange announced that it will seek to delist CMA's Class A Units from the Exchange. Because of the size of CMA's debt, the preference in liquidation of the Series I Units of CMA and other factors, holders of the Class A Units of CMA are unlikely to receive any liquidating distribution in respect of their Class A Units.

Earlier this year, CMA sold its Federal National Mortgage Association ("FNMA") servicing portfolio to United Savings Association of Texas FSB ("United"). United and United Southwest are both wholly-owned by USAT Holdings Inc. Offers for both the FNMA portfolio and loan origination operation were solicited in a sealed bid process and awarded based on procedures adopted by the Resolution Trust Corporation. Previously CMA also announced that it is seeking offers for its remaining servicing operation.

WATERBURY, Conn. (JULY 16) PR NEWSWIRE - Centerbank (NASDAQ: CTBX) today released its results for the three months ended June 30, 1990. Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Robert J. Narkis announced that operating results, impacted by a $3.1 million provision for loan losses and a $5.4 million provision for losses on Real Estate Owned produced a loss of $5 million or 41 cents per share for the second quarter. This compares to a net loss of $14.6 million or $1.20 per share for the first quarter of 1990.

"There is no doubt that Centerbank continues to be affected by the difficulties of the New England real estate market," stated Narkis. "In this environment, as responsible management, we must be conservative in our evaluation of nonperforming assets. We have continued to monitor carefully our loan portfolio to identify problems and ensure the adequacy of our reserves on a continuing basis."

The additions and charge-offs in the second quarter bring reserves for loan losses to $47.2 million, or 53 percent of nonperforming loans and leases of $88.4 million. Total reserves at the end of the quarter were $52.2 million or 38 percent of non-performing assets. As of June 30, 1990 Centerbank's book value was $15.16, shareholders' equity was $185 million and the equity-to-assets ratio was 10.3 percent, one of the highest in New England.

Established in 1850, Centerbank is the largest independent financial institution headquartered in western Connecticut. It operates from 19 branch offices stretching along the I-84 corridor from Southington to Danbury.

"Pennzoil's announcement that it intends to purchase additional shares of our stock is consistent with Pennzoil's earlier statements that it might use more of the money it received in the Texaco settlement for this purpose.

(JULY 16) UPI - Now that Sparky Anderson has his 1,800th career victory, he would like to reach his goal of 2,000 before becoming an old man.

The 56-year-old manager, who has guided his teams to five World Series, became only the 10th manager in major league history to reach the 1,800-win plateau with Detroit's 3-2 victory Sunday over the Texas Rangers.

''If it takes as long to get 1,900 as it did 1,800, I'll be 75 years old '' Anderson said. ''You know how long it was (from 1,700 to 1,800)? It was a year and a half. Only 59 last year and 42 so far this year.''

Since his arrival in Detroit in 1979, Anderson, the only manager to win 800 games in both leagues, has notched 937 victories with the Tigers. In 1984, Detroit won 104 games en route to the World championship.

Anderson enjoyed even greater success with the Cincinnati Reds from 1970-79. In 1970, his rookie season, the Reds racked up 102 victories and the ''Big Red Machine'' won no fewer than 88 games in eight of his nine years in Cincinnati, winning two world titles.

Anderson, in his 21st season as manager, would like to record 2,000 wins before he retires, a feat that will take approximately three more seasons.

''If you can't do that (2,000) in three years, you've got some rough clubs '' said Anderson, who is 98 victories shy of Bill McKechnie for ninth place on the all-time list. ''I don't know if I could take that.''

The legendary Connie Mack, baseball's all-time leader, managed Pittsburgh and Philadelphia for 53 seasons and compiled 3,776 victories.

Mike Heath hit a two-run homer to cap the Tigers three-run second inning and helped Steve Searcy, 1-0, pick up his second major league victory. Searcy, who was recalled from the minors on July 7, gave up two runs and six hits in 5 1-3 innings. Mike Henneman worked the ninth for his 18th save.

Texas starter Mike Jeffcoat was tagged with the loss and fell to 3-4 as the Rangers had their seven-game win streak halted.

Darnell Coles had an RBI single for the Tigers while Scott Coolbaugh and pinch-hitter John Russell had run-scoring singles for Texas.

Elsewhere in the American League, Kansas City pounded Boston 13-4, Chicago topped New York 8-5, Minnesota slugged Baltimore 10-3, Oakland downed Milwaukee 4-1, Seattle blanked Cleveland 7-0 and California clipped Toronto 3-2.

In the NL, it was: San Diego 4, Pittsburgh 1; Montreal 16, Atlanta 14; Cincinnati 2, New York 1; Chicago 5, Los Angeles 1; Houston 6, Philadelphia 1 and San Francisco 5, St. Louis 3.

(JULY 16) UPI - The British government suffered another possible setback in its relationship with West Germany Sunday. One day after a key minister in Margaret Thatcher's Cabinet stepped down because he made anti-German statements, a British newspaper published a high-level governmental memo that blasted the Germans as insecure bullies.

The memo was written by Prime Minister Thatcher's secretary, Geoffrey Powell. The internal document stemmed from a March 24th seminar which included Thatcher, Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd and six experts on Germany. Among the conclusions made by the group was that the German national character possesses ''angst, aggressiveness, assertiveness, bullying, egotism and an inferiority complex.''

Oregon authorities have identified a man fatally shot Saturday by a police marksman after a hostage standoff. He is 50-year-old John Rhodes Huber... who was killed by police 13 hours after he took a woman hostage in her camper in southwest Oregon. Before the hostage ordeal, Huber killed a man. Officials also have connected the Pennsylvania man to an additional two murders.

Washington state authorities say convicted child-killer Westley Allan Dodd will be able to choose which way he will be put to death if he does NOT appeal the death sentence he received Saturday. Dodd freely admitted to raping and slaying three boys last fall, and has stated he will NOT appeal the sentence. Dodd's options are death by injection or hanging.

(JULY 16) UPI - When Randy Myers was with the New York Mets, he lifted weights, wore military fatigues and was considered a little crazy.

He also threw 90 mile an hour fastballs, something he still does with the Cincinnati Reds. Sunday, Myers faced four batters, struck them all out and preserved the Reds' 2-1 victory over the Mets.

The left-hander, who has saved all six of Cincinnati's victories over the Mets this season, used a mixture of fastballs and sliders, earning his 20th save.

''He is tough on us and he was making great pitches today,'' Mets Manager Bud Harrelson said. ''But he surprised me with his control.''

Myers, who was traded from New York to the Reds last December for another left-handed short reliever, John Franco, said he gets no special satisfaction from fanning his old teammates.

''The Mets are just another team, and it was just another opportunity for me,'' Myers said.

Myers struck out Johnson, the first of his victims, on three pitches with two outs in the eighth, when the Mets had runners on first and second.

''I didn't think Randy was throwing as hard as the last time he faced us '' Johnson said. ''But he was hitting the corners against us today.''

After brushing aside Johnson, Myers sent down Kevin Elster, Tom O'Malley and Todd Hundley in order in the ninth to help the Reds take three games of the five-game set with New York.

Myers wasn't the only Cincinnati pitcher to stymie the Mets Sunday. Norm Charlton, the Reds' starter, retired the first 12 Mets he faced and allowed two hits in six shutout innings.

Charlton, 7-4, was making his first start and he started losing control after his strong start. He threw 37 pitches to shut down the Mets in the first four innings, but made 26 deliveries in the fifth and 23 more in the sixth for a total of 86.

''I was getting the ball up in the sixth and that's a tell-tale sign of being tired,'' he said. ''I liked having Rob (Dibble) and Randy coming in behind me.''

Mariano Duncan and Eric Davis, who accounted for all five of the Reds' hits, combined for both Cincinnati runs. Duncan, who went 3-for-4, doubled in the fourth and scored on Davis's first double.

Then, in the sixth, Duncan led off with a triple and came home on Davis' second double.

Elsewhere in the National League, Montreal outlasted Atlanta 16-14, San Diego snuffed Pittsburgh 4-1, Chicago contained Los Angeles 5-1, Houston bombed Philadelphia 6-1 and San Francisco knocked off St. Louis 5-3.

In the American League it was Detroit 3, Texas 2; Kansas City 13, Boston 4; Chicago 8, New York 5; Minnesota 10, Baltimore 3; Oakland 4, Milwaukee 1; Seattle 7, Cleveland 0; and California 3, Toronto 2.

Expos 16, Braves 14

At Atlanta, Andres Galarraga singled home Mike Fitzgerald with the go-ahead run in the ninth inning of a game that featured 34 hits, eight home runs and seven errors. With the score tied 13-13, Fitzgerald led off by reaching on a two-base error by second baseman Jeff Treadway off loser Kent Mercker, 2-1. Galarraga then singled to score Fitzgerald and help reliever Steve Frey improve to 4-1. Dave Schmidt worked the ninth for his 13th save.

Padres 4, Pirates 1

At Pittsburgh, Ed Whitson scattered four hits over seven innings and Tony Gwynn, Eddie Williams and Jack Clark each hit solo homers to snap the Padres' four-game losing streak. Whitson, 7-6, ended the Pirates' four-game winning streak, allowing one hit over five innings. Craig Lefferts pitched two innings for his 12th save. Neal Heaton lost his third straight and fell to 10-5.

Cubs 5, Dodgers 1

At Chicago, Andre Dawson delivered a pair of RBI singles and Dave Clark drove in two runs with a home run and single to lift the Cubs, ending a six-game losing streak. Steve Wilson, 3-5, struck out 10 in his first complete game. Tim Belcher, 7-7, took the loss.

Astros 6, Phillies 1

At Houston, Danny Darwin scattered eight hits over seven innings and Javier Ortiz sparked a four-run seventh inning to carry the Astros. Ortiz went 3-for-4 with a run scored and two RBI. Darwin, 3-1, struck out five. Jeff Parrett, 3-7, struck out seven but allowed four runs in 6 1-3 innings.

Giants 5, Cardinals 3

At St. Louis, Matt Williams doubled home the go-ahead run in the eighth and Kevin Mitchell belted a two-run home run, leading the Giants, who have won nine of their last 11. Reliever Steve Bedrosian, 4-5, got the victory despite allowing one hit and three walks in the seventh. Jeff Brantley pitched out of a bases-loaded threat in the eighth and worked the ninth for his 15th save. Tom Niedenfuer, 0-4, took the loss.

STOCKTON, Calif. (JULY 16) UPI - Police arrested one suspect and searched for at least two others Monday following a shooting that left two people dead and 12 wounded near the site of a 1989 schoolyard massacre, police said.

The gunmen drove through a taco stand parking lot about 1:30 a.m. Sunday, firing wildly in a shooting spree that may have been triggered by a fight on the property a few minutes before, one victim said.

Police found 14 people sprawled in the parking lot, two of them dead and another 12 wounded. Seven people remained hospitalized Sunday night.

''There were people laying all over the parking lot and a lot of blood,'' Sgt. Edward Williams said. ''It was pretty shocking.''

Frank Johnson, who suffered buckshot wounds in the head, said one of the men involved in the fight, apparently over a woman, left and ''him and his friends came back and started shooting up everybody around the parking lot.''

One suspect was arrested and at least two others were being sought, police spokeswoman Doreen Bostwick said late Sunday. The identity of the suspect arrested Sunday was not released.

The shooting occurred about 4 miles from the site of the Jan. 17, 1989, schoolyard massacre in which five children were killed and 30 others wounded.

In that attack, Patrick Purdy, a 24-year-old drifter who dressed himself in combat gear, opened fire with an AK-47 assault rife during a recess at the Cleveland Elementary School, then committed suicide.

Williams said the shooting Sunday did not appear to be gang-related.

Police said they believed there were at least three gunmen armed with a shotgun, a .30 caliber rifle and a .22 caliber weapon.

Slain by the gunfire were James Gutierrez Perez, 19, and Leobardo Barajas, 18, both of Stockton, the San Joaquin County Sheriff's Department said.

Witnesses told deputies the gunmen, who appeared to be Asian males, rode in a red pickup truck that made two passes at the parking lot before fleeing.

After driving into the lot and opening fire, the truck drove off and returned a short time later and opened fire a second time, deputies said. The parking lot, next to the taco stand, is on the property of a liquor store.

BEIJING (JULY 16) UPI - China launched a rocket carrying a small satellite and simulated payload into space Monday, and the official news agency called it ''major progress'' for the country's infant commercial launch business.

The Long March 2 Cluster Carrier blasted off Monday morning from a new launch pad at the Xichang space center in a remote area of southwest China's Sichuan Province, the official Xinhua news agency reported.

The rocket lifted a small experimental satellite for Pakistan and a simulated satellite payload into orbit. Tracking data indicated the launch was proceeding smoothly, Xinhua said.

''The successful launch marks major progress for China's carrier rocket and launch facilities,'' the Xinhua dispatch said.

The four-booster ''cluster'' carrier is a more powerful version of the Long March 2 rocket that will raise China's payload lifting capability, although there was no indication on how much.

The Chinese entered the space trucking business in early April when it put into orbit from Xichang a U.S.-built communications satellite for a British-Hong Kong-Chinese consortium, the country's first full commercial launch.

China has signed several other agreements for commercial launches, including two communications satellites for Australia and a third for a consortium of Arab nations.

(JULY 16) UPI - Rivers and streams overflowed their banks Monday following storms that dumped up to 3 inches of rain in an hour on parts of south-central Texas, but the threat of floods eased in the East and Midwest after days of rain.

Flash flood watches were in effect in several counties surrounding San Antonio as far north as Austin and Bryan as storms moved eastward, leaving most interstate highways and many secondary roads under water.

Up to 6 inches of rain fell on the towns of Pleasanton and Jourdanton south of San Antonio during storms Sunday night and Monday morning.

The National Weather Service said a storm with golfball-sized hail moved through Dimmit County, along the Mexico border southwest of San Antonio early Monday.

Showers and thunderstorms also moved through southeast Texas and southern Louisiana Monday.

Flood warnings also were posted in the early morning hours in southern Nevada, including Las Vegas and Lake Mead, and a flood watch for southeastern Arizona lapsed at midnight as light rains continued in the already damp area.

Flood watches in western Pennsylvania expired Monday and fog covered the area in anticipation of clear skies for the first time in days and a chance for the soggy ground to dry out, the NWS said.

Little Beaver Creek northwest of Pittsburgh remained high but was expected to begin slowly receding by evening. West Virginia and eastern Ohio had a chance to dry out.

In central Oregon, more than 600 firefighters battled two blazes on forest lands that dramatically increased in size Sunday.

In Malheur National Forest, the Corral Basin Fire almost tripled its size despite the efforts of more than 500 firefighters. About 130 miles to the west in the Deschutes National Forest, the Spring Butte Fire spread from 150 acres to 1,200 acres of privately owned forest land.

Sticky, humid weather hung over New England early Monday, making sleep difficult. In Boston, it was 75 degrees at 2 a.m., but the humidity was 93 percent.

Clouds obscured most of the area, particularly western portions of New England. In Vermont, thunderstorms brought some relief from the oppressive weather.

In the West, clear skies were the order of the day as strong ocean air currents brought cool temperatures to California's Central Valley and the Pacific Northwest.

Scattered showers and cloudy weather kept temperatures at moderate levels in the South, but temperatures began heating up as a dry air mass moved into the region.

Rain in North Carolina last month came too late to save crops in the state's corn fields but may have salvaged tobacco, cotton and soybean harvests. About an inch of rain fell across the state in June, one-fourth the usual amount.

Agriculture officials say almost every corn field in the state suffered from the dry conditions. Experts say the lack of rain came during pollination, a time when the corn crop needed the moisture the most.

But outstanding issues that led to the crisis remain unresolved. The root of the problem appears to be a power struggle between Singh and the deputy prime minister.

The last of the five-thousand refugees who sought asylum in Western embassies in the Albanian capital arrived in France and Turkey yesterday, smiling and waving. One of the refugees, a geologist, told reporters he left the hard-line communist country because there was- ''NO liberty, NO money and NO future.''

More than a dozen hikers injured by lightning on California's Mount Whitney were rescued yesterday. The hikers were hurt Saturday when lightning hit the metal roof of a stone cabin where they took refuge in a fierce thunderstorm. One member of the group was killed by the lightning bolt.

Police in Pakistan say at least 37 people were killed and 155 hurt in a wave of bomb blasts in the southern part of the country. The explosions occurred in a busy market and aboard a passenger train. Officials say they think the attacks are linked to ethnic violence that has killed more than one-thousand in the past four years.

Residents in an eastern state in Malaysia began two days of voting today under tight security. The election is expected to give the ruling party a third consecutive victory. Such a win would deal a sharp blow to the prime minister, who has backed a rival party.

NORTH CONWAY, NH (JULY 16) UPI - Jennifer Capriati captured international attention at the French Open and at Wimbledon, but the 14-year-old phenom had to go to New Hampshire to secure her first pro tournament title.

The top-seeded Capriati defeated veteran Roz Fairbank, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, Sunday to win the $100,000 Mt. Cranmore International Women's Championships.

The crowds were clearly for Capriati, the Florida schoolgirl who became the youngest player to win a match in Wimbledon history when she made it to the quarterfinals before losing to Steffi Graf. Fairbank, who at 29 is more than twice Capriati's age, was all too aware of who the favorite was.

''It was the fairy tale story,'' Fairbank said. ''Everybody wanted Jennifer to win her first title. It's hard when you don't feel the same kind of support for you.''

The tournament does not rank with Wimbledon or any of the other events were Capriati has become the fans' darling, but her first pro win was still a milestone for the teen.

''It definitely ranks high because I won it,'' Capriati said.

Capriati, down 1-0 in the third and deciding set, reeled off three straight games and then served out the match as the third-seeded Fairbank wilted in the steamy, 85-degree weather.

''The sun was unbelievably hot. I don't know if she felt it, but I was ready to die,'' said Fairbank, a South African who now lives in San Diego, and the 25th-ranked woman in the tennis world.

''I'm really used to the heat anyway, because in Florida it's hotter than this right now,'' said Capriati, who lives in Tampa.

Capriati, ranked No. 13, opened slowly in the first set against Fairbank, losing her first service game before recovering.

The two dueled to a 3-3 tie in the second set, but Fairbank proved steadier from the baseline in the crucial seventh game and served out the set to tie the match.

''To be honest, I expected her to hit harder,'' Fairbank said. ''By the start of the second game of the match, I started thinking, 'I can win this.' I hadn't truly believed I could before the match.

''She hit some great shots, but not great shots all the time as I had imagined she would.''

Capriati, who had lost in tournament finals to Gabriella Sabatini in Florida and to Martina Navratilova at Hilton Head, advanced to the finals by beating Susan Sloan in straight sets in Saturday's semifinals. She collected $25,000 for winning on Mt. Cranmore's red clay courts - just her eighth pro tournament. Fairbank, who reached the finals by beating the second-seeded Laura Gildemeister, won $12,500.

Capriati and Fairbank later teamed up to win the doubles final, beating Gildemeister and Kathy Rinaldi, 6-4, 7-6.

BEIJING (JULY 16) UPI - A senior Japanese government official arrived Monday to brief Chinese officials on Japan's decision to resume loan aid to China suspended since the crackdown on dissent last year, the first Western nation to ease its sanctions.

Japanese Deputy Foreign Minister Hisashi Owada, acting as a special envoy for Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu, arrived from Tokyo Monday afternoon and began meetings with Chinese Vice Foreign Minister Qi Huaiyuan, Japanese officials said.

Qi was to host a banquet Monday night for Owada and the Japanese official is to meet Tuesday with Chinese Foreign Minister Qian Qichen, but there were no meetings scheduled with senior Chinese leaders, the officials said.

Owada is briefing the Chinese on Japan's decision to resume gradually its ''yen-loan'' program, with a new package totaling $5.4 billion in largely concessional lending spread out over a five-year period.

The program was suspended along with sanctions imposed by Western nations after China's suppression of the pro-democracy movement in June 1989, when troops fired on unarmed protesters in Beijing after six weeks of demonstrations for greater freedom. At least hundreds of people were killed.

Japan is the first Western nation to ease economic sanctions against Beijing. The countries had suspended high-level political visits, halted military cooperation and blocked new lending, including World Bank loans except for ''human needs'' projects.

Kaifu informed the other nations of the decision at last week's summit of the seven leading industrial democracies in Houston. President Bush declined to ease U.S. sanctions, saying China's human rights record had not yet shown sufficient improvement.

The Japanese have repeatedly cited a ''special relationship'' with China, in what amounts to an official policy of collective national guilt over Japan's invasion and occupation of China during the 1930s and World War II.

Owada is the highest-ranking Japanese official to visit China since last year's crackdown.

Officials said he will advise the Chinese that Japan will gradually release the new loans beginning with public welfare lending and ''untied'' credits, or those not linked to purchases of Japanese goods and services.

Owada is at the same time expected to urge Chinese officials to improve democratization in the country. Chinese leaders have previously spurned all such calls as interference in China's domestic affairs.

Although the Japanese loans are expected to resume later this year, only about $800 million of the package is likely to be freed in the first batch. Other lenders, including commercial banks, have indicated they will continue to be cautious in China.

MIAMI (JULY 16) UPI - For the first time in a decade of escalating drug use, Miami's cocaine epidemic shows signs of weakening, a published report said Monday.

A report by The Miami Herald cited dramatic improvements since 1989 in three leading indicators in southeastern Florida - fewer people are dying of cocaine overdoses, fewer people are being treated in hospital emergency rooms for cocaine-related ailments and more people are being admitted to drug-rehabilitation centers.

''I think we have seen a genuine leveling off of the epidemic,'' said James Hall, executive director of Up Front, a Miami information center on illegal drugs.

From Miami to Fort Lauderdale to Palm Beach, the number of cocaine-induced deaths has dropped to its lowest level in five years.

In Dade County, there were 10 cocaine-induced deaths in the first half of 1990 but 21 in the first half of 1989.

In Broward County there have been four so far in 1990, compared with five at this time last year. Palm Beach County had two cocaine-induced deaths in the first half of 1990 and six at this time last year.

Cocaine-related medical emergencies have also dropped considerably, said Dr. Kathleen Schrank, medical director of the Jackson Memorial Hospital Emergency Care Center.

''We began seeing a big drop-off in late 1988 and it continued last year and early this year,'' Schrank said.

Twenty-three people entered a sampling of nine Dade County emergency rooms with cocaine-related ailments in the last quarter of 1989, the lowest number in any quarter in three years.

Broward County expected similar results in a survey due to be finished in mid-August.

In drug rehabilitation centers in Dade, Broward and Palm Beach counties, twice as many people were being treated in June 1990 as in June 1989, the newspaper said.

The trend follows a marked decrease all over the nation, according to the National Institute on Drug Abuse. In the past year, Los Angeles, Washington and Philadelphia had at least one cocaine-use indicator level off or decline.

But the apparent easing of the cocaine crisis has triggered debate over whether the indicators accurately measure drug use.

Critics warned that the statistics tend to reflect cocaine use by members of the middle-class, who are more likely to seek treatment in hospitals than poor addicts.

''No one can say what is happening with those poor people who lie outside the statistics,'' said Bruce Alexander, an expert on drug abuse and professor of phsychology at Simon Fraser University in British Columbia.

However, many experts said the indicators have always been the best way to survey the cocaine epidemic's intensity.

''All the indicators that were used to say there was a cocaine epidemic in the first place are going down,'' Alexander said. ''The only fair thing is to say the epidemic is subsiding.''

(JULY 16) UPI - Los Angeles commuters are being urged to avoid the Hollywood Freeway this morning and to car-pool to work. Transportation officials announced last night the subway tunnel fire was out and two lanes of the busy roadway would be reopened to traffic.

Crews have been working around the clock to repair underground support beams that were damaged during the underground tunnel fire on Friday. Authorities say two lanes of the busy two-mile-long freeway are in good enough shape to re-open today. The single-lane buslane that runs parallel to the freeway also will be open.

There had been concern the freeway would NOT be able to withstand traffic, but officials say the freeway itself was NOT damaged in the fire. But because the support beams were damaged, reinforcements were needed. Officials note any restoration work will be a temporary measure because the tunnel must be rebuilt.

Fire officials say the cause of the blaze will NOT be investigated until the tunnel is sufficiently reinforced.

Negotiatiors are still trying to resolve a five-day stand-off between Mohawk Indians and Quebec police. Police are preventing food and people from entering the area where a group of heavily armed Indians remain barricaded.

The Mohawks are protesting a golf course expansion project on land they claim is theirs. The site is adjacent to the town of Oka about 25 miles from Montreal.

Last week, the dispute turned violent when police officers staged a failed assault on the Mohawks that left one police officer dead. Police say it may NEVER be known if a police or Mohawk bullet killed Corporal Marcely Lemay.

More than one-thousand police currently are at the scene. And government officials are down-playing reports they are considering bringing in the army to the troubled area. Nearby Indian reservations also are staging road blockades in a show of solidarity with the Mohawks.

(JULY 16) UPI - Thousands of anti-communist demonstrators staged protests in Kiev and Moscow during the weekend, despite a just-concluded Party Congress that approved reformist resolutions.

The biggest gathering was in Moscow, where about 50-thousand pro-democracy demonstrators stood near the red-brick Kremlin yesterday and shouted ''down with the Communist Party.''

Speaker after speaker called on party members to follow the lead of Russian Republic President Boris Yeltsin and quit the party. Many of the speakers also called the party leadership a ''criminal group'' that deserves to be put on trial, just as Nazi Party leaders were tried at Nuremberg after World War Two.

And in Kiev, the capital of the Ukraine, about five-thousand anti-communist nationalists rallied and announced they are forming a union of democratic forces.

(JULY 16) UPI - All the Albanian refugees who sought asylum in Western embassies in the Albanian capital have now left the country.

The last of the five-thousand refugees arrived yesterday in France and Turkey. 543 of them sailed into port in Marseille in southern France aboard the ferry Orient Star. A French official says they're in good shape but are ''very tired.''

As they left the boat, they shouted ''Live a Free Albania'' and ''Long Live France.'' One of them said he left the hard-line communist country because there was- ''NO liberty, NO money and NO future.''

The situation back in Albania apparently is NOT calm. An Albanian living in France spoke with some of the refugees in Marseille, and told French television that demonstrations occurred in several Albanian cities in recent days. He said many people were arrested.

Austrian television says there were clashes Friday between soldiers and pro-democracy demonstrators in the Albanian city of Shkoder . The report said at least seven people were killed.

TOKYO (JULY 16) UPI - Bank of Japan Governor Yasushi Mieno has indicated the Central Bank will keep its monetary policy unchanged while closely watching the effects of the latest four official discount rate hikes on the domestic economy, Bank officials said Monday.

Mieno, speaking at a meeting of the Bank's senior officials, apparently wished to dispel persistent speculation in Japan's financial markets the Bank may soon raise the key interest rate to prevent inflationary pressure.

The Bank has raised the key interest rate charged on loans to commercial banks four times since early last year to reach the current level of 5.25 percent annually.

Mieno indicated the Japanese economy, which is maintaining a healthy and non-inflationary expansion, is not likely to face a downtrend in the immediate future, the officials said.

Japan's continuous economic expansion has already extended to the second-longest postwar period, and economists predicted the sustained growth would continue into next year.

The government has estimated the economic growth for fiscal 1990, ending next March 31, at 4.5 percent.

Mieno said the central bank will continue to maintain its vigilance over price movements although domestic prices now remain relatively stable, the officials added.

A private credit research agency said business failures in the first half of 1990 decreased 25.5 percent from a year ago to 2,948 cases, marking the 66th year-to-year decrease, but the total liabilities involved soared 32.2 percent to 727.45 billion yen or $4.85 billion).

The Tokyo Shoko Research Co. said a growing number of enterprises, particularly medium- and small-sized companies, were suffering from the tight labor market stemming from sustained economic expansion.

The company said bankruptcies caused by labor shortages in the January-June period of this year totaled 130, up from 115 a year ago.

In June, the company said, the level reached 42 bankruptcies, up from 28 in May.

TOKYO (JULY 16) UPI - Toyota Motor Corp. and Nissan Motor Co., Japan's top two automakers, reported Monday their domestic vehicle sales in the first half of 1990 set record highs fueled by brisk consumer demand, but exports remained sluggish.

Toyota said domestic sales of cars and commercial vehicles reached a six-month record of 1,285,549 units, up 14.4 percent over a year ago. Passenger cars accounted for 980,252 units - up 15.3 percent - while commercial vehicle sales totaled 305,297 units, up 11.6 percent, the company indicated.

Nissan stated its sales also reached an all-time high of 732,453 units, up 11.8 percent. They figures included 553,253 passenger cars - up 13.8 percent - and 179,200 commercial vehicles, up 5.9 percent.

Toyota's exports fell 6.6 percent to 851,886 units while Nissan's exports plunged 17.0 percent to 461,124 units.

Toyota's exports included 623,976 passenger cars - up 1.2 percent - and 227,910 commercial vehicles, down 23.0 percent. Nissan's exports included 386,140 passenger cars - down 17.1 percent - and 74,984 commercial vehicles, down 16.3 percent.

Toyota's domestic production increased 2.5 percent to 2,103,381 units, a new record, topping the previous high of 2,051,134 units set in the first half of 1989.

Nissan said its domestic output increased 0.7 percent to 1,218,330 units.

Toyota said its overseas production increased 69.0 percent to 333,438 units but Nissan said its overseas output declined 0.8 percent to 330,058 units, largely because its operations in the United States and Britain were preparing to launch new models.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - The Bush administration raised its estimate of the fiscal year 1991 deficit to $168.8 billion Monday, not counting the cost of the savings and loan bailout - an increase of about $10 billion over its estimate last month.

With the cost of the savings and loan bailout included, the projected deficit in the federal fiscal year that begins Oct. 1 would be $231.4 billion, the administration said.

The administration also released figures showing that the fiscal year 1990 deficit, which was projected to be just over $100 billion in January, had grown to $161.3 billion without S&L bailout costs and to $218.5 billion with S&L costs included.

The new figures were announced at a news conference by several top administration officials, including Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady, Office of Management and Budget Director Richard Darman and Michael Boskin chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

The White House and Congress have been in deficit reduction negotiations for two months - so far without success - trying to find a way to lower the soaring deficit, which the administration said in January was $100 billion.

Under the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law, the deficit must be reduced to $64 billion in fiscal 1991. Failure to come within $10 billion of that target would trigger on Oct. 15 steep, automatic, across-the-board spending cuts split evenly between defense and domestic programs.

The admninistration said that if $100 billion in automatic cuts took affect $50 billion would be cut from both defense and non-defense domestic programs, with the exception of certain exempt programs that aid the poor, such as food stamps.

Budget negotiators have been struggling to come up with a $50 billion to $60 billion first-year package of spending cuts and revenue increases. But even if such a package is agreed upon by negotiators and approved by both houses of Congress, the deficit next year would still be about $100 billion higher than the Gramm-Rudman target.

To avoid the automatic cuts, known as sequestration, Congress is expected to change the Gramm-Rudman targets this year. The change would allow lawmakers to remove the growing Social Security trust fund surplus from the Gramm-Rudman accounting process and make it possible for them to approve what negotiators say would be a ''bold package'' of deficit savings without at the same time triggering the automatic cuts.

In its mid-year review, the Congressional Budget Office has esimated that the deficit for fiscal 1991 would be $162 billion, not counting the S&L bailout costs, which have been projected to be about $50 billion to $60 billion next year. With those costs added in, the CBO deficit projection is well over $200 billion in fiscal 1991.

The deficit has grown not only due to the unexpectedly high cost of the S&L bailout but because economic growth has been consistently sluggish, reducing anticipated federal revenues from corporate taxes and other sources.

To combat the deficit problem, President Bush on June 26 broke his ''read my lips - no new taxes'' campaign pledge so that budget negotiations could include some new tax revenues as part of a deficit reduction package. Democrats had insisted that all of the needed savings could not come from spending cuts alone.

LONDON (JULY 16) UPI - The government appointed a team of investigators Monday to determine who leaked a memorandum of a high-level seminar in which senior officials identified German national character traits as aggression, bullying and feeling inferior.

Officials said the Cabinet Office would conduct the inquiry into how The Independent on Sunday procured a copy of the document on the proceedings of a March 24 meeting, held at Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's official country retreat.

''In the sense that a team is being assembled, (the inquiry) has already started,'' an official said. ''They are going to investigate how the document came to be leaked.''

Officials said the memorandum was categorized as ''very highly restrictive '' and issued only at the highest level of government.

Its publication was ill-timed for the government, which was trying to control the diplomatic damage caused by Trade Secretary Nicholas Ridley's statements last week that European unity moves were ''a German racket'' aimed at dominating the continent and similar to the strategies of Adolf Hitler.

Ridley also referred to the French as ''behaving like poodles to the Germans,'' and described the 12-nation European Community as being run by reject politicians.

He resigned on Saturday.

Monday, Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd was in Brussels meeting with EC foreign ministers, reportedly to reassure his counterparts on Britian's commitment to the 12-nation body.

The memorandum written by Thatcher's secretary, Geoffrey Powell, and printed in full in The Independent, assessed that relations with a new united Germany would - overall - be positive, and concluded that ''we must be nice to the Germans.''

But the session attended by Thatcher, Hurd and six experts on Germany also gave an unflattering list of German national character traits as ''angst, aggressiveness, assertiveness, bullying, egotism, inferiority complex, sentimentality.''

It said there were reasons to be concerned about German ''insensitivity to the feelings of others ... their obsession with themselves, a strong inclination to self-pity and a longing to be liked.''

The panel judged that Germans have ''a capacity for excess, to overdo things, to kick over the traces'' and ''a tendency to overestimate their own strengths and capabilities.''

Hurd defended the seminar, saying in an interview Sunday that its intention was to try and look freshly at the implications of a united Germany.

''The verdict of that meeting ... was that it is a fantasy to suppose we are going to be faced with a new Hitler, or a new Gestapo,'' Hurd said.

''We are talking about a major friendly country that is about to go through a major transformation. It seems perfectly reasonable to go back and see how far the past is casting its shadow.''

But the embarrassing glimpses of innermost government attitude has brought to the surface the many doubts about how Britain will integrate with Europe, given the island nation's tradition of remaining offshore and only venturing to the continent when it perceives an upset power balance.

Ridley was a close political ally of Thatcher and her refusal to instantly dismiss him was portrayed by the opposition as showing that she privately shared his doubts about German and European unity.

The British leader has challenged many of the moves that will obligate EC member nations to relinquish certain sovereign powers to the Brussels-based community, and once referred to Germany as a new ''European superstate.''

ORLANDO, FL (JULY 16) UPI - Smoke boiled into the cabin and cockpit of an American Airlines jet, prompting an emergency evacuation and two injuries, the airline reported.

The McDonnell Douglas Super 80 was taxiing toward for takeoff Sunday about 6:30 p.m. when smoke appeared in the cabin, said Ed Stewart, an American spokesman in Fort Worth, Texas, the airline's headquarters.

The 137 passengers and six crew members aboard the flight bound for Raleigh-Durham, N.C., evacuated the jet on four inflatable chutes, Stewart said.

Two people were injured during the evacuation, Stewart said. One was treated for a shoulder injury and released from an Orlando hospital Sunday evening, Stewart said. There was no word on the condition of the second patient.

''The apparent cause was the leak of hydraulic fluid that overheated on a portion of the engine, which caused smoke to fill up the aircraft,'' said Stewart.

Smoke was reported in both the cabin and cockpit, said Stewart.

The source of the leak was found Sunday night, and the plane was repaired, flown to Chicago and returned to service, said Stewart.

Passengers were put up in Orlando hotels overnight at American's expense, then flown out Monday aboard another American flight, Stewart said.

NEW YORK (JULY 16) UPI - International Business Machines Corp., reaping benefits from an aggressive cost-control program and new product strategy, Monday reported second-quarter earnings of $1.4 billion, or $2.45 a share, up from $1.3 billion, or $2.31 a share, in the year-ago quarter.

Revenues for the period were $16.5 billion, up from $15.2 billion in the year-ago quarter.

For the first six months of 1990, IBM reported earnings of $2.4 billion, or $4.26 a share, compared with earnings of $2.3 billion, or $3.92 a share in the like 1989 period. Revenues for the first six months of 1990 were $30.7 billion, compared with $27.9 billion a year ago.

''Demand across our product line remains good worldwide,'' said IBM Chairman John Akers. ''Revenue and earnings growth was led by software, benefits from leasing activities and early results from our restructuring actions.

IBM's four main business segments - equipment, services, software and rentals - all posted improved results.

IBM, whose revenues turned sluggish last year due to a softer U.S. economy announced in December an aggressive policy to boost profits.

The plan included eliminating 10,000 employees in the United States - through restricted hiring and early retirement incentives - and enforcing a strict cost-control policy.

IBM also introduced a series of new products, aggressively entering segments of the computer industry that the world's leading mainframe manufacturer previously had not fully explored.

The Armonk, N.Y.-based company introduced this year the RISC System/6000 workstations, a family of powerful individual computing units and their host computers; new AS/400 models for small businesses; the ImagePlus system for financial institutions; and CallPath/400, a software for the service industry.

But IBM's most ambitious product introduction is the PS/1, the mainframe manufacturer's latest attempt at breaking into the home, a huge potential market but which has remained very elusive so far.

IBM's business strategy, aimed at answering shareholders' concern over a 19.4 percent decline in 1989 return compared with 1988, began showing improved results in the first quarter of 1990. Earnings for the first quarter rose 9.2 percent to $1 billion, while revenues grew 11.4 percent to $14.1 billion.

Higher revenues and earnings also are crucial to allow IBM finance its research efforts. The company's Essex Junction, Vt., plant manufactured this year the world's first 16 million-bit chip, expected to be used industrially in 1991.

IBM is also developing with West Germany's Siemens AG a 64 million-bit chip and entered a strategic alliance with Motorola Inc. for the first computer communication system over radio waves.

IBM also made a significant investment to rescue two semiconductor divisions put up for sale by Perkin-Elmer Corp. in order to keep the advanced technology under U.S. control.

For 1989, IBM reported profits of $3.7 billion on revenues of $63.4 billion. But while revenues of the fourth largest U.S. industrial manufacturer rose 6 percent from 1988, earnings dropped 35 percent.

IBM ranked No. 1 in the Fortune 500 listings last year as the industrial company with the highest market value at $61.2 billion and the highest stockholder equity at $38.5 billion.

NEW YORK (JULY 16) UPI - Trial of promoter Don King's suit against heavyweight champion James ''Buster'' Douglas was recessed for one day Monday in response to attempts by the involved parties to settle out of court.

Attorneys for King, Douglas and The Mirage Hotel and Casino met into the night Sunday - and planned to continue Monday - in an effort to settle King's suits against Douglas and manager John Johnson for breach of contract and The Mirage Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas, Nev., for interference with that contract.

Douglas sought to escape his exclusive promotional pact with King after The Mirage had offered the champion a two-fight deal contingent on him freeing himself of the promoter.

''It is a not a fact that there's a settlement, it is a fact that there is no trial today in an effort to achieve a settlement,'' said Stan Hunterton a trial attorney for Douglas and Johnson.

Douglas had told his hometown's Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch that settlement had been reached. He said the terms call for him to pay $7 million and for King to have no role in the fighter's first title defense, against Evander Holyfield, but to be the promoter of note for a rematch with Mike Tyson.

Hunterton said ''that's the agreement reached in principle.'' However, the personal counsel for Douglas and Johnson, Steve Enz, was quite cautious about the unresolved issues.

''As far as we're concerned, there is no settlement,'' he said. ''In view of the personalities involved, I'll never be optimistic until I see something signed by everybody.

''Yes, we did discuss some possible settlement terms but I think it's probably a long way off. Our people are preparing to go to trial tomorrow.''

A source close to the case said ''There still are enough things to be discussed that are potential deal-breakers'' because ''the personalities involved are not your ordinary, garden-variety participants.''

The trial is entering its third week in U.S. District Court but after the sides met in the offices of King's attorneys Sunday, they called the judge at home to get the one-day recess. Sources involved with the case for both sides said a settlement is likely eventually but expected the stumbling blocks to have them back in court Tuesday.

Enz said if settlement is reached, he would expect it to remain confidential. It has been reported, however, that Douglas would pay $7 million to King and Atlantic City hotel-casino owner Donald Trump. Trump claimed to have contractual rights via King to stage Douglas's next fight.

''A settlement by no means means admission of guilt, certainly not in this case,'' Douglas said. ''It's just a thing of getting on with my life and getting all this behind us.

''I am totally relieved in one sense, and that is that I am free of Don King,'' Douglas told the Columbus newspaper. ''On the other hand, I would just like to say Don did an awful lot of lying on the witness stand.

''I got to say my piece briefly on Friday but I didn't get to get totally into it. I was prepared to expose this man for what he is.

Under the proposed terms, King won't promote Douglas' first title defense, against top-ranked contender Evander Holyfield, tentatively scheduled for Sept. 21 at The Mirage. He will be the promoter of note for Douglas's rematch with Mike Tyson in 1991 but he will have no ties with Douglas. King is Tyson's advisor.

Douglas won the heavyweight title Feb. 10 when he scored a shocking 10th-round knockout of Tyson in Tokyo. Douglas had risen from an eighth-round knockdown to win the title. King said Douglas received a long count in the eighth round and that Tyson should be declared the winner.

After a series of date and site switches, trial of King's suits began July 2.

Last Feb. 21, Mirage owner Steve Wynn gave Douglas a two-fight, $60 million pact conditional on the fighter freeing himself of King. Douglas and Johnson filed suit in Las Vegas against King for breach of contract. King countersued in New York, including The Mirage in his action.

The Nevada suit was stayed in U.S. District Court, pending outcome of the case in New York.

CHICAGO (JULY 16) UPI - Members of a national housing advocacy group took over a boarded-up house on the South Side to convince the federal government to turn over housing seized from failed savings and loan associations to the poor.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson and Rep. Joseph P. Kennedy II, D-Mass., were to lead a rally Monday to promote the sale to low-income families of property abandoned as a result of the savings and loan crisis.

Jackson and Kennedy were to join protesters from Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now (ACORN) at the University of Illinois at Chicago and march to City Hall and the U.S. League of Savings Institutions.

About 800 members of the ACORN gathered Sunday for a two-day convention to celebrate its 20th anniversary and immediately claimed ''squatters rights'' to the Englewood building.

''These homes belong to us. We are taxpayers,'' ACORN President Maude Hurd of Boston told a cheering crowd outside the Englewood house.

According to the group, the building is one of hundreds of vacant homes owned by the federal agency set up to deal with the bailout of the savings and loan industry.

''Some people say the savings and loan bailout is going to cost each taxpayer $2,000, some have said as much as $14,000, but we say we are going to have to pay for the rest of our lives,'' Hurd said.

''So we're not taking anything. We are the government,'' she said. ''Some say we are breaking the law. We are not. We're taking what is ours and we've done this all over the country.''

Hurd said the group has claimed abandoned homes in 26 states.

NEW YORK (JULY 16) UPI - An overwhelming majority of Americans believe employers discriminate in hiring and promoting workers and only half of those affected by bias take action to correct the situation, a survey found Monday.

The poll by The National Law Journal found that 78 percent of those questioned believe some, most or all ''employers practice some form of discrimination in their hiring and promotion practices.''

The survey also found that one in four Americans has experienced job bias and most of those did not take formal legal action against their employer.

The magazine found that among those questioned, 8 percent reported gender bias, while 8 percent claim to have experienced racial, ethnic or religious bias. Five percent reported age discrimination, while 2 percent said they faced handicapped bias.

Almost half of those who reported bias - 49 percent - said they took no formal action. Of those who did take action, more than half complained to their employer, while 14 percent of those reporting bias quit their jobs.

Only 2 percent of those who reported discrimination consulted an attorney or filed a lawsuit.

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA (JULY 16) UPI - A deadly grenade attack launched by a white man on a hotel bar packed with more than 100 blacks signals a new surge in right-wing terror tactics, South African security officials said.

The attack late Saturday night killed one black and injured 21 others at the Roodepoort Hotel west of Johannesburg, police said.

In further violence Sunday, two whites dressed in army uniforms fired on two black hitchhikers north of Pretoria, wounding one in the side and hand police said. The shooting, about 45 miles away, appeared unrelated to the hotel bar incident, police said.

The attacks broke a week-long lull in urban terrorism, blamed by authorities on white extremists opposed to racial reform.

The grenade attack late Saturday at the Roodepoort Hotel came 12 hours after a bomb made with commercial explosives killed a black waiter at the Willie Smith Hotel, a liberal student venue in the same area.

Roodepoort Hotel chef Violet Cheki said just before the explosion she saw a white man open the bar door facing the street and roll ''what looked like a little metal onion'' into the room. ''I was going to pick it up but then there was all this fire and smoke and the noise,'' she said, adding there were ''at least 100 people in the place.''

A Law and Order Ministry official said, ''This tactic (appears) to be classic right-wing style ... a soft, mainly black or white-liberal target, and commercial or military-issue explosives.

''These two blasts seem quite clearly to be the start of a new surge of right-wing attacks.''

Police spokesman Lt. Pieter du Preez said, ''At this stage, from witnesses' statements, we have no doubt it was a grenade, possibly coated with metal pellets ... Details certainly point to some kind of right-wing involvement.''

He noted the man killed was black, and only one white man, ''who may have been walking past outside,'' was among the wounded.

The men who shot at the hitchhikers were seen by witnesses shortly before midnight after the attack, du Preez said.

Police a week ago detained nine white right-wingers after 10 days of urban terror bombings aimed at black civilians and liberal and moderate white lawmakers, and have also arrested a number of whites following arms-cache discoveries.

One of the blasts ripped through a Johannesburg transport station used mainly by blacks on July 6, wounding 27 people.

A shadowy white-supremacist group, the White Wolves, has claimed responsibility for other explosions at city councillors' property, demanding President Frederik de Klerk call an election to test white support for his apartheid reforms.

De Klerk's moves to dismantle 42 years of white-minority rule and privilege have angered the right-wing parliamentary opposition as well as extremists.

Conservative Party leader Andries Treurnicht has said, ''This so-called reform could well provoke people to take drastic measures.''

SIDON, LEBANON (JULY 16) UPI - Rival Shiite militiamen battled Monday for control of a southern region and the pro-Iranian Hezbollah said it captured a strategic village, police and security sources said.

Police said 17 people were killed and 55 others wounded in the 10-hour battle which erupted at daybreak and engulfed a cluster of villages in the lush mountainous district of Iqlim Al Toffah, east of the port city of Sidon, 24 miles south of Beirut.

Gunmen of the Iranian-backed Hezbollah, or ''Party of God,'' and the pro-Syrian Amal militia battled with cannons, rocket launchers and automatic weapons along frontlines in the villages of Jebaa, Kfar Milki, Kfar Fila, Jarjou and Sarba.

The two groups have been vying for control of the country's estimated 1.5 million Shiites.

A Hezbollah source said the group's fighters controlled Jarjou and were advancing to the nearby village of Arab Salim. He added that six Hezbollah gunmen were killed and seven others were wounded in the attack.

The source said Israeli troops stationed inside Israel's self-declared ''security zone'' backed the Amal movement and heavily bombarded Jarjou.

An Amal source said Hezbollah launched a large-scale offensive backed by a hail of artillery and rocket fire but the attack was repulsed. He accused the fundamenatlists of shelling a number of nearby villages, wounding more than 15 civilians.

Witnesses said scores of panic-striken civilians carrying only essential belongings arrived in Sidon later in the day to escape the fighting.

''Many others wanted to leave but they were stuck in their houses or underground shelters,'' said Mohammed Ali, 45, who was accompanied by his wife and five children. ''We want this tragedy to stop so we can return to our houses and work.''

A local committee comprising representatives from Iqlim Al Toffah villages called on the Syrian and Iranian commands to exert pressure on the rival parties to stop the fighting.

Iran and Syria, which have been coordinating efforts to reconcile Amal and Hezbollah, have so far failed to narrow differences between the rival groups.

Sources said concerned parties were engaged in intensified contacts to contain the violence.

They said the Palestine Liberation Organization, which has a strong military presence in Sidon, expressed readiness to deploy along frontlines in the embattled area and disengage the rival gunmen.

Last December, more than 1,100 guerrillas loyal to PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat and based in shantytowns on the outskirts of Sidon, took up positions in some areas in the Toffah region.

Analysts said at the time the Palestinian move was prompted by fears that the Hezbollah gunmen, who drove Amal out of five villages, would gain more territory at the expense of PLO.

The violence raged following a war of words between the Moslem adversaries.

Hezbollah has accused Amal chief Nabih Berri of massing 1,000 gunmen in the region. Amal has charged the militants intended to carry out a wide-scale operation to retake the market town of Nabatiyeh, 33 miles southeast of Beirut.

Amal drove the extremists from Nabatiyeh and other southern towns in a four-day battle in April 1988.

The pro-Iranian extremists later defeated Berri's followers in Beirut's southern suburbs in a three-week battle that killed 300 people and wounded 1,000.

STUTTGART, West Germany (JULY 16) UPI - The Federal Cartel Office Monday blocked Daimler-Benz and MAN's bid for stakes in the Spanish truck company Enasa, saying the transaction would limit competition in the West German truck industry.

The Cartel Office said shared participation by the two West German giants in Enasa would dominate the light- and heavy-truck market, making it more difficult for other companies to compete.

Truck producer MAN AG intended to buy 60 percent of Enasa, while Daimler-Benz AG had wanted a 20 percent stake. The Spanish state-owned holding company INI was to keep a 20 percent stake in Enasa.

A Daimler-Benz spokesman said after the Cartel Office's decision Monday that Daimler and INI were already working on ''new concepts'' to include Enasa ''in the union of large European commercial vehicles producer.''

He declined to name the European vehicle producers involved.

Industry observers said MAN will probably drop out of the Enasa deal, and Daimler would remain to team up with INI to fashion another joint venture in running Enasa.

BELFAST, NORTHERN IRELAND (JULY 16) UPI - Two men, one Catholic and the other Protestant, were shot dead and a third was seriously wounded in a new round of sectarian violence in Northern Ireland, police said Monday.

The Royal Ulster Constabulary said the bloodshed began early Sunday when two masked assailants from the Irish People's Liberation Organization - a splinter group from the Irish Republican Army - shot and killed William Sloss, 31, at his home in South Belfast.

They said Sloss, a Protestant, was shot twice in the head, and his body was not found until several hours later by his brother.

A man claiming to represent the IPLO told the British Broadcasting Corp. in Belfast that Sloss was killed because he was a member of the outlawed Protestant extremist group, the Ulster Volunteer Force.

Police reported that less than 24 hours later, in an apparent reprisal for the Sloss shooting, two assailants killed a 33-year-old Catholic in the driveway of his home in Lisburn, 10 miles west of Belfast.

They said the gunmen shot the victim at point-blank range as he returned home from a party with a friend late Sunday.

The male companion, also a Catholic, was shot and seriously wounded but was recovering in Laganvalley Hospital in Lisburn, they said.

The killings are certain to heighten tension because of next month's 19th anniversary of internment, and the 21st anniversary of British troops being deployed in Northern Ireland.

The Ulster Freedom Fighters, another Protestant paramilitary group, admitted responsibility for the second attack in a telephone call to a local radio station. The UFF claimed the dead man was a member of the IRA, an allegation the victim's mother denied.

Neither the IRA nor the Ulster Volunteer Force have acknowledged whether the dead men were members of their organizations.

Police could not confirm if the second assault was a reprisal, but said the slayings resembled previous rounds of retaliatory bloodshed that have plagued the province in the see-saw battle over British rule.

(JULY 16) UPI - A major earthquake struck the main Philippine island of Luzon today, collapsing buildings in Manila and killing at least 84 people. Richter scale readings worldwide ranged from six-point-two to eight-point-zero, with the U-S Geological Survey registering the shaker at seven-point-seven. Hundreds of people were hurt in the quake that officials say was centered in a province about 60 miles north of Manila.

Officials say it's the worst earthquake to hit the Philippines in two decades. President Corazon Aquino said she was in a meeting at the presidential palace when the tremor struck, and she hid under the table for about 30 seconds. She said- ''Let us pray to God to keep us safe.'' The initial quake was followed by several aftershocks.

The Ukrainian Parliament issued a bold independence challenge today, passing a declaration of sovereignty that declares Ukrainian laws take precedence over Soviet measures. The Interfax news service says the act proclaims that Ukrainian leaders have full power in the republic within its territory. At a rally yesterday, anti-communist demonstrators were urged to gather at the parliament in Kiev to show support for the independence act.

45 people were killed in a series of bomb attacks in southern Pakistan that also wounded at least 171 others. Five of the explosions rocked a market area in Hyderabad yesterday, killing 29 people. A sixth blast struck a passenger train about 30 miles to the north, killing 16. Officials say troops stepped up their patrols today in order to prevent further ethnic violence.

Heavy rain drenched south-central Texas, dumping up to six inches in two towns south of San Antonio and flooding most interstate highways and many secondary roads. Authorities say a portion of Interstate 35 in San Antonio was under eight feet of water last night. Officials say several restaurants in the Riverwalk tourist area were flooded, but the water receded when flood gates were opened.

BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA (JULY 16) UPI - The ruling Communist Party of Serbia, forging ahead with a political survival plan, voted Monday to merge with an allied front organization, change the party's name and image and replenish empty coffers with millions of dollars in new assets.

Some 2,000 members of the Communist Party of Serbia - largest of Yugoslavia's six republics - approved the dissolution of their 45-year-old party and then met Monday at a televised ''unification congress'' with the Socialist Alliance at a Belgrade convention center.

After several hours of speeches, the new party was to adopt the name Socialist Party of Serbia and was expected to elect as its leader Slobodan Milosevic, the communist president of Serbia and a former party chief regarded as the main architect of the merger.

Major questions remained regarding the specific political program of the new party, which is to assume control of Serbia's single-party legislature government and state-controlled media.

Milosevic and other members of his leadership have said they back the creation of a Western-style economic system and multi-party democracy, but continue to voice their belief in socialism and have repeatedly asserted the leftward orientation of the new party.

The Socialist Alliance was a communist-controlled organization whose main function was to propagate ideology among Serbia's 10 million residents. The merger will bring the communists, whose party was all but bankrupt, control of the alliance's assets, estimated at more than $60 million.

For these reasons, the merger is widely regarded as a tactic by which Milosevic and his leadership hope to rebuild a discredited image and consolidate their positions in advance of multi-party assembly elections, which they have promised but not yet scheduled.

As part of the plan, observers say Milosevic is seeking to harness the political force of growing Serbian nationalism by implementing before the polls a new constitution that would eliminate virtually all autonomy for Serbia's Kosovo Province. The ethnic-Albanian majority in Kosovo has been pressing for greater self-rule.

Milosevic apparently decided on his approach as he watched support building for opposition groups unblemished by the stigma of Marxism, which are appealing for Serbian nationalist votes.

Milosevic has been under mounting pressure to call multi-party elections following the collapse of Marxist regimes across Eastern Europe and the April victories of right-wing nationalist parties in the Yugoslav republics of Croatia and Slovenia. The elections were the first free polls held in Yugoslavia since the 1945 communist takeover.

Before his position was abolished, Communist Party President Bogdan Trifunovic defended the merger, saying: ''It is logical that two ideologically close organizations unite wide, democratic masses who are for Serbia, socialism and Yugoslavia.''

''This is not a mere fusion for the sake of elections. It will be a united leftist party for democratic reforms that will open and strengthen new socialist and democratic perspectives,'' he said.

Sources within the former Communist Party rank and file, however, said the merger has exacerbated internal discontent, with veterans angered over what they consider a sellout of its idelogical principles and the sacrifices they made during and after World War II.

The sources said younger, more reform-minded members are upset because of what they regard as a move aimed only at maintaining the power of conservative communist leaders.

Those feelings emerged during the meeting of the communist delegates, with several speakers calling for the ouster of conservative leaders in order to lend credence to the merger and the formation of the new party.

The conservative leadership ''should retire to their villas and gardens and allow young and fresh leaders'' to take over, said delegate Slobodan Kovacevic.

The criticism provoked rebuke from other members, who said such comments should not be aired as they cast a pall on the merger.

(JULY 16) UPI - A Japanese deputy foreign minister is in Beijing today to brief Chinese officials on Japan's decision to resume loan aid to China. Japanese officials say the senior Japanese envoy is meeting with the Chinese vice foreign minister, and tomorrow is to meet with the Chinese foreign minister. Japan is the first Western nation to ease sanctions imposed after last year's crackdown on dissent.

In Stockton, California, one suspect has been arrested and two others are being sought following a shooting that left two people dead and 12 wounded. One victim says the gunmen drove through a taco stand parking lot yesterday, firing wildly in a shooting spree that might have been triggered by a fight on the property a few minutes earlier. Seven people remained hospitalized last night.

Authorities in San Francisco say a half-mile stretch of Ocean Beach near Golden Gate Park was closed after nearly 300 used hypodermic syringes washed ashore. The syringes apparently had been stuffed inside wine bottles. Police say at least one magnum-sized bottle filled with syringes and needles was recovered, and individual syringes were found in the sand.

Authorities in the Detroit suburb of Ecorse are trying to determine what type of fumes killed one worker and injured 19 others at a steel plant. Officials say the incident occurred yesterday when contractors at the Great Lakes steel plant entered a steam drum they were repairing. They were overcome by fumes that killed one worker and injured 19 others. Two of the 19 were hospitalized, and one is listed in serious condition.

KARACHI, PAKISTAN (JULY 16) UPI - Police detained about 80 people Monday, most of them members of a Sindhi militant organization, in connection with a series of bomb blasts in southern Pakistan which killed at least 57 people, authorities and hospital sED AS nld0019 ources said.

Troops, meanwhile, stepped up patrols in Karachi and Hyderabad, fearing Sunday's incidents could spark another flare-up of the ethnic unrest that has left more than 1,000 people dead in Sind Province in the past four years.

No incidents were reported, however.

Five explosions ripped through a downtown market area of Hyderabad, 120 miles northeast of the southern port of Karachi, during a one-hour period Sunday afternoon. A sixth blast destroyed a carriage of a moving passenger train about 30 miles north of Hyderabad.

Hospital sources said 41 people died in the market attacks and 16 on the train. Several of them died Monday in the hospital. At least 159 people were wounded, 20 of them aboard the train, the sources said.

Police said they defused a seventh bomb in the same area as the first five late Sunday. They said the device was home-made and had been hidden under a cart.

Officials in Hyderabad said they suspect militants of the Jiye Sind organization, which is seeking independence for southern Sind Province, planted the bombs. They said police have taken into custody about 60 Jiye Sind members and some 20 other people in connection with the attacks.

Meanwhile, soldiers continued Monday to collect body parts strewn around the devastated area where the blasts occurred. Several shops and houses lay in ruins, while others were splattered with blood. The explosions left craters of up to 3 feet deep in roads and sidewalks.

Troops have been on the streets of Hyderabad and Karachi since late May, when more than 100 people were killed in communal violence. Curfews in the two cities were lifted earlier this month.

Police said most of Sunday's victims were Mohajirs, whose families migrated to Pakistan from India following the 1947 partition of the subcontinent.

The Sindhis believe they are being made a minority in Sind by the Mohajirs and natives of other provinces of Pakistan. The Mohajirs feel they are discriminated against by the other ethnic groups.

Sunday's attacks came during a one-day strike called by the Jiye Sind to demand the release from jail of its leader, Qadir Magsi, who was arrested in connection with the massacre of more than 250 people in Hyderabad in September 1988.

Witnesses said Jiye Sind members earlier Sunday has forced several shops in Hyderabad to close in observance of the strike.

Officials said the strike was almost total in the Sindhi-dominated rural areas of the province, but said Sind's two main cities of Hyderabad and Karachi, where most of the Mohajirs live, were largely unaffected.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - Inventories of American businesses edged up 0.4 percent in May while sales advanced 0.9 percent for the month, the Commerce Department said Monday.

The total stockpile of goods in business warehouses stood at $799.4 billion in May vs. about $796 billion in April, and sales registered $538.3 billion after reaching $533.6 billion in April, according to the department's Census Bureau.

Revised data released by the government also showed that April inventories inched up 0.3 percent while sales during the month plummeted 1 percent.

Businesses pay especially close attention to their inventories because an unusual increase in stockpiles usually indicates sales are slipping. That could lead to drastic cutbacks such as layoffs at manufacturers and the closing of stores.

The Commerce Department said the nation's stockpile of durable goods - expensive items made to last three or more years - increased 0.3 percent in May, while inventories of non-durable goods were up 0.7 percent.

Manufacturers' total inventories remained unchanged in May but retailers reported a 0.4 percent increase and wholesalers a sizable 1.2 percent gain the government said.

On the sales side, sales of durable goods leaped 2.1 percent in May, but sales of non-durable goods were off 0.2 percent, reflecting the conservative spending habits of consumers.

The Commerce Department said manufacturers' total sales increased 2 percent in May while sales at retail stores dipped 0.6 percent, offsetting a 0.6 percent gain at wholesalers.

The inventory-to-sales ratio for May, which tracks the time it takes goods to move from warehouses to sales floors, edged down to 1.48 in May from 1.49 in April.

All the figures are seasonally adjusted to reflect such factors as the weather and holidays, but the inventory figures do not reflect price changes.

NEW DELHI, INDIA (JULY 16) UPI - Political leaders worked Monday to resolve the issues underlying the worst crisis of the 7-month-old National Front government, but Prime Minister V.P. Singh appeared unlikely to escape without serious damage to his public image.

Leaders of Singh's Janata Dal party held talks on the political future of Deputy Prime Minister Devi Lal's son, whose controversial election as chief minister of Haryana state triggered the crisis and led Singh to offer his resignation Saturday.

The prime minister, bowing to pressure from supporters in the five-party minority National Front government, withdrew his resignation Sunday, a move that defused the crisis but left key issues unresolved.

Although Singh agreed to continue in office, party leaders warned of a continuing crisis until an agreement could be reached on the political future of Lal's son, Om Prakash Chautala. A senior government official predicted the outstanding issue could be resolved soon.

S.R. Bommai, president of the Janata Dal Party, and other party officials met with Lal early Monday in an attempt to convince him to ask his son to resign the chief ministry post.

Chautala's re-election came less than two months after he was forced to resign the post in a scandal over the assassination of a political candidate in a state assembly by-election. He had earlier been accused of trying to rig the poll in a desperate attempt to retain the family's political power.

Lal, a Janata Dal power-broker whose family controls the Haryana state assembly, was widely believed to have engineered the re-election, and opponents criticized Singh for failing to oppose the political maneuvering.

On Friday, three Cabinet ministers resigned in protest, claiming the prime minister had violated his campaign pledge to restore honesty in government.

A senior government official Monday said there may have been some ''irregularities'' in last Thursday's election, but insisted there was no agreement between Singh and Lal that allowed Chautala to assume office.

''There was no pact between Devi Lal and the prime minister,'' the official said.

But despite government insistance that the prime minister has not abandoned ''value-based politics,'' some political observers believe his image has been tarnished.

''Although Mr. V.P. Singh has agreed to stay on as prime minister, the nation has the reason to feel greatly worried about the conduct and capability of the men who were assigned to lead it,'' said a front page editorial in The Hindustan Times.

''These men were voted to office with the hope that some lost vision, some idealism, some values, will be restored to guide the public life. It has not taken long for the people to begin nursing the feeling that they were being gullible when they chose such men,'' the newspaper said.

The crisis came seven months after Singh's coalition government took power following elections for the Lok Sabha, the lower house of Parliament.

The minority coalition governs with the support of the Hindu-chauvinist Bharativa Janata Party and India's two communist parties.

SIBIU, ROMANIA (JULY 16) UPI - Nicu Ceausescu, son of the executed Romanian dictator, denied charges Monday that he ordered security forces to open fire on protesters during the Romanian revolution in December.

Ceausescu, in the second session of his long-delayed trial on charges of committing genocide, listened as witnesses testified about his actions in the Transylvanian city of Sibiu where he was Communist Party boss. Ninety-two people died in the city along during the week of December 21.

During his first appearance two months ago, Ceausescu, 39, said the order to crush the uprising was a throwaway after-dinner remark which he retracted when he sobered up. He maintained again Monday that he did not give an order to shoot the anti-government protesters.

Despite his reputation as an alcoholic playboy and a gambler, public sympathy for the younger Ceausescu has grown since his first appearance in court in May when he cracked jokes and jumped from his seat to question witnesses.

The ex-party chief appeared gaunt Monday and claimed he had chronic cirrhosis of the liver which, he told the newspaper Tribunal, is beyond medical treatment.

The son of former dictator Nicolae Ceausescu, who was executed in the aftermath of the revolution, is believed to know many secrets of his father's secret security police, which opponents to the new elected government say is still functioning.

Critics also charge authorities deliberately stalled the beginning of Nicu Ceausescu's trial to protect those who still hold positions of power in the new National Salvation Front government led by Ion Iliescu.

According to Adriana Neagu, a journalist with Sibiu's daily newspaper Dimineata, the delays also served to generate sympathy for Ceausescu.

''Because of the procrastination, people are no longer so anxious to know what really happend. They've been given time to forget and the events before the revolution already seem very far away,'' she said.

''The feeling towards him here is one approachng admiration. People were delighted to see he was harmless when he appeared in court. It's obvious he's not the terrifying monster we all thought he was'', Neagu said.

On the walls of buildings in Bucharest, graffiti saying ''Down with the Ceausescu clan'' is already fading, while demands for President Iliescu to resign have been freshly painted.

The jailed ex-chief of the dreaded Romanian Securitate police, Iulian Vlad also gave evidence as a defense witness in his first public appearance since the revolution.

Vlad suggested foreign task forces may have been brought in to suppress the revolutionaries. He said Nicu Ceausescu was always reluctant to carry out orders from the Securitate.

Seven months after the revolution, nothing has emerged from any of the trials of former communist activists to shed light on which of the security forces fired on the protesters and who gave the orders.

The former minister for food distribution in the Ceausescu government, Ana Muresan, appeared as the second of 40 witnesses expected to testify in the trial and frequently broke down in tears.

Questioned about telephoning Nicu Ceausescu from Bucharest after his parents escaped by helicopter from the roof of the Central Committee building, she said, ''I saw the hate against Nicolae and Elena on the faces of all those young revolutionaries. It was terrible and I rang Nicu to advise him to get out.''

The trial is expected to continue for at least a week.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - Inventories of American businesses edged up 0.4 percent in May while sales advanced 0.9 percent for the month, the Commerce Department said Monday.

The total stockpile of goods in business warehouses stood at $799.4 billion in May vs. about $796 billion in April, and sales registered $538.3 billion after reaching $533.6 billion in April, according to the department's Census Bureau.

Norman Robertson, chief economist at Mellon Bank in Pittsburgh, said the report is ''a good signal the economy is not on the brink of a recession.''

''By and large firms are still managing to keep a tight grip on their inventory conditions, despite sluggish sales.''

Revised data released by the government also showed that April inventories inched up 0.3 percent while sales during the month plummeted 1 percent.

Businesses pay especially close attention to their inventories because an unusual increase in stockpiles usually indicates sales are slipping. That could lead to drastic cutbacks such as layoffs at manufacturers and the closing of stores.

In Chicago, Robert Dederick, chief economist at Northern Trust, noted the inventory figures for April were slightly higher than anticipated.

''This will act to add something to the second quarter gross national product,'' Dederick said. ''I suspect there is a little involuntary (inventory) accumulation at the wholesale level and there may be a tad at the retail level where things have been off a bit in May.''

The Commerce Department said the nation's stockpile of durable goods - expensive items made to last three or more years - increased 0.3 percent in May, while inventories of non-durable goods were up 0.7 percent.

Manufacturers' total inventories remained unchanged in May but retailers reported a 0.4 percent increase and wholesalers a sizable 1.2 percent gain the government said.

On the sales side, sales of durable goods leaped 2.1 percent in May, but sales of non-durable goods were off 0.2 percent, reflecting the conservative spending habits of consumers.

The Commerce Department said manufacturers' total sales increased 2 percent in May while sales at retail stores dipped 0.6 percent, offsetting a 0.6 percent gain at wholesalers.

The inventory-to-sales ratio for May, which tracks the time it takes goods to move from warehouses to sales floors, edged down to 1.48 in May from 1.49 in April.

All the figures are seasonally adjusted to reflect such factors as the weather and holidays, but the inventory figures do not reflect price changes.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (JULY 16) UPI - The senior citizen discount may vanish over the next two decades, as the elderly increase in numbers and wealth, sociologists predicted Monday in a published report.

''Originally, it was part of the policy of helping the elderly, who were perceived as frail and friendless,'' Evan Vlachos, a Colorado State University sociologist, said in the Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel.

''But they are a very powerful group now, a huge population with lots of money. And they don't need discounts,'' said Vlachos, who addressed the Pepper Commission in Miami earlier this month.

Margaret Lynn Duggar, an aging-policy consultant and the new Pepper Commission chairwoman, told the Florida Attractions Association the same thing in May.

''Their jaws dropped,'' Duggar said. ''They couldn't believe they could eliminate discounts without losing business.''

Due to sheer economics and demographics, those who do not drop the discounts could find themselves out of business, Duggar said.

The U.S. Census Bureau reports that the number of people 65 and older in the country will increase by about 10 percent, or 3.3 million, over the next decade. Census predictions show Florida will add about 700,000 new residents over age 60 within the next 10 years.

Florida, with some of the most affluent elderly, may be among the last states to toss dicounts.

With 18 percent of Florida's population 65 or older, ''Today we think it's valid to market to the seniors,'' said Russ Hoadley, spokesman for Barnett Bank in Jacksonville.

Barnett's Senior Partner program, featuring benefits such as free checking and a travel club, now has 700,000 members in Florida and Georgia.

But even the American Association of Retired Persons doesn't think the discounts will last.

''I think at some point soon, we will see a major provider step forward and say that they just are not willing to offer a discount to such a large group,'' said Robert Forbes, who as director of special services oversees AARP's popular discounts from 20 hotel chains, four car-rental companies and one airline.

Demographers predicted the Baby Boomers would start wreaking gerontological havoc in about six years, when they start turning 50.

That doesn't necessarily mean the end of Florida's ubiquitous early-bird dinners - a price break not tied to age but tailored to the senior diner's habits.

A study by the Florida Restaurant Association showed more than 50 percent of 1,500 restaurants surveyed offered early bird specials, but only 25 percent offered senior discounts.

Look for similar marketing to replace the flat discount in the future, said Ken Dychtwald, author of the popular 1989 book ''Age Wave.''

''I think it's extremely likely you will see not only a considerable change but a transformation in discounts,'' Dychtwald said.

Pressure from younger consumers also will play a role, he said.

''If my retired Mom and Dad can get into the movies for $2.50, it's partially because they are charging me $6.50,'' Dychtwald said. ''People will increasingly question if these age discounts are fair.''

AMRITSAR, INDIA (JULY 16) UPI - Sikh separatist violence in northern Punjab state left at least 15 people dead Monday, including 8 members of a Hindu family gunned down by Sikh radicals who burst into their home, police said.

Sikh extremists burst into the home of Kashmir Singh before dawn and opened fire, killing Singh's wife, father, four brothers, a sister and a niece, authorities said. Seven other relatives were wounded in the 5-minute attack.

The incident occurred in Ferozpore district, 60 miles south of Amritsar.

Authorities said Singh, a retired army man who was away at the time of the attack, was on a militant hit-list because he had applied to become a special state policeman.

More than 10,000 people have been killed in the northern border state since 1984, when army troops attacked the Golden Temple of Amritsar, Sikhdom's holiest shrine, in a bid to oust armed Sikh extremists.

The attack on the Golden Temple led several months later to the assassination of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi by two of her Sikh bodyguards.

Militant Sikhs have been fighting since 1983 to create the independent theocratic nation of Khalistan, or ''Land of the Pure,'' in Punjab.

In a related development, five militants and two security officials were killed during a battle outside Chabba village south of Amritsar, said K.P.S. Gill, the head of police in the state.

The official said the militants opened fire on police when a routine patrol approached their hideout. A five-hour battle ensued, during which the state police called for reinforcments and were assisted by the paramilitary Central Reserve Police Force and the elite National Security Guard.

The elite guards, in a bullet-proof vehicle drove, into a field where the militants were hiding and killed them, the police official said.

Sikh militants claim that members of their faith need a separate state to escaped alleged discrimination by the central government.

Sikhs constitute 2 percent of India's 820 million people, who are mostly Hindus.

DALLAS (JULY 16) UPI - An Israeli computer virus so difficult to detect it is being called the Stealth virus has surfaced in the United States, a Dallas newspaper reported Monday.

The virus has been confirmed within the past four days on a computer system at a small company in Corsicana, 50 miles south of Dallas, The Dallas Morning News said.

Ray Glath, president of RG Software, Willow Grove, Pa., which specializes in tracking down computer viruses, says it appears the latest electronic bug came through a Dallas computer bulletin board.

''It's my belief that thousands of computers in Dallas could be infected by now,'' said James Rich, owner of James Rich Computers in Corsicana, where the bug was detected.

The Stealth virus is also known as the Israeli Defense Forces (IFD) virus, or the 4K virus, a reference to the length of the program.

The virus has been widespread in Israel for about a year, Glath said. ''This is the first time it has appeared in the United States.''

The virus attaches itself to the command prompt of standard personal computers that use the Disk Operating System, or DOS, master control programs. It attaches 4,000 extra characters to any file with the three-letter extension ''COM'' or ''EXE.'' If unnoticed, the addition of that much length to multiple files puts a significant undisclosed burden on a personal computer system.

It may overload the mass storage capacity of the system, but because the attachment is hidden from detection, it can also disrupt a hard disk drive where files are stored.

Four thousand characters is a lengthy piece of code for a virus.

''A lot of work went into developing this,'' Glath said. ''It was not done as some little prank.''

Rich said he had noticed problems on computer systems he services at his store over the past two weeks, but the virus was not confirmed until he sent a specimen of an infected disk to Glath for inspection.

Dallas software engineer Randy Burgess said Sunday that because the virus hides itself so well, it is not possible to tell precisely which bulletin board or boards are infected.

Glath and Rich say the virus is smart enough to hide its tracks. If a user checks the length of files to see if they suddenly have become longer, the virus resets the length so that the files appear to be the same length as before.

The two recommend putting a fresh, uncontaminated version in the master control program to check file lengths. Any added lengths will then show up. The infected files then must be deleted and replace with fresh, unadulterated versions.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - The Senate version of the new farm policy law would drive up farm program spending by $5.3 billion, the administration said Monday in a report likely to put more pressure on the Senate to pare its cost.

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas already has called for a farm bill ''which has some real savings'' in it. The administration released its farm-bill estimate at the same time the White House said the fiscal 1991 deficit would be $10 billion higher than expected.

Senators were expected to begin debate on the farm bill early this week. The bill would direct farm program spending for five years, as well as setting the terms for public feeding, export, conservation and research programs.

The report named the dairy program and a provision to increase the size of advance subsidy payments to farmers as the two areas with the largest additional costs. The forecast cost of a soybean marketing loan was reduced by $2.5 billion to stand at $488 million.

According to administration figures, the Senate bill would spend more than $59 billion over five years on commodity supports, compared to $54 billion if there were no change in current law.

Agriculture Department officials have objected to the Senate bill because it would put a floor of $10.10 per 100 pounds of milk on the dairy support price and change the way crop loan rates are calculated.

Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter was expected to send a letter to senators outlining administration objections before debate opened. One month ago he objecd naa

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (JULY 16) UPI - Many Florida lawyers and judges are fed up with what they call ''S.O.B. Litigators'' who have adopted some of the brash mannerisms displayed by characters in the popular TV show, ''L.A. Law.''

''It's a severe problem in the court system,'' said divorce lawyer Geneva Forrester.

Pinellas-Pasco Circuit Judge Robert Beach said he has detected a definite pattern. He said the hardball attorneys come out of the woodwork ''especially the morning after 'L.A. Law.'''

During one criminal case, Beach said, ''I had the other attorney come up to me afterward and say, 'Did you see 'L.A. Law' last night?' I said, 'No, I didn't.' He said, 'What he did was right out of 'L.A. Law' last night. In fact, some of his lines were right out of 'L.A. Law.'''

Civil cases, particularly divorces, usually are worse because lawyers take on the emotions of their clients, said James Fox Miller, president of the Florida Bar.

''Criminal lawyers see bad people at their best,'' Miller said, ''and divorce lawyers see good people at their worst.''

The recent decline in cordiality was lamented by a panel that included Florida Supreme Court Justice Raymond Ehrlich last month during a meeting of the Florida Conference of Circuit Judges in Ponte Vedra Beach.

Even the American Bar Association has taken an interest in the phenomenon, releasing a two-videotape series titled, ''Dealing With The S.O.B. Litigator.''

''(Abrasive lawyers) accuse you of everything but fornication on the courthouse steps,'' Forrester said. ''Every week, we get at least one attorney who overreacts this way, and with no apparent reason.''

Jerry Butterfield, spokesman for the Florida Bar, said attorneys sometimes resort to verbal attacks because that's what their clients expect.

''There's a general attitude out there by the public that they expect to have a hired gun,'' Butterfield said.

Another problem is that there are just too many lawyers, said Pinellas-Pasco Circuit Judge Fred L. Bryson. Because there aren't any jobs many attorneys open their own practices right out of law school and never get proper training.

''They are not good lawyers. They are never going to be good lawyers, because nobody's ever going to teach them. ... And the one thing they know is 'Make Noise,''' Bryson said.

Fort Lauderdale attorney Rex H. Conrad calls contentious behavior ''a growing sore on the practice of law.''

BEIJING (JULY 16) UPI - China's high court decreed Monday that death is an appropriate punishment for the worst peddlers of pornography, effectively formalizing the use of an already widespread practice.

The official Xinhua news service blamed Western influence for a sharp increase in the trafficking of pornography in recent years and said executions would help ''purify the social environment.''

''The recent Western cultural infiltration has resulted in the reappearance of prostitution and pornographic materials in China, causing great social concern,'' Xinhua said in a commentary.

''The rampancy of pornographic materials has become a big cause of juvenile crime in China,'' it added, saying 60 percent of juveniles arrested for sex-related crimes were influenced by pornography.

The Supreme People's Court decree issued Monday established execution as the maximum penalty available for pornography, with terms of up to life in prison for lesser violations, Xinhua said.

The reports did not specify what kind of cases would warrant capital punishment, which despite the lack of a People's Court regulation has been used often to punish pornography offenders.

The death penalty is used widely in China to punish violent criminals and those convicted of major corruption, as well as those who commit serious crimes against the state.

Xinhua said ''millions'' of pornographic books and tapes have been seized and thousands of pornography workshops shut down in the latest national anti-obscenity campaign begun last August.

Issuance of the anti-pornography regulation by Supreme Court Vice President Lin Zhun was the lead item on the nationwide television news.

''The new regulation aims at pushing forward the struggle against such evils as prostitution and pornography and creating a better social environment for China's reform and opening to the outside world,'' Xinhua quoted Lin as saying.

Despite a centuries-long history of Chinese pornography, anti-obscenity laws were enforced effectively for three decades after the puritanical Communists came to power in 1949. But trafficking in obscene works flourished anew with the opening of China's economy in the 1980s.

The government has waged repeated anti-pornography campaigns over the past decade and has executed many offenders, but he result has been mixed.

Pornographic books, tapes and magazines circulate widely, though surreptitiously, in many parts of China, especially in southern coastal cities with commercial links to Hong Kong and the West.

In announcing the regulation, the court officials issued a vague definition of pornography and explained that certain explicit artworks and scientific works would be excluded.

''Obscene products include audio and video tapes, books and photographs describing sexual behavior or directly depicting licentious images,'' the Xinhua dispatch said.

''Literary and artistic works with some obscene contents, paintings showing the beauty of the human body and products disseminating medical knowledge and natural science, will not be regarded as obscenity,'' Lin was quoted as saying.

The most explicit definition of pornography was issued in December 1988 by the State Council's Media and Publications Office, describing obscene works as ''those aiming to arouse people's sexual desire with content that having no artistic or scientific value, is liable to corrupt readers.''

The definition of pornography also includes descriptions of ''homosexuality or other abnormal sexual behavior,'' ''violence or sadism related to deviant sexual behavior'' and ''sexual conduct that normal people would find offensive.''

The Media and Publications Office formed central and regional panels of ''specialists'' to determine the line between pornography and art.

DETROIT (JULY 16) UPI - A Washington consumer group petitioned the federal government Monday to investigate and possibly recall about 5.5 million 1981-89 Chrysler cars and minivans with automatic transaxles that may fail to hold when placed in 'park.'

The Center for Auto Safety (CAS), in a letter to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, said the affected Chrysler, Dodge and Plymouth vehicles have transaxles with steering column-mounted shift levers.

Models the CAS is asking NHTSA to investigate include 1981-89 Dodge Aries/Plymouth Reliants, 1982-87 Dodge 400/Chrysler LeBarons and 1983-88 Dodge 600/Plymouth Caravelle/Chrysler E-Class and New Yorkers.

About 1.64 million 1984-89 Dodge Caravan and Plymouth Voyager minivans are also included in the CAS petition.

The group said it is aware of 73 accidents, including 20 injuries and two deaths that may be related to the defective transaxles. But it also said a preliminary study of NHTSA's consumer complaints files suggests the problem is more widespread.

''We have no awareness of any such problems with these vehicles,'' Chrysler spokesman Tom Houston said in response to the petition, adding that the number of consumer complaints cited ''is a very small percentage'' of the total vehicle count.

In its petition, the CAS called the Chrysler defect ''a clear and documented hazard to the operator and pedestrian safety,'' and included specific instances and a list of owners who have filed complaints.

NHTSA spokesman Tim Hurd said the safety agency will review the CAS request and make a decision on whether to open an investigation within 120 days.

CAS spokeswoman Debra Barclay said that despite the number of complaints in NHTSA's files, the government agency has no investigation under way concerning the Chrysler cars.

Barclay said the latest CAS petition is unrelated to a probe by NHTSA during the late 1970s involving millions of rear-drive Ford Motor Co. vehicles that had transmissions which it said could easily slip from park to reverse.

''NHTSA resolved that by issuing warning labels, something which we filed a lawsuit over in 1981,'' she said. ''To this day, we still get Ford park-to-reverse complaints.''

SRINAGAR, INDIA (JULY 16) UPI - Moslem residents Monday accused security personnel of setting ablaze two houses in northern Jammu and Kashmir state and militants killed three Hindus in separate attacks, police said.

Residents said the security forces set ablaze the two houses Sunday in the Rainawari area of Srinagar, 400 miles north of New Delhi, following an explosion in one of the two homes.

They said the sound of blast brought the security forces. The troopers then set fire to the houses, suspecting them to be the hideouts of radicals who are waging a bloody campaign for secession of Moslem-dominated Kashmir from India.

The fire destroyed one house and partially damaged the second.

A fire station across the road initially ignored appeals by residents to extinguish the blaze, one witness said. The witness claimed the delay caused heavy losses to the properties.

An official at the fire station told reporters Monday that the soldiers ordered the firemen not to extinguish the blaze.

In a related development in Srinagar, summer capital of Jammu and Kashmir state, militants killed three Hindus in separate incidents and set ablaze two state-run buses after ordering passengers to abandon the vehicles, police said.

They said the three Hindus, including a father and his son, were killed on suspicion that they were police informers.

Militants have stepped up their campaign for independence from India since mid-January, when security forces fired indiscriminately on a crowd of demonstrators.

Since then the separatist movement has grown into a popular uprising against Indian rule that is supported by virtually all 4 million Moslem inhabitants of the picturesque Kashmir Valley.

Normal life has been disrupted by long curfews, frequent strikes and almost daily clashes between security forces and the rebels.

Moslem militants are united in their campaign against New Delhi, but some demand an independent nation while others seek a merger with neighboring Moslem Pakistan.

Both India and Pakistan claim sovereignty over Kashmir, with India controlling two-thirds of the region. The two neighbors have fought two of their three wars over Kashmir.

New Delhi accuses Islamabad of providing training and arms to the Moslem militants. Islamabad denies the charges, but claims that it gives moral support to the separatist campaign.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - The B-2 stealth bomber program will cost $508 million more next year than Defense Secretary Dick Cheney estimated in April when he cut 1991 production from five planes to two, the Air Force said Monday.

Air Force Maj. Dick Cole, confirming a report by the trade newspaper Aviation Week & Space Technology, said Congress was informed of the increased cost in a letter sent July 11 by Air Force Secretary Donald Rice.

Cole attributed the extra $508 million to increased overhead and fixed costs by contractor Northrop Corp. because of a slow down in production, to Cheney's cutback in the production rate, and to meet additional long-lead production funding to hold open subcontracts.

The Air Force had estimated in January it would cost $5.4 billion for the B-2 program in fiscal 1991. But in April, Cheney reduced 1991 production from five bombers to two, and he cut the entire program from 132 planes to 75.

Cheney said the new budget for fiscal 1991 would be about $4.14 billion, and that the whole program overall would drop from $75.4 billion to $61.1 billion.

In his July 11 letter to Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman Sam Nunn D-Ga., Rice said the Air Force had determined it actually will need $4.65 billion in 1991 - $508 million more than Cheney's April estimate.

KATMANDU, NEPAL (JULY 16) UPI - King Birendra gave up the power to override the court system Monday, another step on his three-month path from an absolute monarch toward a constitutional monarch.

''His majesty the king has closed down the special petitions department on the advice of the prime minister and minister for royal palace affairs as it is not necessary to keep the department functioning,'' an announcement from the royal palace said.

Birendra, one of the world's last absolute monarchs, bowed to a violent seven-week movement calling for democracy in April and created a multi-party government in the impoverished Himalayan kingdom of 20 million.

From now on, the supreme court, and not the king, will be the final judge in Nepal.

Nepal's new multi-party government marks its 100th day in power on Tuesday and reaction has been mixed.

''I am satisfied with the way the government has been functioning and handling the job,'' said supreme leader of the Nepali Congress party and the symbol of the democratic movement, Ganesh Man Singh, 75. ''In the first few weeks the government was preoccupied with maintaining law and order as reactionary elements connected with the old system unleashed a spate of violence to discredit the government.''

NEW YORK (JULY 16) UPI - Chase Manhattan Corp. said Monday its second-quarter net income declined 62 percent from the year-earlier quarter to $52 million, or 24 cents a share, against $137 million, or $1.31 a share, mainly due to a $75 million increase in its cushion against losses on real estate loans.

J.P. Morgan & Co., meanwhile, reported second-quarter earnings of $207 million, or $1.06 a share, virtually unchanged from profits in the year-ago period of $206 million, or $1.09 a share.

Los Angeles-based Security Pacific Corp. said it had record quarterly profits of $195.2 million, or $1.59 a share, up 6 percent from the earnings of $184.5 million, or $1.58 a share, in the year-ago period.

NCNB Corp. of Charlotte, N.C. announced profits of $137.4 million, or $1.30 a share, up 50 percent from $91.5 million, or $1 a share, in the year-earlier quarter, as interest and non-interest income rose significantly.

Chase's earnings for the first half of the year fell sharply to $96 million, or 44 cents a share, against $269 million, or $2.59 a share, mainly due to its $150 million addition to reserves against loan losses.

The second-largest U.S. bank spoke of ''adverse conditions in certain domestic commercial real estate markets,'' apparently referring to Donald Trump's empire which Chase and other banks recently bailed out. It added $75 million to its domestic loan-loss reserves in each of the first two quarters.

Chase's net interest revenue rose against that of the year-ago period as the spread widened between costs of borrowing and rates at which it issued loans. But foreign exchange profits slid and operating costs rose.

The bank said it had net interest income of $835 million, compared with $791 million in the year-previous quarter. For the first half of the year interest income was a net $1,649 million, against $1,620 a year earlier.

J.P. Morgan, the fourth largest U.S. bank holding company, said it had net income of $606 million, or $3.16 a share, in the first six months of 1990, compared with $386 million, or $2.05 a share, for the first half of 1989.

The bank said it had a 55 percent increase in profits from trading in swaps - financing arrangements in which participants trade loan commitments to obtain desired interest rates or currency flows - and in Third World debt.

It pointed to ''significant revenue'' from trading in foreign exchange and U.S. and foreign government and corporate securities. But corporate financing fees declined 19 percent as such activity tapered off, it said.

J.P. Morgan Chairman Dennis Weatherstone cited ''a difficult environment'' for corporate financing. But he predicted ''steady growth'' in fees from investment management, private banking and various operational services.

Security Pacific said it had six-month earnings of $383.6 million, or $3.13 a share, up from $363.8 million, or $3.12 a share, in the year-ago period.

Bank vice chairman and chief financial operator John Kooken said the record quarterly earnings rested mainly on a 12 percent gain in noninterest income, at $502.6 million against $449.7 million in the year-earlier period.

Security Pacific's previous quarterly profits record - $191.7 million, or $1.59 a share - was posted in the fourth quarter of 1989.

Chief Executive Officer and President Robert Smith pointed to ''the strength of our primary California and Washington (State) markets.'' This position would be buttressed, he said, by Security Pacific's June 30 acquisition of failed Gibraltar Savings from the Resolution Trust Corp.

''We are continuing to focus on our principal domestic banking and financial services business,'' he said, ''providing technological excellence and superior customer service as we continue to strengthen our capital base.''

The California-based bank said its net interest income for the period rose to $758.7 million from $732.2 million, a 4 percent gain.

NCNB Corp. said its first-half earnings were up 66 percent to $277.5 million, or $2.64 a share, against $167.3 million, or $1.82 a share.

Bank Chairman Hugh McColl attributed the performance to ''favorable trends in loan, deposit and fee income growth,'' but acknowledged ''disappointment ... in the level of problem loans and loan losses'' in the period.

This, he said, ''reflects a slowing economy and weak real estate markets which are impacting the credit quality of most banks today.''

NCNB listed nonperforming assets of $695.2 million, or 1.12 percent of total assets as of June 30, up 52 percent from $335.1 million or 0.61 percent of total assets one year before. It made net charge-offs of $64.4 million in the quarter, up from $38.6 million in the year-ago period.

But McColl said the bank derived advantage from its geographical and business diversification, and low growth of costs. These rose 7 percent in the quarter against the year-ago period, and if the expense of acquiring 20 failed thrifts were set aside, costs increased less than 1.5 percent.

TUNIS, TUNISIA (JULY 16) UPI - Arab League foreign ministers meeting Monday declared support for the Palestine Liberation Organization's rejection of U.S. demands for resuming a dialogue, but they said they would work toward restarting talks.

In a statement published in Tunis at the end of two days of talks, the Arab League ministers affirmed PLO leader Yasser Arafat's request for Arab solidarity in opposing U.S. demands, declaring ''the unity of Arab Solidarity with the Palestine Liberation Organization on the conditions posed by Washington for the resumption of American-Palestinian dialogue.''

President Bush ended a budding dialogue with the PLO in June after the PLO refused to condemn a radical Palestinian group's commando raid on an Israeli beach in May. The group, the Front for the Liberation of Palestine is led by PLO Executive Council member Aboul Abbas.

The U.S. administration has said it would not agree to resuming talks until the PLO condemned the raid and excluded Abul Abbas from the PLO Executive Council. The PLO has refused both conditions.

The Arab League's statement stops short of endorsing Arafat's sharp criticism of U.S. Mideast policy, made in an address Sunday at a closed-door meeting of the ministers.

But the statement said the ministers decided ''to intensify Arab initiatives'' on the international scene, and ''contacts'' with Washington, for a resumption of the dialogue '' in such a way as to guarantee the examination of fundamental questions and to serve the peace process.''

In recent newspaper interviews, several Palestinian leaders have said any resumption of talks with the United States should be held at a higher level and at a different location than those that have occurred over the past 18 months. U.S. Ambassador Robert Pelletreau and a medium-ranking PLO delegation were the delegates at talks in Tunis during that period.

The Arab League statement also declared that ''in order to let the Arab peace plan start'' the ministerial committee recommended a senior Arab committee,headed by King Hassan II of Morocco, should ''intensify its efforts with a view to the holding of an international peace conference.''

Arab Leagued sources said Arafat Sunday made a virulent attack against the United States at the ministers' meeting, condemning ''aggressive Israeli policy (against Palestinians) with American support.''

The sources quoted Arafat as saying Israel's repressive policies against Palestinians in the occupied territories pose a ''danger for the whole Arab world.''

''Today it is the Palestinians who are the object of the Israeli aggression. But aggressions are being prepared also against Libya and Iraq and then it will be against other Arab countries,'' Arafat was quoted as saying.

But the PLO leader stopped short of asking the Arab ministers to take any concrete steps against the United States in response to Washington suspending talks. Some Arab sources had speculated before the meeting that Arafat was going to request such action.

Arab League council president Mahmoud Abbas told the ministers Sunday that the U.S. suspension of the talks gives Israel ''carte blanche'' to pursue repressive policies against Palestinians in the occupied territories.

Arab League Secretary-General Chedli Klibi told ministers Sunday the U.S. ending of the dialogue ''creates a vacuum in the peace process and may block the road to a peace that should be the among the major objectives of American policy in the region.''

Klibi said he was fearful the U.S. decision could lead to a wave of desperation among the Palestinian people, threatening prospects for peace in the region.

PLO leaders have said they hope the dialogue with the United States will resume. This month, Arafat was quoted as telling a Palestinian weekly published in Paris that he would like to see a resumption of talks with Washington.

''I am not a romantic,'' he told the Paris weekly Al Yom Al Sabeth. ''I am a politician, and I recognize the importance of a dialogue with a country such as the United States.''

But Arafat said the talks had soured, adding, ''What do you want me to do with a dialogue of the deaf?''

''The dialogue with the American administration is important and imperative,'' Khaled el Hassan, a close Arafat aide, said in an interview Saturday with the Moroccan news agency.

''But it is important to reach a prior agreement on the manner of engaging a new dialogue, and to ensure that it will be based on mutual respect and not on stipulations or a dictate,'' Khaled el Hassan said.

MOSCOW (JULY 16) UPI - Journalists said Monday that President Mikhail Gorbachev's decree ending the Communist Party monopoly on broadcasting is too timid and may be irrelevant because local governments are already taking over the airwaves.

The presidential order, issued Sunday, gives local governments, political parties and public organizations access to TV and radio studios, though it requires them to pay all costs and demands that they gain approval from the central government.

''In my opinion, this is a half-measure,'' said Igor Apukhtin, an anchorman for the ''Fakt'' daily news program on Leningrad's only television station. ''I think there should be a wider broadening of glasnost in today's conditions of an emerging multi-party system.''

The decree, said the official Tass news agency, charges local branches of the State Committee for Television and Radio with ''registering, under license agreements, television centers and studios that councils of people's deputies at all levels, public organizations and parties have the right to open, relying on their own financial and technical resources.''

Apukhtin said the decree, though important symbolically, does nothing to end the Communist Party's economic stranglehold on the electronic media in a country where it remains the ruling party of a government that owns every TV and radio outlet.

''This decree gives the right (to broadcast) in principle, but it does not take into account the real material basis,'' he said.

Estonian Radio director Juri Raudsepp said journalists in his independence-seeking Baltic republic have not waited for permission from Moscow to assert their rights to freedom of expression.

''This (decree) doesn't especially concern us because we consider ourselves an occupied territory,'' he said. ''Our radio and television haven't been controlled by the Communist Party for two or three years. Moscow, as usual, is behind the times.''

Apukhtin said that Leningrad Mayor Anatoli Sobchak and other radical politicians, who gained control of the government in April after they swept local elections, are trying to end Moscow's iron grip on broadcasting.

''There has been a big fight over who will control us - the Soviet State Committee for Television and Radio or the Leningrad city council,'' Apukhtin said. ''This fight is not over.''

A similar clash is taking shape in Moscow, where a radical slate headed by Mayor Gavriil Popov was swept into office at the same time as its Leningrad comrades.

In a bid to prevent such guerrilla warfare over the airwaves, Gorbachev's decree outlaws ''any acts taken by republican, territorial or regional bodies without coordination with the U.S.S.R. Council of Ministers and aimed at changing the legal or property status of the operating subdivisions of the U.S.S.R. State Committee for Television and Radio.''

In Tallinn, the Estonian journalist Juri Raudsepp took a philosophical view of the broadcasting battle.

''Our interest in such things is becoming less and less,'' he said. ''We don't see a future as part of a common government with the Soviet Union.''

EAST BERLIN (JULY 16) UPI - West Germany's national airline, Lufthansa, will make its first post-war flights to Berlin to bring children from Chernobyl to the city, an airline representative said Monday.

The spokesman for Interflug - Lufthansa's East German counterpart - said the West German airline will make two special flights, on August 5 and 7, to bring children who live near the damaged Chernobyl nuclear reactor in the Soviet Union to East Germany for vacations.

The East Berlin organization New Forum arranged for the 747 jumbo jet to fly from East Berlin's Schoenefeld Airport to collect the children in the Soviet city of Minsk.

Health officials in the Soviet Union have expressed concern over the children's long-term exposure to radiation resulting from the 1986 meltdown of a nuclear reactor in Chernobyl.

Milk and fresh vegetables must be trucked into the city because the land around Chernobyl is still radioactive and cannot be used for farming.

West German Transportation Minister Friedrich Zimmerman granted Lufthansa special permission for the flights ''in coordination with the Allies''.

Since 1945 Lufthansa has been prohibited from flying to Berlin by a treaty governing the special rights over Berlin of the four World War II victors - Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States.

Interflug, which now cooperates with Lufthansa in several areas, was the only German airline allowed to fly to Berlin since the end of World War II.

HONG KONG (JULY 16) UPI - A six-month reprieve from a worldwide ban on ivory trading ended at midnight Monday in Hong Kong, leaving the British colony and former heart of the ivory industry with an unsold stockpile of 464 tons of tusks.

The U.N. Convention of International Trade in Endangered Species or CITIES voted to ban the ivory trade at its October meeting in a bid to protect the endangered African elephant.

Conservationists say more than 80,000 elephants were illegally slaughtered in East Africa in 1989 alone to satisfy the world's demand for ivory.

Africa's elephant population, which stood at about 2 million in 1976, has plunged to to less than 625,000, officials say.

The trading ban took effect in January, but Britain - at Hong Kong's urging - entered a six-month reservation, giving the colony's traders a chance to sell off their stockpile of more than 474 tons of tusks.

Most nations that once were Hong Kong's biggest ivory customers were members of CITIES and closed their borders to ivory imports.

With their traditional markets off-limits, the six-month extension did little to help the colony's ivory exporters sell off their stock, worth an estimated $100 million at 1989 prices.

The Agriculture and Fisheries Department said it had only issued export licences for the sale of 9.67 tons of ivory during the six months since the ban went into effect - a fraction of the 180 tons normally exported before the ban.

''It is almost impossible to sell a major piece of ivory now,'' said Dominic Ng, a tusk trader for 17 years. ''I have ivory worth several million dollars but now it is worth nothing because our major markets have been cut off.''

Ng is one of the few Hong Kong tusk traders still in the ivory business. Some of the roughly 3,000 traders and carvers have found other jobs, but many have simply become unemployed.

''Only the young carvers can still change jobs,'' said Arthur Wong, an ivory exporter-turned budget art dealer. ''Most of the carvers are over 40 and no one wants to hire them.

''It takes at least five years just to learn the skill, and even those who have managed to switch jobs are now working as only waiters or doing odd jobs and earning less than half of what they were as carvers.''

The government will launch a retraining program later this month, hoping to convince ivory carvers to use their talents to work cow bones and plastic instead of elephant tusks. But the program is expected to meet with little success.

The 20-week course, which will cost the government about $57,000, will accommodate only 240 former carvers. A government spokesman said he hoped 300 of the colony's roughly 2,000 former carvers would apply for the program.

Many of the traders and carvers say cow bone and plastic are poor substitutes for tusks and such carvings would capture no market.

''They want us to switch to plastic, but plastic has no appeal to anybody '' Ng said. ''Nobody would buy it.''

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - Travelers wondering if older jetliners are safe may take comfort at legislation approved Monday in the House, a measure that could mean even tougher scrutiny for aging aircraft.

Prompted in part by an April 1988 accident in which the roof of an older Boeing 737 peeled off in flight near Hawaii, the House-backed measure would order the Federal Aviation Administration to write rules requiring major inspections of aircraft when they reach the end of their economic design life, typically about 15 years.

''This will be viewed in later years as the most important piece of legislation in aircraft safety and in the safety of the aviation industry in probably a decade or more,'' said Rep. James Oberstar, D-Minn., head of the House Public Works Committee's aviation subcommittee.

The bill was approved on a voice vote and sent to the Senate.

In addition to dictating an inspection, the legislation would require the air carrier that owns the plane to prove that it has maintained key structures adequately for the plane to be allowed to continue flying.

Oberstar said that there are 2,400 aircraft at least 20 years of age in the nation's civil aviation fleet today, and by the end of the decade that figure is expected to more than double, to 5,700. The average age of the U.S. fleet is currently 12.7 years and rising steadily.

''The graying of America's civil aviation fleet is a phenomenon that will be with us for more than a decade. That's why we need this legislation, to ensure that when passengers get on an aircraft they don't have to wonder how old that aircraft is, how well it has been maintained. They should be able to rely on a system of maintenance that assures them they can travel in comfort and in peace of mind,'' said Oberstar.

The most dramatic case of a structural problem with an older aircraft was the Hawaii accident involving an Aloha Airlines flight. The aircraft had a very high number of ''cycles'' - takeoffs and landings with repeated pressurization and depressurization of the aircraft skin.

The repeated stretching of the metal skin of the jetliner eventually led to fatigue, and the top of the plane literally peeled off in flight. A flight attendant was pulled from the plane and never found, but the crew managed to land the aircraft.

Oberstar noted that the FAA and the aviation industry, the carriers and manufacturers, acted quickly after the Aloha accident and came up with a variety of recommendations for ensuring the safety of older planes.

Among the suggestions was to require periodic replacement of parts that are subjected to flight cycle stresses, rather than relying on inspections to spot problems. That would mean key parts are replaced regualrly, rather than only if a problem is found.

LOS ANGELES (JULY 16) UPI - Close-out retailer Pic 'N' Save Corp. said Monday that its temporary cease-fire with investor group Girard Partners Limited Partnership has been extended for two more weeks.

Pic 'N' Save and Girard had waged a two-month dogfight over Girard's takeover attempts before signing an agreement June 7 under which both sides agreed not to solicit proxies for the next five weeks so that Pic 'N' Save could seek bidders for the 190-store chain.

That agreement expired Sunday. Pic 'N' Save and Girard said in a joint announcement that they had agreed to the extension of their June 7 standstill agreement until July 29 in order to provide more time for potential bidders.

The deadline for bidders, including Girard, was also extended to July 29. An announcement also said that the date of Pic 'N' Save's annual meeting had been postponed from Aug. 15 to Aug. 29.

Girard, which holds a 6.6 percent stake and is headed by former T. Boone Pickens strategist David Batchelder, disclosed in April that it would try to acquire the company, then launched a proxy fight for control of the board.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (JULY 16) UPI - Fifteen years ago Tuesday, three American astronauts linked up with two Russian cosmonauts for an unprecedented orbital show of international cooperation that highlighted the era of detente.

Astronaut Thomas Stafford and cosmonaut Alexei Leonov shook hands in space at 3:19 p.m. EDT on July 17, 1975, in an American-built airlock connecting a leftover Apollo moon capsule and the Russian Soyuz. The handshake climaxed more than three years of work on two continents.

Looking on that day in orbit were Vance Brand, now a space shuttle commander in training for his fourth flight, Donald ''Deke'' Slayton, one of the original Mercury astronauts, and Russian cosmonaut Valery Kubasov.

Millions looked on from below and listened as President Gerald Ford and Communist Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev congratulated the spacemen.

''Since the time of the launch of the first Sputnik and the first flight of man into space, space has become an arena of international cooperation '' Brezhnev said in a statement.

''Detente, positive movement ahead in Soviet-American relations, has created the proper conditions for the first international space flight.''

Leonov, Kubasov, Slayton and Stafford plan to attend several ceremonies this week marking the 15th anniversary of the only joint U.S.-Soviet space flight and will hold a news conference July 26 at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

Brand, currently in training to command the grounded shuttle Columbia, said in an interview he would be unable to participate because of work to prepare for his fourth space mission.

In an earlier interview, Brand had said the work leading up to the flight helped American scientists and engineers get to know their Soviet counterparts in ways that would not have been otherwise possible.

''I think from our point of view, one of the biggest benefits was that we got to know these people and understand a little bit what their capabilities are and how they think,'' Brand said.

''I think we sort of, at that time, got a crack in the door through the Iron Curtain which had been closed for so long, to get a better understanding of how they approach things in this technical, scientific world we live in.''

The Apollo-Soyuz Test Project grew out of a 1972 agreement that called for the United States and the Soviet Union to develop a common space ''docking'' system that would allow American and Soviet spacecraft to link up in space, primarily for emergencies.

In reality, NASA's Apollo program was over, the space agency was gearing up for the shuttle program and the Apollo-Soyuz flight was a one-shot, high-profile demonstration of detente on the high frontier, not a serious effort to develop common space hardware.

Leonov and Kubasov blasted off at 8:20 a.m. EDT on July 15, 1975, from the Baikonur Cosmodrome in Soviet Central Asia. Stafford, Brand and Slayton took off aboard a Saturn 1B rocket later that day at 3:50 p.m.

With the Soyuz serving as a target, the American astronauts completed a rendezvous two days later, docking their Apollo capsule with the Soviet Soyuz at 12:09 p.m. on July 17. The historic ''handshake in space'' occurred three hours and 10 minutes later.

After two days of joint operations, the two craft separated and the Soyuz carrying Leonov and Kubasov landed in the Soviet Union July 21. The last Apollo moonship splashed down in the Pacific Ocean at 5:19 p.m. July 25, 270 miles west of Hawaii.

JERUSALEM (JULY 16) UPI - Israel's air force chief said Monday the country should not fear threats of chemical warfare from Iraqi President Saddam Hussein and indicated the newly developed Arrow missile could provide effective defense.

The Arrow missle is being developed by Israel Aircraft Industries, with the United States funding roughly 80 percent of the project's initial cost of $158 million. The U.S. Defense Department must decide whether to allocate funds for the next phase of development of the Arrow, which is designed to combat short-range ballistic missiles.

In recent months, Saddam has said he would use chemical weapons against Israel if Israel attacked Iraq or other Arab nations.

''I will not compete with the threats of Saddam Hussein,'' Maj. Gen. Avihu Bin-Nun told Army Radio. ''I believe that Saddam Hussein and his foreign minister and his air force commander know well that the carrying out of threats of this sort have very heavy implications. They know the (Israel) air force and its abilities.''

Bin-Nun also said Israel could answer ground-to-ground missiles ''on a vast number of levels.''

''One of the levels being the interception of the ground-to-ground missile while it is in the air,'' the air force commander said. ''For this issue, the Arrow is most certainly an answer.

''Therefore, it is better that we do not frighten ourselves too much and everyone starts to walk around with a gas mask in his back pocket,'' Bin-Nun said.

Also reacting to reported threats by Mohammed Zaidan Abbas - the leader of the Palestine Liberation Front who is known as Abul Abbas - to carry out attacks against Israel using hang gliders, Bin-Nun warned that anyone making such threats should ''think carefully'' before carrying them out. He also said they should ''guard well their places of training and their places of purchase.''

A Palestinian commando who flew his hang glider from southern Lebanon into northern Israel in November 1987 killed six soldiers and wounded eight at a military base before he was killed.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - Japan made its final loan repayment Monday to the World Bank, the multilateral organization that helped the Asian nation rebuild from the devastation of World War II.

The $7 million payment was made by the Japan Highway Public Corp., which used a $75 million World Bank loan in 1965 to build a section of an expressway between Tokyo and the industrial city of Nagoya, a bank spokesman said.

The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the World Bank's official name, was created by the World War II victors to help Europe recover from the conflict and to support the economic development of Third World nations. France was the first beneficiary of World Bank lending.

Japan received loans during the 1950s and 1960s to rebuild its economy. According to the World Bank, in 1952 Japan's per capita income was only $200, lower than that of several developing nations.

The bank said it provided Japan with a total of $862.9 million to help finance 31 projects, including the famous ''bullet train'' from Tokyo to Osaka, at a time when the government was modernizing Japan's heavy industry and building basic infrastructure.

Japan ceased getting loans in 1966, when its expanding per capita income allowed the country to ''graduate'' into the category of nations not needing further multilateral lending.

Japan, which in the 1970s started to lend money to the World Bank, is the bank's second largest shareholder, after the United States.

CHICAGO (JULY 16) UPI - The grain market was lower to sharply lower at the close Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade, pressured by active selling and the weather.

Soybeans were at their lowest levels in nearly a month while corn made a three-month low and wheat set contract lows.

Most of the selling was attributed to favorable weather conditions this week and a bearish 30-day outlook. The National Weather Service looks for normal temperatures and rainfall through mid-August for most of the Midwest.

Traders said that means nearly ideal weather for corn pollination and good growing conditions for the soybean crop.

November soybeans - the most actively traded contract - reached a low of $6.16 per bushel and were down 13 1/2 cents on the day.

Soybean oil futures recovered from their early weakness and were virtually unchanged at the final bell. The rally in oil was based on rumors that china bought vegetable oil overnight and was in the market for more.

Professional selling and light buying interest weighed on corn prices throughout the day.

Wheat made contract lows on reports of good weather for harvest activity. Traders also wheat prices may continue to fall unless there is a pick-up in export business.

At the close, corn was off 6 1/4 to up 1/2, soybeans down 8 1/2 to 15, wheat off 4 to 5 3/4 and oats down 4 to 5 1/2.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - The president's chief economic adviser said Monday the Soviet economy is much smaller than the CIA has reported, and an agency official acknowledged its estimates ''are most likely on the high side.''

Michael Boskin, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, gave his assessment at a Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing on whether the CIA has overstated Soviet economic strength in the post-war era.

Boskin told the committee the Soviet economy is about a third of the size of the U.S. economy, while the CIA has said the Soviet gross national product is about half that of the United States.

Sen. Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., who presided over the hearing, said U.S. defense policy has been distorted ''for a generation'' by CIA reports that overestimated the size and rate of growth in the Soviet economy.

Moynihan quoted a 1957 report that said Soviet GNP was a third that of the United States and ''is increasing half again as fast.'' By the 1970s, he said, the CIA estimated Soviet GNP at 60 percent that of the United States.

With better estimates, Moynihan said, ''We would have behaved differently.''

''You may be right,'' Boskin replied.

''I am right,'' Moynihan shot back.

George Kolt, director of Soviet analysis at the CIA, defended the agency at the hearing, saying it ''had done a good job ... arriving at GNP numbers for a centrally planned economy in a closed society.''

''But that does not mean that our numbers are totally accurate,'' Kolt said. ''They are estimates that are most likely on the high side and that could be adjusted downwards if better information ... became available.''

Boskin agreed it is difficult to measure the size of the economy in any country and that the Soviet system presents particular problems because of its lack of market prices and a convertible currency.

Boskin and the CIA also were in agreement that the Soviet economy is in bad shape. The CIA reported in April that the Soviet economy plunged into a state of ''near crisis'' last year, and Boskin testified it ''is in serious trouble.''

The General Accounting Office is now reviewing the CIA's methods in preparing its estimates, but the congressional investigators said the CIA has turned down their requests for unclassified publications and briefings.

''This is very discouraging,'' Moynihan said, adding he would speak to CIA Director William Webster to encourage the agency to cooperate.

WARSAW, POLAND (JULY 16) UPI - Solidarity formalized its internal split over the pace of political and economic reform in Poland with the formation Monday of a new political movement that supports the Warsaw government.

''Democratic Action,'' which does not yet call itself a political party, said it will hold a founding congress July 28 and will run a candidate for president to oppose Solidarity founder Lech Walesa.

''Poland is threatened with economic recession, social disturbances and extreme attitudes within the Solidarity movement,'' said a founding declaration signed by nearly 100 prominent Solidarity activists.

''To fight against those threats, to develop democracy and to make possible in Poland a leap toward civilization, we establish a citizens movement, 'Democratic Action.'

The group said they will ask Solidarity deputies and senators in Parliament to consider a constitutional amendment that would allow an early general presidential election.

It will also support early parliamentary elections, saying the current composition of Parliament - formed as part of a political agreement last spring with the then-ruling Communist Party - ''does not reflect the political reality.''

President Wojciech Jaruzelski was elected last year by Parliament to a six-year term, but Walesa and his supporters have criticized the former Communist Party leader as being weak and out of step with the emerging democracy.

Democratic Action said it supports Solidarity Prime Minister Tadeus Mazowiecki's economic stabilization plan for Poland but would like to see more government attention paid to its ramifications, such as unemployment and the drop of real wages.

Unemployment has topped 500,000 since the plan went into effect Jan. 1 and the standard of living has fallen by 30 percent.

Democratic action is comprised mostly of members or former members of the Citizens Committee, which Walesa founded in 1988 to nudge Poland toward democracy, or local citizens committees, the powerful grass-roots electoral movement.

Among its more prominent members are Adam Michnik, editor-in-chief of the Solidarity newspaper Gazeta Wyborcza, former underground leader Zbigniew Bujak, Wroclaw activist Wladyslaw Frasyniuk, film director Andrzej Wajda, Krakow intellectual Jerzy Turowicz, who is editor-in-chief of the Catholic weekly Tygodnik Powszechny, and veteran Warsaw activist Jan Litynski.

Its founding was inevitable following a split by many of its members with Walesa over his aggressive bid for the presidency and his firing of a top aide who had been associated with the Citizens Committee.

Backers of Walesa have formed their own movement, ''Center Alliance,'' and then persuaded the local citizens committee movement to remain independent and not to lobby as a group for Mazowiecki's economic reforms.

''Our roots are in the Solidarity movement and the Citizens' Committees,'' Bujak told a news conference. ''We expected the Citizens Committees to be a platform of support for Mr. Mazowiecki's government as he asked, but they agreed to be independent.''

Democratic Action's members are made up mostly of intellectuals from Warsaw and Krakow who generally support the government program but would like to see it speed up dismantling remnants of the old communist system.

Among its goals are the early breakup of the largest, most inefficient state-owned enterprises, while at the same time providing a safety net for those thrown out of work.

Their goal is a social-oriented market economy similar to that in West Germany.

''We want a free market and social security,'' Frasyniuk said.

NEW YORK (JULY 16) UPI - Sixteen states, containing more than a third of the U.S. population, are ''in a recession or close to one,'' the New York Times reported Monday in a front-page article examining the national economy.

Despite this, the newspaper said, the United States as a whole has not fallen into a classic recession, defined as two consecutive quarters of decline in the gross national product and characterized by rising joblessness.

Broadly summarizing the national economic mood, the Times said that ''people are talking of stagnant wages, falling real estate prices, deeply indebted corporations and jobs that are getting harder to find.''

The Times painted a picture of a flat economy with many problems and few bright spots. Unemployment has not risen - in fact it fell in June to a rate of 5.2 percent from 5.3 percent in May - but Americans are finding it more and more difficult to make ends meet.

The Times said Michigan, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont were ''clearly in recession.'' Michigan's distress is tied to that of the auto industry, while New England's woes stem from a slowdown in construction and in the defense, computer and financial services industries.

According to the Times, economic conditions were also worrisome in Alabama Connecticut, Illinois, Louisiana, Maryland, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Wyoming, all reporting job growth of just 1 percent. That rate placed them ''teetering on recession,'' an economist was quoted as saying.

CLEVELAND (JULY 16) UPI - Cleveland State University basketball coach Kevin Mackey pleaded innocent to drunken-driving charges Monday and although the popular coach wants to keep his job, he may be dismissed on moral grounds.

Mackey was arrested Friday night after leaving a suspected drug house on Cleveland's east side. Police said a woman in his car had heroin and drug paraphernalia, although no drug charges were filed against Mackey.

He is charged with driving under the influence and having an open container of alcohol in the car. Mackey was arraigned in front of Cleveland Municipal Judge Carl Stokes and his trial was assigned to Judge Salvatore Calandra.

Mackey, who did not speak to reporters, wore a blue suit and was accompanied by his wife, Kathy. The trial date was not set.

He was given a urinalysis test Friday, but the results of that test have not yet been made public. Police chose the urinalysis test to determine blood alcohol level when Mackey used a breath spray after he was pulled over, which could have made a breathalyzer reading invalid.

CSU officials have suspended Mackey indefinitely, and a top official said the school could, if it chooses, terminate his contract.

''There is a standard NCAA (National Collegiate Athletic Association) clause in his contract,'' Senior Vice President Jan Muczyk said. '''Deliberate and serious violations of NCAA regulations may result in suspension without pay and-or the termination of your employment as a coach.'

''You can't cover every conceivable grounds in a contract, but I think there is an implied morals clause for people who are in a public position.''

David Roth, Mackey's attorney, said there is no specific morality clause in the new two-year contract Mackey signed Wednesday, although he did say it was possible the school may have grounds to fire Mackey for the incident.

Muczyk said the school would make a decision on Mackey soon, but was not sure how long it would take.

''A decision has not been made,'' he said. ''It will be made as expeditiously as we can make it. We need all the facts and we don't feel we have them all at this moment.''

He did say a decision probably would be made before Mackey went on trial.

What Mackey was doing in the suspected drug house - or at least why he was there - remains unclear. Mackey was in the house for more than five hours, according to police, before he left and was stopped after driving erratically.

''It's the first time that I'm aware of that he's been in that section of town,'' Roth said, adding that Mackey still was ''confused'' by the events of Friday and what led him to the house.

Mackey, 43, has a 144-67 record in eight years at Cleveland State, a commuter school in downtown Cleveland that was the surprise of the 1986 NCAA tournament, beating Indiana and St. Joseph (Pa.) before losing to Navy and David Robinson by one point.

But the team was placed on a two-year probation by the NCAA for recruiting violations, a period that ended after last year's 15-13 campaign.

''Kevin is not running from this,'' Roth said. ''He is not hiding from this. He realizes he has a problem. The only way to deal with it is to deal with it honestly. Kevin's admitted to the fact, whether it was that incident or others, there were times he probably drank more than he should have.

''He wants to put himself in a fishbowl to prove that he can rebound from this. He understands the importance of this, of being a role model.''

Mackey, who employs a pressing defense and hurry-up offense on the basketball court, should not be judged just by this one incident, Roth said.

''I do not believe one incident, regardless of how bad that incident may be, the man is not a murderer or a rapist,'' Roth said. ''I would hope that all he has done the last eight years would not be thrown out the windown because of a tragic mistake.''

MANILA, PHILIPPINES (JULY 16) UPI - The worst earthquake to hit the Philippines in two decades Monday toppled buildings and bridges, triggered landslides, and left at least 65 people dead and 100 others trapped in a flattened school, authorities said.

The Philippine Volcanology Commission said the quake, which struck at 4:26 p.m. Manila time, was centered in Cabanatuan, a city in the rice-growing region of Nueva Ecija about 60 miles north of the capital. The quake was followed by several aftershocks and rattled wide areas of Luzon Island from Manila to the northern mountain resort of Baguio.

The commission said the main quake registered 6.2 on the Richter scale. The U.S. Geological Survey in Golden, Colo., said it recorded the quake at magnitude 7.7.

Japan's meteorological agency estimated the magnitude at 7.5 to 8.0 and issued a tsunami, or giant tidal wave, warning for southwestern Japan, including Okinawa.

''It felt like a ship rolling with strong waves,'' said Lori Paul, 31, of Denver, who was at a Manila hotel. ''We've had earthquakes in California. They were like trains shaking but this one's stronger.''

Reports from the Red Cross and the military Office of Civil Defense put the death toll so far at 65, mostly high-school students caught in classrooms when walls and ceilings collapsed.

Rescue workers have retrieved 19 bodies from the rubble of the six-story Philippine Christian College in Cabanatuan, which collapsed like an accordion, according to United Press International reporter Perseus Echeminada.

Officials denied an earlier report by radio station DZRH that said 55 people were killed at the school. But a college security guard said he believed about 100 teen-agers were still trapped on the second floor of a school building.

Workers using chain saws and flashlights were attempting to extricate students crying for help Monday night. Rescue officials requested assistance from U.S. engineers at the U.S. Clark Air Base.

Sonia Tubig, 20, a high-school student interviewed at a hospital in Cabuatuan, said she ran under a table in a third-floor room at the college when the shaking began and was rescued about three hours later.

''In a few minutes, the building began to sag.'' she said ''There were about 40 of us in the room and I just ran under the table and prayed. People trapped inside were screaming and crying even when the people pulled me out.''

The Red Cross and the civil defense office listed three dead in Guimba, nine in San Jose, and one in Munoz, all in Nueva Ecija.

In Dagupan, a city in Pangasinan province, the Red Cross reported 11 deaths, including six killed when in a collapsed theater.

Sixteen died in Baguio, 120 miles north of Manila, among them five students at the Saint Louis University, the civil defense office said.

The OCD reported the five-star Hyatt Regency hotel and five other inns in the Baguio resort area either collapsed or were severely damaged, but the report could not be confirmed. Commercial telephone lines to Baguio were knocked down and landslides were reported in approaches to the area.

The Pentagon in Washington had no immediate word of casualties among the 15,000 U.S. military personnel in the Philippines but said Camp John Hay near Baguio, a rest-and-recreation center for the military, had requested urgent medical attention.

Police said six people were killed in metropolitan Manila.

Several dozen high-rises were damaged in the capital and six major bridges on highways leading to the north were destroyed. More than 150 houses were flattened, leaving 200 families homeless. Tents were rushed to some areas where residents refused to go back to their homes as night fell.

Scores were reported injured in Manila and other areas hit by the temblor, the strongest to hit Luzon since 307 people died in a major quake Aug. 2, 1968, in Manila.

President Corazon Aquino urged Filipinos to stay calm and to take all necessary precautions.

''Let us pray to God to keep us safe,'' Aquino said.

Aquino said she was meeting with some senators at the presidential palace when the quake struck. She said she hid under a table for about 30 seconds.

''What the coup was not able to do, the earthquake did,'' said Aquino, referring to a December coup attempt in which more than 100 people were killed. ''It was really an earth-shaking meeting. This is why I'm going to limit my meeting with senators.''

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - The Bush administration threatened Monday to veto the Senate version of the new farm policy law, arguing it was excessively costly and riddled with bad policy ideas.

In a 13-page letter, Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter listed a dozen policy objections and advocated a 10 percent cut in the sugar support price. The objections were aimed at provisions to set a minimum milk support price, to create a soybean marketing loan, and to require the government to make larger advance subsidy payments whenever it lowered a crop loan rate.

The Senate was expected to begin debate on the bill early this week. It would direct farm program spending for the next five years, as well as setting terms for conservation, export, and research programs.

''If (the bill) were sent to the president prior to conclusion of the budget summit and does not achieve substantial, multi-year savings ... and if price and income supports are not made more market-oriented ... then the secretary of agriculture and the president's other senior advisers would recommend that he veto the bill,'' Yeutter wrote.

There was no immediate comment from farm state leaders in the Senate.

During drafting of the bill, members of the Senate Agriculture Committee charged the administration was providing little guidance.

Senate Republican Leader Robert Dole of Kansas warned last week that the cost of the bill was far above acceptable levels and would have to be changed.

Administration analysts estimated the cost of the bill's commodity support programs as $59 billion, or $5 billion more than if current law were not changed. Other areas, especially new environmental programs, could add an additional $3 billion, they said.

The 1985 farm policy law, which expires this year, lowered crop supports with the goal of increasing U.S. competitiveness while protecting farm income.

Yeutter said the Senate bill, in some aspects, was a retreat from the successful 1985 law. He also said that with relatively minor changes in market prices, the cost of farm subsidies could climb an additional $5 billion under the bill.

In addition, he said the bill failed to reauthorize the food stamp program and other public feeding programs, settle the question of replacing crop insurance or give farmers much additional freedom to decide which crops to grow. The letter did not specify how to achieve cost savings but pointed to three possible areas for work - crop subsidy rates, the number of acres eligible for payment and who is eligible for payments.

The letter was made public a few hours after the White House raised its estimate of the fiscal 1991 budget deficit. It also followed release of an Agriculture Department analysis of the Senate bill.

The Agriculture Department analysis forecast an additional $2.3 billion in dairy program costs because the government would have to buy an additional 15 billion pounds of surplus dairy products. At present, the government cuts the support price to discourage surpluses.

The Senate Agriculture Committee voted to change the current crop loan system into a marketing loan program. In addition, the government would be required, whenever it used its power to unilaterally reduce the rate, to increase the size of advance deficiency payments to farmers.

Department analysts said the increased payments - called ''advance Findley payments'' in Capitol Hill shorthand - would cost $2.9 billion. Senate staff workers said much of the cost could be erased with an amendment dictating the payments could not be made until Oct. 1, the starting date for fiscal years.

In addition, the administration said farmers might get up to $1.5 billion under a provision that would let farmers keep a portion of their advance deficiency payments if the final crop support rate is at least 10 percent lower than originally forecast.

(JULY 16) UPI - Soviet President Gorbachev apparently is dropping his opposition to a united Germany being a member of NATO. The decision came during two days of talks between Gorbachev and West German Chancellor Kohl in Gorbachev's hometown of Stavropol. The two leaders told a joint news conference today they agreed to let a united Germany decide for itself whether it wants to belong to NATO, the Warsaw Pact or remain neutral.

The New York jogger raped and beaten in Central Park last year took the witness stand today, testifying against the six youths charged in the attack. The 30-year-old woman described her habit of jogging in the park. But she testified that she does NOT remember anything that happened from the night of the attack until more than one month later when she regained consciousness in a hospital. The judge ordered courtroom artists NOT to make sketches of the woman, in line with her request.

MANAGUA, NICARAGUA (JULY 16) UPI - Nicaraguans crowded outside the U.S. Consulate Monday to receive tourist visas to visit the United States after two years of being denied permission to do so.

More than 200 people showed up at the consulate Monday morning, with more expected during the day. Similar numbers of applicants were expected for the next several days before demand starts to ease, U.S. Embassy officials said.

The practice of granting tourist visas to Nicarguans was suspended two years ago amid diplomatic friction between the United States and the former Sandinista government. Former President Daniel Ortega ousted the U.S. ambassador in Managua in 1988 and began restricting entrance of U.S. citizens to Nicaragua; the U.S. retaliated by ousting the Nicaraguan ambassador in Washington and halting all tourist visas.

Since then, tourist visas were only granted in emergencies and special cases. Immigrant visas were, and continue to be, granted for Nicaraguans who wish to become U.S. citizens, but they must follow the same long procedure that is standard for most foreigners.

Ortega lifted visa restrictions for U.S. citizens to visit Nicaragua in a gesture to President Violeta Chamorro days before she took office.

Embassy spokesman Tom Mesa said the consulate began granting visas July 9, but later that same day the consulate, like most of Managua, shut down for most of last week amid a violent, nationwide strike.

Mesa said the consulate processed 165 visa applicants on Friday and that Monday was expected to be the largest day so far.

He said many of the applications are approved within the same day.

PRAGUE, CZECHOSLOVAKIA (JULY 16) UPI - Thousands of people lined up for hours at gas stations across the country Monday amid unconfirmed reports the Czech government would raise the price of gasoline because of an expected cutback of Soviet oil deliveries.

Hungary imposed steep increases in the price of gasoline last week after the Soviet Union announced it would curtail oil deliveries to Eastern Europe this year by 7 million tons.

In Bulgaria, lines several miles long have been the pattern for a week, and Bulgarian radio said the situation may remain tense until fall.

Under long-term agreements between the members of the Soviet-dominated trade group, the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance, Moscow traded oil and natural gas at prices far below the world market to its client states for manufactured and processed goods.

But starting next January, all transactions between Comecon members must be settled in hard currencies such as dollars, West German marks or dollar-backed rubles rather than non-convertible East European currencies.

Government ministers held an emergency meeting in Prague on the developments and were expected to announce some new measures on Tuesday, government radio said.

The Soviet announcement hit just as the heavy vacation season begins in Moscow's former satellite countries.

Across the capital, motorists queued in lines up to 100 cars long for gasoline following a morning radio report that in Northern Moravia, many stations had run out of gasoline.

Fire department officials took to the radio to warn motorists to take care in storing gasoline.

Current gasoline prices in Czechoslovakia are lower than in Western Europe averaging about $1.35 a gallon.

Foreign drivers must buy gas with special coupons, paying in hard currency at Western European prices, generally three to four times the national prices.

Senior economic officials in the Prague government have repeatedly warned that the country will remain dependent on fuel supplies from the Soviet Union, its main supplier, for the forseeable future.

In Sofia, Bulgaria, news reports said officials were awaiting the arrival of a Soviet tanker to help alleviate the tight situation, in which gasoline is now rationed but nevertheless mostly ends up going to enterprises and not individuals.

Tourists in countries neighboring Bulgaria that that gasoline may be impossible to find.

''I'm very sorry for all those tourists on the Black sea,'' one Sofia resident said. ''What will happen to them?''

RIO DE JANEIRO, BRAZIL (JULY 16) UPI - A parallel government set up by leftist opposition parties over the weekend drew scoffs from Brazilian President Fernando Collor de Mello, a spokesman said Monday.

Collor called the shadow Cabinet of Brazilian Workers Party President Luis Inacio Lula de Silva a ''joke,'' according to presidential spokesman Claudio Humberto Rosa y Silva.

Lula named 16 ministers for his shadow cabinet in Brasilia over the Rosa y Silva said he did not think the mock ministers could effecively critique the Collor government because ''they lack the structure for this and, additionally, the authorities will not release the information needed to continue this joke.''

STAMFORD, Conn. (JULY 16) UPI - Self-styled animal rights activist Fran Stephanie Trutt was sentenced Monday to one year in prison for trying to blow up the president of U.S. Surgical Corp. to protest his company's killing of dogs.

Trutt, 35, was sentenced to 10 years in prison, suspended after 32 months, but was expected to be released March 31, 1991, under a plea bargain because she has been jailed since her arrest in November 1988.

Trutt pleaded no contest to charges of attemped murder and possession and manufacture of a bomb.

The Queens, N.Y., woman was upset about U.S. Surgical's use of live dogs in developing and demonstrating its surgical staples.

She was accused of planting a nail-studded pipe bomb outside of the company's headquarters in Norwalk in a foiled attempt to blow up Chairman Leon Hirsch.

Police had said Trutt placed a radio-controlled bomb under bushes that were adjacent to a path used by Hirsch.

Trutt claimed she did not intend to harm Hirsch, but that her actions were in protest of the company's use of live, anesthetized dogs during surgical experiments and demonstrations.

She was apprehended Nov. 11, 1988, by Norwalk police as she left the grounds of U.S. Surgical's headquarters and has been held since at the Connecticut Correctional Center in Niantic, the state's prison for women.

After she was charged, the FBI and New York police searched her home and discovered two additional bombs in a suitcase in a bathroom.

She faces federal explosive charges in New York with two New York men accused of making the bomb used in the U.S. Surgical incident.

After the attempted bombing, animal rights groups denied any association with Trutt and feared the incident would harm the animal right's movement.

Julie Lewin, coordinator of the Connecticut chapter of the Fund for Animals, has called Trutt's action ''irresponsible.'' Lewin's organization has sought court action to halt U.S. Surgical's use of live dogs.

LOS ANGELES (JULY 16) UPI - Home video producer J2 Communications said Monday it has agreed to buy National Lampoon Inc., publisher of the bi-monthly humor magazine, for about $4.43 million in a stock-swap deal.

The deal, which had been originally announced March 9, is designed to expand the 20-year-old magazine and move it into taking advantage of other opportunities, such as movie and home video deals. J2 also plans to start putting out the magazine on a monthly basis, said spokesman David Bowers.

The Lampoon, which was a huge success in the 1970s as a monthly, with irreverent humor targeted at baby boomers, currently has a circulation of about 300,000. It gained widespread recognition through its affiliation with a series of successful comedy movies, including the 1978 hit ''Animal House,'' starring John Belushi, and the subsequent ''Vacation'' movies, starring Chevy Chase.

Bowers said National Lampoon recently signed an exclusive three-year affiliation deal with independent New Line Cinema, which scored a major success with ''Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles'' earlier this year.

Under the agreement, due to close in late August or September, each National Lampoon shareholder will receive two-thirds of a share of J2 stock and a warrant for buying a share of J2 stock at an exercise price of $3.75 a share, subject to adjustment to $3.50 if certain trading levels of J2 stock are not maintained.

J2 also announced that Tim Matheson and Dan Grodnik, co-chairmen and co-chief executive officers, had resigned. ''Our primary objective in obtaining capital for National Lampoon will be fulfilled with the completion of the purchase of National Lampoon by J2,'' they said in the announcement.

Matheson and Grodnik acquired a controlling stake in National Lampoon last year and have increased both advertising revenues and the subscription base. Both will remain as ''substantial shareholders'' in J2.

Matheson, who played the character Otter in ''Animal House,'' said he intends to get back to the more ''creative'' aspects of the entertainment business.

J2 has about 70 original home-video titles in release, including ''Dorf on Golf,'' starring Tim Conway. The company is headed by James Jimirro, who founded the Disney Channel and Disney Home Video.

LONDON (JULY 16) UPI - Iraq Monday freed a British nurse who had been jailed on espionage charges that led to the hanging of a journalist companion, and British officials hailed the woman's release as a step toward better relations.

Iraqi Embassy officials said President Saddam Hussein cut short Daphne Parish's 15-year sentence on humanitarian grounds after a personal appeal from Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda. Parish left Baghdad early Monday aboard a private jet bound for Lusaka, Zambia, the officials said.

It was not immediately clear why Kaunda intervened, but he apparently chose to act as an intermediary in light of the poor state of relations between Britain and Iraq. It was not known how long Parish would stay in Zambia or when she would return to Britain.

The Iraqi News Agency, monitored in Kuwait, quoted Parish as saying her release ''was a surprise to me and I asked to talk to the British ambasador once I received it.'' She also thanked the Iraqi president for ordering her to be freed, the news agency said.

Parish, 52, was arrested last September for helping Iranian-born journalist Farzad Bazoft travel to a military facility near Baghdad to pursue a story about a massive explosion reported to have killed hundreds of people.

An Iraqi military tribunal ruled the pair were spying for Israel when they ventured to the blast site where Bazoft, who was on assignment with The Observer newspaper of London, allegedly disguised himself as a doctor and took soil samples.

London maintained the pair had not been spying but that Bazoft had been overzealous in his search for a story. Despite London's contention, Bazoft was executed on March 15.

Relations between Britain and Iraq further deteriorated when British officials blocked Iraqi-bound shipments of alleged nuclear trigger parts and pipe segments allegedly intended for building a mammoth artillery gun.

The hanging of Bazoft, 31, prompted Britain to recall its ambassador, suspend ministerial visits and expel Iraqis training with the British military. The actions did not disturb $450 million in British trade credits to Iraq.

The Foreign Office hailed Parish's release as ''a first step toward a new and fruitful relationship between Britain and Iraq.''

Foreign Office Minister William Waldegrave said the last major impediment to improving relations would be for Baghdad to free a British businessman, Ian Richter, jailed for life on corruption charges that London disputes.

''I hope (Parish's release) is part of a move to put relations with Britain back onto a more even keel,'' he said. ''We want to have a good relationship with them.

Waldegrave said Iraq's nearly eight-year Persian Gulf war with Iran, suspended under a 1988 cease-fire, had influenced the country's actions.

''We have always had troubles with Iraq,'' he said. ''Iraq is a very powerful, proud country that has been through a very, very tough war, and is very tense in its attitude, particularly toward Britain because of our long history as a major power.''

A Foreign Office spokesman said Parish's release showed Baghdad shared London's desire for ''constructive and open dialogue.''

Michelle de Vries, Parish's daughter who traveled to Baghdad and launched numerous appeals to gain her mother's freedom, was jubilant.

''I burst into tears and then I started dancing and jumping around the room,'' she said of her initial response. ''I want to see mummy as soon as possible.''

Parish had been working in Baghdad's Ibn al-Bitar hospital when she was arrested, and had previously served as a nurse in Saudi Arabia. She shared a cell with three other women, and was reported to be in good health.

NEWARK, N.J. (JULY 16) UPI - A federal judge entered a $73 million default judgment Monday against Eddie Antar, the fugitive founder of the Crazy Eddie Inc. discount electronics chain and target of a securities fraud case.

U.S. District Judge Nicholas Politan's order allows federal authorities to seize Antar's property. The judge accepted the Securities and Exchange Commission's calculation that Antar owes $52.5 million in illegal profits and $21 million in interest.

But the government may only be able to collect a small fraction of the total immediately, Richard Simpson, a lawyer for the Securities and Exchange Commission said. Antar transferred the bulk of his fortune to Israel after selling his share of the once high-flying company in 1987.

''It's just going to take time for us to put together the paper trail,'' Simpson said.

Antar, who built a store in the Coney Island section of New York into a chain with branches around the New York, was the target of an SEC suit charging that he manipulated financial records to increase earnings and therefore the price of the stock. A group of top executives, including several of Antar's relatives, were also named as defendants.

The company, based in Edison, N.J., went bankrupt after Antar resigned as chairman. It was later liquidated.

After making one brief court appearance earlier this year to answer a contempt of court charge, Antar disappeared. His lawyers, Jack Arsenault and Justin Feldman, resigned from the case, saying that they could not defend a client who was not willing to help himself.

In April, Politan found that the government had shown Antar had committed securities fraud and that his failure to appear justified a finding of liability.

The government will be able to seize Antar's U.S. property, including a house in the Hamptons, two condominiums on Williams Island in Florida and property in Deal, N.J., Simpson said. Two other houses, one in Brooklyn and the other in Oakhurst, N.J., are tied up in a dispute with Antar's ex-wife.

Antar's present whereabouts are unknown, although rumors have placed him in Brooklyn, Israel and South America.

''There's a 90 percent chance that his whereabouts will become known at some point, and at that time we will make him pay $73 million,'' Simpson said.

If Antar reappears, he will have limited room to fight the default judgment, Simpson said, since he would have to prove that the government committed a fraud to win it.

Contrary to the persona of the wild and crazy dealmaker Antar cultivated in a much-imitated series of frenzied television commercials - in which the announcer would screech and bellow that Crazy Eddie's prices were ''insane'' - Antar's lawyers describe him as a basically shy man who just bolted, feeling that he had become a target for the government, his relatives and Crazy Eddie shareholders. Arsenault and Feldman argue that most of the alleged fraud occurred after Antar left the company.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (JULY 16) UPI - Engineers plan another week or so of tests to learn more about the leak grounding the shuttle Atlantis and to figure out if it can be fixed without hauling the spaceplane off the launch pad, officials said Monday.

If a leaking fuel line joint can be repaired at the launch pad, Atlantis theoretically could be ready for launch on a secret military mission by around the middle of August, according to internal planning schedules that assume a relatively easy-to-fix problem and around-the-clock launch processing.

But given the nature of the leak, it would appear more likely the $2 billion orbiter will have to be hauled back to the Vehicle Assembly Building where it can be removed from its external tank. Such a move would delay a launch attempt to late next month.

Depending on the nature of the repair work, NASA managers could elect to fix Atlantis and proceed with the military mission or to press ahead with plans to launch the shuttle Columbia on a 10-day astronomy mission that was postponed in May because of a leak in a giant fuel line ''disconnect'' fitting.

Atlantis's leak is believed to involve a seal in a flange where the 17-inch-wide hydrogen fuel line from the ship's external tank attaches to the same disconnect assembly, which allows the external tank to be jettisoned in space.

The hydrogen line attaches to the disconnect fitting at a flange that is held together by 48 large bolts. Inside the flange, a seal is used to ensure a leak-free fit.

It is possible that some of the bolts were not tightened properly, which could explain the leaky flange seal.

In testing expected to take most of this week, engineers plan to use gaseous helium and nitrogen to further characterize the leak and to make sure no other problems are present.

The tightness of the bolts will be tested late this week and a decision on how to proceed is not expected until after the testing is complete.

While the flange bolts can be adjusted at the launch pad, gaining access to the seal itself would be much more difficult and it is not yet clear whether such a repair job could be accomplished with the shuttle still attached to the external tank.

Columbia was grounded six hours before its planned May 30 blastoff when sensors detected hydrogen gas leaking into the ship's engine compartment. A subsequent test traced the leak to somewhere in the ship's 17-inch disconnect fitting and Columbia was hauled off the launch pad for repairs.

NASA then proceeded with plans to launch Atlantis this month on a secret military mission, but another leak showed up in a fueling test two weeks ago. Another fueling test Friday traced the leak to the flange seal area.

While both leaks appeared to involve the 17-inch disconnect fitting, they were very different in magnitude. Columbia's fitting leaked far more hydrogen than Atlantis's and no fuel was detected in Atlantis's engine compartment.

KIEV, UKRAINE, USSR (JULY 16) UPI - The Ukrainian Parliament passed a declaration of sovereignty Monday claiming the republic has the right to control its military, pursue independent foreign ties and print its own money.

The ''Declaration of the State Sovereignty of the Ukraine,'' similar to the independence proclamations in the rebellous Baltic region, asserts the supremacy of Ukrainian laws over Soviet laws on the republic's territory.

The declaration says the Parliament ''expressing the will of the people of the Ukraine and striving to create a democratic society ... guarantees the rights and freedom of all human beings.''

Several thousand people gathered outside the Parliament building, waving blue-and-gold Ukrainian nationalist flags while deputies voted 355-4 to approve the landmark document.

Demonstators chanted ''the Ukraine is free'' and handed each lawmaker a red rose as he or she left the Parliament following the momentous vote.

''Of course, we all realize that real freedom is a long way away, but this is the first and a very important step,'' said Svitlana Badzjo, an activist in the Rukh nationalist group and the wife of a well-known former political prisoner.

Rukh founder Ivan Drach waved over a group of Communist Party legislators, who make up three-quarters of the Ukrainian Parliament and who voted overwhelmingly for the sovereignty declaration.

The measure was the boldest independence challenge yet to come from the Ukraine, the second most populous republic in the Soviet Union with 52 million people and the country's industrial heartland.

Badzjo said passage of the act was helped by Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev's victory over hard-liners at the just-completed 28th Communist Party Congress in Moscow, and by the support of coal miners in the Ukraine's Donbass region, who sent numerous telegrams to the legislature.

The 10-point declaration describes the Ukraine's sovereignty as ''the supremacy, independence, fullness and indivisibility of the republic's power on its territory and its independence and equality in external relations.''

The Ukraine's declaration also ''solemnly proclaims its wish to be in the future a constantly neutral state that will not participate in any military pact and will (pledge) not to produce, spread or use nuclear weapons.''

The document also creates a Ukrainian citizenship while allowing people to preserve their Soviet citizenship.

It says the Ukraine can form its own armed forces and that Ukrainians should perform their military service within the republic.

BY ROB STEIN - UPI

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - The Hubble Space Telescope, touted as a revolutionary new eye on the universe, turns out to be near-sighted.

Days later, the space shuttle fleet, the centerpiece of the U.S. space program, is grounded by an elusive fuel leak.

At the same time, reports indicate the space station Freedom, envisioned as leading space exploration into the next century, may be too heavy and need too many repairs to be feasible.

These are among a spate of embarrassing revelations from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration within the past month that has tarnished the image of the U.S. space agency.

Instead of a master of technology on the high frontier, the agency has become the target of lampoons from stand-up comedians and cartoonists, and tongue-lashings from senators who use terms like ''techno turkeys'' to describe NASA space probes.

The foul-ups have eroded public and congressional support for the space agency to the lowest point since the space shuttle Challenger exploded in 1986, some say.

''We're concerned about the public perceptions of NASA and the space program,'' said Lori Garver, executive director of the National Space Society in Washington, a NASA booster.

''NASA is really in a crisis of confidence,'' agreed John Logsdon, director of the Space Policy Institute at George Washington University.

The blunders come as a cost-conscious Congress is considering whether to boost NASA's budget above $15 billion, a 24 percent hike that represents the largest proposed increase of any government agency and includes programs key to the agency's future.

''I think they're in trouble,'' said John Pike of the American Federation of Scientists. ''Two weeks ago the problem was, 'How big of an increase are they going to get?' These problems have couched it more in terms of hanging on to what they got.''

At the beleaguered agency, morale has reportedly plummeted and something of a siege mentality has set in. Officials have vowed to uncover what caused the foul-ups, stressed the problems can be fixed and argued the setbacks do not represent any fundamental problems.

Many outside experts agree, saying the glitches occurred at different times, for different reasons and that such snags are inevitable in the complicated world of space flight.

''It's fun to NASA-bash these days,'' said Jerry Grey of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics. ''But this kind of thing is fairly common in advanced technology programs. In this case it's just really bad luck that they all happened at once.''

Americans remember Neil Armstrong stepping onto the moon and John Glenn orbiting Earth but tend to forget disasters such as three Apollo astronauts perishing in a launch pad fire, Pike said.

''On some level it is, 'Situation Normal: All Fouled Up. The technical problems they are having are no different than the problems they've always had,'' Pike said.

''The reality is that Murphy is and has been alive and well in the space program,'' said Pike, referring to Murphy's Law that ''Everything that can go wrong, will go wrong.''

But others say the problems are indicative of a fundamental flaw in the way NASA works: the tendency to pursue large, crowd-pleasing projects instead of more modest, practical goals.

''NASA has laid out its long-range program in space, which is to pursue what it calls a procession of manned space spectaculars,'' said Alex Roland, a former NASA historian who now teaches at Duke University. ''They are just determined to do that and they are going to see that through in spite of the fact that it's an unrealistic agenda.

"Instead of adjusting their goals and schedules to suit what they are learning technologically, they try to make technology fit their preconceived notions of where they are going,'' he said. ''They insist on these quantum leaps in technology that invite the setbacks that we have seen repeatedly.''

Others say the problems stem from NASA trying to deliver more than is realistic based on its budget.

''It's an organization that in its present form and style of management is unlikely to be able to achieve the level of excellence we expect of it. It's the product of 20 years of essentially dishonesty to itself - that it could in fact carry out programs on its own successfully,'' Logsdon said.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - After weeks and weeks of discussions, the most important civil rights bill of the year is ready to move from the drawing board to the legislative battlefield.

President Bush wants a bill. Senate Democrats want a bill. Senate Republicans want a bill.

But the lengthy discussions at the highest levels of the White House and the Senate have failed to produce a compromise bill and Democrats have decided it is time to put on the pressure.

Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell has scheduled a vote Tuesday to cut off debate and force a vote. If the first attempt, which requires a 60-vote majority, fails, backup votes are scheduled Wednesday and Thursday.

Although the negotiations are ''continuing'' and all sides still hope for an agreement, the lines appear to be hardening.

The bill, in effect, would roll back six 1989 Supreme Court decisions that civil rights advocates claim diminished the workplace protections for women, blacks and other minorities. Similar legislation is being considered in the House.

The underlying dispute centers on the claim by Bush and many of the Republicans that the Democratic-sponsored bill would establish a system of quotas in hiring and promotions.

As the discussions continued, Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., introduced a new bill that the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights blasted as a ''masquerade'' that ''would take us backwards on civil rights.''

Kassebaum said the negotiations, which GOP conservatives do not trust, would produce a ''legislative misadventure with potentially severe, long-term consequences'' far beyond the goal of reversing the Supreme Court decisions.

She said her bill would restore the civil rights laws ''to the same strength and clarity'' that existed before the Supreme Court rulings, and added, ''Those decisions have significantly increased the difficulty of proving discrimination, and if they are allow to stand, they will weaken our civil rights laws.''

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole, also from Kansas, said there are ''many areas of common ground'' between the White House and Senate Democrats.

''But this common ground is shaky ground, and it will collapse if the bill's proponents do not show some willingness to address - in a meaningful way - the very legitimate concerns raised by the president and his advisers,'' Dole said in a Senate speech.

Dole said Democrats must show ''some flexibility'' and must be ''willing to take the negotiations process seriously.''

The GOP leader also said Mitchell's efforts to cut off debate ''does not promote the negotation process. It does not promote compromise. And it does not promote the cause of racial justice in this country.''

#90197u1762 07/16/1990 ~United Press International

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - Vice President Dan Quayle Monday asked NASA Administrator Richard Truly to form an independent task force to consider ''the future long-term direction'' of the embattled space program.

''Space continues to be a top priority for this administration. We all want the best ideas on how we can move into the next century maintaining our leadership in space,'' according to a statement from Quayle's office.

While there is no specific deadline, the administration hoped Truly and the task force would report back by early fall to Quayle, who heads the National Space Council, said David Beckwith, Quayle's spokesman.

''This is not a backward-looking proposal,'' Beckwith said. ''We've got to press ahead with the space program. This is not a, 'Who shot John?' investigation.''

NASA had no immediate comment.

Quayle's statement dismissed reports that the White House planned to conduct its own investigation into the beleaguered space agency.

''The vice president is looking forward to the resumption of shuttle flights and to NASA's conclusion of (its own) ... inquiry,'' the statement said.

The move was prompted by the erosion of public and congressional support for the space program, administration officials said.

The space agency is under fire from a series of embarrassing revelations in the past month, including the grounding of the space shuttle fleet, a defect in the Hubble Space Telescope and potential problems with the proposed space station Freedom.

The problems triggered a storm of criticism in Congress, which is considering a request to boost NASA's budget above $15 billion for fiscal year 1991, the largest proposed increase of any government agency.

Public and congressional support for NASA is widely believed to have dropped to the lowest point since the 1986 Challenger disaster, which claimed the life of New Hampshire schoolteacher Christa McAuliffe and six other shuttle crew members.

Lori Garver of the National Space Society said she was pleased the White House was not conducting its own investigation, but said the task force appeared unnecessary.

''I think we have studied the long-term future direction of NASA ad nauseum and we know where we're going,'' she said.

But John Pike of the American Federation of Scientists said the move was probably necessary given the ''crisis of confidence'' in NASA, although he also questioned how objective the panel would be.

''If they round up the usual suspects - put together a bunch of NASA insiders - that's not going to solve anything,'' he said.

But John Logsdon of George Washington University said a completely independent White House investigation would have ''elements of a witch hunt about it.''

''It's entirely appropriate that the vice president and the head of NASA agree to do this - even if the finding is there is no problem - because confidence in NASA has been shaken,'' Logsdon said.

The $1.5 billion Hubble telescope, placed into orbit April 25, was expected to revolutionize astronomy by peering more deeply and with greater clarity into the universe than ever before.

But engineers discovered a flaw in the telescope's highly touted optical system - one of the instrument's critical mirrors is apparently curved slightly incorrectly, blurring the telescope's view of the heavens.

Officials at NASA, which is investigating the foul-up, have said the telescope can still do valuable research and its capabilities can be completely restored by 1993 by replacing one of the instruments.

Meanwhile, NASA's three space shuttles have been grounded by hydrogen fuel leaks, further detracting from the agency's image.

In that case, NASA officials have defended the agency, saying the leak was detected by safety procedures instituted in the wake of the Challenger disaster, demonstrating the effectiveness of those changes.

Engineers last week reported they believed they had pinpointed the source of the leak in two shuttles and hoped to resume flights soon.

Concerns have also arisen over the proposed $30 billion space station Freedom, which reports have indicated may be too heavy and require too much routine maintenance under current designs to be practical.

SAN SALVADOR, EL SALVADOR (JULY 16) UPI - Soldiers stopped and searched vehicles and pedestrians Monday in and around San Salvador and other major cities in response to reports of a possible rebel attack.

''The search operation of pedestrians and vehicles are preventative measures to guard against a supposed rebel offensive,'' said a spokesman for the Armed Forces Press Committee.

A commander of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front's urban commandos told reporters last week that peace talks between the rebels, known as FMLN, and the government were going badly. He added the rebels would probably launch a new offensive.

An estimated 2,000 people, combatants and civilians, died in a massive rebel offensive last November. More than 72,000 people have died in the course of the decade-old civil war.

Government and FMLN representatives are scheduled to meet in Costa Rica starting July 20 for the third round of peace talks, mediated by the United Nations.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - The Nuclear Regulatory Commission proposed new rules Monday allowing utilities to extend the operating life of older reactors, provided they take steps to prevent failure of aging pipes and safety systems.

The ''license renewal'' rules would permit a plant operator to seek NRC permission to continue operating a reactor for up to 20 years after its initial 40-year federal operating license expires.

The rules come as 35 of the nation's 112 commercial reactors face license expiration between 2000 and 2014, meaning they would have to shut down at a time when industry expects it will encounter difficulty in meeting rising electricity demand.

Industry officials say that allowing older plants to stay in operation could save Americans an estimated $350 billion in construction costs for new electricity generating facilities in the next century.

The NRC proposal is controversial in view of mounting evidence that pipes and other reactor components can corrode or weaken due to long-term exposure to radiation and high temperatures and water pressure.

In 1986, four workers at the Surry Unit 2 nuclear power plant in Virginia were killed when a large water pipe broke because one wall was thinned by corrosion faster than expected. Thinning of pipe walls also has been found at the Trojan plant in Oregon and the Wolf Creek plant in Kansas.

NRC officials have acknowledged the dangers associated with age-related degradation of equipment, with NRC Commissioner Kenneth Rogers saying in an an August 30, 1988, speech: ''Degradation would decrease the safety margins so that, in essence, we have a 'loaded gun,' an accident waiting to happen.''

To ensure safe operation of older reactors, the rules would require utilities seeking license extension to identify all pipes, shutdown systems and other components that could be prone to failure due to aging.

The NRC said utilities would have to take measures to replace or otherwise address deteriorated parts, but the rules have no specific requirements to check or repair any particular items. The agency also said corrective action could be delayed if not immediately needed.

The industry already has designated two plants to pioneer the license extension process: Yankee, located at Rowe, Mass., the nation's oldest reactor, and Monticello, at Monticello, Minn.

Yankee got its operating license in 1960 and has a widely admired operating record. Its license expires in 2000. Monticello, whose license expires in 2011, is also regarded as one of the nation's better-run nuclear plants.

''Plants that have proven themselves should not be turned off prematurely '' said Harold Finger, president of the U.S. Council for Energy Awareness, the public relations arm of the nuclear industry.

''It would be folly to throw away these valuable resources just because a certain anniversary is reached,'' he added. ''If it makes sense to operate for 39 years and 11 months, it makes sense to operate in year 41, year 42 and so on while federal (safety) standards are met.''

Environmentalists criticized the NRC proposal as too vague, saying it depended far too much on utilities to make judgements about what measures were necessary for older plants, which they said posed the greatest risk of major accidents.

''It's all very vague,'' said Robert Pollard, a former NRC nuclear engineer who now works for the Union of Concerned Scientists, an anti-nuclear group. ''There are no requirements.

''All they are saying is they (utilities) are going to give due consideration to the effects of aging,'' Pollard added. ''What the hell does that mean?''

Pollard maintained that utilities inevitably are going to balk at expensive repairs and, instead, will take their chances with dangerously old equipment.

Noting the rules could allow some plants to operate for up to 60 years, Pollard said, ''You have to ask yourself: What mechanical device are you using today that is 60 years old?''

Pollard also said the NRC decision to allow license renewal directly conflicted with the agency's stated desire to move the industry toward construction of a new generation of advanced reactors that would have safer designs than currently operating plants.

Frank Ingram, spokesman for the NRC, declined to directly respond to Pollard's criticisms. He noted the NRC proposal was subject to public comment for the next 90 days and was not scheduled for final approval until May 1991.

DETROIT (JULY 16) UPI - Ford Motor Co. said Monday it has placed a slew of incentives for the first time on its new 1991-model Ford Escort and Mercury Tracer until Aug. 8 to spur slower-than-expected sales of those subcompact cars.

The No. 2 automaker is also offering first-time buyers of a Ford product a $500 discount if they purchase its new Mercury Capri roadster, which is slated to go on sale Thursday.

First-time buyers of the new Escort and Tracer models are also being offered the $500 discount if it is their first Ford product purchase. The program is seen as a way to sway buyers from competing import brands.

Buyers of those cars and the Capri must finance through Ford Motor Credit except in the northeast, where bank financing is acceptable, company spokesman Bill Carroll said.

In addition, dealers are being offered between $200 and $500 to sell each Escort and Tracer, which can be passed along in the form of customer savings if they wish.

Buyers are also being offered a $50 coupon just to test drive a new Escort or Tracer. That coupon can be used beyond Aug. 8 toward the purchase of one of those cars, Carroll said.

Ford is also giving dealer sales personnel an additional $200 to $500 on two-door Escort and Tracer models only if they meet specific monthly sales goals, Carroll said.

The automaker is under pressure to sell between 400,000 and 500,000 Escort and Tracer cars a year so it can meet federally mandated standards on fuel economy while still being able to sell its larger, profitable cars that are more fuel thirsty.

''Sales aren't moving as fast as originally planned,'' Carroll said, adding that Ford has not reached full production of those cars this month as planned because of a shortage of wheel spindles that restricted output at its Wayne, Mich., plant.

The Escort and Tracer were redesigned for 1991 under a $2 billion program. Both were heavily based on a small car design by its Japanese affiliate, Mazda Motor Corp.

MOSCOW (JULY 16) UPI - President Mikhail Gorbachev dropped his opposition Monday to NATO membership for a united Germany, removing the last major obstacle to rejoining the two states divided since the end of World War II.

''I think, in reality, that united Germany will be present in NATO if that is its choice, but at the same time it would cooperate with the Soviet Union and with part of the Warsaw Pact,'' the Soviet president said.

Gorbachev, whose earlier proposal of a single Germany's joint membership in the two military blocs was rejected by NATO, made his stunning concession at a joint news conference with West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl in Zheleznovodsk near his native Stavropol in southern Russia.

The West reacted with swift approval to Gorbachev's turnabout. The NATO alliance hailed it, and President Bush called it a demonstration of ''statesmanship ... in the best interests of all countries of Europe, including the Soviet Union.''

Gorbachev's assent removed the final buttress of the Soviet empire in East Europe, carved from the states that the Soviet army liberated on its way to capturing Berlin in May 1945.

Kohl, who arrived in Moscow late Saturday for the crucial talks and was taken south Sunday for the greatest triumph of his political career, left little doubt tha to be a member of the North Atlantic alliance, and I am sure that this corresponds to the view of the government of East Germany '' Kohl said.

Kohl, who has promised to guarantee a $15 billion loan for Gorbachev's hard-pressed economy, said a treaty would be signed between the new Germany and the Soviet Union to regulate economic relations over a long period.

Soviet television showed the two men smiling and wearing cardigan sweaters over open-necked shirts after the dramatic announcement after marathon talks into the night.

In Washington, Bush said Gorbachev's acceptance of a unified Germany in NATO ''can be seen as a response, perhaps in part'' to sweeping changes adopted by NATO leaders at their July 5-6 summit, which included a declaration of peaceful intent toward Moscow.

A NATO statement from Brussels struck a similar note in welcoming the move. ''Germany's membership in our alliance will increase stability for all,'' the statement said.

In cutting the Gordian knot of NATO membership, Gorbachev also alluded to the economic benefits for the Soviet Union of having one immense German state of 80 million people in the heart of Europe.

West Germany, Gorbachev said, is already the Soviet Union's biggest trading partner among Western nations, while East Germany holds the same rank among Eastern European nations.

Gorbachev, mindful that his slumping economy needs help, said that after unification Germany will have a new level of economic relations with the Soviet Union exceeding current arrangement.

The eight-point agreement announced by Kohl and Gorbachev says:

-German reunification involves the two Germanys and Berlin, meaning East and West Berlin will be rejoined.

-A united Germany can belong to any military bloc it chooses.

-The powers and responsibilities of the four victorious World War II allies, the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union, will be abrogated after reunification.

-A German-Soviet treaty will outline a withdrawal of Soviet troops from eastern Germany, with the pullout to be completed in three to four years.

-The troops of Britain, France and the United States will remain in western Germany as long as Soviet troops in the east.

-NATO structures will not apply to eastern Germany while Soviet troops remain there.

-A united Germany will reduce its army to 370,000 men.

-A united Germany will renounce the manufacture of nuclear, chemical, and biological weapons.

In vintage style, Gorbachev took the final plunge for German unity after vanquishing conservative critics who at the Communist Party Congress last week accused him of losing Eastern Europe.

Aware that the Soviet Union lost more than 20 million people in the war with Nazi Germany, Gorbachev said the new German army would contain only 370,000 men, or about half the combined size of the two Germanys' armies.

PARIS (JULY 16) UPI - The five permanent members of the U.N. Security Council started a fifth round of informal talks on Cambodia Monday without participation of any of the four main Cambodian factions, official sources said.

The two-day meeting began behind closed doors with a working breakfast for the heads of the delegations from Britain, China, the Soviet Union, the United States and France at the luxurious Hotel Crillon in Paris.

At the last minute, the participants decided not to invite the Cambodian government or any of the three resistance groups because of disagreement among the Cambodians about how they should be represented.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Igor Rogatchev said Sunday their absence ''will delay a final solution'' to the long-running Cambodian civil war and he was ''disappointed'' with the stance of the Chinese-backed Khmer Rouge.

The Cambodian resistance has been fighting to force the Phnom Penh government, installed following Vietnam' s 1978 invasion, to accept a four-part interim government and U.N. supervised elections.

Analysts in Bangkok said fighting has increased during the current rainy season, with the resistance taking the initiative to cut supply lines and pressure provincial outposts.

They said the Khmer Rouge, who are blamed for the deaths of more than 1 million Cambodians during their 1975-1979 rule, are making the most significant gains. But the Sihanouk group has also scored victories in northwestern Cambodia.

The Khmer Rouge resistance group, meanwhile, quoting ''our Phnom Penh-based secret agents,'' said in a radio broadcast from Cambodia that seven plastic bombs exploded in Phnom Penh on July 13, followed by an attack that killed or wounded a number of government soldiers.

It said four of the bombs were detonated near the Defense Ministry, but did not say whether the explosions caused any casualties.

The main items on the Paris meeting's agenda are to discuss the role and composition of a ''Supreme National Council'' that is supposed to assure a peaceful transition. The five nations were also to discuss the future of the various armed forces in the country and to decide what role the United Nations should play.

The Khmer Rouge has refused to participate in the proposed governing council.

Meanwhile, Khmer Rouge radio Monday said seven plastic bombs exploded in Phnom Penh last week, followed by an attack that killed or wounded a number of government soldiers.

''According to our Phnom Penh-based secret agents, seven sharp plastic bombs exploded in the city on July 13,'' the radio broadcast, monitored in Thailand, said.

It said four of the bombs were detonated near the Defense Ministry, but did not say whether the explosions caused any casualties.

The Khmer Rouge did not take credit for the bomb attack.

It said only that people in the capital were unsure whether it was made by resistance forces or by supporters of Defense Minister Gen. Tie Banh.

The Khmer Rouge last week reported that the general has been arrested for financial irregularities and for his rivalry with other factions in the communist government.

In an interview with the French Le Figaro newspaper published Monday, Khmer Rouge leader Khieu Samphan claimed his forces fighting the army of Vietnamese-backed Prime Minister Hun Sen are ''less than 25 miles from Phnom Penh.''

Samphan also is vice president for foreign affairs in the coalition of three opposition groups headed by Prince Norodom Sihanouk. He said the Paris meeting was important because ''the world thus begins to seek a solution to Cambodia ... that Vietnam cannot escape.''

Samphan accused ''Vietnam and its ally Phnom Penh'' of still trying ''to impose a partial solution'', instead of an overall one, to the conflict.

Samphan said his guerrillas would keep up military pressure on the government. ''It is not excluded that we liberate one or two provincial capitals to force the hand of the other side.''

Asked about the massive killings by the Khmer Rouge when leader Pol Pot ran the government, Samphan conceded ''this was an error.''

Such practices ''could not happen again for the simple reason that we will not be alone this time. There will be four parties,'' he said.

NEW YORK (JULY 16) UPI - The dollar mostly grew firmer in listless New York dealings Monday as market participants purchased the U.S. unit to square up their money portfolios ahead of Washington trade and industrial data releases.

But currency traders said it is likely the dollar will slide even further given the prospects for U.S. interest rates to continue falling and for German and Japanese rates to move up.

''Basically people are still looking for a lower dollar, but we're caught a bit short ahead of tomorrow's (U.S. economic) figures, so we saw the dollar bounce back,'' said Barclays de Zoete Wedd treasury vice president Paul Kemp.

There was ''no conviction on either side,'' said Barry Fetner, chief trader for Dean Witter Reynolds. But, he said, ''In my opinion, I think as long as there's a threat of U.S. easing, the dollar's got room on the downside.''

In late New York trading, the dollar traded at 1.6546 German marks, up from 1.6510 late Friday. But it lost some ground against the Japanese unit changing hands at 148.10 yen against 148.15.

Players exercised caution ahead of the release of data on May trade, expected to show a widened $7.5-$8 billion deficit, and industrial production in June, where economists looked for small growth of 0.2 percent.

Players will scrutinize both to gauge demand, which could suggest whether the Federal Reserve will ease short-term interest rates again after bringing the key federal funds rate to 8 percent from 8 1/4 percent last week.

Progress in U.S. budget deficit talks could also induce the Fed to extend its easing process. But economist Jim Merrill of McCarthy Crisanti & Maffei said he doubted this would yield lower rates before autumn.

Other New York dollar rates: 1.4170 Swiss francs, up from 1.4030; 5.5500 French francs, up from 5.5420; and 1,210 Italian lire, unchanged.

The British pound moved up to $1.8028 from $1.8000.

In Europe, the dollar advanced against the major European currencies as the marketplace put aside concerns over lower interest rates.

Currency analysts said fears that U.S. Federal Reserve's decision to guide interest rates lower Friday would send the dollar plunging were unfounded, and there was strong dollar-buying all day.

''I thought (the dollar) would get crucified and so did the market, but it's held,'' a London dealer commented.

The dollar rose in Frankfurt to close at 1.6525 German marks against 1.6440 Friday. It moved up in Zurich to 1.4095 Swiss francs against 1.3950.

In London, the pound wobbled in early trading against the U.S. unit after the weekend resignation of Trade and Industry Secretary Nicholas Ridley, who made ill-considered comments on resurgent Germany in an interview.

But the pound rallied later on retail sales data showing U.K. anti-inflation efforts beginning to curb consumer spending.

The pound closed off slightly at $1.8040 against $1.8087.

The dollar advanced in Paris, Brussels and Milan, to 5.5555 French francs against 5.5185, 34.0250 Belgian francs compared with 33.83, and 1,212.85 lire against 1,204.95 late last week.

Earlier in Tokyo, the U.S. dollar rallied sharply against the yen to close at 148.43 yen, up 1.01 yen from 147.42 yen last week.

In Zurich, gold closed higher at $363.50 an ounce against $363 Friday, but it was down in London at $362.75 an ounce against $364.50.

Republic National Bank in New York closed cash gold at $363 an ounce, down from $364 Friday. The New York Commodity Exchange settled gold at $363.30 an ounce, also down from $364.40 late last week.

Silver moved up in Zurich, to $4.95 an ounce from $4.89. It fell in London to $4.90 an ounce compared with $4.93.

Republic closed cash silver at $4.855 an ounce, off from $4.92. Comex silver settled at $4.847 an ounce, down from $4.908.

BOSTON (JULY 16) UPI - The troubled Bank of New England Corp. Monday named an executive of a Miami banking company to head its Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. subsidiary.

The executive, William E. Moeller, 48, will be president and chief operating officer of CBT, of Hartford, Conn.

He will be the No. 1 operations person at the bank and will report to Lawrence K. Fish, who is chairman and chief executive officer of both the parent company and its two main subsidiaries, CBT and Bank of New England N.A., said James Dorsey, a bank spokesman.

The appointment substantially completes Fish's installation of a new ''senior management team'' since he was hired in March, said Dorsey. However, Dorsey said there still may be ''two or three additions.''

Fish has said his goal is to reduce the company's size, hold onto its two ''core'' banking franchises in Connecticut and Massachusetts and concentrate on the company's main businesses.

Moeller resigned Monday as executive vice president of institutional banking at Southeast Banking Corp., a $15.8-million in assets, money-losing holding company with two banking subsidiaries, Southeast Bank in Miami and First National Bank in Palm Beach.

He will take over in Hartford on Thursday, Dorsey said.

Moeller, unlike some of the other top-ranking executives who have been hired in recent months, has no previous connection with Fish, according to Dorsey. Moeller has been at Southeast since 1988.

Moeller was head of South Florida banking which includes national banking and financial institutions, international corporate banking, capital markets commercial real estate and corporate and community banking in Dade (Miami) and Monroe counties, the Bank of New England said.

Southeast has lost $92.8 million in the past three quarters because of provisions for the same kinds of real estate loan losses that have threatened Bank of New England's survival.

(JULY 16) UPI - World crude oil prices surged Monday on reports of concrete evidence of OPEC production cutbacks and on news of accidents in Soviet oil and natural gas fields.

The benchmark West Texas Intermediate crude for August delivery jumped 31 cents on the day to $18.67 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchan- ge. Volume was a heavy 110,346 contracts.

August delivery gasoline shot up 2.49 cents to 64.44 cents a gallon, with the September and October contracts rising the Merc's 2 cent limit to 59.87 cents and 57.73 cents a gallon, respectively.

On the European spot market, the United Arab Emirates' Dubai light - the key OPEC crude from the Middle East shipped mainly to the Far East - shot up 71 cents to $15.59 a barrel.

Britain's widely traded North Sea Brent climbed 52 cents to $17.97 a barrel.

WTI opened on the Merc at $18.75 a barrel after reports the UAE had informed customers by telex that it was reducing deliveries by 30 percent until further notice.

UAE Oil Minister Mana Saeed Otaiba confirmed Friday that his nation had agreed in a meeting last week with four Arab states in the Persian Gulf regionto reduce output and accept a limit of 1.5 million barrels a day from the 13- nation Organization of Pe- troleum Exporting Countries.

But the telexes apparently convinced the oil markets that this was not just another in a long string of broken promises.

''It confirmed the UAE was putting its oil where its mouth is,'' said Nauman Baraket, first vice president of Shearson Lehman Hutton's Internation Energy Desk in New York.

It also was reported that a major Siberian oilfield had caught fire and pipelines supplying Western Europe spewed large amounts of natural gas over the weekend.

The report ''was certainly part of the background noise. But the market is still very much in love with OPEC at the moment,'' Barakat said.

Gasoline has been strong ever since a July 5 explosion stopped production at ARCO Chemical Co.'s Channelview, Texas, plant, the world's largest single producer of the MTBE additive used in making premium gasoline.

''It was a factor in the market. I don't know whether it would justify a (Merc) limit up,'' Barakat said.

Bill Hinton of Stotler & Co. in New York said the strong oil market reflects the OPEC cutback and a series of other events, such as maintenance shutdowns of North Sea plat- forms and the recent sale of 3 million barrels of crude to the U.S. Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

''All of a sudden, the whole picture has changed 180 de- grees,'' the trader said.

Analysts have been projecting that August crude would drop this week before it expires on the Merc Friday because of large crude inventories.

But now, Hinton said, ''we may not get a drop.''

On the U.S. Gulf Coast cash market, WTI for prompt delivery gained 30 cents to $18.65 a barrel.

On the Merc, August-delivery heating oil finished the day at 56.24 cents a gallon, up 2.03 cents. The September and October delivery contracts were also up by the Merc's 2 cent allowed daily limit, to 57.22 cents and 58.12 cents a gallon, respectively.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - The House passed a bill Monday to broaden the circumstances under which the government can draw on oil from its Strategic Petroleum Reserve to meet the nation's emergency energy needs.

The legislation also would require for the first time that a portion of the reserve, now made up entirely of crude oil, be devoted to refined petroleum products, such as home heating oil or gasoline.

Both changes were inspired in part by the sudden jump in West Coast gasoline prices triggered by the Alaska oil spill in March 1989 and the shortage in home heating oil in the Northeast following a severe cold spell last December.

The measure, approved by voice vote in the House, must now be reconciled with a differing Senate-passed version of legislation. The Energy Department's authority to purchase and store oil for the reserve expires Aug. 15 unless the bill is enacted.

The administration has threatened to veto both versions of the legislation objecting to the refined-products reserve in the House bill and a requirement in the Senate bill to expand the reserve to 1 billion barrels.

The Strategic Petroleum Reserve was established in 1975, following the Arab oil embargo, to ensure the United States of an emergency supply of oil in the event of a sudden disruption of petroleum imports.

The reserve now holds about 590 million barrels of crude oil, stored in salt caverns on the Gulf Coast of Louisiana and Texas. Energy Department plans call for increasing the reserve to 750 million barrels.

Under current law, the president can order the government to draw on the reserve only in the case of a ''severe energy supply interruption'' caused by events overseas. This authority has never been invoked.

The House bill goes further, allowing the reserve to be tapped in the event of a domestic interruption or for less severe circumstances ''likely to become a national or regional energy emergency of significant scope or duration.''

In such instances, the president could order as much as 50 million barrels of oil drawn down from the reserve over a period of up to 90 days, as long as 500 million barrels are left in the reserve.

The idea is to allow the Energy Department to use the reserve to offset the effects of hoarding and speculating on oil markets that can turn a relatively small interruption into a major energy crisis.

The House measure also would require that 10 percent of any additions to the reserve be made up of heating oil, gasoline or other refined petroleum products. Some of that would have to be stored outside the Gulf Coast in a region likely to suffer a supply shortage - such as the West Coast or Northeast.

PARIS (JULY 16) UPI - A crucial seventh player, Poland, joins the ''two-plus-four'' talks on German unification Tuesday in efforts to settle the still-fractious issue of Poland's western border.

The meeting comes one day after Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, in the Soviet Union, told West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl that a united Germany can eventually choose to be a member of NATO, a major issue in the unification talks.

Poland wants to establish a border treaty with a unified Germany before the expiration date of the rights of the Big Four victors of World War II - the United States, France, Britain and the Soviet Union.

Bonn, whose relations with Warsaw have worsened in recent weeks, says such a demand is legally impossible because only the Parliament of a unified Germany can ratify such a treaty.

The dispute involves timing as much as substance, a senior Western official involved in the talks said.

Poland is satisfied, he said, with last month's parallel declarations by the East and West German parliaments, recognizing the Oder-Neisse Line as the border between Poland and Germany.

''The critical point is when does this enter into force,'' said the senior official, who requested anonymity. ''The Poles want it to be ratified by the new German state before the four-power rights and responsibilities end.''

Secretary of State James Baker expressed satisfaction Monday at Gorbachev accepting the prospect of a unified Germany within NATO. ''It is the right development for Allied Europe,'' he said on arrival at Orly Airport. ''We think that a unified Germany is important.''

Asked how he viewed the Soviet approval for a united Germany entering NATO Baker said, ''It is an accomplishment toward establishing security in Europe.''

The two-plus-four talks involve the two Germanys and wartime allies Britain, France, the United States and the Soviet Union. The Paris session the third at the foreign ministers' level, is the only one including Polish Foreign Minister Krzysztof Skubiszewski. Skubiszewski said Monday that Poland never had asked that the legal rights of the Big Four victors of World War II be extended until a border treaty be signed with a unified Germany.

The Polish envoy also reaffirmed on arrival in Paris for the unification talks that Warsaw would be satisified if the border pact were signed immediately after the political unificiation of Germany is completed.

He also denied that suggestions that Warsaw wants the rights of the Four Powers to be extended until a border treaty is signed.

The view has caused a storm of controversy in West Germany, where some saw it as an effort to delay political unification.

But Skubiszewskis said, ''This is a great misunderstanding. The responsibilites and legal powers of the four powers in Germany are a problem that does not concern Poland. We have never spoken of a date of the end of these responsibilities and legal powers.''

A French diplomatic source said German unity cannot be delayed by the Polish border issue, so ''a common-sense idea would be that the treaty on the frontiers of Germany with Poland be signed very rapidly after German reunification.''

On Friday, Poland seemed to acknowledge its lack of bargaining power, saying it would be satisfied if the border treaty were signed ''immediately after unification.''

The Polish border issue, quiet for several months, flared anew only in the past week.

The area in question includes East and West Prussia, Silesia, Eastern Brandeburg and Pomerania, former German territories ceded to Poland in 1945 to compensate for the loss of areas in Eastern Poland to the Soviet Union.

Kohl clumsily handled the issue early this year by refusing to affirm the Oder-Neisse Line in a bid for support from his country's far right. He also briefly sought to link the Polish border issue to a demand that Poland denouce any war reparations claim against Germany.

Faced with outrage at home and abroad, and a threatened split in his governing coalition, Kohl backed down on his conditions in February.

NEW YORK (JULY 16) UPI - The stock market closed higher Monday in light trading in which the closely watched Dow Jones industrial average flirted with the watershed 3000 mark, but closed just short of the historic level.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 10.40 Friday, added 19.55 to close at 2999.75, just shy of the 3000 mark.

Among broad market gauges, the New York Stock Exchange composite index added 0.80 to 201.13. The price of an average share added 14 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 1.64 to 368.95, a new high.

Advances pulled ahead of declines 862-666 among the 2,033 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Volume only amounted to about 149,430,000 shares, down from 215,589,090 traded Friday.

Although the Dow Jones average failed to hold its new ground, it was expected to reach and maintain new heights during the trading week, analysts said.

''It's really nothing but it confirms what we already know - which is it's a rising market,'' said Michael Metz, a market analyst with Oppenheimer & Co. Inc.

The Dow hovered above 3000 in late trading, but was knocked down by a bout of program sales, he said.

''If we didn't make 3000 today, we'll make it later this week,'' Metz predicted.

A number of corporate earnings reports helped steer the market, analysts said.

Earnings showed few surprises, but gave the market a boost, said Don Hays, director of investment strategy at Wheat, First Securities Inc. in Richmond, Va.

''Once earnings are reported, it does remove the potential for disappointment,'' Hays said. ''People have been in the mood for disappointment and, now that they're reported, it gives somewhat of an upward bias.''

On the trading floor, Wal-Mart Stores was the most active issue, closing up 5/8 to 36 1/4. Baxter International followed, closing up 5/8 to 26 5/8.

Computer Associates International was third, up 1/8 to close at 10.

IBM, after reporting strong second-quarter earnings that reached the high end of analysts' expectations, rose 1 3/8 to 122 3/8.

Among the other blue chips, AT&T was unchanged at 37 1/8, General Electric was down 1/8 to 74 3/4 and Union Carbide was down 1/4 to 20 1/4.

McDonnell-Douglas Corp. was off sharply, closing down 2 3/8 to 42 1/2, after announcing plans to cut $700 million in annual costs and reduce its workforce by some 11 percent.

W.R. Grace & Co. was up 1/4 to 29 7/8 after reporting a 16 percent rise in second-quarter earnings, largely as a result of increased income from its specialty chemicals subsidiary.

Aluminum Co. of America was up 1/2 to 69 1/4 despite reporting second-quarter earnings down 43 percent from the same period in 1989.

General Electric Co. was down 1/8 to 74 3/4 despite reporting second-quarter net income up 12 percent from a year ago.

Volume of NYSE-listed issues, including trades in stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 183,857,080 shares, compared with 259,291,460 shares traded in the previous session.

Prices closed higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

The Amex Market Value index rose 1.59 to close at 365.58. Advances led declines 303-287 among the 847 issues traded. The price of an average share added 5 cents. Composite volume totaled 15,837,380 shares compared with 19,092,880 shares traded Friday.

Foundation Health led the Amex issues, down 1/2 to 13 3/4.

The National Association of Securities Dealers composite index rose 1.16 to 469.60.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (JULY 16) UPI - An international consortium headed by Bechtel Corp. submitted the lone proposal Monday to build and operate a 250-mph train between Las Vegas and the Los Angeles basin.

Bechtel's $5 billion proposal would build a 265-mile elevated rail line across the desert between Las Vegas and Anaheim in Orange County, Calif. non-polluting trains would zoom along the rails floating on electro-magnetic currents.

''We have reached a very important plateau in the development and operation of the California/Nevada Super Speed Train process,'' said Las Vegas City Councilman Arnie Adamsen.

''It is exciting to know that within seven years, millions of people could be riding a relatively noiseless, pollution-free vehicle across the California-Nevada terrain at speeds approaching 300 miles an hour.''

Two other companies that qualified to bid on the project - Morrison-Knudsen Co., of Boise, Idaho, and Bombardier Corp., of Montreal - pulled out because they felt it would be ''excessively risky'' without public funding, Adamsen said.

Bechtel's proposal would be financed only with private funds. Bechtel said it expected the C. Itoh Co. of Japan to be the lead representative for Japanese investors, and Amtrak to provide operation, maintenance and marketing services.

Bechtel would build the train using technology and components developed by Transrapid International, a West German company that operates a magnetic-levitation train on a 20-mile test track in northern Germany. The elevated train has been run at speeds in excess of 250 mph and has a theoretical top speed of 310 mph.

If Bechtel is given the exclusive franchise to build the train, the San Francisco engineering and construction firm would be required to submit detailed plans, including an environmental impact statement, that would have to be approved by both state legislatures and governors.

Construction would begin in 1993 and the first riders would board the gambling express in 1997, Bechtel said. Up to 5 million roundtrip passengers a year are expected by the turn of the century and as many as 6.5 million by 2025.

The train would make either seven or eight stops between Anaheim and Las Vegas, depending whether the final route traveled through Riverside or Ontario, Calif. Future spurs could take riders to Palmdale, Palm Springs and Santa Ana, Calif.

Tickets for the 75-minute ride would cost about 30 percent less than commerical airline tickets for the same route, Bechtel said.

The train would create an estimated 13,000 to 25,000 permanent jobs in Southern California and pump about $370 million to $700 million a year into the local economy, Bechtel said.

In Nevada, 23,000 to 28,000 permanent jobs would result from introduction of the train and $530 million to $630 million would be generated for the local economy, the company said.

In addition, approximately 10,000 short-term construction-related jobs would be created during the building of the train, mostly in Southern California where the majority of rail line will run, Bechtel said.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - The House passed a bill Monday to broaden the circumstances under which the government can draw on oil from its Strategic Petroleum Reserve to meet the nation's emergency energy needs.

The legislation also would require for the first time that a portion of the reserve, now made up entirely of crude oil, be devoted to refined petroleum products, such as home heating oil or gasoline.

Both changes were inspired in part by the sudden jump in West Coast gasoline prices triggered by the Alaska oil spill in March 1989 and the shortage in home heating oil in the Northeast following a severe cold spell last December.

The measure, approved by voice vote in the House, must now be reconciled with a differing Senate-passed version. The Energy Department's authority to purchase and store oil for the reserve expires Aug. 15 unless the bill is enacted.

The administration has threatened to veto both versions of the legislation objecting to the refined-products reserve in the House bill and a requirement in the Senate bill to expand the reserve to 1 billion barrels.

The Strategic Petroleum Reserve was established in 1975, following the Arab oil embargo, to ensure the United States of an emergency supply of oil in the event of a sudden disruption of petroleum imports.

The reserve now holds about 590 million barrels of crude oil, stored in salt caverns on the Gulf Coast of Louisiana and Texas. Energy Department plans call for increasing the reserve to 750 million barrels.

Under current law, the president can order the government to draw on the reserve only in the case of a ''severe energy supply interruption'' caused by events overseas. This authority has never been invoked.

The House bill goes further, allowing the reserve to be tapped in the event of a domestic interruption or for less-severe circumstances ''likely to become a national or regional energy emergency of significant scope or duration.''

In such instances, the president could order as much as 50 million barrels of oil drawn down from the reserve over a period of up to 90 days, as long as 500 million barrels are left in the reserve.

The idea is to allow the Energy Department to use the reserve to offset the effects of hoarding and speculating on oil markets that can turn a relatively small interruption into a major energy crisis.

The House measure also would require that 10 percent of any additions to the reserve be made up of heating oil, gasoline or other refined petroleum products. Some of that would have to be stored outside the Gulf Coast in a region likely to suffer a supply shortage - such as the West Coast or Northeast.

A regional reserve is designed to speed the delivery of gasoline or heating oil in the event of a shortage, shortening the time it would otherwise take to refine and ship the product.

Supporters of the bill have said that oil supply disruptions resulting from the Exxon Valdez spill in Alaska and the severe winter heating demands of 1989 underscore the need for regional reserves. But they say neither of those cases persisted long enough to warrant the kind of government intervention envisioned by the legislation.

The Energy Department opposes the concept of a regional reserve on grounds it would not be cost effective.

Storage of gasoline and heating oil would require periodic selling and replenishing of stocks to prevent deterioration of the refined products, ''putting the government directly in the oil commodities business,'' department spokesman Bob Porter said.

The Senate bill contains neither provisions for storage of refined products nor for expanded authority to draw on the strategic reserve.

HOUSTON (JULY 16) UPI - Pennzoil Co. Monday notified shareholders it intends to buy additional Chevron Corp. shares to increase its 8.8 percent stake to just under 10 percent, which is the limit established by a Chevron poison pill.

''Depending upon prevailing market prices, we expect those purchases to be made some time after the middle of August and prior to the end of this year,'' said a letter signed by J. Hugh Liedtke, Pennzoil board chairman, and James Pate, president and chief executive officer.

Pennzoil also filed a statement of its intentions with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Last year, Pennzoil bought the stake in Chevron to stave off a possible $800 million tax bill on a $3 billion legal settlement it won from Texaco Inc.

Chevron responded by filing suit, claiming Pennzoil lied about its intentions with the SEC. A hearing on the issues still pending from the lawsuit is slated for Sept. 14 in San Francisco.

Pennzoil received $2.6 billion in net proceeds from the Texaco settlement, and Liedtke has said the firm would like to reinvest the entire $2.6 billion to acquire Chevron stock.

''Although by Chevron's actions, Pennzoil is prevented from investing the entire remaining portion of the settlement proceeds in additional shares, Pennzoil plans to purchase, in accordance with its original objective, additional Chevron shares up to a level just below the 10 percent barrier imposed by Chevron's recently amended poison pill,'' the letter said.

Liedtke and Pate said the letter was intended to bring shareholders up to date on Pennzoil's investment in Chevron. They expressed several concerns about Chevron, including the creation of a $1 billion leveraged employee stock ownership plan.

The ESOP diluted voting power of all other shareholders and also diluted per share earnings, Pennzoil executives said. It also criticized Chevron's decision to increase the amount of company contributions paid to employee savings plans.

''All of this has taken place at a time when capital demands are great and personnel has been cut back,'' the letter said.

''Chevron has taken several hostile actions ostensibly directed at Pennzoil but adversely affecting the rights of all shareholders,'' the letter said of Chevron's board decision to lower the trigger of its poison pill from 20 percent to 10 percent and of a decision to prohibit shareholders from calling special shareholder meetings.

These stories, and more, up next from U-P-I...

The Philippines were hit by the nation's worst earthquake in two decades today, casusing buildings and bridges to topple. Authorities now say at least 65 people were killed, with hundreds more injured.

Authorities say most of the casualties were high-school students trapped in classrooms when the powerful quake collapsed schoolhouses.

Rescue workers using chain saws and flashlights are still trying to reach 100 students crying for help from beneath the rubble of one flattened school.

President Aquino is urging Filipinos to stay calm and to take all necessary precautions.

Aquino says she was meeting with some senators at the presidential palace when the quake struck... and she hid under a table for about 30 seconds.

The U-S Geological Survey in Golden, Colorado, recorded the quake at a magnitude of seven-point-seven. But Richter scale readings around the world ranged from six-point-two to eight.

The quake was centered in a rice-growing region about 60 miles north of Manila. It was followed by as many as eight aftershocks that rattled wide areas of Luzon Island.

In Washington, the Pentagon says it had NO immediate word of casualties among the 15-thousand U-S military personnel in the Philippines.

The leaders of the Soviet Union and West Germany have ended crucial negotiations that removed a major snag to the reunification of Germany.

Soviet President Gorbachev and West German Chancellor Kohl agreed that a united Germany could decide for itself whether to be a member of NATO.

The two leaders announced the accord today at the end of two days of talks in Gorbachev's hometown of Stavropol in southwestern Russia.

Gorbachev told a joint news conference with Kohl- quote- ''I think in reality that a united Germany will be present in NATO if that is its choice.''

The agreement is a major concession by Gorbachev, who had insisted a united Germany have joint membership in both NATO and the Warsaw Pact for a transitional period.

But the Kremlin leader said recent declarations by NATO and the group of seven industrialized nations helped pave the way for the breakthrough.

Kohl said the decison on entering NATO will be made after unification is completed. But he left NO doubt that a single Germany will choose to belong to NATO. He said a united Germany- in his words- ''will want to be a member of the North Atlantic alliance, and I am sure that this corresponds to the view of the government of East Germany.''

In Washington, the announcement was welcomed by President Bush... who described it as a demonstration of ''statesmanship'' by Gorbachev.

SANTIAGO, Chile (JULY 16) UPI - Chile filed an official complaint against the government of the Soviet Union Monday after a Chilean navy ship fired on a Soviet fishing vessel surprised in restricted waters.

Chile and the Soviet Union re-established diplomatic relations in March, broken after a military coup d'etat in 1973.

Foreign Minister Enrique Silva Cimma said the Chilean government informed Moscow that the crew of the Soviet vessel Odishi was fishing in restricted waters Saturday and tried to flee a Chilean naval ship.

Cimma said the crew of the Soviet ship Odishi ignored orders to cut engines even after the Chilean navy vessel fired a machine gun burst over its bow.

''The navy will not permit any Soviet ship nor any ship of another nationality to come and rob our maritime resources,'' Navy chief Adm. Jorge Martinez Bush told reporters Monday.

The Odishi was apparently surprised about 790 miles southeast of Santiago at 3 a.m. Saturday.

A Bulgarian vessel, the Fenixs, was also caught poaching in Chilean waters July 11, Navy officials said. It was still being detained Monday in the port of Valparaiso.

While visiting Chile in April, Nicolay Lisenko, the fishing vice minister for the Soviet Union, said his country hoped to sign an agreement allowing the Soviet fleet access to the exclusive fishing zone stretching 200 nautical miles off the Chilean coast.

RENO, Nev. (JULY 16) UPI - Audio experts will present evidence that an album by the heavy metal band Judas Priest contained subliminal messages that drove two young men to suicide, attorneys for the youths' families said Monday in opening statements of a civil trial.

The young men made a suicide pact and shot themselves in 1985 after listening to the album ''Stained Class,'' which contained the hidden phrases: ''Try Suicide,'' ''Let's Be Dead,'' and ''Do it, Do it,'' Attorney Vivian Lynch said.

During a break in the court proceedings, members of the British rock group told fans and autograph seekers they were not responsible for the deaths of Raymond Belknap, 18, and James Vance, 20.

''This trial will make it perfectly clear that Judas Priest could not be held responsible,'' said Rob Halford, one of the original members of Judas Priest, a pioneer in heavy metal music. Glenn Tipton, another band member, said there were no subliminal messages on ''Stained Class.''

The parents of Belknap and Vance are seeking unspecified damages from the band, CBS Inc., which distributed the record and Betagrange Ltd., a company associated with the production of the album.

Belknap and Vance on Dec. 23, 1985, drank beer, smoked marijuana and then listened to hours of the album. Afterward, they took a shotgun to a nearby school playground where Belknap shot and killed himself. Vance then blew away his jaw, mouth and nose but lived for more than three years before dying of effects of the shooting.

Attorneys Lynch and Kenneth McKenna, representing the parents said audio and computer experts will show the album contained subliminal messages, triggering the suicide pact between the two young men.

Lynch, who represents Vance's family, said the records of Judas Priest talk of violence, destruction and anti-social behavior. She said Judas Priest ''does not advocate this as a way of life. They are not soldiers in the army of Satan.'' The hidden messages are there to create excitement ''as a way of making money.'' She accused the band of ''irresponsible greed'' for ''embedding these messages'' in the records. The excitement, she said results in those who listen to the record spreading the word to others to buy the record.

Lynch told District Judge Jerry Whitehead, who is hearing the case, that the band was ''meddling in the mysteries of the human mind.''

Belknap and Vance were part of the culture that believed the words of Judas Priest were ''scriptures,'' Lynch said. The hidden messages ''pushed them over the edge,'' she said.

The band members were dressed in either suits or sport coats and sat behind their lawyers at the trial.

Halford said the allegations were ''completely false and untrue.'' He said band members were ''upset and concerned'' when they were accused of prompting the deaths. ''You must understand we all have families. This was very tragic.''

Suellen Fulstone, attorney for Judas Priest and CBS, told the judge, ''there are no hidden messages on the records. These two young men had many problems with drugs, alcohol, scrapes with law enforcement and loss of jobs.''

She said the day of the shooting, Belknap was depressed because he had lost his job. Just before he shot himself Belknap said, ''Life sucks''. She argued there was no suicide pact. She said Vance didn't take seriously an oath the two made earlier. When Belknap shot himself, Fulstone said, Vance ''panicked and feared the police would charge him with homicide and then followed suit.''

More than 60 witnesses including family members, audio and computer experts and, counselors and police officials are scheduled to testify in the trial that will last more than three weeks.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (JULY 16) UPI - European Community foreign ministers, admitting German unification posed complex problems, Monday brushed aside reported British qualms about the power of a unified Germany in Europe.

''A unified Germany of course will be a tremendous economic power in Europe,'' Dutch Foreign Minister Hans van den Broek told reporters.

''But that's what we have always wanted - to end the division of Germany and of Europe.''

He recalled German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher has always said the West German government wanted a unified Germany to be firmly imbedded in a unified Europe.

He admitted there were apprehensions among countries that were involved 50 years ago in World War II.

''Our starting point is that we have a basic confidence in the structure of a unified Germany,'' van den Broek said. ''We (West Germany's EC partners) have always asked for an open dialogue about the matter, and that is what the Germans wanted too.''

British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd played down the uproar about former Industry and Trade Minister Nicholas Ridley's comments last week that surrendering sovereignty to the EC was like giving it to Adolf Hitler.

Hardly had Ridley resigned when press reports said confidential minutes from a British government seminar on Germany described the Germans as being prone to aggressiveness, assertiveness and bullying.

Hurd, replying to a barrage of questions about the reports, told a news conference at the Brussels EC council of ministers press room that ''the level of excitement is much higher in this room than in any other room.''

He said the British government had taken action ''to reassert the fundamental principles of our policy.''

''We are working steadily for the progress of the Community,'' he said. ''I felt no particular need to spell it all out again today.''

Italian Foreign Minister Gianni De Michelis, who chaired the EC ministerial session, said they received East German Foreign Minister Markus Meckel over lunch, notably discussing the second state treaty now being negotiated between the two Germanys to outline their political unification.

The first state treaty dealt with German economic and monetary union which went into effect July 1.

''The problems are very complex,'' De Michelis told a news conference, notably ''the relations and agreements East Germany has with other countries, especially Comecon,'' the economic grouping of East European countries.

He said EC foreign ministers will outline their final decision on German unification before the all-German elections in December. ''We may have a special ministers council session dealing with German unification toward the end of Novermber,'' he added.

De Michelis said the ministers did not discuss reports from Moscow that West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev agreed that a unified Germany can eventually choose to remain a member of NATO.

He said the West German Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Irmgard Adam-Schwaetzer, ''without having final formal infomation about the (Moscow) talks, gave a positive evaluation of these discussions.''

''We consider the meeting to be a big step forward toward a positive settlement of the problems connected with German unification,'' he said.

Hurd said, ''We welcome what we have heard from Moscow. From what we have heard, it sounds good.''

DIBOLL, Texas (JULY 16) UPI - Temple-Inland Inc. Monday reported second quarter earnings of $65.7 million, or $1.18 a share, up from $53 million, or 96 cents a share, in the same period of last year.

The company said that combined operating earnings in the quarter were down by $7.9 million to $82.4 million but that net earnings were helped by a significantly lower tax rate.

Revenues for the quarter rose to $587 million from $489 million.

For the six months, earnings totaled $127.9 million, or $2.30 a share, on revenues of $1.2 billion. In the same period of last year, earnings were $107.4 million, or $1.94 a share, on revenues of $963 million.

In the latest quarter, the company said, Temple-inland's container and containerboard business had operating income of $40.1 million, down 26 percent from $54.4 million in the same period of last year.

The bleached paperboard businrdd saw its operating income decline 18 percent to $23 million from $28 million because of several unscheduled disruptions at one of the company's mills.

Building products had quarterly operating income of $4.2 million, down from $7 million in the second quarter of last year, reflecting a falloff in residential construction activity.

The financial services business helped offset some of the decline by earning $15.1 million, compared to $1.1 million in the year-ago quarter. Of the increase, $7 million was attributed to Guaranty Federal Savings Bank, whose income was consolidated for the first time this year.

''All of our basic manufacturing businesses are currently encountering margin erosion,'' said President Clifford Grum. ''However, demand for our paper products is better than anticipated; therefore, it is very difficult to determine the trend of the markets.''

He said the building products operations will continue to suffer until the level of construction improves.

''The mix of our business allowed us to report record earnings both the first quarter and six months,'' he said. ''We see no reason why this should not continue.''

The White House says trouble lies ahead unless White House-congressional budget negotiators strike a compromise soon.

The Bush administration today released a revised estimate the 1991 fiscal year deficit, saying it'll be nearly 169-BILLION dollars... 10-BILLION more than the last estimate.

However, the estimate does NOT include the cost of the savings and loan bailout, which would tack on another 62-point-six-BILLION dollars.

The Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law targets the 1991 deficit at 64-BILLION... less than the cost of the S-and-L bailout itself.

If Congress fails to come within 10-BILLION dollars of that figure, it would trigger devastating, across-the-board spending cuts.

White House officials say the number of military personnel could be cut by one-half and thousands of federal employees could be fired or laid off. Hundreds of airline flights could be canceled due to air traffic control cutbacks, national parks could close and AIDS funding could be slashed.

Senate Democratic Leader George Mitchell says the revised figures confirm what many have suspected all along. Mitchell says the White House had been drastically underplaying the seriousness of the situation.

Lawmakers are expected to raise the ceiling of the 64-BILLION-dollar target to more than 100-BILLION... if negotiators can agree on a budget-reducing formula.

Rivers and streams in south-central Texas overflowed their banks today after a storm brought more than 10 inches of rain.

In Las Vegas, flash flood waters carrying mud and debris closed streets as emergency crews rescued people stranded by the sudden storm.

But the hardest-hit area was central Texas, where storms and tornadoes swept trailers downstream, leaving scores of residents stranded atop trees and telephone polls.

In Menard County, 175 miles northwest of San Antonio, dozens of young boys were stranded overnight at a Boy Scout camp on high ground surrounded on both sides by the swollen San Saba River.

Menard Fire Chief Bob Danford says the entire community of Fort McKavett was cut off when every road surrounding the city was closed because of heavy flooding.

Crews in San Antonio, Texas, rescued at least five people stranded by heavy waters, including one man who had been forced to climb a telephone pole when his pick-up truck was nearly washed away.

The rains brought a bit of irony as well, striking San Antonio the same day the city was to implement water conservation measures because of drought.

(JULY 16) UPI - A New York jogger who was left near death in a brutal attack in Central Park last year today gave dramatic testimony against her accused attackers.

The 30-year-old investment banker told a Manhattan courtroom that she could NOT remember the April 19th, 1989, rape and beating by a gang of teen-agers who left her so badly injured that doctors gave her little chance of living.

She said she does NOT remember anything from the night of the attack until more than one month later, when she regained consciousness.

In a clear, firm voice... the woman told of her ''miraculous'' recovery... but says the attack left her with double-vision, a poor sense of balance and the total loss of her sense of smell.

Arab League foreign ministers have closed two days of talks in Tunisia by pledging support to the Palestinian Liberation Organization.

The Arab League ministers say they back P-L-O leader Yasser Arafat's decision to dismiss conditions set by Washington for resuming a dialogue.

President Bush ended talks with the P-L-O last month after the organization refused to condemn a radical Palestinian group's commando raid on an Israeli beach in May.

The U-S administration has said it will NOT resume talks until the P-L-O condemns the raid and kicked out the faction leader responsible.

But the Arab League's statement stops short of endorsing Arafat's sharp criticism of U-S Mideast policy.

The statement said the ministers will ''intensify'' their bid to resume talks with Washington in order to- as they put it- ''serve the peace process.''

Other appointees include:

OTTAWA (JULY 16) UPI - The United States and Canada will begin negotiating an air quality accord in Ottawa next month, officials said Monday.

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Administrator William Reilly said the talks, to begin Aug. 28, will deal with acid rain and other cross-border pollutants.

''The productivity of the forests and soils, the rivers and lakes in our two countries could not be more important for the long-term well-being of North America,'' Reilly said after meeting with Canadian environment minister Robert de Cotret.

''We are making progress on acid rain, improving the Great Lakes, and other environmental problems along our common border,'' Reilly said. ''In the United States, we welcome and applaud Canada's firm commitment to environmental quality.''

At the recent Houston economic summit, President Bush and Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney called for formal negotiations on an air quality accord.

Reilly and de Cotret said in a joint statement they ''expect an accord to be signed soon after the adoption of Clean Air legislation by the U.S.

Congress.''

Reilly and de Cotret also agreed that the clean air accord should:

-provide a practical method of dealing with transboundary pollutants.

-give priority to reducing emissions of sulphur dioxide and nitrogen oxides.

-address other air pollutants such as those responsible for urban smog.

-commit both countries to controlling airborne pollutants and to establish specific goals and schedules for reductions of sulphur dioxide and other agreed upon air pollutants.

-require the development of co-ordinated research and monitoring programs and information exchange.

-estalish a means for impartial oversight and dispute settlement.

Reilly and de Cotret also agreed to establish a joint task force to develop a pollution prevention strategy for the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River systems. The task force is to report back to them by October 31 with a draft action plan.

Reilly and de Cotret also discussed the costly zebra mussel invasion of the Great Lakes, ozone layer depletion and climate change.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - President Bush appealed to congressional leaders Monday for House adoption of the proposed constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget for the federal government.

Bush made the appeal in a letter to Speaker Thomas Foley on the eve of the House vote and sent copies to Majority leader Richard Gephardt and GOP leader Robert Michel.

It also coincided with the mid-year economic review issued earlier in the day that showed a $168.8 billion deficit for the 1991 fiscal year.

In his letter, Bush said the amendment would provide ''for greater accountability in the enactment of tax legislation.''

He said it would restore ''fiscal integrity'' to the government along with a line-item veto constitutional amendment.

''Together with political courage and discipline, these tools are vital to solving the problem of budget deficits,'' he said.

Bush argued that the amendment ''is the most fundamental change needed in the federal budget process,'' calling it ''necessary and appropriate to protect the interests of citizens not now able to represent themselves.''

Again, he noted that more than 30 state legislatures have called for a constitutional convention for this purpose.

The president said he is prepared to continue working with Congress ''to enact meaningful, credible and effective budget reforms,'' and added that adoption of the amendment ''will be an important first step toward this goal which is crucial to our nation's long term economic health and prosperity.''

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - A businessman accused of conspiring with District of Columbia officials to steer more than $2 million in government contracts to his firms was acquitted Monday on four counts of bribery and conspiracy.

Businessman John Clyburn was acquited 20 hours after a not-guilty verdict was returned for co-defendent David Rivers, former head of the city's Department of Human Services.

''The goverment's case was based on conjecture and a lot of speculation,'' Clyburn said outside just after the verdict was read at about 5 p.m.

''I think the government was sincere and honest in its initial investigation of this matter,'' he said. ''I think at some point they lost their objectivity and it became something else ... and they continued to support some theories that could not be supported because they didn't exist.''

Rivers and Clyburn were accused of conspiring to defraud the district and bribing two city officials to steer more than $2 million in contracts to companies owned by Clyburn. Clyburn additionally was charged with aiding and abetting Rivers in receiving bribes from an undercover agent.

The defense had argued that both defendents were merely trying to aid minority contractors.

The verdict, a setback for the government in its probe of city officials, may have some impact on the drug and perjury trial of Mayor Marion Barry. Barry's attorney R. Kenneth Mundy has said an important element of his defense strategy will be to show the federal government probed, pursued and indicted some D.C. officials to build a stronger case against the Mayor.

Clyburn, however, drew no parallels between the two cases.

''These are two independent events... I don't see any connection at all '' Clyburn said referring to his trial and that of the mayor's.

Rivers, a close friend of Barry's, has been mentioned several times in testimony at the mayor's trial.

''We accept (the verdict) knowing that we gave fulfilled our obligation to present fairly, the complex pattern of evidence of the offenses charged. We cannot avoid our responsibility to pursue allegations of criminal conduct simply because the outcome may be unfavorable,'' U.S. Attorney Jay Stephens said in a statement.

After a 17-week trial, the sequestered jury had deliberated for only 12 hours before aquitting Rivers Thursday.

OAKLAND, CA (JULY 16) UPI - The Oakland Athletics won their gamble Monday when they signed Texas high school pitching star Todd Van Poppel, their first-round draft pick who previously insisted he was ''signed, sealed and delivered'' to the University of Texas.

The A's drafted Van Poppel with the 14th pick of the June draft. Details of the contract were not released, but it was reportedly a guaranteed pact worth more than $1 million.

Van Poppel, an 18-year-old from Arlington with a 90-plus mph fastball, would have been Atlanta's No. 1 overall pick but the Braves were scared off when he rejected a six-figure contract and insisted he was college-bound.

''It was a good pick for us,'' A's General Manager Sandy Alderson said at the time of the draft. ''We looked at the talent available at the 14th pick and decided to take a risk. We think he has a good arm, a good makeup and a very fine family. That's a pretty package.''

Oakland's front office had Van Poppel talk to a number of the A's players, including former college and Olympic star Mark McGwire, when the club was in the youngster's hometown playing the Texas Rangers.

Texas Coach Cliff Gustafson received the bad news Monday morning.

''We knew when we recruited him that he was a great prospect, but we were hoping to land him like we did Calvin Murray,'' he said, referring to the outfielder who was drafted 11th by Cleveland last year but turned down a contract to play for Texas.

Gustafson said he had no hard feelings over Van Poppel's decision.

''He's a quality young man and is going to be a quality pitcher and I wish him well,'' he said.

There was speculation Van Poppel made his decision because of the resignation to Texas pitching coach Clint Thomas. Thomas helped develop Roger Clemens and Gregg Swindell at UT, but quit last week because he was earning only $18,200.

''I think the million-dollar contract had more to do with it than the resignation, but I also think you have to credit the Oakland A's handling and approach,'' Gustafson said. ''They didn't push Todd and kind of softpedaled the thing and really did a nice job.''

Van Poppel, a 6-foot-5, 195-pound righthander, who was a high school honor student excelling at physics and economics, is considered the best pitching prospect to come out of high school in years. He was 11-3 during the regular season for Arlington's Martin High School with 145 strikeouts in 63 1-3 innings.

''This is the only guy I'd compare to Nolan Ryan in high school,'' Atlanta scout Red Murff said.

WASHINGTON (JULY 16) UPI - The judge in the drug and perjury trial of Mayor Marion Barry ordered U.S. marshals Monday to go to Chattanooga, Tenn., to bring back a reluctant witness.

U.S. District Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson refused to grant immunity to the witness, former city employee Bettye Smith, a longtime associate of Barry, at a competency hearing to determine the status of her physical condition.

Smith checked into a Chattanooga hospital last week, citing stress related to her scheduled testimony and her father's pending cancer surgery as reasons for hospitalization.

Jackson, in the presence of Assistant U.S. Attorney Judith Retchin, Barry's attorney R. Kenneth Mundy, and a lawyer for Smith, reviewed a letter from the witness's doctor saying Smith's situation had deteriorated and that traveling to Washington to testify would endanger her.

Smith's lawyer, Paul Friedman, maintained that his client's testimony was not essential to the government's case, which he said he thought could survive without it.

Jackson, who had issued a bench warrant for Smith's arrest last week, said he would not accept any of the arguments.

The judge had dismissed court proceedings at noon Friday and decided not to reconvene until Tuesday to allow Smith's arrival in Washington.

Marshals were ordered to bring Smith back to the by 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Smith has been linked to a 1987 trip to the Bahamas where Barry allegedly used cocaine, and several witnesses have implicated Smith as a drug supplier for Barry.

Prosecutors said Smith was reluctant to appear as a government witness despite being granted immunity from prosecution in exchange for her testimony.

They said that after Smith's testimony, they would call only two other witnesses, Atlanta businesswoman Doris Crenshaw and a police investigator James Pawlik, who they said would give details of telephone records entered into evidence.

LOS ANGELES (JULY 17) UPI - A Superior Court jury Monday awarded another $5.8 million in punitive damages to the $65 million won earlier this month by American Aviation Industries against General Electric Capital Corp., a financial services company.

A jury deliberated five days before deciding that GECC had acted ''outrageously'' in intentionally interfering with American Aviation's prospective economic advantage, an attorney for the plaintiffs said.

''What General Electric did was grind up and spit out a little company that GE didn't think had the wherewithal to fight them,'' said Barry Cappello, one of two attorneys for American Aviation.

The earlier $65-million award came July 6 after a four-month trial in which American Aviation accused General Electric of backing out on a deal to provide new engines for corporate jets.

At the same time, General Electric was awarded $9.8 million on its countersuit in the same trial. After deciding the compensatory damages, jurors then began debating whether to award punitive damages.

The verdicts came in a complex suit filed by American Aviation investors, including Geoffrey Miller and David Eisenstadt, two of the company's majority owners. American Aviation is an airline consulting company based in Van Nuys.

Six years ago, Miller and Eisenstadt hit upon the idea of refurbishing used Lockheed-built JetStar corporate jets with new jet engines that were quieter and had a longer range. The overhauled jets with new engines, which would be called FanStars, could be sold at comparatively bargain prices to customers who already owned aircraft.

General Electric, a major jet-enginer builder based in Fairfield, Conn., became a joint venture partner with American Aviation to manufacture and sell the FanStar, according to the plainitffs. The idea was for GE to supply the turbofan engines for the older planes and to finance and market the project with American Aviation through GE's General Electric Capital Corp., the plaintiffs contended.

But within two years, General Electric allegedly began withholding cash from the smaller company and eventually cut it off altogether, the plaintiffs said.

GECC deliberately broke funding contracts to force American Aviation owners off the project, plaintiff lawyers said. Moreover, in late 1986, GE promised to continue funding the project, causing other investors to not pump money into American Aviation, the lawyers said.

Finally, in February 1987, according to trial testimony, GE cut off all financial backing. Without funding, American Aviation fell behind with its creditors, including GECC, which began to liquidate AAI.

According to trial testimony, General Electric secretely planned and plotted the takeover of American Aviation, Cappello said. At trial, a key GE executive testified he had questioned the need for American Aviation because ''they have our engines and our money,'' Cappello recounted.

Because General Electric was dismissed from the case in May, the $70.8 million verdict is only against GECC.

General Electric won $9.8 million against American Aviation on its counterclaim, which alleged there never was a formal joint venture but that it was merely American Aviation's engine supplier and lender.

The White House has painted a worst-case scenario of what might lie ahead if administration and congressional negotiators do NOT produce a compromise budget.

Administration officials today released new figures, boosting an earlier estimate of the 1991 fiscal year deficit to 168-point-eight-BILLION dollars... 10-BILLION more than was first predicted.

That figure does NOT even take into account 62-BILLION dollars needed for the savings and loan bail-out, which would make the deficit a soaring 231-point-four-BILLION dollars.

The Gramm-Rudman budget law demands Congress slash the deficit to a bare-boned 64-BILLION-dollar target... or it threatens automatic across-the-board spending cuts.

White House officials say if that happens, half of the military and thousands of federal employees would be thrown out of work, hundreds of airline flights would be canceled, national parks would close, AIDS funding would be slashed and Millions of students would lose grants and scholarships.

President Bush warned in a statement that such cuts would- in his words- ''affect almost all that the federal government touches'' and urged

She said the recording contained hidden phrases urging listeners to ''try suicide.'' She said the music also contained phrases such as ''Let's Be Dead'' and ''Do It, Do It.''

Lynch charged that Judas Priest recordings centered on violence, destruction and anti-social behavior, NOT because the band is alligned with devil-worship, but as a way to make money.

CLEVELAND (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Sears Optical, with the support of the National Society to Prevent Blindness (NSPB), is designating August as National Eye Exam Month at Sears Optical.

''The purpose of the event is to increase public awareness of the need for regular vision care and to raise money for the NSPB,'' said Brian Smith, president, Sears Optical.

This year, the independent doctors of optometry at Sears Optical will donate $1 for every eye exam performed in August to the National Society to Prevent Blindness for their sight-saving programs and research. Last year, the doctors at Sears Optical donated $80,000 to the non-profit organization.

Sears Optical will also provide a family home eye test free of charge to anyone who stops by one of its participating departments.

The test helps determine if a more thorough eye exam is needed and is not a substitute for an exam by an eye care professional.

According to statistics compiled by the NSPB, approximately 11.4 million people in the United States have significant vision impairment. The disturbing fact is that nearly 50 percent of all blindness can be prevented. One of the best forms of prevention is a periodic eye exam which should be part of a family's health care planning just as periodic physicals or dental check-ups are.

LOUISVILLE, KY (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - DMI Furniture Inc. (NASDAQ:DMIF), announced Tuesday that net income for the third quarter of fiscal 1990 declined from a year ago and that sales reached a new record third quarter level.

Sales for third quarter of fiscal 1990 were $12,607,000, up 9 percent from the previous record of $11,581,000 posted during the third quarter of fiscal 1989. Net income was $264,000, down from the record $653,000 reached during the third quarter of the previous year.

For the nine month period, net income was $981,000, compared to $2,256,000 for the corresponding period of fiscal 1989. Net sales were $35,461,000, as compared to $35,409,000 recorded during the first nine months of fiscal 1989.

Donald D. Dreher, president and chief executive officer, said: ''Our new production facility has enabled us to expand our geographic distribution and we are continually building upon our significant customer base. Unfortunately, we expect that competitive pressures caused by a softness in the industry will continue to adversely affect net income through the remainder of 1990.

''Consequently, we expect to conclude the fiscal year with record sales but net income to be well below the record established in fiscal 1989.''

WASHINGTON (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - In testimony before the U.S. Senate Tuesday, Dr. T.J. Rodgers, president and chief executive officer of Cypress Semiconductor, urged elected officials not to change existing antitrust legislation.

Rodgers was responding to proposed changes that threaten to weaken antitrust laws relating to production joint ventures, as outlined in Senate Bill S 1006.

Rodgers told members of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary: ''We should not relax the antitrust laws. The very executives who orate vehemently for strong fair trade laws -- the laws that provide what they love to label a 'level playing field' for us and the Japanese -- are the same ones who are trying to weaken the antitrust laws.

''And these are the laws that have been so successful in maintaining that same level playing field for large and small companies within the United States. I feel both sets of 'fairness laws' are important and neither should be gutted. Frankly, as the president of a $200-million entrepreneurial semiconductor company, I fear the internal antitrust threat much more than the external fair trade threat.''

Rodgers testified at a Senate subcommittee hearing currently evaluating whether or not changes in existing antitrust laws will help make American companies more competitive in the ever-changing global marketplace.

Rodgers spoke on behalf of the thousands of entrepreneurial enterprises that could be severely harmed by the anti-competitive nature of the proposed antitrust changes. Rodgers' principal concern is that the proposed changes in antitrust would make it difficult for entrepreneurial companies to compete effectively in world markets.

''I am worried that the government could poison our semiconductor industry with well-meant but ill-conceived schemes and subsidies that would numb our competitive passion,'' stated Rodgers.

Rodgers pointed out in his testimony that there is no need to weaken the antitrust laws. He feels that the cries from large corporations to do so are simply excuses from a growing list of 'apologists' and 'whiners' who are using the competitiveness concerns as a smokescreen for their own poor management abilities.

''I want to reaffirm right now that the United States is the best country in which to start a semiconductor company, that U.S. semiconductor companies should be growing and profitable, and they if they are not, the fault lies with their management,'' said Rodgers.

''In the future, if you hear that my company, Cypress Semiconductor, is not doing well, you will not hear me complaining about the Japanese or the lack of government support. You will hear me talking about what I did wrong.

''We don't need the commonly proposed, but ineffective, solutions to these competitiveness problems -- government subsidies, government projects and government sanctions against the Japanese -- ineffective remedies proposed by troubled large semiconductor companies,'' stated Rodgers.

Rodgers' solution: ''The right answers are free markets, entrepreneurs and tough competition. I think our free enterprise system has worked spectacularly well for over 200 years.

''It has built the largest, most productive and most prosperous economy that ever existed -- all without burdening its people with the kind of personal constraints that other countries impose in the name of national competitiveness.

''If our government would just leave the economy alone -- stop some of its counterproductive practices -- we would begin to take back some of the ground we have lost to the Japanese in semiconductors.''

Besides maintaining strong antitrust laws, Rodgers also outlines some specific actions that can be undertaken to make American industry more competitive, including reducing the budget deficit, lowering the capital gains tax, ceasing the devaluation of the dollar and increasing the amount of money earmarked for engineering education.

Rodgers concluded his testimony by challenging the U.S. semiconductor industry: ''American semiconductor companies should start spending more time on winning and less on whining.''

TORRANCE, Calif. (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - A new ink jet printer from Epson America Inc. provides high-resolution output for large paper formats of up to 11 by 17 inches.

The EPI-4000 printer uses 64-nozzle ink jet technology to produce 300 by 300 dots-per-inch resolution on a variety of plain paper types. The larger ''B size'' format presents a versatile printer/plotter alternative for CAD/CAE, project management and graphics professionals, while enhancing spreadsheet and word processing applications for general-office users.

The unit prints up to two pages per minute in draft mode, and is compatible with software written for the HP LaserJet Series II and Epson FX and LQ models.

A unique 64-nozzle printhead produces fine lines, deep blacks and detailed plot points that can surpass the capabilities of current laser technology. Detailing is further enhanced by the use of fast-drying ink.

The EPI-4000 provides quality output on ordinary letter, legal or B-sized bond paper, labels, envelopes and continuous-feed paper with the addition of an optional push tractor.

Applications for engineering and drafting professionals include graphic-intensive plotting capabilities, monochrome output for blueprint duplication, detailed schematics and illustrations. The EPI-4000 is excellent for producing PERT and Gantt charts with project-management software. Along with word processing and LAN uses in the data processing environment, it allows large-print output for spreadsheet analysis.

Desktop publishing applications include draft-quality output of tabloid-sized materials and detailed specialty graphics. Using CAI's PostScript-compatible Freedom of Press software designed for Epson printers, the EPI-4000 can provide PostScript emulation in the B-sized format.

Along with the benefits of high resolution and flexibility of paper formats, the EPI-4000 is inexpensive to operate, at approximately two cents per page.

The EPI-4000 is available at the manufacturer's suggested retail price of $1,999 from Epson Authorized Resellers nationwide. It comes with 512 KB of standard memory and a one-year limited warranty. Optional accessories include a 2MB memory board, a push tractor and Epson's exclusive black-ink cartridge with a character life of approximately 1000 pages at 5 percent ink coverage.

TORRANCE, Calif. (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Epson America Inc. has entered the image processing market with the introduction of the ES-300C color desktop scanner.

The ES-300C incorporates advanced scanning technology and a unique direct-print function. Comprehensive bundled software allows the use of image capture, edit and paint functions in both the PC and Macintosh platforms.

''The ES-300C represents a breakthrough in price and performance, offering high-quality color and monochrome image scanning at a price comparable to competitive monochrome scanners,'' said Peter Bergman, director of Epson's printer business unit. It utilizes 8-bit monochrome processing to produce 256 shades of gray, and 24-bit color processing to yield 16.8 million hues with 300-dots-per-inch resolution

The scanning mechanism includes three gas-filled light bars that facilitate ''one-pass'' color technology known as TruePass. Alternating red, blue and green light bars scan each line of the image, separating the colors simultaneously. This results in faster image processing and greater accuracy of registration than conventional desktop scanners, which blend a series of separate scans using a single light bar and colored filters.

The TruePass system also allows color corrections to be performed during the scanning process.

In the monochrome mode, the TruePass light bars emit a pure, white light that captures the entire gray-scale spectrum. The three light sources minimize color drop-out, providing superior contrast and detail when converting images to monochrome from color. If color drop-out is desired to eliminate unwanted reds, greens or blues from the original image, the option is easy to implement.

Along with advanced scanning technology, the ES-300C includes a unique direct-print feature that facilitates scanned-image output from some color printers. A light-emitting diode control panel allows flexible image scaling with a zoom range of 50 to 200 percent. Users can also customize images by choosing among seven brightness-correction levels.

The ES-300C works in both the PC and Macintosh environments through the use of bi-directional parallel or SCSI interface kits. To further enhance end-user value, the kits include software that facilitates a wide range of image scanning, editing and manipulation capabilities.

DENVER (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Public Service Co. of Colorado Monday filed an 8-K report with the Securities and Exchange Commission concerning its recent financial discussions with Colorado-Ute Electric Association Inc., a Colorado generation and transmission cooperative undergoing bankruptcy proceedings.

The company indicated that on July 12, 1990, at the invitation of the management of Colorado-Ute Electric Association Inc., it presented to Colorado-Ute's board of directors a proposal outlining the basis for negotiations intended to lead to an agreement for Public Service Co.'s acquisition of about 50 percent of Colorado-Ute's generation and transmission assets and assignment of Colorado-Ute's Craig 3 lease, subjet to modifications.

An agreement in principle contained in the company's presentation has been neither accepted nor rejected by Colorado-Ute. A hearing in bankruptcy court regarding the possible appointment of a trustee for the assets of Colorado-Ute currently is scheduled for July 19, 1990.

As a result of the hearing outcome and related proceedings, Public Service Co. could alter or withdraw its proposal, or submit a different proposal for the acquisition of all or part of Colorado-Ute's assets.

Public Service Co.'s proposal and any similar agreement would require the consent of the groups of creditors and other parties in the bankruptcy proceedings. Another requirement would be approval by the bankruptcy court, the federal and state regulatory agencies having jurisdiction over Colorado-Ute or Public Service Co., and the consent of numerous parties to operating agreements with Colorado-Ute.

''We cannot, at this time, predict to what extent we will continue to pursue any proposal to acquire Colorado-Ute assets or whether or not the required consents and approvals could be obtained for any such proposal,'' said Richard C. Kelly, senior vice president of finance and chief financial officer for Public Service Co.

The book value (after depreciation) of the total assets of Colorado-Ute at Dec. 31, 1989, was about $815 million, including about $635 million of generation and transmission assets. Colorado-Ute's total net generating capacity is about 1,000 megawatts, including the 408 Mw net capacity of the Craig 3 generating unit.

EL SEGUNDO, CA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Rockwell International Corp. Tuesday reported earnings per share of 71 cents on net income of $171.2 million for its third fiscal 1990 quarter, ended June 30. This compares to earnings per share of 70 cents on net income of $178.1 million for 1989's third quarter.

Although the current quarter's net income is 3.9 percent below last year's third quarter, operating earnings were up 3 percent. The improvement in earnings per share reflects the benefit of the company's continuing stock repurchase program.

Sales for the 1990 third quarter were $3.1 billion compared to $3.2 billion in the same period last year.

''Our third quarter results continue to demonstrate the strength of our Electronics businesses as well as improved performance by the Space Systems and Graphics businesses", Donald R. Beall, chairman and chief executive officer, said. "Electronics operating earnings, which increased 11 percent from last year's third quarter, represent nearly 50 percent of the company's total operating earnings.''

Beall added, ''We are confident our full year earnings per share will show an improvement over last year before the 40 cents per share gain from the 1989 sale of a business.''

The higher third quarter Electronics earnings resulted from improved contract performance in Defense Electronics and continued strength in the Avionics and Allen-Bradley Industrial Automation businesses.

Aerospace third quarter earnings were approximately the same as the period a year ago with solid performance in Space Systems offsetting the effects of reduced B-1B program activities.

Third quarter earnings of the Automotive business were down 15 percent from a year ago, with the economic turmoil in Brazil more than accounting for the decrease. Beall noted the Brazilian government's new anti-inflation measures severely restricted Automotive's operations in Brazil during the beginning of the quarter, but operations were back to near-normal volume levels by the end of the quarter.

Graphics strong third quarter earnings were ahead of last year as improved profitability in newspaper presses offset the loss of sales and profits from the Miehle product line which was sold in this year's second quarter.

The current quarter's net income compared to 1989's third quarter was adversely affected by lower foreign currency translation gains and a higher effective income tax rate resulting from less favorable tax adjustments related to long-term contracts.

Sales for the first nine months of 1990 totaled $9.2 billion, about the same as the comparable 1989 period.

Net income for the first nine months of 1990 was $490.4 million compared to 1989 nine-month income of $504.8 million before last year's one-time gain. Comparable per share amounts of $2.00 for the 1990 nine-month period exceeded the $1.97 for the 1989 period.

The March 1989 sale of the company's Measurement & Flow Control Division resulted in an after-tax gain of $104 million, or 40 cents per share. Including this gain, last year's nine month net income totaled $608.8 million, or $2.37 per share.

The company's backlog on June 30 of $15.1 billion increased 20 percent from the fiscal 1989 year-end backlog of $12.6 billion. The backlog includes $3.6 billion of commercial orders, $4.4 billion of funded government orders and $7.1 billion of unfunded government orders.

James R. Bohmann
Vice President - Finance

July 17, 1990 Dear Shareholder:

Payco American Corp. has just completed another record setting quarter! The net income and earnings per share for the second quarter of 1990 were $1,622,000 and 32 cents, respectively. Such profit results represent a 25 percent increase over the 1989 second quarter profit levels! The second quarter of 1990 represents the ninth consecutive quarterly profit increase (compared to the same quarter of the prior year) since the complete implementation of the Payco Automated Collection System (PACS). PACS is the company's on-line, real-time computer system which assists, monitors and directs our collection effort.

Revenue for the quarter increased 14 percent compared to the second quarter of 1989. This increase in quarterly revenue to a level of $28,064,000 is primarily attributable to increased collections associated with recent high levels of accounts received for collection.

During the first six months of 1990, accounts received for collection were $1,323,000,000 a 20 percent increase over the same period in 1989. As noted in our previous correspondence to you, 1990 placement increases are primarily attributable to increasing market share within our existing client base as well as the impact of recent acquisitions.

During 1988, the company entered into a contract with a major hospital corporation. This contract expired on April 30, 1990, however, placements continued through June 1990. During the first six months of 1990 this client represented $125,000,000 of accounts received for collection and $2,849,000 of revenue. Payco retains the right to continue to work the accounts previously placed by this hospital corporation. As of June 30, 1990, Payco was actively pursuing the collection of $134,000,000 of such previously placed accounts. The collection of these accounts will continue to provide a revenue stream into 1991.

During the first six months of 1990 our operating margins improved to 8.2 percent compared to 7.1 percent for the first half of 1989. Such improvement is attributable to employee productivity resulting in a large part from PACS. Also, the company's operations benefited from stable expense associated with occupancy and data processing equipment. These expenses were substantially unchanged while revenue during the first six months increased 14 percent.

Acquisition:

During the second quarter, the company purchased certain assets of Credit Collection Corporation (CCC). CCC is a collection agency specializing in services for the health care industry. This latest acquisition is headquartered in Richmond, Va., with satellite operations in Norfolk, Va., and Raleigh, N.C. The assets acquired include the ability to continue to provide collection service for its approximately 60 clients, as well as the right to future revenues derived from existing account inventory.

In summary, we are pleased with financial results and growth for the first half of 1990. We look forward to continued success for the balance of the year and beyond!

CHICAGO (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - FMC Gold Co. Tuesday reported second quarter net income of $9.9 million, compared with net income of $13.8 million in the second quarter of 1989.

Gold production was essentially flat, while silver production increased. However, lower precious metals prices and higher production costs caused by lower gold grades reduced net income from last year's quarter. Earnings per share in the second quarter were 14 cents compared with earnings per share of 21 cents in 1989, reflecting lower net income and the 8 million new shares issued to Burlington Resources on May 15 in exchange for Meridian Gold Co.

Sales for the second quarter of 1990 were $36.8 million compared with $40.2 million last year. The average realized price of gold declined to $365 per ounce from $376 per ounce in the second quarter of 1989. The average realized price of silver declined to $5.04 per ounce compared with $5.52 per ounce in the year-ago period.

In the second quarter, FMC Gold produced 83 thousand ounces of gold compared with 87 thousand ounces in the same period last year. Gold production in the second quarter included 6 thousand ounces from the Royal Mountain King, Calif., mine acquired as part of Meridian Gold Co.

At the Jerritt Canyon, Nev., mine (30 percent owned by FMC Gold), start-up problems at the new ore-roasting circuit in the first quarter were largely resolved, and FMC Gold's share of production increased 25 percent to 25,000 ounces in the quarter. The ore-roasting circuit operated at near-design capacity during the quarter and is expected to operate smoothly during the remainder of the year. At the Paradise Peak, Nev., mine, gold production declined because of lower grades, and silver production increased as the richer silver portion of the orebody was mined.

Cash production costs increased during the quarter to $142 per gold equivalent ounce compared with $131 per gold equivalent ounce last year, reflecting the addition of the higher-cost Royal Mountain King mine. Costs at Jerritt Canyon declined, reflecting operation of the ore-roasting circuit during the quarter.

In June, a forward sales program for Royal Mountain King gold production was initiated for the remainder of 1990 to provide an average hedge price of $360 per ounce for 26 thousand ounces.

FMC Gold held $93 million in cash and cash equivalents at the end of the quarter, increasing interest income to $2.0 million, compared with $0.9 million last year.

Six Month Results:

Net income for the first half of 1990 was $23.2 million compared with $27.3 million in the first half of 1989. Lower prices and higher production costs were responsible for the decline. Sales were $73.6 million compared with $77 million in the year-ago period.

Cash production costs increased to $137 per gold equivalent ounce compared with $123 per gold equivalent ounce last year. Lower grades at Paradise Peak and the addition of the higher-cost Royal Mountain King mine contributed to the cost increase.

As previously announced, FMC Gold acquired Meridian Gold Co. for 8 million new shares of FMC Gold stock. Meridian Gold holds approximately 1.2 million ounces of proven and probable gold reserves and several exploration properties. Exploration and development of these properties began during the second quarter.

Outlook:

''Despite lower precious metals prices, our low-cost and efficient operations continued to produce a steady cash flow,'' said Robert N. Burt, chairman and chief executive officer. ''At the same time our proven mining expertise will help us focus on opportunities presented by development activities at our existing operations and by the newly acquired Meridian Gold properties.''

OVERLAND PARK, KS (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Puritan-Bennett reported earnings of 32 cents per share for the quarter ended June 30, 1990, Chairman and President Burton A. Dole Jr. announced Tuesday.

Second quarter orders of $64,443,000 and sales of $63,255,000 were up 12.8 percent and 11.7 percent respectively, over the same period last year. Earnings of $3,752,000 (or 32 cents per share) were down 12.9 percent from last year's second quarter (which translated to 38 cents per share).

Year-to-date orders of $123,468,000 and sales of $125,126,000 established new records and were up 8.6 percent and 13.2 percent respectively, over the same period last year. Year-to-date earnings of $7,926,000 (or 69 cents per share) were down 6.2 percent from last year's first half (which translated to 75 cents per share).

''All segments of our business except for domestic hospital capital equipment are quite strong. Aero Systems orders are up 28 percent over the first half of last year. Orders for the Puritan Group, which includes our home care businesses, have accelerated and are up more than 23 percent over the first half of last year.

''Within the Puritan Group, year-to-date orders for liquid oxygen systems are up more than 50 percent, reflecting renewed growth in the United States from last year's depressed levels and a near doubling internationally. We expect meaningful shipment growth to continue for Aero Systems and the Puritan Group taken together for the remainder of this year,'' Dole said.

''For the Bennett Group, year-to-date orders are down approximately 7 percent from last year's record pace in spite of continued international order growth. As previously announced, we have been seeing signs of caution on the part of U.S. hospitals that we believe is related to potential changes in both the amounts and methods of Medicare reimbursement.

''As a consequence, we expect Bennett Group shipments during the remainder of this year to be essentially flat when compared with first half levels, and they could decline somewhat,'' the chairman said.

''Second quarter and year-to-date earnings were adversely affected by our expanded research and development and international investments. We continue to invest in our important continuous arterial blood gas monitoring project, which alone accounted for an earnings difference of 13 cents per share between this and last year to date.

''We also continue to invest in establishing direct sales and service capabilities in several international markets and a European manufacturing operation in the Republic of Ireland,'' the chairman continued.

''We have taken steps we believe will reduce non-R&D SG&A spending nearly $1 million during the coming quarter from second quarter levels and we are working to improve gross margins. Consequently we expect that earnings will improve as the year progresses,'' the chairman concluded.

Puritan-Bennett is a world leader in products related to respiration. These products are used in multiple health care settings and on aircraft.

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, CA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Guy F. Atkinson Co. of California (NASDAQ:ATKN) announced Tuesday the settlement of five significant construction contract disputes.

The settlements will result in payments to Atkinson exceeding $100 million including interest. The exact timing for the payment of the settlement amounts has not been determined.

''While the company has previously accounted for a substantial portion of the recoveries, the impact of the settlements on Atkinson's 1990 profits and financial condition will be significantly positive,'' stated Thomas J. Henderson, chairman and chief executive officer.

The largest portion of the total consists of the mediated settlement for Brantley Dam, constructed by Atkinson on the Pecos River in New Mexico from 1984 to 1988.

Henderson stated that important additional benefits of these resolutions are the limitation of sizable attorney and consulting fees for litigation and the freeing of management time to concentrate on new business opportunities.

PORTLAND, OR (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - American Guaranty Financial Corp. (NASDAQ:AMGR) Tuesday announced shareholder approval of a company name change to The Encore Group Inc.

The company also reported a small profit for the second quarter of 1990. In the same quarter a year ago a loss of 1 cent per share was reported.

Net income in the second quarter was $4,000 compared with a second quarter loss of $83,000 a year ago. Revenues in the respective quarterly periods totaled $1,658,000 in 1990 and $724,000 in 1989. Average shares outstanding were 6,112,849 in 1990 and 5,701,025 in 1989.

For the six months ended June 30, 1990, the company recorded a net loss of $98,000, or 2 cents per share, on revenues of $2,785,000. Net loss during the comparable 1989 period was $178,000, or 4 cents per share, on revenues of $733,000. Average shares outstanding were 6,112,849 in 1990 and 4,901,025 in 1989.

Robert E. Gawlik, president, said that sales and earnings were for the most part on target with the company's projections. ''At this time,'' he said, ''we see no reason to believe the second half of the year will be other than anticipated. The third and fourth quarters are traditionally the strongest for the industry, and we expect to end 1990 with a profit.''

During the second quarter of 1989 the company acquired VDO-Pak Inc., Port Orange, Fla. Its other subsidiary, Vidcom Manufacturing, Livonia, Mich., was acquired July 1, 1989. Both companies are engaged in the manufacture and distribution of batteries and related power accessories for the cellular telephone and video industries.

Gawlik, president of the company since late 1988, said the change in name from American Guaranty Financial was made because it had not accurately or adequately described the company's operations. ''We spent a disproportionate amount of time explaining to the business community what the company was NOT,'' Gawlik said, ''because the name was confusing and misleading. The name change became important to our turnaround plans for the company and to our objective to achieve profitability and rebuild shareholder value.''

Changing the name to The Encore Group Inc. brings a related change to shares of the company's common stock. Traded in the over the counter market in the NASDAQ System, effective July 19 the stock will trade under the new symbol of EGRP.

American Guaranty Financial Corp., now known as The Encore Group Inc., is a manufacturing-oriented company engaged, through its subsidiaries, in the manufacture and distribution of batteries and power accessories for the video and cellular telephone industries.

The award was made to Great Western under the federal Affordable Housing Program to help fund below-market mortgage loans on Nehemiah West, a proposed 316-unit townhouse project. Great Western applied for the funding to support its plans to provide a total of $17 million in financing for these units.

''We are extremely pleased that our application has been selected for funding by the Federal Home Loan Bank from among so many worthy proposals '' said James F. SAN JOSE, CA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Pacific Western Bancshares, Inc. (ASE:PWB), the parent company of Pacific Western Bank, Tuesday reported net income of $4.3 million or $.34 per share for the quarter ended June 30.

The return on average shareholders' equity (ROE) in the second quarter was 20.3 percent on an annualized basis versus 17.8 percent in the like period last year.

For the first half of 1990, net income was up 52.3 percent at $8.3 million or 65 cents per share compared to the $5.4 million or 46 cents per share earned in the first six months of 1989. ROE, on an annualized basis, was 20.1 percent this year and 16.4 percent in the first half of 1989 while return on assets (ROA) increased from 1.11 percent last year to 1.46 percent this year.

By June 30 the company's loan portfolio grew 23.4 percent from $716 million at the end of the second quarter of 1989 to $884 million this year representing an increase of $57 million, or 7 percent, since the end of the first quarter.

Net charge offs to average loans during the second quarter was 0.33 percent compared to 0.44 percent a year ago and 0.31 percent the previous quarter. The percentage of non performing loans to total loans was 1.21 percent this year vs. 1.87 percent at the end of the second quarter of 1989 and 1.03 percent at March 31. The provision for credit losses grew 4.3 percent to $1.2 million from $1.15 million a year ago but loan loss reserves remain at 1.3 percent of total loans.

During the second quarter, net interest income increased by 11.7 percent to $17.1 million as compared to $15.3 million during the like quarter of 1989. The net interest margin on a taxable equivalent basis was 6.3 percent vs. 7.2 percent in the second quarter of 1989 and 6.8 percent in the immediately preceding quarter.

This decline in the net interest margin is primarily due to lower interest rates and the effect of the Household and Saratoga acquisitions which added $214 million of lower margin, high liquidity investments to the portfolio.

Non interest income also increased 22.9 percent from $4.7 million in the second quarter of 1989 compared to $5.8 million last quarter. The majority of this increase was due to insurance recoveries on two of the bank's facilities in Santa Cruz County which were damaged or destroyed in the Oct. 17, 1989 earthquake.

This recovery provided approximately $550,000 on an after tax basis, but was offset by nonrecurring expenses and an initial operating loss of approximately $500,000 incurred during the acquisitions of Household Bank and Saratoga Savings.

Non interest expenses grew 6.5 percent to $14.6 million at the end of the second quarter as compared to $13.7 million in the like period of 1989, reflecting those acquisition costs and the expansion of the bank's branch network to 28 locations.

At the end of the second quarter, total assets grew 22 percent to $1.29 billion compared to $1.06 billion at June 30, 1989. Deposits expanded 23 percent to $1.18 billion as compared to $960 million in 1989.

Shareholders' equity was up 22 percent to $86 million at June 30 from $71 million at the end of the second quarter last year. ROA for the second quarter was 1.40 percent on an annualized basis compared to 1.22 percent in the like period of 1989.

Average common and equivalent shares outstanding during this same period increased 6.3 percent from 12 million at June 30, 1989, to 12.8 million a year later. At the same time, the stock's book value rose from $5.90 per share to $7.03 per share at June 30, 1990.

Pacific Western Bancshares Inc. is a bank holding company. Through its subsidiaries, the company offers trust and asset management services, and financially oriented data processing and software development services. The holding company's Pacific Western Bank has 28 locations in three counties serving California's Santa Clara Valley and Monterey Bay area.

SANTA CLARA, CA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Applied Materials announced plans on Tuesday to establish a technology center in Israel this year to develop advanced computer and software control systems for the company's highly automated semiconductor manufacturing equipment.

Dr. Dan Maydan, executive vice president, said that Dr. Michael Brunstein, formerly president of Opal Inc., will head the operation as managing director of a new subsidiary, Applied Materials (Israel) Ltd. He will report to Maydan.

A site near Tel Aviv has been selected for the subsidiary's facility, which is expected to begin operation by November 1990. Meanwhile Brunstein has begun recruiting staff to begin development work at the company's Santa Clara offices pending completion of the facility in Israel.

''The increasing complexity of integrated wafer fabrication systems requires the most sophisticated computer control. At our new facility, we will be able to focus on improving automation systems throughout all of our product lines, as well as explore new approaches to computer control for future products,'' Maydan said.

''Israel has tremendous talent in computer hardware and software engineering, and particularly in system automation. This available talent pool is a major factor in the company's selection of that country for a new technology center to serve all of Applied Materials' product groups on a global basis.''

Initially the technology center will concentrate on developing a controller configuration and software tools to be used in Applied Materials' highly diverse line of semiconductor processing systems. This extended effort will be closely coordinated with the company's divisional development teams, which will develop specific applications.

Special emphasis will be placed on establishing standards and conventions to be used companywide that will be compatible with future market requirements and standards.

''As we move further into the area of integrated processing, in which different sequential processes are combined within one system architecture our automation requirements are certain to expand to meet customer needs.

''Having a technology center that concentrates on computer control and system automation will enable a steamlined, standardized hardware and software environment for all of the company's products,'' said Brunstein.

As head of the Israel operation for Applied Materials Brunstein brings more than 20 years of experience to the position. Prior to joining Applied Materials he was president of Opal Inc. in Santa Clara, which developed an automated E-beam metrology system.

Brunstein has been active in the electronics equipment industry since 1983 and has worked in various research and technology positions since 1968. He holds a master's of science and a doctorate degree in physics from Tel Aviv University.

Applied Materials is a global growth company based in Santa Clara and is the leading independent supplier of wafer fabrication systems to the worldwide semiconductor industry. It is a market leader in chemical vapor deposition (CVD), dry plasma etching and silicon deposition.

The company is also a leading manufacturer of ion implantation systems, and recently launched its entry into the physical vapor deposition (PVD) market.

In 1987, the company disposed of a substantial portion of its Mary Moppets operations as part of a strategic restructuring plan designed to improve profitability and concentrated operations in other geographical areas which offered better growth potential.

Richard A. Niglio, chairman and chief executive officer, said that Children's Discovery Centers has been closely monitoring the performance of its Mary Moppets' Arizona centers which have declined as a result of industry over-expansion, poor economic conditions and increased labor costs mandated by state regulatory actions.

The impact of these factors and federally legislated increases in minimum wage rates which have been effective since April 1, have led the company at this time to adopt a plan to sell the remainder of Mary Moppets.

The company stated that this action will necessitate a one-time, non-recurring charge to earnings of between $1.8 million and $2 million for the quarter ended June 30, 1990. The charge reflects the costs associated with the disposal of Mary Moppets, its centers and other assets and includes estimated losses of the operations through the date of disposal.

Management believes the effect of the writedown will be to improve prospects of the company.

Recently, the company announced that it has entered into a letter of intent contemplating the acquisition of Magic Years Child Care and Learning Centers Inc., a pre-school chain which emphasizes employer sponsored child care and had revenues in 1989 of $7,834,000.

It is anticipated a merger agreement will be signed during the summer and the transaction will close during the fall.

Children's Discovery Centers, which is headquartered in San Rafael, is engaged in the business of providing child care and pre-school programs to children primarily between 2-1/2 and 6 years of age. The company will have operations in eight states and had revenues in 1989 of $15,720,000.

CLEVELAND (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - TRW Inc. Tuesday reported higher sales and operating profit for the quarter ended June 30.

Net earnings were lower because of higher interest expense and a higher income tax rate.

Sales for the quarter rose 14 percent to $2.10 billion from $1.84 billion in the year-ago period. Operating profit increased 4 percent to $162 million from $157 million in the comparable 1989 quarter. Net earnings declined 10 percent to $63 million, compared with $70 million in last year's second quarter, and earnings per share on a fully diluted basis were $1.01 vs. $1.12 in the year-ago quarter.

The drop in net earnings resulted primarily from a higher income tax rate and higher interest expense incurred as the company continued to fund internal growth and acquisitions.

For the first half, sales were up 13 percent to $4.09 billion from $3.63 billion during the first half of 1989. Operating profit increased 5 percent to $321 million vs. $307 million in last year's first half. Net earnings in this year's first six months were $120 million, a 14 percent decrease from $139 million in the comparable 1989 period.

The decrease in net earnings resulted largely from higher interest expense due to borrowings for acquisitions and Brazilian operations, and a tax rate sharply higher than in the comparable period of 1989, when the company realized certain tax benefits from divestitures. Earnings per share were $1.93 compared to $2.24 in last year's first half.

''Our businesses continue to perform well in a persistently difficult environment,'' said Joseph T. Gorman, chairman and chief executive officer. ''Each of our three major businesses recorded higher sales. Two -- automotive and space and defense -- earned higher operating profits in the face of soft markets, more intense competition and tighter government funding.

''The third -- information systems and services -- had slightly lower operating profit due entirely to lower revenues in the third-party maintenance and information networks businesses and the costs to downsize those operations.''

In the automotive segment, sales climbed 20 percent to $1.04 billion compared with $868 million in the year-ago quarter. The principal contributor to the increase was higher occupant restraint systems sales. Favorable European exchange rates and added sales from acquisitions were also factors, more than offsetting the effects of the soft North American market.

Operating profit increased 8 percent to $84 million from $78 million in last year's second quarter. Increased engineering, research and development and start-up expenses in the occupant restraints business, North American market softness and the unsettled Brazilian economy limited the gain in operating profit.

In the space and defense segment, sales were $862 million, up 9 percent from $789 million in the year-earlier quarter on solid revenue growth from space technology and defense communications programs. Despite a difficult defense industry environment, operating profit rose slightly to $61 million. Expense investments for future business, the effect of program stretchouts and reduced government funding on tactical programs moderated the operating profit increase.

TRW provides advanced technology products and services for the automotive, space and defense and information markets. The company's 1989 sales totaled $7.34 billion.

SALT LAKE CITY (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - First Security Corp. (OTC/NASDAQ:FSCO) Tuesday reported second quarter net income of $12.64 million, up $1.13 million or 9.8 percent from the like 1989 quarter.

Six month earnings of $25.21 million were up $3.62 million or 16.7 percent from the $21.59 million earned during the first half of 1989.

Second quarter net income per share was 87 cents on a fully diluted basis, a gain of 7.4 percent compared with the 81 cents earned during the 1989 quarter. Year-to-date earnings per share of $1.74 increased 14.5 percent from the $1.52 earned in 1989's first half.

Spencer F. Eccles, the corporation's chairman and chief executive officer, attributed the quarterly and year-to-date earnings improvements to increased net interest income from strong earning asset growth, higher non-interest income from expansion of the corporation's fee-producing activities, increased productivity and the continued favorable business conditions in the Intermountain West. He also noted that increased loan originations in the robust Idaho economy, successful efforts to expand core deposits, and recent Utah, Idaho and Oregon acquisitions all contributed to current earnings and built a solid foundation for future earnings growth and more diversified earnings streams.

On a fully taxable-equivalent basis, net interest income was $62.34 million for the quarter and $123.73 million for the first six months. These results represent gains of 6.3 percent and 6 percent, respectively, over 1989's net interest income of $58.65 million in the second quarter and $116.72 million in the first half. Earning asset growth accounted for the increased net interest income, and came primarily from increased loans and leases, up 11.7 percent for the half to a record $4.44 billion. Loan growth reflects continued strong demand for installment loans and residential real estate mortgages.

Non-interest income was up $2.49 million or 14.9 percent for the quarter to $19.12 million and up $4.72 million or 14.1 million for the half to $38.24 million as compared with $16.64 million and $33.52 million respectively for 1989.

Productivity as measured by the ratio of non-interest expense to average total assets continued to improve, equalling 3.43 percent for the quarter and 3.56 for the half. These ratios compare with 3.75 percent and 3.76 percent for the respective periods last year.

Eccles said, ''First Security's earnings growth was achieved in spite of the negative impact of non-performing assets. Growth of the loan and lease portfolio was accompanied by an increase in non-performing assets. Non-performing assets, which include non-accrual loans and other real estate net of reserves, totaled $104.24 million or 2.33 percent of loans, leases and ORE at June 30, 1990. One year ago, non-performing assets were $90.30 million or 2.24 percent of loans, leases and ORE while the comparable year-end 1989 balance and ratio were $84.55 million and 1.98 percent.

Eccles added, ''We are certainly concerned over the loan deteriorations which caused the non-performing asset balances to increase after being able to achieve reductions in 13 of 14 previous quarters from a peak of 6.1 percent in the third quarter of 1986. We will continue our determined efforts to reduce non-performing assets.''

Most of the increase in non-performing assets over the year-ago amount occurred during the quarter, and was made up of a small number of credits consisting almost entirely of local commercial and real estate loans, including a local commercial loan of $11.7 million, and two local commercial real estate loans totaling $8.9 million. Other major catagories of non-performing assets, consisting of consumer loans, other real estate owned and leases, continued to drop, not only from a year ago but from three months ago and year-end 1989.

''The economic momentum of the Intermountain West continues at a strong pace and at a growth rate higher than in the Southwest and elsewhere nationally,'' Eccles said. ''This has helped our earnings growth as we benefitted from the corporation's sound, well-balanced position.'' Job growth in Idaho, Oregon and Utah not only continues to rank among the highest in the United States but actually accelerated in 1990's first half. This broadbased, diversified growth kept unemployment in First Security's marketplace well below the U.S. average.

First Security Corp. is the largest financial services organization headquartered in the Intermountain West. It is the oldest continuously operating multi-state bank holding company in the United States. First Security operates 182 full-service banking offices in Utah, Idaho, Oregon and Wyoming. Other subsidiaries include a leasing company, two insurance companies, an investment management firm and a discount brokerage operation.

GERMANTOWN, WI (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Despite a sharp downturn in housing starts nationally this year, David White Inc. (NASDAQ:DAWH) reported increased sales and earnings for its second fiscal period.

The company also announced agreement with a Japanese trading company on a contract worth more than $1 million. Under the agreement, Daido of Japan will purchase pipe lasers used in sewer construction. The PipeLaser 1500 is manufactured by David White's Swiss subsidiary, Ammann Lasertechnik, AG.

David White Inc. is a leading manufacturer of laser and optical surveying instruments used by builders and contractors.

E. Gustav Malm, president and chief executive officer, reported that sales for the three months ended June 30, 1990, rose seven percent to $3,584,000 from $3,359,000 reported for the same period of fiscal 1989.

Net earnings were up 37.5 percent to $55,000, vs. $40,000 for the same period last year. On a per share basis, earnings increased 57 percent from 7 cents to 11 cents. The figures reflect the impact of a plan authorized last year by the board of directors to repurchase company stock.

Earnings for the first six months of 1990 were up 11 percent to $253,000 from $228,000 for the similar period of 1989. On a per share basis, earnings rose 19 percent from 37 cents last year to 44 cents for the first six months of 1990.

Sales for the first six months of 1990 totaled $7,696,000, compared to $6,991,000 in 1989, an increase of 10 percent. Malm noted that the 1989 six-month sales figure included $784,000 generated by the company's micrographics division, which was sold later in 1989. ''When you compare year-to-year sales of our continuing business, we improved better than 24 percent for the first six months of 1990,'' he pointed out.

''The transition of David White is proceeding according to plan,'' Malm said. ''We wanted to become more aggressive in the marketplace, and have done that with increased promotion and more new product introductions, both of which have increased our expenses but have paid off in the improved sales figures we reported.

''We also wanted to become more of a global player, and we're making that happen. The second period figures include strong international sales, which more than offset lower sales in the U.S. because of fewer housing starts. Our acquisition a year ago of the Ammann Lasertechnik firm in Switzerland is producing the kinds of results we believed it would -- both in terms of sales and new product technology.''

Malm pointed to the Daido contract as another example of the company's growing international presence. He said that financial benefits from the pipe laser contract, however, would not be realized before the fourth quarter of 1990.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Software Publishing Corp. (NASDAQ:SPCO) Tuesday announced record revenues of $38.1 million and record net income of $5.7 million, or 46 cents per share, for its third fiscal quarter ended June 30.

The results reflect the success of the company's worldwide marketing efforts, as well as the acceptance of several new products.

These figures compare with revenues of $26.2 million and net income of $4.2 million, or 35 cents per share, for the third quarter of fiscal 1989. For the first nine months of fiscal 1990, revenues were $98.2 million, representing a 35 percent increase over the first nine months of fiscal year of 1989.

Net income for the like period was $16.1 million, or $1.30 per share, an increase of 34 percent over the first nine months of last year.

Results for the quarter include a non-recurring charge to cost of revenues of $2.5 million resulting from the accelerated amortization of technology purchased in the 1988 acquisition of Office Solutions Inc.

This action reflects the decision to focus document processing marketing efforts on the DOS platform through Professional Write and on the Windows platform through new products based on technology recently licensed from Samna Corp.

During the third quarter, the company introduced enhanced versions of Harvard Graphics, its market-leading business presentation graphics package, and Professional Write, its popular document processing package.

In addition, new networking implementations were released for Software Publishing Corp.'s DOS-based LAN products.

In May, Software Publishing Corp. announced a technology licensing agreement with Samna Corp. for the technology in Ami, Samna's Windows-based word processor. Software Publishing Corp. plans to enhance this technology and bring a Windows-based document processor to market in fiscal year 1991.

Software Publishing's strong operating performance in the third quarter has increased revenue expectations for fiscal year 1990 to a range of 30 to 35 percent above fiscal year 1989.

DALLAS (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - InterVoice Inc., (NASDAQ:INTV) the world's leading supplier of voice response systems, Tuesday introduced a fully integrated digital version of the RobotOperator system which supports full T1 capabilities.

The system is comprised of the InterVoice VocalCard/Digital which provides for 24 channel capacity in a single slot in the IBM Personal System/2 with fully integrated T1 capability on the card; InterSoft/2 which incorporates OS/2 into the RobotOperator operating and application software; and InterForm, a powerful application software tool that simplifies the task of creating and modifying interactive voice scripts.

For the European market, VocalCard/Digital provides 30 channels for CEPT standards.

The system provides the opportunity for computer database control of the calling process using ISDN services. The system will support ATT service (ISDN - PRI), MCI-ESP, Sprint/ANI and feature group D.

The digital system intercepts the number of the caller, accesses the database on a mainframe or within itself and identifies the caller, (his demographics or characteristics), thus saving caller identification time and providing economy in faster call handling.

Dialed Number Identification Service (DNIS) is interpreted so that multiple application scripts share all lines without the need for time-consuming menu option and selection. Call-by-call routing allows fewer lines to provide the same level of customer service since lines can serve both inbound and outbound calls.

The InterVoice RobotOperator/Digital System, priced from $1,625 per channel for a single T-Span of 24 channels to under $1,000 per channel for 96 channels or 4 T-Spans, will be available in August. For further information, please call InterVoice at 214/497-8720.

FORT WORTH, TX (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Justin Industries Inc. said Tuesday, regarding counterclaims filed by Choctaw Securities L.P. in litigation pending in Fort Worth, that the accusation that the board of directors of Justin Industries illegally granted severance contracts to key employees of the company is false and that the implication that John Justin received a severance contract is likewise false.

Justin Industries further said that after Choctaw's acquisition of more than 6 percent of the company's common stock and because of press releases about Choctaw's possible takeover of the company, the board of directors became concerned about the likelihood of losing key employees. After the proxy materials for the annual meeting had been mailed to shareholders, Choctaw made an unsolicited offer to purchase the company.

At the board's regularly scheduled meeting following the annual meeting of shareholders, the board of directors voted to grant severance contracts to key employees that provide payments equal to one to three years of compensation in the event their employment is terminated due to change of control, including a hostile takeover. John Justin did not receive such a contract.

The company added that accusations against the board of directors and management of the company contained in Choctaw's court filings along with its latest press release are typical strategies employed by corporate raiders.

Exxon Co., U.S.A., announced that Reduced Emissions Exxon Extra, designed to help improve air quality, is now available in the San Francisco Bay Area, Sacramento and other Northern California markets.

Reduced Emissions Exxon Extra, manufactured at Exxon's Benecia refinery, will be lower in volatility to reduce hydrocarbon emissions. ''We are pleased to help improve California's air quality by making Reduced Emissions Exxon Extra available at more than 500 Exxon stations in Northern and Southern California.''

Although the new gasoline will cost more to produce, Exxon's wholesale price for the product will remain competitive with other premium gasolines in the marketplace.

''Customers can continue to expect performance from Exxon Extra unleaded gasoline. Exxon Extra has Exxon's proprietary detergent additive Advanced Formula XCL-12. The octane rating will remain unchanged at 92 octane,'' assured Thomson.

Thomson emphasized Exxon's continued commitment to provide products to help meet the nation's air quality needs. ''Exxon is the leading producer of reduced emissions gasolines in the United States.''

Exxon offers reduced emissions gasolines in 40 Gulf and East Coast markets and in Montana and Eastern Washington markets. Reduced Emissions Exxon Extra will also be available in the Los Angeles area.

CARSON, Calif. (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - TRW Systems Engineering and Development Division has been selected by the Jet Propulsion Laboratory for negotiations leading to the award of a contract to support the JPL European Command (EUCOM) Command Center Project.

Under U.S. Army sponsorship, the project will provide an increased and modernized capability for the U.S. European Command Center located near Stuttgart, Germany. The $14 million basic cost-plus-award-fee contract is for three years, with an option for a four-year follow-on contract.

The EUCOM Command Center, a U.S. Army-supported headquarters, coordinates more than 300,000 U.S. Army, Air Force, Marine Corps and Navy military and civilian personnel. EUCOM is part of the U.S. Unified Command, whose responsibility stretches from Norway through the Mediterranean, Africa and parts of the Middle East. The project will augment and integrate currently separate support systems to provide a rapid and coherent operational picture for situation assessment and action.

The approach to upgrading the command center is based on a rapid development methodology where deliveries are made on approximate nine-month intervals. TRW's initial 35-member team is colocated with JPL in Pasadena, Calif. As the project undertakes development of additional command center capabilities, TRW's staffing level is projected to double.

''We look forward to working with JPL in a long-term relationship to develop this technically challenging European Command Center,'' said Jerry Klayman, TRW project manager. ''This program builds on the more than 25 years of experience TRW has in designing and developing large-scale command, control and communications systems with highly automated software capabilities.''

''This is a significant win for us,'' said Jack R. Distaso, vice president and general manager of SEDD. ''TRW has been involved in the upgrade of other command centers, including headquarters for the Military Airlift Command and the Strategic Air Command.''

The division currently is working on the Command Center Processing and Display System-Replacement to update the Air Force missile warning system at Cheyenne Mountain, Colo., and the U.S. Army-Europe Command and Control System which provides command, control and communications capabilities for the Army in Europe.

The Systems Engineering and Development Division, located in Carson, Calif., is part of the TRW Systems Integration Group, an operating unit of TRW Inc.'s California-based Space and Defense Sector. The group, headed by John P. Stenbit, vice president and general manager, is headquartered in Fairfax County, Va., and performs systems engineering services and systems integration and develops and installs strategic and tactical command and control systems, information processing systems and security systems for federal government agencies, industry contractors and international customers.

Cleveland-based TRW Inc. is an international company that provides high technology products and services to the space and defense, automotive and information systems markets. The company's 1989 sales totaled about $7 billion.

IRVINE, CA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Printronix Inc. (NASDAQ:PTNX), manufacturer of computer printers, Tuesday reported a net income of $1,005,000, or 26 cents per share, for the quarter ended June 29, on sales of $29,668,000.

This compares with a net loss of $607,000, or 13 cents per share, on sales of $29,250,000 for the like quarter of the previous year and a net income of $1,907,000, or 50 cents per share, on sales of $32,953,000 for the quarter ended March 30.

Released backlog as of June 29 was $14,577,000, compared with $23,284,000 at the end of the previous quarter and $25,269,000 at the end of the first quarter of the previous fiscal year. Product orders, which remained steady in Europe and the Pacific, have softened in the United States. With the company's ample capacity to deliver products, order lead times have decreased.

The company believes that due to this product availability, customers no longer place orders as far in advance of their expected needs, resulting in a reduced backlog compared with prior quarters.

In response to the current market conditions, the company continues its strong commitment to support research and development to enhance existing products and develop new product applications, while at the same time seeking to reduce costs through continued productivity improvements.

Printronix Inc., founded in 1974, designs, manufactures and markets a full range of printers for business and industrial applications. Printronix leads the industry as the supplier of printers for rugged industrial applications.

Products include patented matrix line printers for heavy-duty cycle, medium- and high-speed printing and plotting; non-impact page printers for shared office applications requiring letter-quality printing and high-resolution graphics; and intelligent graphics processors (IGP) for on-line generation of forms and bar code labels.

The company's products are marketed worldwide to original equipment manufacturers (OEMs), value-added resellers (VARs) and through a network of exclusive full-service distributors.

EVERETT, Wash. (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - INTERMEC Corp. (NASDAQ:INTR), the world leader in solutions for automated data collection, told shareholders at the company's annual meeting today that it earned a small profit in the first quarter of fiscal 1991.

The company announced on June 21 that it expected to earn little or no profit in the first quarter.

Net income was $147,000 or $.02 per share on revenues of $41.9 million for the three months ended June 30, 1990. The company earned $2.1 million or $.28 per share on revenues of $37.8 million for the like period a year ago.

''We are disappointed with INTERMEC's first quarter results, but do not view them as long-term issue because of the many fundamental strengths of the company,'' INTERMEC Chairman and Chief Executive Officer John W. Paxton told shareholders.

Paxton noted that the first quarter profits were lowered by a $1 million relocation charge and the higher overhead associated with its new facility as well as continuing weakness in sales to the Department of Defense. He said the company's move into its new 312,000 square foot headquarters and manufacturing facility would generate important long-term benefits for the company, including greater manufacturing efficiencies, improved employee productivity, and ample room for future expansion.

''In the first quarter, the company booked $1 million in sales to the Department of Defense compared to sales of $3 million a year ago. We are re-evaluating our federal systems programs and will be taking steps to replace these revenues,'' Paxton stated.

''We also are observing that commercial sales, which comprise about 90 percent of INTERMEC's revenues, have been growing at about 18 percent for the last two quarters compared to the like quarters a year ago. This is a very healthy gain, but not as rapid a rate of growth as the company has enjoyed in the last couple of years,'' Paxton said.

''INTERMEC will increase its efforts in Europe during fiscal 1991. The company has had a growing presence there for over a decade,'' Paxton noted. ''Recently, we solidified our position, in anticipation of 1992, with the acquisition of a new supplies subsidiary in The Netherlands and the establishment of a European headquarters in Dusseldorf, Germany.''

Paxton reported to shareholders that INTERMEC will continue to invest heavily in research and development to create new products that apply proven technology to automated data collection. The company announced two new radio frequency products slated for introduction this fall: a ''spread spectrum'' technology and a wireless CrossBart network using UHF RF frequencies that will complement ''spread spectrum.''

The company also demonstrated its new hand held laser scanner which it has been manufacturing since INTERMEC acquired licenses earlier this year to use patents developed by Symbol Technologies.

INTERMEC Corp., a pioneer in bar code technology and the world leader in solutions for data collection, designs, manufactures and markets the most comprehensive line of bar code products and services available, including hardware, software, systems and media products, service and training.

CULVER CITY, CA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Showscan Film Corp. (NASDAQ:SHOW) announced Tuesday that it has signed contracts with Versailles-based Socogex, one of Europe's most important theatrical exhibitors, for two Dynamic Motion Simulators (DMS), expected to be installed prior to Christmas 1990 in central shopping and entertainment areas of Paris and Madrid.

According to the announcement made by Showscan President Roy Aaron, the two 80-seat DMS attractions have been purchased by Socogex and its Madrid-based subsidiary, Sociedad Cinematografica en Centros Commerciales (SCCC), for installation in multiplex cinema locations in Paris's popular La Defense Business and Leisure Center and Madrid's fashionable La Vaguada Shopping Center.

Aaron said that the contract also awards to Socogex certain exclusivity rights and options to install additional DMS's in Paris, Madrid and Barcelona. Terms were not disclosed.

Dynamic Motion Simulators combine several technologies, including Showscan's patented 70mm/60 frames-per-second image technology, to create ultra-realistic thrill-rides for amusement seekers. Socogex and SCCC have licensed a library of rides filmed in Showscan, including an Olympic bobsled run, a high-speed police chase, a runaway train, a roller coaster, a high-speed race car ride down the Alps with no breaks, and other adrenalin-intensive experiences.

The announcement follows the successful June opening of the first two DMS's in the United States at the largest hotel in the world, the Excalibur Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas, where opening-day attendance exceeded 11,000 thrill-riders. Showscan has also reported attendance at the DMS's located at Futuroscope in Piotiers, Osaka Expo '90 and Himeji Central Park in Japan, and Lotte World in Seoul.

Aaron said that in addition to DMS hardware revenues, the company will receive future royalties and licensing fees based on a percentage of paid admissions with a minimum guarantee. He said that Zurich-based Intamin AG will provide hydraulically actuated seats for the DMS attractions.

Socogex and its subsidiaries own and operate 92 screens in the great metropolitan centers of France and Spain. Socogex Chief Executive Officer Jean-Charles Edeline, whose 40-year career has included the positions of studio president, producer, distributor and exhibitor, is also chief executive officer of the Pathe/Edeline circuit of 322 screens in France.

Showscan develops and supplies images and experiences through advanced technologies for the leisure, amusement and entertainment industries. WASHINGTON (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - The Department of Justice announced Monday that Florida Federal Savings Bank of St. Petersburg, Fla., has agreed to pay more than $18 million to settle charges that it falsely billed the Department of Education for student loans.

The settlement, which was finalized Monday, calls for the bank to pay $17.89 million in restitution. In documents submitted for reimbursement from the Department of Education for Guaranteed Student Loans, Florida Federal falsely claimed it had attempted to collect delinquent loans when, in fact, it had not.

In addition, the settlement calls for the bank to pay $150,000 to release most individual bank officers and employees from liability.

Flordia Federal will pay a majority of the $17.89 million by agreeing not to accept legitimate reimbursements from the Education Department. This process, which began several months ago, is nearly complete.

Florida Federal and one of its former officers were convicted May 2 of 43 counts of mail fraud, conspiracy and filing false claims. Florida Federal was fined $2.15 million, which is separate from the sum agreed to in Monday's civil settlement. Florida Federal was also ordered to make restitution of $17 million, which satisfies part of Monday's civil settlement. Robert Harmas, former vice president in the student loan division, received a two-year prison sentence. Another former bank official, James LaMantia, was convicted on 30 counts of fraud and sentenced to three years probation. A third former official, Jeffrey Flatten, has been indicted on 25 counts and is awaiting trial.

As part of the settlement agreement, Florida Federal has agreed to correct the credit records of students who were adversely affected. In additon to sending letters to credit bureaus, the bank will have to advertise, in local newspapers, its willingness to correct credit ratings so that former students may become aware that they no longer have adverse credit ratings.

The areas covered by the newspaper advertising will be St. Petersburg, Tampa, Orlando, Tallahassee, Gainesville and Pensacola.

Florida Federal has been under the supervision of the Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) for the last several months, although federal regulators have not formally assumed control of the thrift.

SANTA CLARA, CA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Intel Corp.'s revenue and net income were at record levels for the quarter ended June 30, 1990, the company said Tuesday.

Revenue was $968 million, up 30 percent from $747 million a year ago. Net income was $171 million, a 72 percent increase from $99 million for the second quarter of 1989. Earnings per share grew to 84 cents from 53 cents a year ago.

Revenue for the first half of 1990 was $1.9 billion, up 28 percent from $1.5 billion for the similar period in 1989. Net income increased 60 percent to $314 million from $196 million a year ago. Earnings per share were $1.57, up from $1.05 per share for the first half of 1989.

Based on the company's first half performance, Intel employees will receive a bonus equal to 6.5 days pay through the company's Employee Cash Bonus Program.

Andrew S. Grove, president and chief executive officer, said demand was strong worldwide, particularly for components such as 32-bit microprocessors, high-density EPROMs and microcontrollers. The company's book-to-bill ratio again exceeded 1.0 for the quarter, he said.

Grove said that meeting demand for its popular 32-bit 386 microprocessor family is Intel's chief task at present. ''Unit shipments of 386 family chips in the second quarter doubled compared with last year's second quarter; still, OEM demand has grown even faster, particularly for the 386 SX microprocessor.

''To help meet this demand, we recently announced plans to keep our Livermore, Calif., plant open another year while we continue to ramp production at our newer facilities,'' he said. In the second quarter, Intel also announced it will build a new chip manufacturing plant in Ireland.

The company said prices of the most popular speeds of 386 family chips have continued to decline due to the increased manufacturing efficiencies gained through higher production volumes. Third quarter pricing (1,000 unit quantities) for the 25-MHz 386 DX chip, for example, is $182, down 27 percent from one year ago.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CALIF. (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Sun Microsystems Tuesday unveiled two innovative new programs for marketing and distributing application software developed for Sun workstations.

Catalyst CDware lets Sun users browse through an interactive ''catalog'' of applications -- such as Lotus 1-2-3 for Sun and FrameMaker -- contained on a CD-ROM (compact disc-read-only memory) disc.

For Sun's third-party software developers, Catalyst CDware is an effective new vehicle for marketing their products directly to Sun users. As a key benefit of the program, the application software can be distributed to users.

Sun's ''welcome kit'' is another unusual marketing program from Sun that benefits both customers and software developers. Now to be included with every new SPARCstation shipped domestically, this box contains discount coupons on third-party productivity applications and other products.

Each quarter, Sun will distribute Catalyst CDware to its customers. The disc will be offered to all Sun users at no charge. Catalyst CDware will include samples of software programs, short demonstrations and other information that can be displayed and interactively manipulated on a user's workstation screen.

To purchase an application, Sun users will contact the software developer or its authorized resellers directly.

A major feature of Catalyst CDware is the intuitive OPEN LOOK graphical user interface. Utilizing pull-down menus and point-and-click mouse controls, OPEN LOOK makes it easy and fun for users to look through the demos and programs, trying them out as desired.

''As UNIX systems such as our SPARCstations continue to move into the Fortune 1000, it's important for users to learn about all the new desktop applications for these systems,'' said Ed Zander, vice president of corporate marketing at Sun.

LYNNWOOD, WA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Ralph V. Schapler, chairman and chief executive officer of Pioneer Federal Savings Bank, Lynnwood, Tuesday announced increased earnings for the three months ended June 30, 1990.

Pioneer Bank converted to stock ownership on July 13, 1989, and trades on the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol ''PFBK.''

Net income for the three months ended June 30, 1990, was $2,686,000, or 47 cents per share, compared to $319,000 for the same period in 1989.

Net income for the six months ended June 30, 1990, was $5,203,000, compared to a loss of $13,356,000 for the same period in 1989. Net income not including the one-time effects of the restructuring and Management Recognition Plan was $2,234,000 for the six months ended June 30, 1989. The 133 percent increase in net income, not including the effects of the one-time events, over the previous year was principally composed of a $4.3 million increase in net interest income, resulting from the restructuring of investments and borrowings together with larger portfolio balances, which was partially offset by a $404,000 decrease in income from real estate operations, resulting from a decrease in residential lot sales in the Bank's subsidiary.

Mortgage loan originations increased by 135 percent to $65,434,000 for the quarter ended June 30, 1990, as compared to $27,872,000 for the same period a year ago.

Deposits increased by $26,588,000 to $472,443,000 at June 30, 1990, from $445,855,000 at Dec. 31, 1989. This increase represents a 12 percent annual rate of growth.

Based primarily on increased earnings, the board of directors declared a dividend of 14 cents per share to stockholders of record July 12, 1990, payable on July 26, 1990.

PENNSAUKEN, NJ (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Environmental Control Group Inc. (NASDAQ:ECGI) Tuesday announced net income of $481,000 or approximately 7 cents per share, on second-quarter revenues of $14,671,000 and net income of $563,000 or approximately 8 cents per share, for the six-month period ended June, 1990.

ECG reported that revenues for the six-month period ended June, 1990 were $29,281,000. The company noted that when the underwriting revenues of its insurance subsidiary are excluded, the remaining operating subsidiaries' revenues were down from 1989 levels. Comparative results for 1989 did not include any underwriting revenues or earnings of the insurance subsidiary due to the open-year-deposit method of accounting for underwriting results then in use.

The company attributed this decline in revenues to its earlier decision to discontinue various product lines and cease some services to certain sectors of the asbestos abatement marketplace, as well as to a general softness in the industry and an increase in competition.

The company reported second quarter operating income before interest and taxes of $1,407,000.

''While lower than those reported in the second quarter of 1989, we are nonetheless pleased with the fact that our second-quarter profits were significantly above those of the first-quarter on comparable sales volume '' said ECG president and chief executive officer Brian R. Esher.

''This improvement is attributable to our progress in reducing operating costs and expenses, allowing us to generate reasonable returns on lower revenues. Our results for the month of June were encouraging in that they reflected a double digit return at the pre-tax, pre-interest level for each of our operating subsidiaries as well as the overall company.

''During the second quarter,'' he continued, ''we also achieved a significant milestone as our debt level reached the lowest point in our history -- below $7.8 million. At the end of June, our bank debt was $8,546,000, down $1,334,000 from 1989 year end.''

The company also announced that as a part of its continuing efforts to reduce expenses, it has relocated its headquarters from Maple Shade, N.J. to an existing, lower-cost facility in nearby Pennsauken, N.J. The firm's new headquarters address is 115 Twinbridge Drive, Pennsauken, NJ 08110.

In another corporate development, the company's board of directors on July 11 elected Brian R. Esher as its chairman.

SAN JOSE, CA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - The Coast Distribution System (ASE:CRV) Tuesday reported its financial results for the six months and quarter ended June 30.

Sales for the six months ended June 30 were $82,999,000 in 1990, a 15 percent increase over the like period in 1989. Net earnings were $1,292,000, or 29 cents per share, as compared to $2,192,000, or 46 cents in 1989.

Sales for the quarter ended June 30 increased 12 percent to $48,614,000 from $43,462,000 in 1989. Net earnings were $1,385,000, or 30 cents per share, in 1990 and $1,984,000, or 40 cents per share in 1989.

The increase in the company's sales was attributable to the acquisitions, made in September 1989 and January 1990, of Griffin Marine, a distributor of marine parts and accessories, and Mohawk Trailer Supply, a distributor of recreational vehicle parts and accessories.

Coast's sales and earnings continue to be adversely affected by the continued weakness in sales of recreational vehicles and the even greater slowdown in sales of new boats.

IRVINE, CA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Diceon Electronics Inc. (NASDAQ/NMS:DICN) announced financial results for the third quarter ended June 30 continue to be unacceptable.

Net sales increased to $31,682,000 as compared to $27,687,000 last year. Diceon recorded a net loss in the third quarter of $2,447,000, a loss of 47 cents per share, as compared to a net loss of $1,107,000, or 19 cents per share, last year.

Nine months' revenues were $91,120,000 with a net loss of $5,067,000, or 91 cents per share. For the same nine months last year net sales were $87,893,000, or a loss of $2,132,000, or 37 cents per share, last year.

We have just completed the worst quarter in the company's history. The poor results have been caused by continuing lack of sufficient sales to cover expenses, severe pricing pressure in obtaining orders, and process control problems resulting from the consolidation of some operations in our Plymouth Division causing delay in customer shipments. We believe that most of the process control problems at Plymouth have been solved.

SAN FRANCISCO (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Wells Fargo and Co. (NYSE:WFC) Tuesday reported that earnings per share in the second quarter of 1990 were $4.40, an increase of 64 percent from $2.68 in the second quarter of 1989.

Net income in the second quarter of 1990 totaled $232.4 million, an increase of 58 percent from $147.4 million in the second quarter of 1989.

Earnings in the second quarter of 1990 benefited from a $116.5 million pretax gain that resulted from the establishment of Wells Fargo's joint venture with Nikko Securities Co. Ltd., Wells Fargo-Nikko Investment Advisors (WFNIA).

In this transaction, Wells Fargo contributed certain of its businesses in exchange for approximately a 50 percent interest in WFNIA and $125 million in cash. Without the after-tax effect of the WFNIA gain, Wells Fargo would have reported net income of $163.8 million, or $3.06 per share, in the second quarter of 1990.

For the first six months of 1990, net income was $392.2 million, or $7.45 per share, compared with $288.9 million, or $5.24 per share, a year earlier. Without the after-tax effect of the WFNIA gain, earnings for the first six months of 1990 would have been $323.6 million, or $6.10 per share.

In addition to the WFNIA gain, earnings in the second quarter of 1990 benefited from increased net interest income, partially offset by an increase in noninterest expense.

The increase in net interest income resulted primarily from an increase in loans. Net interest income on a taxable-equivalent basis was $572.6 million in the second quarter of 1990, compared with $531.5 million a year ago. The company's net interest margin was 5.03 percent, compared with 5.05 percent a year ago.

Return on average assets (ROA) was 1.83 percent and return on average common equity (ROE) was 33.41 percent in the second quarter of 1990, compared with 1.26 percent and 24.25 percent, respectively, a year ago. Excluding the WFNIA gain, ROA would have been 1.29 percent and ROE would have been 23.80 percent in the second quarter of 1990.

Noninterest income in the second quarter of 1990 was $309.3 million, compared with $211.7 million a year ago. Noninterest expense totaled $416.4 million, compared with $385.0 million a year ago.

BOSTON (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - State Street Boston Corp. reported second quarter earnings per share of $.75 on a fully diluted basis, up 14 percent from $.66 per share in the second quarter of 1989.

Net income for the quarter was $28.5 million, up from $24.9 million a year ago. The earnings per share gain resulted from revenue growth partially offset by increased operating expenses and a higher provision for loan losses. Return on stockholders' equity was 18.0 percent.

Fee revenue accounted for 68 percent of total revenue, reflecting State Street's businesses that combine information technology with banking.

State Street is the largest provider of securities processing and recordkeeping services to U.S. mutual funds and pension funds.

The corporation also specializes in quantitative investment products and is the largest U.S. manager of international pension assets. At June 30, total assets under custody were $835 billion, up 20 percent from a year ago. Total assets managed were $63 billion, up 36 percent. In addition to U.S. locations, State Street has offices in Toronto, London, Luxembourg, Munich, Hong Kong, Tokyo and Sydney.

Fee revenue was $124.4 million, up $15.7 million or 14 percent over the second quarter of 1989. The largest component of fee revenue, fiduciary compensation, was $96.0 million, up 17 percent. Growth in mutual fund assets, servicing for additional mutual funds, and expanded use of master trust services contributed to the increase in revenue.

Fees from managing assets for other institutions were up substantially. Other rapidly expanding services contributing to the increase were global custody and accounting services in the Pacific region, and participant accounting for 401(k) plans and services for ESOPs in the United States.

Taxable equivalent net interest revenue was $70.2 million, up $14.8 million or 27 percent from the second quarter of 1989. Wider interest rate spreads and balance sheet growth contributed to the improvement. As short-term market interest rates fell, the excess of rates earned over rates paid by State Street widened. Interest-earning assets increased $2.0 billion, or 29 percent, funded in part by additional multi-currency deposits from global custody portfolios serviced by State Street.

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Great Western Financial Corp. Tuesday reported second-quarter 1990 net earnings of $78.2 million, or 60 cents per share, a 51 percent increase over the $51.9 million, or 40 cents per share, for the second quarter of 1989.

For the first six months of 1990, net earnings were $152 million, or $1.18 per share, compared with $109 million, or 85 cents per share, in the first half of 1989.

''Great Western's earnings continued to improve in the second quarter of 1990, as the company's strong core operating results enabled it to achieve its target of a return on stockholders' equity of 15 percent,'' said James F. Montgomery, chairman and chief executive.

''New loan volume remains strong,'' Montgomery added. ''In both May and June Great Western recorded more than $1 billion in new residential real estate loans and April volume nearly reached that level as well, despite a general slowing in the national mortgage market,'' he said.

Net interest income, the primary source of operating income, rose to $286 million for the second quarter of 1990 compared with $223 million in the second quarter of 1989. For the first six months of 1990, net interest income totaled $572 million, an increase of 26 percent from $453 million in the first half of 1989.

The net interest margin, the difference between the company's yield on earning assets and its cost of funds, was 2.86 percent at June 30, 1990, compared with 2.54 percent a year earlier.

Total new loans in the second quarter of 1990 were $3.6 billion, compared with $3.4 billion, in the same quarter of 1989. For the first half of 1990, total new loans were $6.5 billion, compared with the record $7 billion, recorded in the same period of 1989. Adjustable rate mortgages comprised approximately 90 percent of the company's real estate loan volume.

Loan sales in the first six months of 1990 were $1.4 billion, compared with $1 billion, in the first half of 1989.

Non-performing assets and troubled debt restructurings continued to decline to 2.55 percent of total assets at June 30, 1990. A year earlier, non-performing assets and troubled debt restructurings were 2.86 percent of total assets.

Operating and administrative expenses as a percent of average assets for banking operations were 1.56 percent in the 1990 second quarter, compared with 1.52 percent, in the second quarter a year earlier.

SAN FRANCISCO (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Capitalcorp Inc. Tuesday reported that workout discussions are underway with its two senior lenders, which financed the company's acquisition of Robert C. Brown & Co. Inc. last year and that the senior lenders have extended the maturity date of their secured loans in the outstanding principal amount of approximately $7.7 million to July 29.

In exchange for such extension, the company has agreed with its senior lenders, among other things, that so long as the senior loans remain outstanding, the company will not make any payments on or in connection with its 7.5 percent convertible subordinated debentures due 2011 without first obtaining the senior lenders' consent.

Although the company is current on its interest obligations on the debentures and although the next interest payment is not due until Dec. 15 the company is not presently in a position to honor two outstanding requests to convert a total of $1.4 million worth of debentures to cash.

Pursuant to the governing indenture, if these conversion requests are not honored or otherwise worked out by July 29, this could result in the acceleration of the full approximate $11 million principal amount of the debentures plus accrued interest.

The company's present workout discussions have been precipitated by the company's non-receipt to date of new financing pursuant to an existing financing commitment.

Patricia Ellison, the company's chairman, stated that: ''During the next two weeks, the company will continue to seek to consummate the new financing to enable the company to retire its existing senior loans and to honor the outstanding debenture conversion requests.

''At the same time, the company will continue to explore possible restructuring alternatives and, where appropriate, will institute cost-saving measures. The company also will move forward with efforts to evaluate the feasibility of selling its insurance holding company subsidiary, United Security Financial Corp. of Illinois, as an alternative means of raising revenues to retire the existing senior loans.''

Ellison further stated that the company's asset management business remains in compliance with regulatory requirements and that no customer accounts are in jeopardy. In the same vein, she said that the company's brokerage subsidiary, Pacific Securities Inc., remains in compliance with net capital requirements and that no customer accounts are in jeopardy.

United Security Financial Corp. of Illinois, Pacific Securities Inc. and Pacific Securities Mortgage Corp. formerly were subsidiaries of Robert C. Brown & Co. Inc., which was acquired by and merged into the company in a leveraged buyout transaction in 1989. The company is headquartered in San Francisco.

SANTA BARBARA, CA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Advanced Computer Communiations (ACC) Tuesday announced it has signed a network-support agreement with Hewlett-Packard Co. that ensures the two companies will cooperate in identifying and resolving network problems for their mutual customers.

The HP Network Support Affiliate Agreement sets in place a structure for coordinated diagnosis and resolution of network faults resulting from either company's equipment. Even though both companies will remain independent support contractors to their customers, the agreement calls for each company to provide technical assistance to the other.

''Working together with HP, we can keep our mutual customers' networks up and running,'' said Lonnie Hatchell, ACC's director of customer service. ''If they experience problems on their networks, they can expect a quick response and total cooperation between ACC and HP. There won't be any finger-pointing.''

Both companies will work together to diagnose a customer's network trouble. When a problem is determined by one company to be caused by the other's products, a joint effort to resolve the trouble begins. The agreement stipulates that problems will be handled in a timely manner. In those cases not adequately addressed by routine processes, escalation procedures allow additional resources to be mobilized.

MANSFIELD, MA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Codex Corp. Tuesday announced its first ISDN offering with the launch of the 8860 ISDN Terminal Adapter.

Designed to help reduce leased-line costs, this data network-oriented terminal adapter will be the first to provide local and remote control terminal access via the ISDN network, for configuration, status checking and fault diagnosis.

The 8860 ISDN Basic Rate Interface (2B+D) Terminal Adapter enables the user to transmit data at up to 64 Kbps on each of the B channels. It provides the call control, rate adaption and signaling conversion necessary for a wide range of standard data communications and terminal equipment to communicate via ISDN.

The 8860 ISDN Terminal Adapter's flexibility allows usrs to run point-to-point, point-to-multipoint and multiplexed ISDN configurations and provide circuit- and packet-switched data transport. Unique Intelligent Port Adapters connect terminals or other data communications devices with a range of standard interfaces including RS 232-D, X.21, V.35 and EIA-530-A.

The integral floppy disk can be used to store multiple configurations to facilitate time-of-day or equipment-related application changes in addition to offering a flexible method of adding more functionality as ISDN standards stabilize.

The 8860 allows users to make ISDN calls on a local- or long-distance basis through either 64 Kbps or 56 Kbps trunks, in conjunction with AT&T-supplied central office switching capabilities. It can be used to create extra bandwidth, to carry peak traffic loads, or for backup of important network links, providing users with a more cost-effective and higher capacity alternative to the analog telephone network.

As a systems product, the 8860 offers extensive diagnostic support, which includes optionally-activated event logs and signaling messages that provide integral ''protocol analysis'' functionality. The protocol-intensive nature of ISDN signaling makes this an important capability which assists fault isolation on ISDN circuits.

All configuration and diagnostic capabilities of the 8860 can be accessed locally, or from a remotely-connected 8860 via ISDN, as the first step in the development of full network management support.

Sales, Service and Availability

The Codex 8860 Terminal Adapter will be available in September through the Codex domestic direct sales force. Pricing for the 8860 begins at $1,995 for the standalone unit with software and two Intelligent Port Adapters.

The Codex NetValue Software Subscription Service is included for the first year of ownership to provide automatic software upgrades and access to the Codex toll-free helpline.

ATLANTA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Coca-Cola Enterprises (NYSE:CCE) reported today that net income per common share in the second quarter increased 63.1 percent to 42 cents. Net income available to common shareholders rose 50.9 percent to $51.2 million. For the first half of 1990, net income per common share increased to 45 cents and net income available to common shareholders rose to $55.1 million.

Financial results in the second quarter benefited from completion of the previously announced sale of CCE's majority interest in Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Ohio and its ownership of Portsmouth Coca-Cola Bottling Company Inc. These transactions resulted in a one-time gain of $55.6 million before tax. Additionally, as previously announced CCE established in the second quarter incremental reserves of $10.0 million for potentially uncollectible trade accounts receivable. CCE also recognized in the quarter restructuring charges of $9.3 million relating primarily to the planned standardization of the Company's information systems operations. The net effect of these items increased net income per common share in the quarter by approximately 15 cents.

Operating cash flow in the second quarter decreased 4.6 percent to $162.6 million due primarily to the incremental reserves for potentially uncollectible trade accounts receivable and also the Company's restructuring charges. Operating cash flow for the six months increased 1.5 percent to $286.1 million. Excluding these items, operating cash flow for the second quarter and the six months totalled $181.9 million and $305.4 million, respectively, a 6.8 percent and 8.4 percent increase, respectively, over the prior year. Operating cash flow in the second quarter and the first half was affected by increased selling, administrative and general expenses as compared to prior year periods.

CCE's volume in physical cases increased approximately 2 l/2 percent in the second quarter and approximately 3 l/2 percent in the first half. In the second quarter net pricing for case sales to retailers was approximately 4 percent higher than in the same quarter of 1989. Net pricing for case sales to retailers in the first half of 1990 was approximately 3 percent above prior year levels. However, related cost of sales per unit in the second quarter increased by only 0.5 percent due primarily to favorable trends in material costs. In the first six months of 1990, related cost of sales per unit increased approximately l l/2 percent as compared to the same period of 1989.

Brian G. Dyson, president and chief executive officer, said, ''CCE's operating performance in the second quarter demonstrates the vitality of our system, and we expect this momentum to continue during the remainder of 1990.''

Other deductions totalled approximately $2.8 million in the second quarter and approximately $6.4 million in the first half of 1990. In the prior year, CCE recorded other income of approximately $7.0 million in the quarter and approximately $13.2 million in the six months.

CCE's effective tax rate in the second quarter and the six months of 1990 approximated 49 percent. The effective tax rate was approximately 45 percent in the same periods of the preceding year.

On June 22, l990, CCE completed the previously announced purchase of Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Arkansas from The Coca-Cola Company for an aggregate price of approximately $250 million.

In the second quarter CCE repurchased approximately 2.0 million shares of common stock from public shareholders and from The Coca-Cola Company. Cumulative repurchases in the current 25.0 million share repurchase program through the end of the second quarter totalled approximately 20.2 million shares. This program is expected to be completed by the end of 1990.

WAYNESBORO, VA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - GENICOM Corp. (NASDAQ:GECM) Tuesday reported a return to profitable operations in the second quarter and for the six months ended July 1.

Revenues for the 1990 second quarter were $67.8 million, slightly above the $66.9 million reported in the first quarter, but below the $72.6 million reported in the second quarter of 1989.

The lower revenues in the 1990 second quarter, relative to a year ago, reflected a higher than normal level of shipments in the 1989 quarter that eased a temporary increase in the company's order backlog.

Net income for the second quarter of 1990 was $0.8 million, or 8 cents per share, compared to net income of $0.1 million, or 1 cent per share, last year and a net loss of $0.6 million, or 6 cents per share, in the 1990 first quarter.

For the first six months of the current year, revenues were $134.8 million and net income was $0.2 million, or 2 cents per share. This compares to revenues of $137 million and a net loss of $0.9 million, or 9 cents per share, for the first six months of 1989.

Paul T. Winn, president and chief executive officer of GENICOM Corp., commented, ''Our second quarter results are very encouraging. We returned our operations to profitability by improving margins on printer products and continuing to lower operating expenses.

''We also reduced senior debt by $12.2 million to $18.2 million in the second quarter, utilizing funds provided by profitable operations, increased cash flow from improved turnover of accounts receivable and inventory, and an income tax refund of $4.5 million.

''Second quarter 1990 revenues improved over the first quarter across all of the company's operating divisions and reflected a continuing strong demand for the company's products in international markets.''

GENICOM's order backlog was $52.9 million at July 1, compared to $65 million at April 1, and $63.6 million a year ago. This reduction reflects continuing improvement in meeting customer demand on a timely basis as well as a decline in the incoming order rate.

Winn stated, ''GENICOM historically experiences slowdowns in its third quarter due to European holidays and the shutdown of our Waynesboro facility for a two week vacation period, therefore we anticipate lower revenues in our third quarter. However, we expect profitable operations for the remainder of 1990 if current market conditions continue.''

WAYNE, NJ (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - American Cyanamid Co. announced Tuesday increased sales, increased earnings from continuing operations and increased net earnings for the second quarter and first six months of 1990.

As previously announced, definitive agreements have been reached to sell the majority of the company's Shulton Group. Therefore, 1990 financial information reflects the group as a discontinued operation and prior periods have been restated accordingly.

Earnings from continuing operations were $108 million, or $1.13 per share, vs. $98 million, or $1.05 per share, in the second quarter of last year, an 11 percent increase.

Net earnings were $111 million, or $1.16 per share, compared to $107 million, or $1.15 per share, in the second quarter of 1989. Net earnings and earnings from continuing operations for the second quarter were negatively impacted in the aggregate by about 8 cents per share as a result of costs associated with the start-up of a titanium dioxide facility at our joint venture in The Netherlands, one-time costs related to the shutdown of an ammonia facility in Canada, and by a one-time gain from the divestiture of the Formica laminate business in Brazil.

Net earnings per share include 3 cents and 10 cents, respectively, for the second quarter of 1990 and 1989 related to the discontinued operations of the Shulton Group.

Worldwide sales from continuing operations in the second quarter of 1990 rose 6 percent to $1.23 billion from the restated $1.16 billion in the same period last year.

Earnings from continuing operations for the first six months of 1990 were $205 million, or $2.14 per share, compared to the restated $176 million, or $1.88 per share, in the same period last year, a 17 percent increase.

Net earnings for the first six months of 1990 increased 5 percent to $202 million, or $2.11 per share, compared to $192 million, or $2.06 per share, in the same period last year. Net earnings per share for the first six months of 1990 and 1989 include a net loss of 3 cents and net earnings of 18 cents, respectively, related to the discontinued operations of the Shulton Group.

Six month sales from continuing operations rose 5 percent to $2.38 billion from the restated $2.26 billion in 1989.

The Medical Group achieved increased worldwide sales and operating earnings for the second quarter of 1990 as compared to the same period last year. Worldwide sales of anticancer agents and antibiotics led the performance, along with vaccines, consumer health products and medical devices.

Operating earnings off the Agricultural Group increased in the second quarter of 1990 as compared to the same period last year, despite the one-time costs associated with the shutdown of the ammonia facility in Canada.

Although worldwide sales of the group were higher, delayed crop plantings and excessively wet weather conditions in the United States adversely affected sales of Pursuit and Scepter herbicides.

Worldwide sales of the Chemicals Group were slightly below the level reported in the second quarter of 1989. Operating earnings of the Chemicals Group would have been lower in the second quarter of 1990 compared to the same period last year had it not been for the gain from the divestiture of the Formica laminate business in Brazil.

Cyanamid is a research-based biotechnology and chemical company which develops medical, agricultural and chemical products and manufactures and markets them throughout the world.

MANSFIELD, MA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Augat Inc. (NYSE: AUG), a leading manufacturer of interconnection products for the worldwide computer, automotive and communications markets, Tuesday announced that net income for the second quarter ended June 30, 1990, increased 120 percent to $4.8 million from last year's $2.2 million.

Earnings per share grew 125 percent to $0.27 from $0.12. Sales for the second quarter were $77.7 million, versus the prior year's second-quarter level of $80.0 million. The results for the second quarter of 1989 included a pre-tax restructuring charge of $2.5 million, or $0.09 per share, after tax.

For the six months ended June 30, 1990, Augat reported net income of $8.2 million, or $0.46 per share, on sales of $149.5 million. This compares with net income of $5.2 million, or $0.29 per share, on sales of $160.4 million in the comparable 1989 period.

''Continued growth in international sales and a strong performance from our Communications Division fueled our earnings momentum through the second quarter,'' said Marcel P. Joseph, chairman and chief executive officer. ''Our efforts to improve operating profitability, productivity and overall efficiency resulted in significantly increased earnings at the lower sales level.''

The Communications Division's sales and earnings showed strong advances from the second quarter of last year, primarily from increased market penetration and new product acceptance. Backlog for communications products remained strong, and the division is expected to achieve double-digit sales and profitability growth through the second half of 1990.

Second-quarter sales of the Interconnection Products Division were up modestly from last year's comparable quarter, while the division's earnings showed marked improvement. The discontinuation of the backplane business, an increasing flow of new products, as well as improved operating efficiencies, accounted for the higher earnings.

Sales and earnings for the Automotive Division were below the level of a year ago, due to a continuing soft domestic market. However, the division's earnings showed progress over this year's first quarter as a result of improved domestic sales and increased sales of customized interconnection products to the European market. Automotive's order backlog increased from the first quarter of 1990, buoying management's expectations for the second half of the year.

Incoming orders for the second quarter of 1990 improved to $81 million, compared with $76 million in the second quarter of 1989 and $75 million in the first quarter of 1990. The backlog at June 30, 1990, was $65.1 million, compared to $49 million at June 30, 1989.

''Business conditions are improving in the Automotive and Interconnection Products divisions after a difficult first quarter, while our Communications Division continues to perform well,'' said Joseph. ''These trends, which should increase sales, combined with ongoing efforts to reduce administrative costs and improve manufacturing operations, should contribute to a stronger second half.''

Augat Inc. is a leading supplier of interconnection products to the worldwide computer, automotive and communications markets. A consolidated statement of income for the company is attached.

ALBANY, Ore. (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Oregon Metallurgical Corp. (OREMET Titanium) announced Tuesday that it earned $2,258,000, or 22 cents per share, on sales of $23,503,000.

For the same period in 1989, earnings on operations were $3,703,000, or 40 cents per share, on sales of $30,708,000. For the first six months of 1990, earnings were $4,907,000, or 47 cents per share, on sales of $49,325,000. This compares with earnings of $6,420,000, or 70 cents per share, on sales of $56,909,000 during the first six months of 1989. The reduced earning per share reflects the increased number of shares outstanding following the stock offering completed in late 1989.

Last years earnings additionally included in the second quarter net after-tax interest income of $1,342,000, or 14 cents per share, for a total of 54 cents per share and in the six months non-recurring items of $13,569,000, or $1.45 per share, for a total of $2.15 per share.

While the backlog remains at a healthy level, slowness in the entry of new orders continues to depress performance. A general reduction in customer inventories has produced order delays and delivery stretchouts. The present business climate is now expected to continue throughout the remainder of the year.

''We continued to expand our market position by adding over 25 new same accounts including Armco Inc., Bull HN Information Systems Inc., General Dynamics, Illinois Bell Telephone Co. and Computer Sciences Corp. We further demonstrated our continuing commitment to technological leadership by announcing SG3, our third generation video and audio compression algorithm.''

SEATTLE (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Security Pacific Bancorporation Northwest Tuesday reported net income of $24 million for the quarter ended June 30, 1990, and $47.5 million for the year-to-date, an increase of 6 and 10 percent, respectively, over the same 1989 periods.

In 1989, net operating income was $22.5 million for the quarter and $43.3 million for the year-to-date (excluding a non-recurring gain of $3.3 million during the first quarter of 1989.)

The 1990 results also include Security Pacific's commercial banking operations in Canada, and some other changes between affiliates. Results for comparable periods have been adjusted to reflect these changes.

''Security Pacific continues to increase its financial strength and presence in this market,'' said John Getzelman, Security Pacific Bancorporation Northwest chairman and chief executive officer. ''Earnings growth is a result of increased loan activity and ongoing programs that streamline our operations. Earnings growth was offset somewhat by narrowing margins.''

At quarter end, the company's consolidated total assets were $11.2 billion an increase of 16 percent over the same period last year. The increase was a result of expansion efforts and growth in real estate, consumer and business lending.

To that end, the bank acquired Gibraltar Savings Bank of Washington's core deposits and certain assets during the second quarter. The transaction provided Security Pacific with approximately $228 million in core deposits and six Gibralter branches.

Security Pacific also expects to complete the acquisition of Idaho-based Mountain West Savings Bank, which includes $320 million in assets and 10 branches, during the third quarter. Furthermore, in June, ground was broken for an eleventh Idaho branch which is scheduled to open in Boise in February.

Security Pacific Bancorporation Northwest is a Seattle-based, multi-bank holding company with assets of $11.2 billion and subsidiaries operating in Washington, Oregon and Alaska. The bancorporation is an affiliate of Security Pacific Corp., the nation's fifth-largest banking company.

RIVERHEAD, NY (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Suffolk Bancorp (NASDAQ: SUBK) Tuesday released the results of its operations during the second quarter of 1990.

Net income was $1,400,000, up 7.5 percent compared with $1,302,000 posted during the same period last year. Earnings per share were 42 cents vs. 39 cents for the quarter. Net income for the first six months was $2,808,000 up 5.4 percent from $2,664,000 during the first six months of 1989. Earnings per share for the half were 85 cents vs. 80 cents for 1990 and 1989, respectively.

President and CEO Edward J. Merz commented, ''We are quite pleased with the company's performance during the first half of 1990. This is the best second quarter and first half in the history of Suffolk Bancorp. Our net interest margin continued to widen during the past six months, adding significantly to net interest income even as assets have grown only slightly. While loan demand in our service area has remained slack, our historically conservative lending practices have enabled us to avoid the kind of losses which have plagued our industry during the past 12 months, therefore protecting our earnings. We are hopeful that the stock market will recognize our comparative stability, and distinguish our stock from less consistent performers.''

ROCHESTER, NH (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Cabletron Systems Inc. (NYSE:CS) Chairman Craig Benson and President Robert Levine Tuesday announced plans to proceed with construction of a 62,000 square foot office facility adjacent to its corporate headquarters located here.

The decision was announced at a news conference Tuesday after two weeks of negotiation on the state's Business Profits Tax (BPT) with state government officials including Governor Judd Gregg, Senate Majority Leader Edward DuPont, the governor's Chief of Operations Pat Oliver, Director of State Economic Development Richard Green and Rochester Development Director George Bald.

Under the current BPT structure, Cabletron pays $3 million of the estimated $100 million collected by the state. The business profits tax presently generates 27 percent of the state's general revenue. In all, 31,000 businesses are eligible to pay the tax, of which only 600 are currently paying. If the $3 million figure paid by Cabletron were broken down by number of employees, each employee would pay $4,165 toward the BPT. If all businesses contributed at the same rate, the state would be able to achieve $2.7 billion from the BPT.

As a result of recent meetings held with state government officials, Cabletron executives have agreed to participate in a task force on tax reform issues. The task force, spearheaded by Senator Edward DuPont, will meet regularly to address alternative proposals to the BPT and is committed to drafting legislation by November for introduction in the next legislative session occurring in January 1991.

Cabletron plans to begin contruction on its new multi-story office building in mid-summer 1990. The building is to house up to 600 additional employees in the areas of research and development, engineering and technical sales support. The need for additional office space comes as a result of Cabletron's record sales and customer demands for technologically advanced products.

Headquartered in Rochester, N.H., Cabletron is a leading independent developer and manufacturer of standards-based network management solutions including software, hardware and connectivity products. The company currently employs 1,200 people worldwide, with 725 based in its two Second quarter revenues increased 21 percent to $70,576,000 from $58,207,000 in the 1989 second quarter.

Accordingly, the method of computing deferred income taxes was changed to the method prescribed in SFAS No. 96. The 1990 first half net income was increased by $9,011,000, or 26 cents per share caused by the reduction in deferred taxes recorded in prior years for the differences between the book and tax return expenses and changes in tax rates.

The 1990 first half included a non-recurring first quarter before tax loss of $5,885,000 from the sale of the company's marketable securities.

WEST PALM BEACH, FL (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - The Flagler Bank Corp. (NASDAQ:FLGLA), parent of the Flagler National Bank, announced Tuesday net income for the second quarter of $606,000 compared to $587,000 for the like period last year.

Average assets for the second quarter grew from $338,159,000 in 1989 to $359,372,000 in 1990 while average deposits increased from $292,182,000 to $319,681,000 over the like period. Loans at the end of the quarter totaled $210,149,000 compared to $195,436,000 for the second quarter of 1989.

The earnings increase can be primarily attributed to a decrease in the loan loss provision, gains on securities transactions and a decrease in personnel expenses. KING OF PRUSSIA, PA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Envirosafe Services Inc. (NASDAQ:ENVI), a leading provider of hazardous waste management services, reported record performance in revenues, income from continuing operations and net income for the second quarter of 1990, C. Edward Ashby Jr., president and CEO, announced Tuesday.

For the quarter ended June 30, Envirosafe's revenues advanced 106 percent to $15.4 million from the year earlier quarter of $7.5 million.

Income from continuing operations increased 205 percent to $1.8 million, or 47 cents per share, as compared with $.6 million or 15 cents per share, in the prior year.

Net income in the three months ended June 30, increased to $1.8 million from $.3 million in 1989.

''The increases in revenues and income from continuing operations reflect very strong volume and continued strong pricing, most notably in the Ohio disposal region,'' Ashby said.

Disposal volume increased due to the removal by ESI of the self-imposed capacity constraints implemented in Ohio during 1989; the establishment of more aggresive sales and marketing efforts; and the anticipation by customers of a land ban deadline that will restrict direct landfilling of certain wastes.

Because of the ''one time'' nature of the volume attributable to the land ban deadline, the company does not expect that the volumes achieved during the second quarter will continue through the balance of the year.

Envirosafe Services is a leading provider of land disposal services for environmentally sensitive wastes. The company owns major disposal sites in Ohio and Idaho - two of the 20 such sites authorized under federal law.

BOSTON (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - As previously announced, the Trustees of H&Q Healthcare Investors are committed to consider annually whether or not to recommend to shareholders that they vote to convert from a close-end Fund to an open-end Fund.

At a meeting of the Trustees following the annual meeting on July 16th, the Trustees considered the issue of conversion and, by a unanimous vote, decided not to recommend such conversion at this time.

Alan G. Carr, president of the Fund, reports that in coming to their decision, the Trustees made a note of a number of factors, including the unique nature of this specialty Fund, the earnings trends in the healthcare sector, and the gain of approximately 56 percent in the Fund's share price in the 12 months ended June 30, 1990.

As a closed-end Fund, H&Q Healthcare Investors has the flexibility to invest up to 25 percent, and now has approximately 11 percent of its assets invested, in private (venture) companies. Many of those investments are relatively recent. Conversion to open-end form at this time might force premature sales of these securities, thus limiting the possibility of the Fund's realizing potential profits and possibly also severely restricting its ability to make new venture capital commitments.

Participation in venture investments in an industry sector which the Trustees believe is attractive for the long-term is an opportunity not generally available to most shareholders.

Management of the Fund will provide shareholders with more detail concerning the Trustees' decision in the regular quarterly report of the Fund as of June 30, 1990, which is expected to be available in about two weeks.

H&Q Healthcare Investors, a New York Stock Exchange listed closed-end fund seeks long-term capital appreciation through public and venture capital equity investment primarily in the healthcare industry with emphasis on emerging growth companies.

TULSA, OK (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Health Concepts IV, Inc. (AMEX:HCF) Tuesday announced that its principal bank, the Fourth National Bank of Tulsa, Okla., signed a commitment letter for $8.2 million of financing with participation from Bank IV of Wichita, Kan.

The loan is structured into two facilities, the first a term loan in the amount of $2.2 million amortized over five years with payments due monthly and the second a $6 million line of credit with interest payable monthly.

Robert Lobato, the company's president and chief financial officer, stated ''While there presently is no need for additional borrowed monies, the line of credit allows the company to plan its growth without the immediate need to return to the equity market.''

The company's warrants, an option to purchase a share of common stock, expired on July 9. Of the total 300,000 warrants issued, 293,050 were exercised thereby bringing the public float to 1,025,500 shares. Monies received from the exercise of the warrants have allowed the company to reduce debt by $1.1 million since year end.

''This reduction of debt should reduce interest expense by over $130,000 annually,'' commented Lobato.

Founded in 1984, Health Concepts IV, Inc. provides treatment for those suffering from the adverse effects of alcohol and drugs. The company's capital-defensive strategy of leasing excess bed capacity in hospitals has proven a successful formula that promotes cost-contained growth while preserving a high level of care.

Net interest income increased by $1,019,000, compensation and fringe benefits expense declined by $241,000 and marketing expense decreased by $252,000 in the three months ended June 30, 1990 compared with the same period in 1989.

For the nine month period ended June 30, 1990 compared with the same period in the previous year, a $691,000 increase in net interest income was offset by a $769,000 decline in noninterest income.

The losses recorded in the third quarter and nine months ended June 30, 1989 were primarily the result of a special provision for loan losses of $2,500,000 which related to a borrower who filed for bankruptcy.

John W. Folsom, president and chief executive officer, commented, ''The primary reasons for the increase in earnings this quarter were the improvement in interest rate spread and reductions in compensation, fringe benefits and marketing expenses.

''We are extremely gratified that Bancorp has been able to maintain the level of quarterly and year-to-date earnings given the current regional economic environment,'' D'Agostino stated. She also reported an earnings increase of 2 cents per share over the first quarter of this year.

The net interest margin for the six months was $5.7 million compared to $5.8 million last year. Interest income increased at 4.6 percent, as the cost of funds rose by 8.9 percent; operating expenses increased 2.0 percent. The six month loan loss provision was increased by $125,000 over 1989. ''The annualized 1.04 percent return on average assets continues in excess of industry averages,'' declared D'Agostino.

''Bancorp continues to respond to the softness in the New Jersey economy, especially the real estate market, through careful review of its loan investments and the level of the allowance for loan losses. The quarterly provision increased the allowance for loan losses to .34 percent of net loans at June 30, 1990 compared to .25 percent at December 31, 1989. Non-accrual loans, as a percentage of total assets, are 1.46 percent compared to 1.21 percent at December 31, 1989,'' stated D'Agostino.

During the 12 months, net loans increased by $8.1 million, or 3.9 percent to $217.7 million at June 30, 1990, while stockholders' equity grew to $46.7 million, or 16.46 percent of total assets at June 30, 1990. Book value at the end of June was $18.25 per share. Through a stock repurchase program, announced in December 1989, Bancorp has repurchased 5.1 percent of its outstanding shares.

Consolidated total assets for the Bank Holding Company on June 30, 1990 were $283.6 million, an increase of 5.6 percent from the $268.5 million reported a year ago.

''Bancorp's subsidiary bank has a pending application with the regulatory authorities for the acquisition of a branch office in Bridgewater, N.J., which is expected to increase assets approximately $10 million,'' added D'Agostino.

Bancorp New Jersey Inc., which is headquartered in Somerville, is the parent company of the 119-year-old New Jersey Savings Bank, a wholly owned subsidiary with six offices in Somerset, Hunterdon and Mercer counties.

New Jersey Savings Bank is a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

VAN NUYS, CA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - A jury awarded a small Van Nuys, Calif. aircraft company $65 million in compensatory damages and $5.8 million (Monday afternoon) in punitive damages after a five-month trial that pitted the company, American Aviation Industries, against multi-billion dollar General Electric Co. and its subsidiary, General Electric Capital Corp., (''American Aviation Industries vs. General Electric Co.,'' NWC 039965, Los Angeles Superior Court, Northwest District Van Nuys, Dept. X).

In a cross complaint, the jury awarded General Electric and General Electric Capital Corp. (GECC) $9.8 million, mostly for the repayment of loans from GECC to the plaintiff.

AAI had approached General Electric (GE) in 1984 with a plan to retrofit the Lockheed JetStar corporate aircraft with GE-made CF34 Turbo Fan engines. The converted aircraft, called a ''FanStar,'' would fly farther, use less fuel and run quieter than other comparable aircraft on the market.

AAI and GE entered a business venture with GE providing and installing the engines on the FanStar and AAI administrating the craft's design, construction and marketing. GECC, the financial arm of GE, was to provide much of the funding.

AAI's attorneys, Cappello, partner Peter J. Bezek and associate Lelia J. Noel of the Santa Barbara law firm, Cappello & Foley, presented the jury with evidence that painted a picture of internal bickering and in-house politics within GE and GECC--all at the expense of the FanStar venture.

Cappello says there was constant squabbling between GECC and GE's Engine Division, headed by Brian Rowe, over which branch of GE would be financially responsible for the FanStar project. While they were feuding, the project was delayed and so the credibility of the FanStar within the aircraft marketplace suffered.

Though the FanStar flew successfully 14 times and was only about seven months away from Federal Aviation Administration certification which would have enabled the company to sell the aircraft, the conflicts within GE's subsidiaries made completing the certification requirements impossible.

The jury deliberated for approximately three weeks before reaching a decision. It heard from over 50 witnesses and sifted through over 1,000 documents presented into evidence. The jury ruled in favor of AAI on one count of breach of contract, two counts of intentional interference and two counts of negligent interference.

FULLERTON, Calif. (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Net income of Ropak Corp. (NASDAQ:ROPK) rose to $1,096,000, equal to 29 cents per fully diluted share, in the second-quarter ended June 30, 1990, from the $644,000, or 17 cents per share, earned in the second quarter of 1989.

The company's revenues were $28.3 million in this year's second quarter and $27.5 million in the year-earlier period.

For the year's first half, Ropak earned $1,262,000, equal to 34 cents per fully diluted share, up from the $875,000, or 24 cents per share, earned in the same period a year ago. Revenues for the six months rose to $49.1 million from the $48.5 million reported in the first half of 1989.

Quarterly per-share results have been restated to reflect a 10 percent stock dividend paid June 30, 1990.

Chairman and Chief Executive Officer William H. Roper said the company's earnings improvement was attributable to greater plant utilization, to margin improvement and to continued progress in the company's newer activities in bulk-materials handling and safety- testing products. Unit volume in the container business during the first six months increased 11.6 percent from that of 1989.

''Our core container-manufacturing business continued to provide substantially all Ropak's earnings in the second quarter and first half. As expected, however, our in vitro product- testing business and our expanded materials-handling product lines neared the break-even level. We continue to expect both to provide income contributions for the year as a whole,'' Roper said.

Ropak is a leading multinational maker of plastic packaging and handling products for foods, coatings and a variety of agricultural and industrial materials.

Ropak also distributes, for a company in which it holds a one-third equity interest, a line of test kits for the measurement of human eye and skin-irritation potential from raw ingredients and finished formulations in cosmetics and household chemicals. Ropak has 10 plants in the United States, Canada and Japan.

AKRON, Ohio - (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Ohio Edison Co. Tuesday reported that earnings per share on common stock were unchanged in the second quarter of 1990, compared with the same quarter last year.

The Akron-based company said earnings on common stock in the second quarter were $76.3 million, or 50 cents per share, compared with earnings of $75.6 million, or 50 cents per share, in the second quarter of 1989. Net income for the quarter was $83.3 million, compared with $82.7 million in the year-earlier quarter.

For the second quarter, retail kilowatt-hour sales to customers in Edison's service area were up 1.9 percent, reflecting continued strength in the local economy and a larger customer base. Sales to commercial customers rose 3.8 percent, industrial sales increased 1.5 percent, and residential sales were up 0.8 percent. Sales to other utilities were down 3.8 percent for the quarter. Total kilowatt-hour sales increased .6 percent in the second quarter of 1990.

NEW MILFORD, CT (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - At their regular monthly meeting Tuesday, the board of directors of NewMil Bancorp declared a dividend of 15 cents per share.

The dividend is payable Aug. 13 to shareholders of record as of July 30. This represents an annual rate of 60 cents per share.

The company also announced earnings of $3.58 million, or 77 cents per share, for the year ending June 30. This compares with net income of $5.48 million and earnings of 91 cents per share for the year ending June 30, 1989.

Earnings for the fourth quarter were $.66 million, or 15 cents per share vs. $1.10 million, or 20 cents per share for the same period last year.

During the year total deposits were up strongly to $277.96 million. However, in the present economic environment the bank has continued to shrink its assets through paydowns in the arbitrage program, repurchase of stock and depreciation in the equity portfolio.

Loans 90 days or more past due, of which 99 percent are secured by real estate, totalled $15.67 million. Of these, $10.86 million were in non-accrual status as of June 30. Management is aggressively working on these accounts and believes the loan loss reserve of $1.36 million is adequate. However, this will be subject to regulatory review at NewMil's next examination.

Total capital at year end was $46.29 million which reflects the effects of the repurchase of stock last fall and depreciation in the equity portfolio of $16.89 million. The major portion of this depreciation reflects the depressed bank stock market. During the past quarter total bank stocks owned were reduced by $1.84 million to $27.98 million of which $16.52 million were thrifts.

WHITE PLAINS, NY (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Drew Industries Inc. (NASDAQ:DREW) Tuesday reported its results for the three and nine months ended May 31.

Leigh J. Abrams, president of Drew, indicated that revenues were $85.6 million for the nine months ended May 31, compared to $89.6 million for the same period last year.

Revenues were $32.7 million for the third quarter compared to $34.9 million last year. The decrease was primarily attributable to the phasing out of the company's aluminum extrusion operation.

For the nine months ended May 31, the company had net income of $300,000 (6 cents per share) compared to the prior year's net income of $231,000 (5 cents per share). Third quarter net income was $626,000 (13 cents per share) compared to $289,000 (6 cents per share) for last year.

In making the announcement, Leigh J. Abrams said that both the company's major operating groups reported improved results for the quarter ended May 31. The Kinro Group, which manufactures windows for manufactured homes, and windows and doors for recreational vehicles, continues to perform well. The Leslie-Locke Group, which manufactures a variety of specialty building products reported a 36 percent increase in operating profits despite continuing problems in its ladder division.

The ladder division of the company's Home Improvement Building Products Group has, during the past few years, experienced spiraling aluminum costs and competitive pressures which have caused its operating results to be unsatisfactory.

However, aluminum costs finally stabilized this fiscal year (although at 35 percent higher than early 1986 levels), other operating efficiencies have been implemented and recently operating results have improved. The company is, nevertheless, exploring various options for its ladder operation.

Management believes that profitability in the ladder industry will continue to be adversely affected by over capacity, which may result in further consolidation of ladder manufacturing companies. As a consequence of the operating results of this division, the company is in the process of evaluating the carrying value of goodwill ($4.2 million at May 31) associated with this division.

The company continues to seek recertification for its postal products from the United States Postal Service. The company still believes it will obtain recertification, however, if recertification is not obtained, the value of $1.6 million of assets related to the postal operation (including $.8 million of goodwill) may be reduced through a charge against future earnings of the company.

In October 1989, the company adopted plans to dispose of a portion of the aluminum extrusion operation acquired in November 1988. Accordingly, in the fourth quarter of fiscal 1989, the company recorded a provision for loss on this sale of $1.75 million, which included an accrual for projected operating losses through the anticipated date of sale.

During the quarter ended May 31, the company recorded an additional provision for loss on this operation of $300,000.

Drew is engaged in the manufacture of a wide variety of home improvement building products for the contract and do-it-yourself home construction and remodeling industry, consisting of ornamental iron railings and security products, ladders, residential and commercial ventilation products, skylights and rakes and the manufacture of aluminum windows for the manufactured housing industry, and aluminum windows and doors for recreational vehicles.

RICHMOND, Va. (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Hilb, Rogal & Hamilton Co. (NASDAQ: HRHC) Tuesday reported revenues for the quarter ended June 30, 1990 of $19.3 million, an increase of 4 percent from $18.6 million in the like quarter of 1989.

Net earnings were $1,213,000, an increase of 57 percent from $775,000 earned during the like period of 1989. Earnings per share were 16 cents, an increase of 60 percent from earnings per share of 10 cents in the comparable period of 1989.

For the six months ended June 30, 1990, revenues totaled $40.3 million, a decrease of one percent from revenues of $40.6 million during the like period of the prior year. Earnings for the six months were $3.6 million as compared with $3.7 million earned before the cumulative effect of the change in accounting for income taxes during the prior year, a 2 percent decrease.

Earnings per share for the six months were 47 cents, a decrease of 4 percent from earnings per share before the change in accounting of 49 cents in the prior year.

Decreases in revenues, earnings, and earnings per share during the six months ended June 30, 1990, are primarily attributable to reductions in revenues realized from contigency, override and profit sharing arrangements with insurance companies.

Effective Jan. 1, 1989, the company adopted Financial Accounting Standards Board Statement No. 96, ''Accounting for Income Taxes.'' The resultant cumulative effect of the change in accounting for deferred income tax on net earnings during the six months ended June 30, 1989 was $370,000, or 5 cents per share.

Net earnings for the six months ended June 30, 1990 were $3.6 million as compared to $4.1 million in the like period of the prior year, a decrease of 11 percent. Earnings per share were 47 cents for the first six months of 1990, a decrease of 13 percent from earnings per share of 54 cents during the first six months of 1989.

Results for the 1989 have been restated to give effect to recent pooling-of-interests mergers consummated during 1989.

LAGRANGE, Ga.- (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Tuesday First Federal Savings Bank of LaGrange (NASDAQ:FLAG) announced earnings for the quarter and six months ended June 30.

Net income for the second quarter 1990 was $317,916, or 39 cents per share as compared to $349,281, or 43 cents per share, for the same period in 1989. Net earnings for the first six months of 1990 was $619,520, or 77 cents per share, as compared to $715,597, or 89 cents per share for the six months of 1989.

Earnings for the quarter and six months ended June 30, 1989, exceeded earnings for the same period in 1990 primarily due to an increased provision for loan loss reserves. First Federal funded loan loss reserves in the amount of $150,000 for the six months ended June 30, 1990, and $75,000 for the three months ended June 30, 1990.

These figures are compared with $59,500 for the six months ended June 30, 1989, and $33,500 for the three months ended June 30, 1989.

Also contributing to the decline in earnings was the accelerated pace of operating expenses needed to support retail growth. Now checking deposits have grown by 14.7 percent for the first six months of 1990 to $10,638,522.

Additionally, First Federal completed a 14,000 square foot addition to its main office during the first six months of 1990 which will support continued retail banking growth.

HOUSTON (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - The Burzynski Research Institute Inc., (OTC) holder of the U.S. license for experimental nontoxic anti-cancer agents named ''Antineoplastons'' by their discoverer S.R. Burzynski, M.D., Ph.D., announced Tuesday that it filed a RICO complaint against Aetna Life Insurance Co. and others, including Emprise and Grace Monaco, on June 29, in U.S. District Court, Southern District of Texas.

The complaint alleges that Aetna and its co-defendants fraudulently interfered with the business of Burzynski Research Institute (BRI) in order to reduce Aetna's liability to pay for non-FDA approved cancer treatments and to deprive BRI's patients, many of whom are terminally ill, of a possibly life-saving treatment for their disease.

The suit further alleges this is part of a national conspiracy to defraud insureds and their physicians by wrongfully denying health insurance benefits.

Burzynski Research Institute charges that Aetna's principal tactics include harassment of doctors and other medical professionals to force them to forego their fees for Aetna-insured patients by instituting or threatening to institute frivolous claims against them. Other lawsuits by other plaintiffs have been filed against Aetna based on its illegal nationwide campaign.

More specifically, the lawsuit charges that Aetna and its co-defendants have engaged in a wide variety of illegal actions including interference with BRI's and its patients' contractual relations with insurers, violations of federal protective orders protecting the privileged medical records or BRI's patients, filing a counterclaim agianst BRI which Aetna knew had no basis in law or fact, and circulating the false and disparaging counterclaim to individuals who either do scientific research or business with Burzynski Research Institute, and to government agencies for the purpose of injuring BRI.

JOHNSON CITY, TN (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Vance W. Cheek, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Home Financial Corp. (NASDQQ/NMS:HFET) Tuesday announced that the company recorded a 9 percent increase in its net interest income for the second quarter ended June 30, 1990, compared with the same period last year.

Net earnings per share for the period remained at the same level as the year-earlier quarter, but Cheek pointed out that the prior-year period included gains on the sale of securities which have not recurred in 1990.

Net interest income for the second quarter rose to $5,769,000 from $5,305,000 in the same quarter of 1989, reflecting primarily a decrease in the company's cost of funds. The increase in interest income on loans for the quarter was offset somewhat by a decline in interest and dividends on investments reflecting the use of funds for stock repurchases and by a slight decline in interest rates.

In keeping with its conservative position on loan reserves, the company recorded a provision for loan losses of $242,000 in the second quarter compared with $7,000 in the year-earlier period. This increase in non-specific reserves is intended to ensure that future earnings will be less susceptible to changing economic cycles and other factors that could result in unanticipated loan losses.

Net income for the second quarter totaled $2,300,000 compared with $2,335,000 in the same period last year. On a per share basis, earnings were 52 cents in both periods.

For the first half of 1990, net interest income rose 5 perecent to $11,384,000 from $10,882,000 in the first six months of 1989. Net income for the period totaled $4,448,000 or $1.00 per share compared with $4,500,000 or $1.01 per share.

Loan originations for the second quarter totaled $28,290,000 compared with $30,934,000 in the year-earlier period. This decline reflected lower consumer lending activity, which was offset to some extent by mortgage lending.

DALLAS - (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Abatix Environmental Corp. (NASDAQ:ABIX) Tuesday announced that its board of directors has authorized the repurchase of up to 10 percent of the Company's Common Stock on the open market when conditions are suitable.

As of June 30, 1990, 2,290,683 shares of Abatix Common Stock were outstanding.

Abatix also announced that it expects sales of approximately $2.58 million for the second quarter ended June 30, 1990, an increase of approximately 27 percent from the $2.03 million reported in the second quarter of 1989.

The Company expects second quarter net income to be higher than the first quarter of 1990 but below that of the second quarter last year.

According to Terry W. Shaver, president, ''The authorization to repurchase our common stock reflects our Board's continued confidence in the long-term prospects of the Company, both in the asbestos abatement industry and in the emerging hazardous materials (''haz-mat'') industry. The timing of any purchases depends on the price and availability of the stock.

''Second quarter sales reflect continuing expansion of the Company's customer base within the asbestos abatement industry and new sales to customers in the haz-mat market. Earnings continued to be impacted by overhead expenses associated with the expansion of the Hayward facility and the opening of the Houston facility in the first quarter of 1990.

'' As sales increase in the second half of the year, Abatix will realize more fully the benefits of these expansions.''

Unaudited second quarter and six-month results are expected to be released in mid-August.

NEW YORK (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - NYNEX Chairman William C. Ferguson Tuesday refuted allegations that NYNEX Corp. supported or financed activities of employees of its Materiel Enterprises subsidiary in the years 1984 - 1988, which were found to violate the corporation's Code of Business Conduct.

He noted that the full investigation record of these activities was made available to state and federal regulators in 1988, and that NYNEX is cooperating with current governmental reviews of these issues.

''In 1988, we initiated a comprehensive investigation by outside professionals of possible misconduct on the part of a number of Materiel Enterprises employees,'' Ferguson said.

''The investigation determined that eight individuals had violated our Code of Business Conduct.

''We took disciplinary actions at that time against all eight of the employees, ranging from dismissal to disciplinary warnings. Further, also in 1988, we shared all the information from our investigation with the staff of the New York Public Service Commission and the Federal Communications Commission.''

Ferguson also corrected a number of inaccurate allegations that have recently been reported in the media. ''None of these activities were sponsored by the company. None were paid for by the company. None took place on company time,'' Ferguson said.

Ferguson stressed the company's continuing commitment to a strong code of conduct. He added, ''NYNEX is a good company made up of 92,000 honest, decent people who abide by the high standards of our Code of Business Conduct. And that code of conduct is strongly enforced - as evidenced in this case.''

The NYNEX Code of Business Conduct is a series of ethical practices and standards that each NYNEX employee must know, understand and acknowledge as a condition of their employment.

Ferguson also noted that to avoid even the appearance of any impropriety concerning transactions between our regulated companies and Materiel Enterprises, ''In March of this year, I took action to transfer ownership of NYNEX Materiel Enterprises to our two telephone companies - and we are in the process of closing down business it has with other companies.''

He stressed that the allegations have arisen in the context of a very important rate case in New York. ''I certainly hope that these issues from the past, which have been thoroughly dealt with by NYNEX, and which have been reviewed in full detail by the PSC staff will not continue to be brought forward in a way that could interfere with the timely and orderly completion of the rate case,'' he said.

In summation, Ferguson said, ''NYNEX has not and will not condone activities which violate our Code of Business Conduct.

''As the history of 1988 shows, our commitment and our record is to investigate allegations of misconduct thoroughly; to carry out disciplinary action based on the facts; and to share information related to these actions with public authorities.''

Statement by William C. Ferguson
Chairman and Chief Executive Officer
NYNEX Corp.
July 17, 1990

There has been a significant amount of coverage of the NYNEX Materiel Enterprises Company over recent weeks and months.

I want to say right at the outset that I am greatly disturbed that the actions of a handful of NYNEX employees have been brought to public attention in such a way as to cast a shadow on the reputation of the entire corporation.

The 92,000 honest, decent, hardworking people who are employed by NYNEX don't deserve to have their reputation muddied because of the actions of a few.

In 1988, we initiated a comprehensive investigation by outside professionals of possible misconduct on the part of a number of Materiel Enterprises employees. The investigation determined that 8 individuals had violated our code of business conduct.

We took disciplinary actions at that time against all 8 of the employees, ranging from dismissal to disciplinary warnings. Further, also in 1988, we shared all the information from our investigation with the staff of the New York Public Service Commission and the Federal Communications Commission.

None of the activities that were investigated were sponsored by the company. None were paid for by the company. None took place on company time.

The investigated activities included a series of annual parties which were attended by a group of individuals, including a few NYNEX Materiel Enterprises employees, employees of companies that did business with NYNEX Materiel Enterprises and others. All NYNEX employees involved attended these parties on their vacation time.

The investigation did not determine every specific as to the details of those vacation activities. Based on what I know, the kindest way I could describe them is as sophomoric.

I personally believe these events included behavior that was repugnant and certainly not appropriate for NYNEX managers.

As I said, NYNEX is a good company made up of 92,000 honest, decent people who abide by the high standards of our code of business conduct. And that code of conduct is strongly enforced -- as evidenced in this case.

Now, looking at Materiel Enterprises as a whole, you know that its operations have been the subject of state and federal regulatory review since its creation.

I recognize it is important at this time and in the environment in which we operate, that we avoid even the appearance of any impropriety concerning transactions between our regulated companies and what was an unregulated company like Materiel Enterprises.

Therefore, in March of this year, I took action, to transfer ownership of NYNEX Materiel Enterprises to our two telephone companies -- and we are in the process of closing down business it has with other companies.

Let me add just one more thought. Right now New York State is reviewing a major rate case involving our New York Telephone subsidiary. As you know, there has been a rate moratorium in New York State since 1986. In fact, New York Telephone has actually decreased its rates by more than $480 million since 1984 -- the time of our last rate case.

This case is critical not only to New York Telephone and its employees, but more importantly to the people, businesses and the economy of New York.

A modern, high-quality communications network is vital to the infrastructure we all will need in the years ahead.

In the course of the rate case proceeding, many people at New York Telephone and many people on the staff of the New York PSC and other parties have been working very hard. They are analyzing thousands of pages of documents and trying to arrive at a decision that will be in the best interest of the people of New York and fair to the shareholders.

I certainly hope that these issues from the past, which have been thoroughly dealt with by NYNEX, and which have been reviewed in full detail by the PSC staff will not continue to be brought forward in a way that could interfere with the timely and orderly completion of the rate case.

To sum up, NYNEX has not and will not condone activities which violate our code of business conduct.

As the history of 1988 shows, our commitment and our record is to investigate allegations of misconduct thoroughly; to carry out disciplinary action based on the facts; and to share information related to these actions with public authorities.

REDONDO BEACH, CA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - TRW's Electronic Systems Group has been awarded a $16.6 million contract to develop a millimeter wave transmitter for use in the Multiple Launch Rocket System (MLRS) program, Timothy W. Hannemann, the group's vice president and general manager, said Tuesday.

The completed transmitter will fit inside a rocket approximately the diameter of a softball, said Hannemann.

The transmitter is intended as a key element in the guidance system, or ''seeker,'' of the MLRS-based Terminally Guided Submunition (TGSM). Under the terms of the 39-month cost plus incentive fee contract, TRW will be responsible for designing and engineering the seeker's transmitter, manufacturing 39 prototype transmitters, and preparing for volume production.

MLRS is a deployed launcher and unguided rocket; the rocket is able to carry a variety of payloads, among them a Terminal Guidance Warhead (TGW). The TGW will contain three autonomously guided warheads -- the TGSMs; each TGSM will be capable of locating, identifying, tracking, and destroying battlefield targets, such as tanks.

TRW will utilize its advanced impatt diode technology to design and build the transmitter, which includes the transmitter itself and exciter. The exciter creates and the transmitter emits a radar pulse. The pulse ''illuminates'' the target by bouncing back to the TGSM's receiver, which comprises the other major element of the seeker.

The use of millimeter waves and impatt diodes will allow the transmitter to be smaller, lighter, more powerful and less expensive than similar devices now in use and enable the TGSM to seek its target through rain, snow, fog, and battlefield smoke.

TRW is a member of MDTT Inc.'s MLRS team. MDTT -- a partnership of Martin Marietta (USA), Diehl GmbH (Federal Republic of Germany), Thomson-CSF (France), and Thorn EMI (United Kingdom) -- is responsible for developing the TGW. MDTT's customer is the four partner governments, working through the program's designated contracting agency, U.S. Army Missile Command, Huntsville, Ala.

TRW receives contract guidance from MDTT Inc. and technical direction from Thomson-CSF.

The current contract comes as the result of starting up the program's next phase, the Revised Systems Demonstration Stage (RSDS). This follows a component demonstration stage which began in 1984 and was completed last year. During RSDS, a complete TGW-TGSM system will be test flown under combat conditions.

Performing the work will be the TRW Electronic Systems Group's Electronics & Technology Division.

The business and technical strengths of TRW's Electronic Systems Group include the management of a wide range of research, development, and application tasks, projects, and programs; systems engineering for complex electronic applications; advanced digital signal processing; the design and fabrication of sophisticated microelectronic devices in both silicon and gallium arsenide; and, primarily, design and fabrication of payloads for a wide range of military, civil, and scientific spacecraft.

ESG employs approximately 6,150 people.

NEW YORK (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Manufacturers Hanover Corporation Tuesday reported second quarter net income of $33 million, reflecting a special one-time restructuring charge of $100 million ($60 million after-tax).

Excluding this charge, earnings for the quarter were $93 million, compared with $106 million in the second quarter a year ago.

The lower operating earnings in the second quarter reflected slower corporate finance activity and the continuing impact of nonperforming loans to refinancing country borrowers.

The restructuring charge primarily relates to the recently-announced reorganization of the corporation's major business units, the closing or downsizing of certain businesses and a resulting staff reduction of approximately 1,400. The charge also includes costs related to several lease obligations for unused space.

Net income per common share in the second quarter was $.31 ($1.15 excluding the restructuring charge), compared with $1.87 a year ago. The current quarter results reflect the issuance of approximately 20 million new shares since June 30, 1989, which raised more than $800 million in new common equity.

For the first six months, net income was $129 million ($189 million excluding the restructuring charge), compared with $209 million a year ago. Net income per common share for the six months was $1.51 ($2.36 excluding the one-time charge), compared with $3.70 last year.

In May, 1990, the corporation announced a new organizational structure to align its businesses against changing markets and increase its flexibility and responsiveness in meeting customer needs. The reorganization established four major market groups: Global Banking, Regional Banking, Operating Services and Developing Markets.

In this process, the combination of several business units resulted in the removal of a layer of management, a flatter structure, the ability to redeploy resources to areas of higher returns and the potential for greater cost efficiencies.

After the end of the second quarter, the corporation sold four million shares of nonredeemable preferred stock for $100 million, which will be counted as Tier I capital under the regulatory risk-based capital guidelines. The sale is part of the corporation's continuing program of increasing its capital base. Including the sale of the preferred stock, the corporation has raised the equivalent of $2.0 billion in tangible equity over the past two years.

MURFREESBORO, TN (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - First City Bancorp Inc. (NASDAQ/NMS:CITY) Tuesday announced financial results for its second quarter and six months ended June 30, 1990.

Net income was $59,837, or 5 cents per share, compared with net income of $99,505, or 12 cents per share, reported during the second quarter of 1989. Net income for the six months ended June 30, 1990 was $162,736, or 12 cents per share, compared with $201,790, or 30 cents per share, for the same period last year.

Although net income per share has declined from corresponding periods in the preceding year, recent quarters reflect positive trends. Net income per share from operations (net income less the after-tax effect of the sale of mortgage loan servicing rights) declined in the later half of 1989 as a result of increased occupancy expense and a decrease in net interest margin. Trend analysis indicates that the earnings per share from operations reached its lowest point in the fourth quarter of 1989 and has trended positively in 1990.

ABINGTON, MA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Abington Bancorp Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS:ABBK) Tuesday announced results for the second quarter and six months ended June 30, 1990.

For the quarter ended June 30, 1990, Bancorp reported a net loss of $392,000, or 21 cents per share, compared with net income of $307,000, or 15 cents per share for the same period a year earlier. Bancorp also reported a net loss for the six months ended June 30, 1990 of $515,000, or 28 cents per share, compared with net income of $707,000, or 34 cents per share for the corresponding period in 1989.

At June 30, 1990, assets totaled $227,280,000 compared to $239,593,000 at Dec. 31, 1989. Total outstanding loans and deposits at June 30, 1990, were $136,685,000 and $152,926,000, respectively, compared with $134,052,000 and $163,502,000, respectively, at Dec. 31, 1989.

Stockholders' equity at June 30, 1990, was $24,765,000, reflecting a stockholders' equity to assets ratio of 10.9 percent. Book value per common share at June 30, 1990, was $13.29. At June 30, 1990 Bancorp's non-performing assets amounted to $10,925,000 compared to $11,549,000 at Dec. 31, 1989, reflecting a decrease of $624,000, or 5.4 percent.

Bancorp's President and Chief Executive Officer Donald R. Eldridge said that the second quarter and six month results include decreases in net interest income of $560,000, or 33.4 percent and $1,166,000, or 33.4 percent respectively, reflecting market conditions, the impact of non-performing assets and higher cost certificates of deposit which matured in the second quarter of 1990. In addition, the provision for possible loan losses increased $170,000 and $455,000 respectively for the quarter and six months ended June 30, 1990 compared to the corresponding period in 1989.

These increases are a response to what the bank considers to be a declining regional economy and real estate market in particular which has had an impact on the bank's loan portfolio. Eldridge also commented on the increases in operating expenses which amounted to $268,000 or 20.2 percent and $349,000, or 13.0 percent for the quarter and six months ending June 30, 1990, respectively. These increases were primarily attributable to the management and maintenance of non-performing assets.

Eldridge commented that he was pleased with the decrease in non-performing assets since Dec. 31, 1989, but still felt that the additions to the loan loss reserves were necessary in these uncertain economic times. Eldridge also noted that during the second quarter most of the bank's high cost certificates of deposit matured and the bank will hopefully see a decline in its cost of funds and increased net interest income in the second half of 1990.

Abington Bancorp also announced that its board of directors voted to suspend the payment of the quarterly cash dividend. Donald R. Eldridge commented ''The banking industry in Massachusetts is currently in a very difficult period. In order to preserve capital in the current uncertain economy, the board of directors have voted to suspend the cash dividend to shareholders in order to preserve capital until earnings return to a consistently profitable level.''

Abington Bancorp Inc. is a holding company that operates Abington Savings Bank as a wholly-owned subsidiary. Abington Savings Bank is a Massachusetts-chartered savings bank whose deposits are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and the Mutual Savings Central Fund Inc. In addition to its headquarters and loan center located in Abington, the bank has two other branches located in Halifax and Kingston, Massachusetts.

This performance represents the company's fourth consecutive quarter of increased earnings per share. For the six months ended June 30, 1990, the company reported net income of $427,000 or 36 cents per share, an increase of 34 percent over the $318,000 or 27 cents per share reported for the six months ended June 30, 1989.

R.M. Brannan, president and chief executive officer of the company and its subsidiary, Suburban Bank, stated that the increase in net income in 1990 over the comparable periods in 1989 was due to growth of the company's assets and continued reduction in the level of other real estate owned.

Other real estate owned amounted to $849,000 or .43 percent of the company's total assets of $196,717,000. This compares to other real estate owned at June 30, 1989, of $2,721,000, or 1.64 percent of the company's total assets at that date, of $165,933,000.

Brannan indicated that he was pleased with the improvement in the company's performance in the second quarter, particularly in view of the deterioration in the real estate market in the company's service area. Non performing loans increased to $1,076,000, or 1.53 percent of total loans as compared to $1,136,000, or .97 percent of total loans at June 30, 1989.

However, according to Brannan, one loan totaling $619,000, which is currently included in non performing loans, is in the process of being restructured and is expected to be brought current in the near future. Despite the deterioration in the real estate market, Brannan indicated that he expected the positive trend in the company's earnings to continue for the remainder of the year.

Total loans and deposits at June 30, were $127,793,000 and $164,079,000, respectively. These amounts represent increases of 10.50 percent and 13.32 percent, respectively, over their June 30, 1989, levels.

ALBANY, N.Y. (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Albany International Corp. (NYSE/PSE:AIN) announced second quarter net income of $3.7 million or 15 cents per share compared with $12.9 million or 52 cents per share in the corresponding quarter last year.

Net sales increased 2.8 percent to $133.9 million.

Net income decreased from $22.3 million to $6.2 million. Earnings per share decreased from 89 cents to 25 cents. 1989 earnings included a gain of 10 cents per share on sale of real property in Sweden. Net sales for the six months increased 6.6 percent to $265 million.

LITTLE ROCK, AK (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - William H. Bowen, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of First Commercial Corp. (NASDAQ/NMS:FCLR), announced Tuesday continued record earnings results and other major accomplishments for FCC in the second quarter and first six months of 1990.

He also announced that, as a result of these accomplishments, FCC will pay an 8 percent stock dividend and will increase the quarterly cash dividend on its common stock from 16 cents to 17 cents per share. The stock dividend in combination with the increased cash dividend will produce an aggregate cash dividend increase of 14.8 percent for FCC shareholders.

The 8 percent stock dividend will provide 8 shares of additional FCC common stock to shareholders for every 100 shares currently held. The cash dividend adjustment results in an annual dividend rate of 68 cents per share. At a closing price of $18.50 on July 16, 1990, the effect of the dividend increase is to raise the dividend yield on FCC common stock from 3.5 percent to 3.7 percent.

The increased cash dividend will be payable on both shares currently outstanding and new shares issued through the stock dividend. Therefore, an owner of 100 currently outstanding shares of FCC common stock will receive 8 additional shares which, at an annual dividend rate of 68 cents per share, will produce an aggregate cash dividend increase of 14.8 percent from $64.00 to $73.44 annually.

The stock dividend will be payable on Aug. 31 to shareholders of record as of Aug. 8. The increased cash dividend will become effective with the third quarter payment which will be payable on Oct. 1 to shareholders of record as of Sept. 17.

This stock dividend and increased cash dividend follow an 8 percent FCC common stock dividend and cash dividend increase in the third quarter of 1988 and a 5 for 3 FCC common stock split and cash dividend increase in the second quarter of 1989.

As with the earlier events, FCC shareholders will be informed that cash will be paid in lieu of franctional shares, as no fractional shares will be issued. Additional stock certificates will be mailed to all FCC shareholders who are to receive them, and no action on the shareholders' part is required.

The stock dividend and increased cash dividend were unanimously approved by the board of directors of First Commercial Corp. in recognition of FCC's continued favorable earnings performance, its maintenance of a strong financial condition, and its progress toward accomplishment of long-term strategic objectives, all of which as most recently evidenced by results achieved during the second quarter and first six months of 1990.

FCC's earnings per share increased 16.4 percent in 1990's second quarter and 14.5 percent for the first six months of 1990 as compared with results recorded for comparable periods of 1989. For the six months ended June 30 1990, FCC achieved a return on average assets of 1.19 percent and a return on average stockholders' equity of 16.03 percent. These results compare with a 1.08 percent return on assets and a 15.62 percent return on equity reported for the first half of 1989.

Also during the second quarter, FCC consummated its affiliation with ABT Bancshares Corp., parent of Arkansas Bank and Trust Co. of Hot Springs, and acquired the former Home Federal Savings and Loan Association of Memphis. Home Federal has ben converted to First Commercial Bank, N.A., of Memphis.

Two FCC affiliate banks acquired the former Landmark Savings Bank. Arkansas Bank and Trust Co. acquired Landmark's two Garland County branches, and Benton State Bank acquired Landmark's other branch located in Hot Springs Village (Saline County).

The former Landmark offices are currently being operated as branches of the respective FCC affiliate banks. These various additions make FCC Arkansas' largest bank holding company. Provisions of the agreements governing the Home Federal and Landmark acquisitions are expected to render both ''clean'' banks, with no non-performing assets, upon final completion of the transfers.

FCC's earnings of 64 cents per share in 1990's second quarter ended June 30, compare with 55 cents reported for the second quarter in 1989. For the six months ended June 30, FCC earned $1.26 per share compared with 1989's $1.10.

Net income for the three months ended June 30, 1990, was $5.6 million up 18.1 percent from $4.8 million in 1989's second quarter. For the six months ended June 30, net income was $11.0 million in 1990, 15.6 percent above 1989's $9.6 million.

Total assets at June 30, 1990, were $2.101 billion, 19.0 percent above $1.766 billion at June 30, 1989. Total loans and leases, net of unearned income, increased 13.2 percent for $1.014 billion at June 30, 1989, to $1.147 billion. Total deposits rose 19.6 percent from $1.570 billion at June 30, 1989, to $1.877 billion at June 30, 1990. Contributing to the balance sheet increases were the acquisitions of Home Federal and Landmark both of which were accounted for as purchase transactions.

First Commerical Corp., Arkansas' largest bank holding company, has eight Arkansas affiliate banks, owns First Commercial Bank, N.A., of Memphis, and is a 50 percent joint venture partner with Arvest Bank Group of Bentonville in ownership of Security National Bank and Trust Co. of Norman Okla.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Intergraph Corp. (NASDAQ:INGR) Tuesday reported operating results for the second quarter ended June 30, 1990.

Revenue was a record $254 million, compared with $219 million for the same period of the prior year, an increase of 16 percent. Net income for the quarter was $16.5 million, a decrease of $3.9 million vs. 1989 due primarily to increases in sales and marketing expenses. Net income per share was 33 cents, compared with 37 cents last year.

Jim Meadlock, Intergraph chairman and chief executive officer, said that the higher expenses are the result of increases in marketing efforts and expansion of the sales force over the past year. ''An increasingly competitive market and the reduction in average system prices required the addition of salespeople,'' said Meadlock.

''I believe that we are now well positioned for the second half of this year, and we expect expense growth to be lower than revenue growth for the remainder of the year.''

Orders for new systems were $190 million, an increase of 18 percent over the second quarter of last year. Strong orders in the Mapping/GIS, AEC, Mechanical, and Microstation application areas accounted for the increase.

Intergraph Corp. offers a product line ranging from microprocessors to workstations and complete application-specific systems for computer-aided engineering, design, manufacturing, and publishing, plus numerous earth science applications. IRVINE, CA (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Westcorp Inc., the diversified financial services company whose principal subsidiary is Western Financial Savings Bank, Tuesday announced net income for the quarter ending June 30, 1990, of $5.3 million, or 31 cents per share.

The results are more than double that of the same quarter of 1989 and more than 80 percent higher than the $2.9 million, or 18 cents per share, earned the previous period.

''The higher numbers are almost entirely a result of improvement in core earnings,'' stated Stephen W. Prough, president. ''A widening of the interest margin and our focus on reducing operating costs were both major contributors to the results,'' he said.

During the quarter the company's interest rate yield/cost spread grew to 3 percent while assets, real estate loan originations and auto-loan volume each remained steady. At quarter-end the company had assets of nearly $3 billion, ony 3.6 percent higher than end of year 1989.

Real estate and consumer loan volumes for the quarter were $177 million and $183 million respectively, nearly equal to the numbers recorded in the similar period of 1989. Loans delinquent 60 days or more fell to .53 percent.

Due to the improvement of the high-yield bond market Westcorp had the opportunity at quarter end to make favorable adjustments in its own high-yield corporate bond (junk bond) holdings, recording a credit of approximately $1.4 million to the provision for securities losses. The company's high-yield bond portfolio is currently less than 1 percent of assets.

During the June 30 quarter the company also increased its provision for loan losses by $1.5 million to $4.9 million. This increase is in line with the company's historically conservative management philosophy and is not an indication of any known significant asset problems.

''I am also very pleased to announce that Western Financial Savings Bank further increased its capital, improving its position relative to the three regulatory measures of capital,'' commented Prough. At June 30,1990 tangible capital and core capital increased to $126 million, or 4.2 percent, of adjusted assets.

Total regulatory capital increased to $211 million or 8.6 percent of ''Risk Weighted Assets.'' Current regulations stipulate minimum ratios of 1.5 percent for tangible cpaital, 3 percent of core capital and 6.4 percent for risk-based capital.

Western Financial Savings Bank operates 24 retail bank branches, 10 real estate loan offices and 5 automobile finance centers throughout California. The bank also offers consumer finance services across the state through Westcorp Financial Services, a wholly owned subsidiary of 27 offices.

HERNDON, Va. (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - C3 Inc., a metropolitan Washington D.C.-based systems integrator, Tuesday announced the results of operations for the fiscal year and fourth fiscal quarter ended March 31.

The announcement and the filing of the company's Form 10-K with the SEC had been had been delayed pending the completion of negotiations with the company's common shareholders and banks to recapitalize the company. The recapitalization and the appointment of Anthony L. Craig as the new president and chief executive officer were announced Monday.

For the year, total revenue was $56.8 million, down 17 percent from fiscal year 1989. The loss from operations totalled $18.6 million, which included $4.4 million in inventory write downs, and represented an increase from the $6 million loss from operations posted last year.

The net loss for the year was $37.5 million, and included $14.6 million in interest expense and $13.5 million in charges to write-down and amortize goodwill. Under the terms of the recapitalization announced Monday, future interest expense and goodwill charges will be substantially reduced.

A company spokesman said ''the decline in revenue for the year was primarily in the company's maintenance services business which declined from $23.3 million to $13.9 million as a result of the completion during the year of two large maintenance contracts.

''The increase in the loss from operations was the result of the inventory write downs, the substantial declines in the historically profitable maintenance revenue, and lower margins on a new systems contract won during the year. Contracts normally have lower margins in their early stages, and the company believes margins will improve in the future.''

Fourth-quarter revenue dipped 6 percent from $15.3 million in 1989 to $14.4 million in 1990. The company's systems sales increased by 18 percent from $8.8 million in fiscal year 1989 to $10.4 million in fiscal year 1990, but this increase was more than offset by declines in maintenance services revenue and revenue in TEMPEST Technologies Inc., the company's majority owned subsidiary.

The operating loss for the quarter was up $1.95 million from $4.52 million to $6.47 million, primarily as a result of the revenue drops in maintenance and TEMPEST Technologies. The net loss for the quarter was $19.85 million, compared with $1.63 million last year. This increase was the result of a write off of $12.7 million in goodwill, and an increase in interest expense and loss from operations as discussed above.

''Fiscal year 1990 was a year of transition for the company,'' Fred Knoll, the company's chairman, said, ''but with the new CEO and the financial recapitalization announced yesterday, and given the record $39.7 million order backlog which the company currently enjoys, we believe we are well positioned for future success in the Government and Commercial Systems Integration markets.''

Following are the results of operations and condensed balance sheet for the fiscal quarters and years ended March 31, 1990 and 1989, together, with Pro Forma data which shows the effects of the recapitalization as if it had occurred on March 31, 1990:

STAMFORD, Conn. (JULY 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Frank J. Kugler Jr. chairman of Northeast Bancorp Inc. and Union Trust Co., reported that the board of directors at its regularly scheduled monthly board meeting declared a dividend of 35 cents per share on its common stock payable Aug. 10 to stockholders of record July 26.

Kugler stated that the company anticipates releasing second quarter financial results shortly. In commenting on the delay, Kugler indicated that Price Waterhouse was in the process of completing a mid-year audit in order to provide the company with certified financial statements as of June 30.

Despite the fact that the company is currently in litigation with the Bank of New York, over certain conditions required by the contract, the merger agreement does require certified financial statements within 120 days of the effective date of the merger.

In commenting on the preliminary results for the quarter, Kugler said, ''The company will post a substantial loss. We had previously announced, at our annual meeting in May, that we expected a substantial increase in loan loss reserves for the quarter. The bank's strong capital position enables us to pay our regular quarterly dividend.'' Kugler stated that when numbers are finalized, he expects end-of-quarter primary capital to remain in excess of 8 percent.

By JIM LEWIS

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (JULY 17) UPI - Country music has seen a wave of new male vocalists coming on the scene the last year or so.

There have been success stories for Travis Tritt, Doug Stone, Skip Ewing, Clint Black, Garth Brooks, Lionel Cartwright and Alan Jackson to name some of them.

Rich Grissom, an Oklahoma native, wants to step in there with them.

''Yes, there's a lot of competition out there. I always liked competition. It keeps everybody on their toes,'' Grissom said.

''I feel real fortunate to be in a position to be among them. I feel like I've got a good chance in the business. My voice is a little different,'' Grissom said.

He said the only problem nowadays is that so many artists sound the same.

''A lot of them are trying to copy George Strait or Merle Haggard. That's not bad because they are great, but we need a little variety in music. I have a hard time distinguishing who's who. Therefore, maybe I have a chance to find a slot in all of this.''

Grissom said he thinks country music has to ''come from the heart and be simple.''

''It's good to come out with music that all the bar bands can sit down and learn to play and sound like the record. If they use too many instruments, the bar bands can't make it right.''

Grissom began his music career when he was 12 years old.

''I was playing in bands and my dad was manager and booking agent. I played bass and rythym guitar. At 18 I had a chance to go on the road with the Champs. I quit high school. I kinda hated to quit.

''My biology teacher told me I would make more money than he'll ever make with his college degree. He told me I ought to do it,'' Grissom said.

The singer-songwriter said he has no regrets. ''I had to do a little living and searching. I was with the Champs for about a year before they disbanded.''

Grissom left music for a while, got marriad and settled down to the straight life.

''I tried several occupations and pushed music out of my mind. The older I got, the more music kept coming back into my life. One thing led to another and I began playing on weekends to satisfy my hunger for music. I was making a good living but I was not satisfied. I just decided to go back into music, writing songs. I wound up getting a divorce because of it.

''My wife didn't want to follow me and I don't blame her. After the divorce I didn't have anything to lose. So I came to Nashville about nine years ago.''

But Grissom didn't become an overnight success.

Eventually he was introduced to Merlin Littlefield, an executive with the American Society of Composers, Artists and Publishers.

''Merlin wanted me to come in. I didn't have money for a demo but I had a little cassette I had made the night before on a boom box. I played it for him and before the first song was finished, he said, 'That's terrible.'

''He asked if that was the only thing I had, and I said. 'Yeah that's it.' I thought I blew it.

''Then he asked me if I had my guitar with me. I said it was out in my '58 pickup truck, which at the time was my best friend. I loved that old truck and called it 'Whitey.' I hated for him to see what I was driving but he did. He wound up loving the old truck too. My knees stopped shaking after we talked about the truck. He pulled the chair up and said sing for me. So I just cut off on a song called, 'There'll Never Be Another One Like You,' I had just written.

''He said, 'You just blew me away.' I got pretty excited. He got on the phone and made appointments with major publishers, about seven or eight. Some of them were the ones who had turned me down before.

''Within a few weeks I had a writing deal,'' Grissom said.

Later, Grissom thought he had a writer-artist deal to do four cuts with RCA, but that fell through.

''Getting lifted up and then let down happens. It didn't take me long to get used to that. I just kept on trucking.''

But three years later, Grissom auditioned with Harold Shedd and when Shedd took over the Nashville operations of Polygram-Mercury, he was signed to a record deal.

He said the process from then to now took three years.

''We took the time to find our direction and the right songs.

Grisson said only three of his own songs were included on his debut album, ''Have You Seen Me Lately.''

''Songwriting is a learning process. I don't consider myself as one of the top songwriters, but I'm getting better as time goes on. Just about anybody can write a song, but writing the one that people can really relate to - it's hard to do that. But I'm gonna do it. My goal is to be real.''

Prague (JULY 17) - The Czechoslovak government raised petrol prices 50 per cent Tuesday and announced plans to import 500,000 tons of crude oil from Iran and Iraq to combat shortfalls of Soviet oil.

It said another million tons would be imported from other sources as well as 500,000 tons of crude from Iraq and Iran, which would be piped in via the Yugoslav port of Rijeka at the end of August.

Finance Minister Vaclav Klaus said the drastic price rise would come into effect Tuesday evening after parliamentary approval.

The moves came as huge queues up to two kilometres again formed at garages as 100,000 tons of fuel hastily imported from West Germany and Austria in the past few days was snapped up.

Vaclav Volf, Director of the state foreign trade organisation Chemapol, said the Soviet Union had exported 400,000 fewer tons of oil than planned to Czechoslovakia in July.

BRUSSELS (JULY 17) - Romanian dissident Doina Cornea called for an international enquiry into bloody street fighting in Romania in June, in an open letter to Romanian President Ion Iliescu published here on Tuesday.

The letter, published by the Belgian Vers l'Avenir press group, also called for the release of people who were arrested when miners, summoned to Bucharest by Mr. Iliescu, brutally beat protesting students.

Mrs. Cornea accused Mr. Iliescu of betraying the Romanian revolution against Nicolae Ceausescu, and of changing it into "an extreme left-wing totalitarian counter-revolution of a repressive nature."

She accused him of intolerance, refusing dialogue, and of maintaining or restoring the Securitate, or political police under Mr. Ceausescu.

In an interview with a special correspondent from Vers l'Avenir, Mrs. Cornea said that she had again been the target of death threats since she distanced herself from the government.

She called on the international community to exclude Romania from co-operation programmes, and she approved measures by the European Economic Community (EEC) which had frozen its signature of a trade agreement with Bucharest.

JERUSALEM (JULY 17) - Israel's trade unions announced Tuesday they would begin an indefinite general strike Sunday unless the government meets their tax demands.

The stoppage, called by all the country's trade unions -- including the main Histadrut labour federation with 1.5 million members -- would completely paralyse the Israeli economy.

The unions are protesting a decision by the new right-wing government to abolish tax breaks for certain employees as part of a fiscal reform package that went into effect at the beginning of the month.

Union officials, in an announcement on Israeli radio, said they would cancel the strike call if the government agreed to reinstate the benefits.

Finance Ministry officials here accused workers' committees in some of the country's largest firms, including the main electricity and aeronautics companies, of pressuring the unions to call the strike.

The government of Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, leader of the right-wing Likud bloc, has faced mounting labour unrest since taking power June 11 with the backing of far-right and religious parties.

Histadrut staged a one-day general strike on June 14 to protest the government's plans to abolish the tax breaks.

Staff at state hospitals and in the public telecommunications sector have also staged 24-hour strikes against government policies.

NEW DELHI (JULY 17) - India asked Pakistan on Tuesday to help trace a helicopter carrying three top commanders that crashed Saturday in the disputed border region of Kashmir, defense ministry officials here said.

They said Indian forces sought the help from their Pakistani counterparts after searchers failed to locate the crashed chopper in which a general, a brigadier, a colonel and two pilots died.

The tiny Soviet-designed Cheetah crashed in northern Kashmir's Poonch sector in bad weather when Major General Sudharshan Singh, commander of a local strike force, was inspecting border posts set up to prevent Moslem militants from entering the region from Pakistan, the officials said.

The Press Trust of India (PTI) said six Indian air force helicopters were scouring the mountainous region to spot the wreckage of the helicopter while divers were searching for it in the region's numerous lakes.

Pakistani commanders have reportedly told the Indian army that they have not located the missing aircraft, PTI said.

The Indian army has replaced paramilitary troopers in checking illegal border-crossings near the no man's land on the Indo-Pakistani border in Kashmir and have lately intensified operations to halt large-scale infiltrations.

Officials say some 6,000 Moslem militants, who New Delhi alleges were trained by Pakistan, are waiting for an opportunity to enter Kashmir where a bloody campaign for the state's secession from India has left more than 800 people dead this year.

New Delhi accuses Islamabad of supplying arms and weapons training to the militants. Pakistan denies the charge, but extends moral support to the Kashmir campaign as a legitimate struggle for self-determination.

NEW DELHI (JULY 17) - Some 56 ruling party lawmakers Tuesday threatened to resign in India's most populous state, a day after the party survived a crisis sparked by the political comeback of Deputy Premier Devi Lal's son.

The Press Trust of India (PTI) said the lawmakers asked Janata Dal (People's Party) President S.R. Bommai to sack state Chief Minister Mulayam Singh Yadav or face mass resignations in the provincial legislature.

Party officials here said however that Mr. Bommai said he was not aware of the threat by the lawmakers to quit in Uttar Pradesh.

The demand for Mr. Yadav's sacking comes in connection with the reported arrest of some 20,000 farmers whose protest demonstration was broken up by police wielding batons in the northern Indian state Saturday and Sunday.

One of the rebel lawmakers, Bhopal Singh, told reporters in the state capital Lucknow that they had also demanded the "unconditional" release of the farmers and a judicial investigation into the police action.

The threat came a day after Mr. Devi Lal's controversial son, Om Prakash Chauthala, resigned as Haryana state chief minister to prevent a possible collapse of the Janata Dal-led coalition government of Prime Minister Vishwanath Pratap Singh.

Mr. V.P. Singh submitted his resignation Saturday after Mr. Chauthala staged a startling comeback as chief minister.

Mr. Chauthala had been asked by the party to quit in May following allegations that he engineered large-scale poll violence in a key Haryana state by-election.

Uttar Pradesh, which produced six of India's seven prime ministers, became a Janata Dal bastion in general elections last November. The state of more than 100 million people puts 85 MP's in the federal parliament.

BONN (JULY 17) - West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl Tuesday told visiting Tunisian President Zine al-Abidine Ben-Ali that Bonn was interested in helping to strengthen democracy and boost economic liberalisation in the north African country.

Bonn government spokesman Hans Klein said Kohl also made a plea for a ''balanced expansion'' of European Community (E.C.) cooperation with the Mediterranean countries and welcomed contacts to the newly-formed Union of Arab Maghreb, of which Ben-Ali is chairman.

Kohl's talks with Ben-Ali came after officials for Tunisia and West Germany signed a new financial aid agreement on the second day of the Tunisian President's visit to Bonn.

The document was signed by Bonn Aid Minister Juergen Warnke and Tunisian Economics Minister Mohamed Ghannouchi at Gymnich Castle, where the Tunisian leader met with Warnke for talks on economic aid issues.

The agreement, which covers environmental, irrigation and rail infracture projects, includes financial support and credits worth a total of 55 million marks (33 million dollars).

Tunisia is one of the main partner countries for aid projects run by the Bonn development aid ministry. Tunis has so far received West German financial and technical assistance totalling some two billion marks.

The Tunisian president, who was guest of honour at a banquet Monday evening given by West German President Richard von Weizsaecker at Augustusburg Castle in Bruehl, was due to hold a reception Tuesday evening for Tunisians living in West Germany.

Ben-Ali is due to fly back to Tunis after talks with Weizsaecker Wednesday.

ISLAMABAD (JULY 17) - Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto said Tuesday that India and Pakistan must discuss the Kashmir issue as the dispute still threatened peace and stability in the region.

Hours before the arrival of an Indian delegation for two days of talks on defusing tension, Ms. Bhutto told a news conference that Kashmir was the central cause of the current friction.

"It has the potential to jeopardise peace and stability in the region," she said.

Pakistan and India have fought three wars in the past 42 years and their troops now face each other in Kashmir as Moslem militants in the Indian part of the territory step up a secessionist movement that has claimed more than 800 lives this year.

Ms. Bhutto said confidence-building measures proposed by India "contained no reference to Kashmir."

She said Kashmir was the core issue for Pakistan and "must be addressed if peace were to be restored" in the region.

The Bhutto government was ready to engage itself in "purposeful dialogue" with India.

"We are happy that talks are taking place," she said, adding that Pakistan backed peaceful negotiations to resolve the dispute with India.

Talks are to begin at foreign secretary level Wednesday.

Ms. Bhutto, who returned late Monday from a tour of Iraq, Kuwait, Morocco, Algeria and Bahrain, said "India has failed to mislead the world" on the Kashmir crisis.

"The main purpose of our visit was to renew bonds of friendship with the Islamic countries and explain the Kashmir situation and repercussions on security of Pakistan," she said.

"We are deeply satisfied with the results" of the trip, she added.

Denying Indian charges of Pakistani involvement in the uprising, she said the sacrifices of the Kashmiri people for their right of self-determination had evoked "spontaneous sympathy" everywhere.

"A ruthless government in Kashmir has enunciated its repression" to deny the people their rights, she said, adding that "serving the cause of Kashmiris is serving the deeper cause of Islamic unity."

Ms. Bhutto accused India of interfering in her home province Sindh by infiltrating it with agents.

"We have received information that trained agents have dispatched to Pakistan for sabotage and subversion," she said.

Some had set up in Sindh, while others were due to arrive, she said, but the developments would not shake "the confidence of our people who would continue support justice and truth."

KHARTOUM (JULY 17) - One hundred and eleven persons have died of meningitis in the Sudan since the beginning of this year, health officials disclosed Tuesday.

Dr. Sadiq Mahjoub, head of the epidemic department, said ''most of the cases occured in camps of the displaced persons and remote areas which were not covered by vaccinations.''

Mahgoub told the official El Engaz El Watani daily that his ministry had imported three million vaccination injection units and that work had been intensified in the displaced camps and in densely populated areas.

He said that ''the critical period has now passed.''

Meningitis, which affects the human cerebral system, is usually associated with the hot season. It can paralyse a victim for life.

TEL AVIV (JULY 17) - The Supreme Court Tuesday revoked severe emergency measures adopted by the government last month in order to solve Israel's mounting problem of homelessness.

The housing crisis has been caused by the influx of Soviet immigrants, and camps of tent-dwellers forced out of their homes by spiralling rents have mushroomed all over Israel in the past two weeks.

The government's emergency measures had been designed to circumvent planning procedures and environmental safeguards in order to speed up the building process and provide housing for the immigrants and the tent-dwellers - who have become increasingly violent in expressing their demands.

Police reported late Monday outbreaks of violence in at least seven of the dozens of encampments where the homeless - usually young Israeli families with children - blocked roads, burnt tyres and even set fire to buses. One man in the northern town of Nahariya took his two-year-old child in his arms, doused himself with petrol and threatened to ignite himself unless he was provided with housing.

But after a wave of arrests the atmosphere calmed Tuesday and at late afternoon no serious incidents were reported.

The court revoked the emergency measures, stating that Housing Minister Ariel Sharon had not even considered using existing legislation to achieve the same ends, but gave Sharon 21 days to introduce administrative measures to deal with the new situation before the revocation becomes final.

Interior Minister Arye Deri reacted to the court's decision by saying he would present a law to the Knesset (parliament) to speed up the building process. ''The decision will not cause a delay of one second in the plans for building,'' he said.

Legal expert Moshe Negbi called the decision ''revolutionary'' and said it was the first time the court had revoked the ''emergency regulations'' procedure dating from Israel's 1948 war of independence.

A spokesman for Sharon said the housing ministry would honour the decision while Avraham Poraz, the left-leaning Shinui party legislator who appealed the case to the Supreme Court, called the verdict a ''victory for democracy''.

TEHERAN (JULY 17) - A journal published by Iranian hardliners condemned the government Tuesday over its negotiations with Iraq saying the talks were motivated by "conservative and cowardly thought" in Iran.

The criticism in the Bayan monthly came as President Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani and Foreign Minister Ali Akbar Velayati both praised current Iran-Iraq talks in Geneva aimed at reaching a final settlement to the Gulf war.

President Rafsanjani, quoted by the official IRNA news agency Tuesday, said the talks were "fruitful" and that the two countries were expected to advance towards peace. He said Iraq was taking a more positive stand than in the past.

Bayan, run by hardline former interior minister Ali Akbar Mohtashemi, denounced the "attitude of Iranian officials in the negotiations with Iraq."

"One of the reasons why these talks have lasted so long is the existence of conservative and cowardly thoughts in the country," the journal said.

"The oppressors and Iraq, because of the pressure imposed on Iran and the existence of such thoughts, hope to undermine the Islamic republic," it added.

The article was published to mark the second anniversary Wednesday of Iran's acceptance of U.N. Security Council Resolution 598, which secured a cease-fire in the Gulf war in August 1988 after eight years of fighting.

Iran and Iraq have been unable to agree on the terms of a final settlement, with Teheran putting the priority on an Iraqi pullout from Iranian territory and Baghdad calling first for an exchange of prisoners of war.

Iranian and Iraqi experts have been meeting under U.N. auspices in Geneva since July 3, when the peace process was boosted by the first ever meeting between Mr. Velayati and Iraqi Foreign Minister Tareq Aziz.

Mr. Velayati, quoted by IRNA Tuesday, said there was an identity of views at the talks, which were proceeding in an amicable atmosphere.

DUBLIN (JULY 17) - Irish Foreign Minister Gerry Collins intends to raise the case of Brian Keenan, an Irishman held hostage in Lebanon, when he makes an official visit to the Middle East next week, officials said here Tuesday.

Mr. Collins is due to visit Israel on Monday, travelling on Tuesday to Tunisia to meet leaders of the Arab League in the context of a mission for the European Economic Community (EEC).

Efforts by the Irish government to obtain the release of Mr. Keenan would dominate the visit, an Irish Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

Ireland, which has condemned recent Israeli air raids against south Lebanon, last week sent diplomats to Beirut and to Damascus in search of information on Mr. Keenan, a teacher from Belfast in Northern Ireland.

English-language press reports have suggested that Mr. Keenan might be released because the official IRNA Iranian news agency said early in July that a Westerner being held hostage was likely to be released.

But an informed source in Teheran said on Friday that nothing was being prepared.

Mr. Keenan, 39, who has British and Irish nationality, was seized by unidentified people in west Beirut in April 1986.

HANOI (JULY 17) - An eight-member delegation of parliamentarians from East and West Germany is here on an unprecedented joint mission aimed at reviewing projects in Vietnam by their two countries, one MP said Tuesday.

The eight-member delegation arrived here at the weekend and includes two East German MPs elected in the historic March polls there -- Nikolaj Klaus Tschalamoff of the Christian Democratic Union and Rudiger Natzius of the Social Democratic Party, said the sole West German MP Winfried Pinger.

Mr. Pinger, of the Christian Democratic Union, said the MPs were in Vietnam for a two week-visit and added that they "wanted to see what's to be done in this country after the union of our two states."

He said the team, which met with Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach on Monday, would be finding out about projects in Vietnam, especially East German ones.

A diplomat here said the two sides were expected to assure the Vietnamese that a united Germany would honour all East Germany's obligations to Vietnam, but Mr. Pinger did not confirm this.

However he said "I think we will continue our relations. Otherwise, the delegation would not be here," adding that it was the first time that the two Germany's had agreed to send a joint delegation abroad.

East Germany and other Eastern bloc countries have been the major aid donors to Vietnam in the past, but with the major changes in Eastern Europe in the past year officials here have expressed concern that cutbacks in aid will have an adverse affect on the beleaguered economy.

The United States does not have diplomatic ties with Hanoi and has clamped an economic embargo on Vietnam, but Western European countries carry out some trade here.

The Vietnamese press wrote in May that Vietnam and East Germany had signed an agreement which foresaw the return home of Vietnamese workers from the European country, while East Berlin last week announced that Vietnamese would now need visas to visit East Germany.

There are about 60,000 Vietnamese working in East Germany, according to official figures.

The joint delegation is due to leave here for the central cities of Da Nang and Hue on Friday and will travel south to Ho Chi Minh City before leaving the country on July 29.

NEW DELHI (JULY 17) - India is hoping this week's confidence-building talks with Pakistan will help calm tensions resulting from more than six months of uninterrupted sabre-rattling over the powderkeg dispute of Kashmir.

Minister of State for External Affairs Hari Kishore Singh said India held cautious optimism for the two days of talks beginning in Islamabad Wednesday.

The talks come at a time when relations between the two subcontinental neighbours have hit an all-time low over Kashmir. The two countries have fought three wars since independence from British rule in 1947.

Analysts have ruled out any spectacular results from the dialogue, but have expressed the hope that it would help ease tensions and lower the pitch of heated rhetoric.

"We are going there with the guarded hope that tensions will be defused so that we can talk further about various problems, including that of Kashmir " Mr. Singh said here Tuesday.

"These talks are aimed at creating a proper climate in which we can discuss and sort out the problems," Mr. Singh told Agence France-Presse in a brief interview.

Foreign Secretary Muchkund Dubey was to leave here later Tuesday for the talks with his Pakistan counterpart Tanvir Ahmaed Khan, which will not follow any set agenda, but are expected to focus mainly on Kashmir.

He is the most senior Indian official to visit Islamabad since the formation of Prime Minister Vishwanath Pratap Singh's multi-party National Front government in December.

The talks, overshadowed by domestic political turmoil in India, are the first since tensions resulting from a bloody Moslem secessionist campaign in Kashmir sparked off fears of a fourth war between the two neighbours.

Belligerent statements by politicians in both capitals, coupled with reports of troop buildups on both sides of the border, whipped up war clouds in April which were defused by diplomatic overtures and international concern.

New Delhi charges that Pakistan is training and arming Moslem secessionists in Kashmir, which both countries have claimed as their own ever since the scenic frontier state acceded to India following independence.

Islamabad denies the charges, but has extended moral support to the secessionist campaign which it describes as a legitimate struggle for self-determination by the valley's Moslem-majority population.

"The (Kashmir) problem is not one of our doing," Mr. Singh said. "But Pakistan should behave like a good neighbour if it genuinely wants peace and friendship."

That appeared to echo previous statements here that relations cannot improve and talks succeed unless Pakistan ends interference in Kashmir.

Mr. Singh said India would re-emphasise at the Islamabad talks the need to build relations under the spirit of the 1972 Simla agreement which calls for a step-by-step resolution of bilateral disputes without use of force.

Both countries have pursued a diplomatic offensive to garner international support for their respective stands on Kashmir, where more than 800 people have died so far this year in violence linked to the secessionist campaign.

But they have also shown signs of wanting to ease tensions and in June traded confidence-building proposals with reservations. India withdrew an armoured formation in the desert state of Rajasthan as a goodwill gesture.

Newspaper reports here have said that the Indian proposals call for sharing of information on military exercises and field firings, contact between commanders in identified sectors, joint patrolling of the border, steps to prevent air space violations and exchange of military delegations.

Pakistan's proposal for a bilateral nuclear non-proliferation treaty has evoked a cool response from New Delhi, which holds that the issue is global and cannot be seen in regional terms.

During his visit to Islamabad ending Friday, Foreign Secretary Dubey is expected to also meet Pakistan President Ghulam Ishaq Khan and Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto.

Mr. Singh said India was "ready to do whatever we can so that the tensions are removed."

"But Pakistan should respond," he added. "The spirit of accommodation should be there on both sides."

THE HAGUE (JULY 17) - Aruba, a Dutch island possession situated a short distance from Venezuela, will not become independent on January 1, 1996 as planned, the Dutch governmental information service said here Tuesday.

The island would retain after 1996 the special status it obtained in 1986, when it acquired its own government, flag and currency, and would also retain the possibility of opting for independence.

The decision was taken last week during a visit by the prime minister of the island, Nelson Oduber, who rejected independence because the Netherlands was unable to guarantee the future of democracy on the island nor its territorial integrity.

The Dutch government had also declined Mr. Oduber's request that Aruban citizens keep Dutch nationality after independence.

Under the terms of the special status, Aruban defence and foreign policy are a Dutch responsibility.

BREMEN, WEST GERMANY (JULY 17) - Police were called to a bar in this north German port after a 29-year-old man who often gulps down a tequila complete with glass refused to reimburse the landlord for the loss.

The customer was a regular at the bar who had disposed of a glass in the same fashion at least a dozen times before. The bar owner said although he had tolerated the behaviour in the past his patience had run out.

Police later left the pub after the tequila drinker promised to pay for replacement glassware. He claimed to suffer no ill effects from devouring glasses and was ''in excellent health'', said a police spokesman Tuesday.

BRUSSELS (JULY 17) - North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (NATO) ambassadors on Tuesday awaited clarification from West Germany over the accord on German unification reached Monday by Chancellor Helmut Kohl and President Mikhail Gorbachev, diplomats said.

West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher asked to meet the ambassadors late Tuesday after the "Two-plus-Four" talks in Paris, but cancelled the briefing, apparently because of lack of time, they said.

A Genscher envoy will brief the NATO ambassadors on Wednesday, they said.

Senior sources at NATO said they would look to the briefing to clarify an important aspect of the accord: when, and how, the alliance could extend its integrated military command into East German territory.

The eight-point agreement was hailed as lifting the last major political barrier to German unification.

It said "NATO structures would not apply" to former East German territory "where Soviet troops remain." Soviet troops are scheduled to withdraw from East Germany within four years, under the accord.

Nothing was specified about what would happen afterward, other than that the German armed forces -- reduced to 370,000 men in line with the agreement -- would take up defence duties in what is now East German territory.

The alliance last month offered not to extend the integrated command structure eastwards, although Britain and the United States argued, against the position of Mr. Genscher, that this should only be for a short transition period.

A diplomat suggested Tuesday that Mr. Kohl was seeking to bridge the two positions.

Under a compromise, he said, the integrated command would be extended to East German territory, but only to troops of the Bundeswehr that are specifically under the orders of the NATO commander in Europe.

"In other words, "foreign" troops would not be allowed on East German soil " he said.

But another warned that this would be a "complicating factor" for U.S., British and other non-German troops, who would thus stay in western Germany but be tasked, under NATO's charter, with defending all German territory.

The allies have already moved to scale back their military presence in West Germany, under a first treaty to limit Conventional Forces in Europe (CFE), which NATO and the Warsaw Pact hope to conclude by the year-end.

When the allied forces in the Federal Republic are further slimmed by a second CFE treaty, they are likely to shift from being big garrison operations that defend given stretches of territory to small, but highly, mobile mixed units, NATO experts say.

FREETOWN (JULY 17) - Liberian peace talks held under the aegis of the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS) are to resume Wednesday a day late, after participants travelling here ran into flight delays, an ECOWAS official said.

ECOWAS Executive Secretary Abass Bundu said mediators from Guinea, Togo and Ghana, as well as chief negotiator for the rebel National Patriotic Front of Liberia (NPFL) Tom Woewiyu were due to arrive late Tuesday.

Mr. Woewiyu was reportedly travelling on a special flight sponsored by the U.S. Government.

The NPFL launched their armed struggle to unseat President Samuel Doe last December in northeastern Liberia.

Mr. Woewiyu left Freetown after the talks were adjourned Friday for Liberia to consult with rebel chief Charles Taylor.

When asked about the delay, Liberian Information Minister Emmanuel Bowier said: "Negotiating for peace is not easy. Our side is patient.

"We've come for peace and we cannot go back to tell the Liberian people that there is no peace", he told Agence France-Presse.

Western diplomatic sources in Freetown meanwhile remain skeptical about a breakthrough in the current negotiations. They predict the talks will collapse because of poor chances for the two sides to meet face-to-face.

Separately, West Germany on Tuesday gave 50,000 Deutschemarks (30,000 dollars) to help local authorities buy household utensils to be distributed to thousands of Liberian refugees here through the Sierra Leone Red Cross, West German Embassy officials said.

JOHANNESBURG (JULY 17) - Eleven miners were injured Monday when security personnel opened fire with shotguns on an allegedly unruly mob at the St Helena gold mine at Welkom, 270 kilometres south-west of Johannesburg, the mining corporation Genmin reported Tuesday.

A genmin statement said a security official had also been injured in the incident, which occurred when a union meeting ended and a group of 100 miners marched to a nearby shaft.

''Security staff members who were monitoring the situation were attacked and were forced to defend themselves against the group of men who were armed with pangas (machetes), iron bars and other weapons.

''Several shots were fired and 12 people subsequently received treatment at a nearby hospital. Four of the injured are in a serious condition,'' the company said.

Racial tension, between black and white miners, and between black and white residents, has been running high in Welkom for several months.

BEIRUT (JULY 17) - A Moslem judge has been named to head Lebanon's supreme appeals court, a post normally held by a Christian, press reports said here Tuesday.

The Lebanese cabinet appointed Judge Atef Naqib on Monday.

It also decided to abolish confessionalism as a criterion for judicial advancement and ruled that promotions would be determined by professional competence.

Commentators here said the decisions were in accordance with the Taif agreement, approved by the Lebanese parliament at a special session in Taif, Saudi Arabia, last October.

The accord sought to shift political and administrative power away from the Christian minority to the Moslem majority.

Christian military leader Michel Aoun rejected the Taif agreement, on the grounds that it did not call for a Syrian military withdrawal, and refused to recognize the Syrian-backed administration of President Elias Hrawi.

On Tuesday a rival government under General Aoun based in Christian Lebanon said it did not accept Mr. Naqib's appointment.

Judge Naqib, born in the southern Lebanese port of Sidon, received his advanced legal training in France.

NAIROBI (JULY 17) - A British journalist, Christopher Walker, was fined 20,000 Kenyan shillings (about 900 dollars) on Tuesday for covering bloody anti-government riots in Kenya without a work permit.

Mr. Walker, The Times Cairo correspondent, entered Kenya two weeks ago.

He wrote several stories about riots here sparked by the detentions without trial of Kenyan opposition figures. The riots, which erupted 10 days ago, left 22 dead.

Mr. Walker, who appeared before Nairobi chief magistrate Omondi Tunya, pleaded guilty and was instructed to pay the fine or serve three months in jail followed by deportation. He paid the fine.

President Daniel arap Moi, who has often blasted Western journalists for alleged biased coverage of the opposition movement here, has said Kenya has too many foreign correspondents.

Last week the pro-government Kenya Times assailed Western reporters for describing the riots as "pro-democracy demonstrations," though the government claimed the rioters were merely hooligans on the rampage.

Mr. Tunya said Mr. Walker's case should be a warning to other journalists.

PAYNESVILLE, Liberia (JULY 17) - Liberian rebels are engaged in fierce fighting with government troops in the Paynesville suburb of the capital Monrovia, where rebels retook control Tuesday.

Leaders of the rebel National Patriotic Front of Liberation (NPFL) have thrown several hundred men into the battle on this new front line just 10 kilometres (six miles) from the presidential palace.

Government troops of the 72nd battalion are putting up stiff resistance firing rockets against rebel positions, rebels said.

Thousands of refugees who were huddled into the university campus at Fendell about 10 kilometres (six miles) north of Paynesville have taken advantage of the reopening of the road to flee towards Kakata 55 kms (35 miles) north of Paynesville and towards Harbel 70 kms (45 miles) southeast of the capital.

The straggling line of refugees forced to trudge through the rain, has to undergo constant checks at roadblocks set up by rebels led by Charles Taylor, who systematically search their possessions.

The rebels are on the lookout for deserting soldiers seeking to sneak through their lines disguised as refugees. They have hit on an ingenious way to pick out former soldiers, checking the heels of refugees for the telltale marks army boots are known to leave.

Whole families are making their way along this road clutching meagre possessions, being forced to fall back periodically to allow vehicles carrying rebel soldiers to pass.

Some have chosen to halt at a giant Firestone complex on the outskirts of Harbel.

The Paynesville road was previously cut by a group of rebel dissidents led by Prince Johnson, a former NPFL military chief. They have now been pushed back into the bush but are believed still present in the area harassing rebel bases behind the line, NPLF leaders told AFP.

The NPLF rebels have since Saturday been keeping up pressure on the Shiefflin government military camp about 24 kilometres (15 miles) southeast of Monrovia.

GENEVA (JULY 17) - The Geneva Disarmament Conference Tuesday reactivated the ad hoc committee on nuclear testing and made Japanese ambassador Mitsuro Donowaki its president.

However, the committee, which had been operative from 1976 to 1983, was not given the mandate to negotiate.

Unable to reach a consensus among the 40 members of the conference, the committee will only be empowered to begin studies linked to the interdiction of nuclear tests aimed at formulating a multilateral text totally banning nuclear tests.

The decision was described as "extremely important," although only a "first step," by ambassador Sergei Kortunov, Soviet delegate to the conference.

While it is a question of "an exploratory phase," of the discussions on nuclear testing, "things will not go smoothly from the beginning," he said.

Mr. Kortunov said he recognised that the move will be dismissed by developing countries as a move to put the issue out to pasture a few weeks from the opening of the conference on the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty to be held August 20 to September 14.

Japanese ambassador Mitsuro Donowaki told the conference Tuesday that "in 1982 and 1983, when we had an ad hoc Committee on Agenda Item one, two nuclear weapon states did not participate in the work of the ad hoc committee.

"This time, although the participation of France has not yet been promised, the People's Republic of China has made it clear that it would participate " Mr. Donowaki said.

The Soviet Union has proposed to the United States to open bilateral negotiations in September on a comprehensive test ban treaty in order to reach a new limitation on the number and power of authorised nuclear tests Mr. Kortunov said.

"We hope the response of the United States will be positive," he said, adding that it was his feeling that they would not resume negotiations.

Mr. Kortunov said the Soviet Union has observed an undeclared moratorium on nuclear tests for six months, but he said he understoood the U.S. desire to continue tests for security reasons while they continued to have a nuclear arsenal.

MANAMA (JULY 17) - A Japanese-partnered consortium Tuesday agreed to provide a 650 million dollar loan to Aluminium Bahrain (Alba), the Gulf's largest aluminium smelter and its leading non-oil company.

The medium-term loan, provided by 46 banks, will help finance a 1.4 billion dollar expansion and plant modernisation program. Alba's annual output is expected to rise from 210,000 tons currently to 460,000 by the end of 1992.

The loan agreement was signed here by Alba chairman Youssouf Shirawi, the Bahraini industry and development minister, and bank representatives.

Among institutions arranging the loan were the Bank of Tokyo, Mitsubishi Bank and Sumitomo Bank of Japan, Manufacturers Hanover of the United States, Paribas of France and several Gulf investment banks.

JOHANNESBURG (JULY 17) - Security guards at the St. Helena gold mine in the racially tense Orange Free State town of Welkom have shot and wounded 11 black miners, union and management officials said here Tuesday.

Four of them were in critical condition in the St. Helena mine hospital, they said. Nine of the 11 were under police guard, according to the National Union of Mineworkers (NUM).

A spokesman for the General Mining Union Corporation (Genmin) said a mine security official was also injured.

The trouble started after a miners' meeting Monday, when some 100 armed miners made their way to a shaft to attack mine security guards, who were "forced to defend themselves against the group of men who were armed with pangas, iron bars and other weapons," Genmin said.

NUM spokesman Jerry Majatladi said some 2,000 black miners doing the toyi-toyi, a form of march, and singing political songs on their way back to their hostels after the meeting were confronted by 100 security men who opened fire "without final warning."

He said mine management had deployed a large contingent of guards in the mistaken impression that the meeting had featured a strike ballot.

Mr. Majatladi said the meeting had merely been a report by union officials on redundancy terms management was offering some 1,500 miners to be laid off, a sixth of the workforce.

The NUM had also demanded an end to management bans on the wearing of T-shirts with political slogans and the singing of "freedom" songs, he said.

"The mining industry is part of apartheid society, but mine management has its own laws which in certain cases are even more repressive than apartheid laws," he said.

White miners were free to wear T-shirts backing the neo-fascist Afrikaner Resistance Movement (AWB) without management harrassment, he said, adding that no miner had ever complained about a colleague's display of support for an opposing political group.

BRUSSELS (JULY 17) - Europe's first cross-border joint venture in the airline sector ran into fresh problems Tuesday as a Belgian court forbade it from allocating any new takeoff or landing slots at Brussels airport, legal sources said.

The ruling dealt a blow to Sabena World Airlines (SWA), a company jointly owned by the ailing Belgian state firm Sabena SA, British Airways plc and KLM Royal Dutch Airlines, analysts said.

The Brussels trade court ruled in favour of a Belgian charter airline, Trans European Airways (TEA), which has been fighting to open up competition in Belgian air transport.

SWA has the monopoly right to decide which company acquires slots at Brussels-Zaventem airport. The timing of a slot, for picking up or delivering passengers at peak moments of traffic, is essential to the success of an airline route.

A spokesman for TEA said the court's decision was aimed at preventing the best slots from being allocated before the Belgian government moves to liberalise the airline sector.

TEA, which has 17 aircraft and a payroll of 1,200, has been campaigning to operate regular services in and out of Brussels.

However, the tribunal did not accede to TEA's demand to strip SWA of its monopoly over slot attribution.

British Airways and KLM each took a 20 per cent stake in SWA, with Sabena acquiring the remaining 60 per cent.

The deal indirectly enabled the Belgian firm to get a cash injection. The British and Dutch airlines viewed it as a means of getting better access to Brussels airport, which could then be used as a convenient flight "hub" to connect with their routes to other cities.

On June 27, the European Commission warned the deal could violate the European Economic Community's competition rules.

GENEVA (JULY 17) - Four years after the Chernobyl nuclear disaster, studies have indicated that the areas affected by radiation are much larger than had been believed, Russian Federation Deputy Foreign Minister M.B. Kolokov said here Tuesday.

Regions within Russia have been hit "to varying degrees," and the radiation is "affecting much greater areas than it had been thought before " Mr. Kolokov told reporters outside of a meeting of the United Nations Economic and Social Council.

K.J. Masik, vice-president of the Ukrainian Council of Ministers, estimated that 1.8 million people in the Ukraine, including 380,000 children, are still living in an environment where radiation is above normal levels.

He said that the psychological effects on the populations of these regions have been severe, stating that 90 per cent of children exposed to radiation in 1986 "believe that there is no future for them."

Alexander Kichkailo, vice-president of the Belorussian council of ministers, said that the limited resources of his republic meant that only 120,000 of the 2.2 million people living in the contaminated area are presently scheduled to be relocated.

He said authorities were concentrating on supplying uncontaminated food, since 72 percent of radiation absorbed by persons still living in the area is estimated to come from produce.

MOSCOW (JULY 17) - Nearly 75,000 Soviet citizens repatriated from Eastern Europe are without housing, including 25,000 military officers, the government daily Izvestia said Tuesday.

The newspaper said that the army "has no more pressing problems than those posed by the withdrawal from Eastern Europe" and the massive resettlement of military personnel entailed by the operation.

The withdrawal of troops from Hungary and Czechoslovakia has created a homeless population of 25,000 commissioned and warrant officers, along with 50,000 of their family members, reported Izvestia.

The newspaper proposed that they be housed in refitted public centers, hotels, barracks, military academy buildings, headquarters and unoccupied appartments.

The Soviet press recently reported the existence of an encampment near Odessa in the southern Ukraine where several hundred families of military officers were living in tents.

The committee of the Supreme Soviet charged with defense matters, quoted by Izvestia, called for a national government program to deal with the question, and some of its members noted that larger problems would result from the expected conclusion in Vienna of a European conventional forces reduction treaty.

Some 370,000 Soviet troops will be evacuated from East Germany in the next three or four years following the agreement reached Monday between President Mikhail Gorbachev and West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl.

NAIROBI (JULY 17) - Kenyan President Daniel arap Moi said Tuesday that ''mentally maladjusted power-seekers'' were behind the recent riots and that former vice-president Josephat Karanja was one of them.

Moi also criticised ''certain churches'' for advocating ideas which could lead to chaos and bloodshed.

Quoted by Kenyan radio, Moi described those who incited the riots as ''heartless people''. The radio said he was speaking during a tour which included some of the ''flashpoints'' during the riots.

''Recent riots aimed at toppling the government were backed by mentally maladjusted power-seekers'', Moi said. He said they had intended to destabilise the government and ''had gone as far as establishing a shadow cabinet for their evil motives''.

''The president revealed that Dr Josephat Karanja, who was a failure as the vice-president, was one of the backers of the riots'', the radio said.

Moi ''expressed surprise that certain churches in the country which should be preaching peace, were advocating ideas which could bring chaos and bloodshed in the country'', it said.

''The president pointed out that the same churches were trying to create a situation where people could think church leaders were being persecuted, while the truth was that the clergy were the ones persecuting Wananchi (citizens) through their bad ideas'', the radio said.

At least 15 people were killed and 63 injured in riots which started here July seven and spread to other parts of the country. Demonstrators demanding a multi-party system clashed repeatedly with security forces.

WASHINGTON (JULY 17) - A senior U.S. official involved in the war against drug trafficking said Tuesday that cocaine supplies were diminishing throughout the United States, forcing up wholesale prices.

But Ronald Caffrey, deputy assistance administrator for operations at the Drug Enforcement Administration, warned the Senate Judiciary Committee that the situation could be temporary.

And some of the shortages might be due to stockpiling by cocaine traffickers while prices might be going up as a result of street traders cashing in on the shortages fear.

Nevertheless, Mr. Caffrey credited much of the shortage to the efforts of the U.S. and Latin American governments in clamping down on both traffickers and growers.

He said wholesale prices of cocaine had increased from between 14,000 dollars and 20,000 dollars a kilo in New York in December to between 21,000 dollars and 35,000 dollars in June.

There have been similar price rises recorded in Los Angeles, Houston, Chicago and Miami. At the same time, the quality of the drug available on the city streets has dimiished steadily since 1988, he said.

Mr. Caffrey said the purity level of the drug, when sold by the kilo, had dropped from 90 per cent two years ago to 74 per cent last month; when sold by the gram, the normal quantity for street sales, the purity was down from 70 per cent two years ago to 55 per cent in June.

But prices still had a long way to go before they reached their peak, set in 1982, of 55,000 dollars to 65,000 dollars a kilo.

Tokyo (JULY 18) - Japanese Agriculture Minister Tomio Yamamoto said Wednesday Tokyo intended to continue its farm policy for self-sufficient supply and keep a ban on foreign rice imports.

Member-nations of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (Gatt) have been pressing Tokyo to open the Japanese rice market.

Government sources quoted Yamamoto as saying: ''We will respond to such pressure by trying all out to win understanding of Japan's basic policy of satisfying rice demand with domestic production.''

Yamamoto is to meet agricultural ministers of four non-Gatt members in Dublin later this month, said the sources.

BEIJING (JULY 17) - The number of AIDS cases reported in China since 1985 has reached 305 with the discovery of 91 more drug addicts infected with the virus that causes the disease, it was reported Tuesday.

The official China Daily said they were discovered in border areas of southwestern Yunnan province, where 146 heroin addicts with AIDS were also found last year.

It quoted Vice Health Minister He Jiesheng as saying that the 91, like the 146 before them, had contracted acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS) through "communal use of contaminated syringes for intravenous injections."

Of the total figure of 305, 246 are mainland Chinese and 59 foreign nationals, the semi-official China News Service said.

The last figure given for total AIDS cases in China was 195, but China Daily did not account for 19 cases, which when combined with the 91 drug addicts, add up to the new total of 305.

AIDS was first discovered in China in 1985, and Health Ministry officials believe it is more widespread than testing has so far revealed.

SEOUL (JULY 17) - South Korean radio and television unions called off a strike that had affected programing and returned to work here Tuesday, conceding they had failed to reach their goal.

But the political crisis that led to the strike continued brewing, with the opposition insisting that it will quit parliament.

Workers at both television networks here went on strike Friday and Saturday to stop passage of a bill creating a private television and radio network.

The ruling Democratic Liberal Party (DLP) however passed the bill Saturday in parliament despite angry protests by the opposition.

"We stopped because the reason for our strike is gone, which was to stop the enactment of the broadcasting act," said Ahn Seong-Il, a union member at the Munhwa Broadcasting Corporation (MBC).

The unions and the opposition say a private network will be owned by large business conglomerates that will be sympathetic to government views.

However, the government has pledged to keep the network out of the hands of the conglomerates.

All opposition lawmakers have handed in their resignations to their party leaders to protest the passage of the bills and to force the government to dissolve the National Assembly and call for snap elections.

Tokyo (JULY 17) - Visiting World Bank President Barber Conable Tuesday called on Japan to write off part of its official loans to debt-ridden countries such as Poland and Egypt, government officials said.

During a meeting with Japanese Finance Minister Ryutaro Hashimoto, Conable said preferential consideration should be paid to these debt-plagued developing nations because new loans to these nations are only to service the old loans.

But Hashimoto said Japan would not meet conable's request, saying unlike private-sector funds, official loans are not inclusive of any risks resulting in loan losses.

The World Bank chief meanwhile praised Japan's recent decision to lift an embargo on its 810-billion-yen (5.5-billion-dollar) loan to China, saying the move will help back the bank's plans to broaden the scope of loans beyond humanitarian objectives.

KUALA LUMPUR (JULY 17) - The 25-member International Natural Rubber Organisation (INRO) wants to expand its membership to increase effectiveness in regulating the rubber market, an official said Tuesday.

Members of the 1987 second International Natural Rubber Agreement (INRA II), which is administered by INRO, now account for 89.8 percent of exports and 82.3 percent of imports in the global rubber market.

This compares with 91 percent of world exports and 84 percent of imports under the first INRA (I) which expired in October 1987.

"We are still trying to get more countries to join the agreement," deputy executive director Jurgen Knote said, adding, "the bigger the share of the market the more efficient the operation of the agreement."

The rubber agreements provide for stockpile purchases and sales within an agreed price band to reduce excessive fluctuation in rubber prices.

Mr. Knote said that Sri Lanka would soon rejoin INRO as the fifth exporting member after Malaysia, Indonesia, Thailand and Nigeria, while Ivory Coast had indicated it wanted to return.

"We hope that with the accession of Ivory Coast more countries from the Professional Association of Natural Rubber Producers in Africa might join INRO," he said.

Of the bigger consumers, India, Brazil and South Korea were non-members while Australia and Canada, who were members of INRA I, have still not decided to re-join INRO.

"I could also imagine that some time in the future, eastern Europe would also join. There are observers who believe that with the opening of their market there is a good chance to export more rubber to these countries," Mr. Knote said.

BRASILIA (JULY 17) EFE - Brazil will begin a planned drastic privatization program in November, when it will sell off six state-owned companies including the massive steel company Usiminas, the Economy Ministry said Tuesday.

An ambitious plan to privatize 42 of the 220 companies currently under state ownership by 1992 will start with the sale of Usiminas, under a plan drawn up by a government privatization commission.

Five more companies from the iron and steel, petrochemical, mining and manufacturing industries will also be offered for sale in November.

President Fernando Collor de Mello's government has introduced a twist to the plan with the controversial issue Monday of privatization certificates which financial institutions in Brazil are being forced to buy at a total value of dlrs five billion.

By ordering the compulsory purchase of the certificates, the government hopes to collect much-needed revenue from the private banks, pension funds and brokerages which profited from years of Brazilian hyper-inflation.

Pension funds alone will be obliged to hand over at least dlrs three billion.

The Central Bank has decided to press ahead as quickly as possible with the certificate issue and announced that it would know on Wednesday the results of the first issue.

The scheme makes good a promise Collor de Mello made on the day after his March 15 inauguration to privatizate state-owned companies as part of his radical plan to stabilize Brazil's shaky economy.

LIMA (JULY 17) EFE - Some 500,000 Peruvian public employees are to hold a one-day strike Wednesday to press for an increase in the national holiday bonus, union officials said Tuesday.

The holiday bonus of dlrs 9.50 bonus, to be disbursed later this month to celebrate the 169th anniversary of Peru's independence from Spain, was inadequate, said the officials, since it represented only 25 percent of the minimum wage.

"We will march through the streets to the Economy Ministry and to the National Parliament," said Felix Martinez, general secretary of the Intersectoral Commission of State Workers that is to head the strike.

Wednesday's proposed stoppage, coming 11 days before President-elect Alberto Fujimori is to take office, would contravene laws that prohibit public gatherings under state of emergency legislation in force in the capital, police said.

The strike would add to Peru's deteriorating labor relations -- 4,000 prison officers who walked off the job five months ago are still holding out for a wages hike, while 2,000 treasury inspectors have been out since June 5 in pursuit of a pay rise.

The treasury inspectors are seeking a 200 percent increase in their dlrs 80 a month salary.

TOKYO (JULY 17) KYODO - CRUDE OIL PRICES, UNDER DOWNWARD PRESSURE EARLY THIS YEAR DUE TO A MARKET GLUT, HAVE ENTERED AN UPWARD TREND, REFLECTING STEPPED-UP EFFORTS BY OIL EXPORTING COUNTRIES TO CURB EXCESSIVE SUPPLY, INDUSTRY SOURCES SAID TUESDAY.

THE SOURCES SAID OIL PRICES WILL RECOVER TO AROUND 18 DOLLARS PER BARREL, THE TARGET SET BY THE ORGANIZATION OF PETROLEUM EXPORTING COUNTRIES (OPEC) AROUND THIS FALL OR WINTER, WITH THE BALANCE BETWEEN SUPPLY AND DEMAND EXPECTED TO BECOME TIGHT.

THE RECOVERY IS MOSTLY THE RESULT OF CONCERTED EFFORTS BY THE 13-NATION OPEC TO CUT BACK ON EXCESSIVE OUTPUT, AFTER THE THREE MAJOR QUOTA VIOLATORS, SAUDI ARABIA, KUWAIT, AND THE UNITED ARAB EMIRATES (UAE) FINALLY AGREED TO REDUCE PRODUCTION EARLIER THIS MONTH, THEY SAID.

THE AVERAGE PRICE OF SEVEN MAJOR OIL VARIETIES HAS RECOVERED TO THE 16 DOLLAR-PER-BARREL LEVEL IN RECENT SESSIONS, A SHARP INCREASE FROM THE 13 DOLLAR LEVEL IN JUNE.

YASUOKI TAKEUCHI, CHAIRMAN OF THE PETROLEUM ASSOCIATION OF JAPAN AND CHAIRMAN OF NIPPON OIL CO., SAID OIL PRICES WILL RISE STEADILY NOW THAT OPEC COUNTRIES ARE EXPECTED TO AGREE TO ABIDE BY THE PRODUCTION QUOTA OF 22-22.5 MILLION BARRELS PER DAY (BDD) AT THE UPCOMING GENERAL MEETING IN GENEVA BEGINNING JULY 25.

HIS VIEW WAS ECHOED BY KIKUO YAMADA, PRESIDENT OF MITSUBISHI OIL CO., WHO SAID PRICES WILL GRADUALLY APPROACH THE TARGETED 18 DOLLARS BY THIS WINTER DESPITE TEMPORARY FLUCTUATIONS.

BUT YAMADA SAID HE COULD NOT AGREE WITH MARKET SPECULATION THAT PRICES WILL JUMP TO 30 DOLLARS A BARREL IN THE NEAR TERM.

THE SOURCES SAID THE OIL IMPORTERS AGREE THAT 18 DOLLARS IS AN APPROPRIATE LEVEL, ALLOWING FOR INFLATIONARY PRESSURES.

''WHAT IS MOST ANNOYING IS UPS-AND-DOWNS IN PRICES,'' AN OFFICIAL AT KYODO OIL CO. SAID. ''WE SEE THE TARGET AS NEITHER TOO HIGH NOR TOO LOW.''

FALLS CHURCH, VA (JULY 17) MCS - A SAMPLING OF TODAY'S COMMENTARY COMPILED BY MARKET CONSENSUS SURVEYS, INC. IN TWO SECTIONS (1) STOCKS (2) MONEY & ECONOMY.

MONEY & CREDIT:

"The dollar is undervalued against the European currencies with which we have a trade surplus, but overvalued against the Asian currencies with which we have a trade deficit," says IRWIN KELLNER, chief economist for MANUFACTURERS HANOVER TRUST. He predicts that the U.S. dollar will probably be sold against Asian currencies, with the yen as an immediate proxy if the trade figures remain consistent. If the U.S. trade deficit with Asia is smaller in May than April then he predicts the dollar should climb. (WSJ, 7/17)

"U.S. real interest rates [those adjusted for inflation] are the lowest in the world," says DAVID GERMANY of MORGAN STANLEY. "That puts the U.S. a bit out of step with the rest of the world." This difference puts "near-term downward pressure" on the value of the dollar, according to Germany, but he says that a firm economy will eventually bring the greenback back up. (FNN "World Business Update", 7/17)

"I think there's a definite danger of German [interest] rates going higher before the end of the year," and thereby hurting the dollar, says IAN GUNNER of MMS INTERNATIONAL. He says it is impossible to predict what impact this hike would have, but Gunner looks for "pressures on the German economy." He characterizes the recent easing as merely a "technical move " that did not really indicate a change in overall Fed policy. (FNN "World Business Update", 7/17)

The currency market is sitting on its hands until it hears tomorrow's testimony from FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD CHAIRMAN ALAN GREENSPAN. "I think the [currency] market's a little fearful of getting too far ahead of itself until they can understand why he [Greenspan] has done what he's done and how far he's going to go," says JAMES T. McGROARTY of GREENWICH CAPITAL MARKETS. ("Investor's Daily", 7/17)

STEVEN SLIFER, economist at SHEARSON LEHMAN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES, says there may be further Fed easing, but only if the U.S. budget negotiations produce a feasible deficit reduction package, and that other factors favored such a move. "It is easy to give 25 basis points to demonstrate you are a team player," Slifer says, but adds that the Fed may be reluctant for further moves now. (Reuters, 7/16)

"What the Fed's going to do is sit back and see what the market reaction is" to last week's credit-easing move before taking further action, says THOMAS MOLES, of J&W SELIGMAN INC. He recommends buying long-term bonds, especially top-rated issues. "We're increasingly leaning toward higher-quality issues," he says. "Reaching for yield" by buying lower-rated issues wouldn't be smart in view of the economy's listlessness. (WSJ, 7/17)

To keep the U.S. bond market rally going, "new evidence of a slower economy probably will have to emerge," says JOHN LONSKI, senior economist at MOODY'S INVESTORS SERVICE INC. "However, we do not foresee a deep enough decline in economic activity that would open the way for a significant bond rally." (WSJ, 7/17)

The bond market reacted favorably to RJR NABISCO's announcement that the company would restructure its massive debt, pushing the bonds up 8 points to 114. But the effects may be further-reaching than just RJR's bonds. "The RJR news will definitely spread to other issues," says FINANCIAL PROGRAMS portfolio manager RON LOUT. ("Investor's Daily", 7/17)

THE ECONOMY:

The 0.4% rise in business inventories was outpaced by a 0.9% increase in sales. Total sales rose on the strength of the manufacturing and wholesale sectors, with retail sales down 0.6%. "I don't think the sales rise signals a rebound in this economy," says GARY CIMINERO, chief economist for FLEET/NORSTAR FINANCIAL GROUP INC. Some analysts also see negative news in the rise of business inventories. "There is some concern about inventories going up outside of automobiles," says DANIEL FRIEL, economist for NCNB CORP. of Charlotte, N.C. "Those inventories have gone up enough to be of some concern." (WSJ, 7/17)

"There's no excessive inventory building, so economic growth can continue just fine," says JOHN SILVIA, an economist with KEMPER FINANCIAL SERVICES in Chicago. (NYT, 7/17)

June U.S. industrial production and capacity use data should show the Fed the right mix of sluggish, but steady growth that it wants to continue its fight against inflation. "Basically, production is rising as fast as you want it to rise if you want to keep inflation from rising," says CARL PALASH, senior economist at McCARTHY CRISANTI & MAFFEI INC. (Reuters, 7/16)

A "USA Today" poll of 397 investors who regularly read its business section found that 43% of them expect the economy to slide into a recession in the next two years and that 67% of that number believe a recession has already begun. However, COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY economist GEOFFREY MOORE says he is "optimistic that we'll continue to have slow economic growth." Moore is one of the seven economists who comprise the national panel that formally decides when there is a recession. ("USA Today", 7/17)

The Fed's patience with slow growth seems to have some support from economists' outlooks for the second half of the year. "No one's talking boom, let's hire a third shift and work all night, but definitely things are more favorable in the second half than in the first half," says BOB DIELI, economist at NORTHERN TRUST CO. (Reuters, 7/16)

IN WASHINGTON:

HOUSE BUDGET CHAIRMAN LEON PANETTA says, "The [budget] crisis, in short, is real. These numbers should hit the White House, Congress and the summit like a fire alarm in the middle of the night." ("Nightly Business Report", 7/16)

"There's got to be some fiscal discipline in this system," says Office of Management and Budget director RICHARD DARMAN. "The sequester is the only thing available to force constructive negotiations if good will won't do it." (FNN "World Business Update", 7/17)

"The threat [of Gramm-Rudman-Hollings sequestration] is fairly real," says STAN COLLENDER, director of Budget Policy at PRICE WATERHOUSE. Nonetheless Office of Management and Budget director RICHARD DARMAN's announcement today was little more than scare tactics, according to Collender. Darman was merely trying to show "how bad it could be if they don't act, so that Congress and the President are finally pushed into a serious negotiating posture, which they haven't really gotten to yet." SAN FRANCISCO (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Charles Schwab Corp. (NYSE, PSE: SCH) today reported net income for the quarter ended June 30, 1990 of $4.8 million, or 17 cents per share, compared with net income of $4.2 million, or 15 cents per share, earned in the second quarter of 1989.

Total revenues for the second quarter of 1990 were $154.7 million, up 11 percent from the second quarter last year. The increase is primarily due to higher interest revenue resulting from continued growth in client assets invested at Schwab. Customer credit balances increased 31 percent over the year-ago levels to $3.3 billion by June 30, 1990. At the same time, customer money market balances increased more than 33 percent to $6.0 billion, contributing to higher fee income.

During the second quarter of 1990, commission revenue increased to $61.3 million as retail trading activity improved 10 percent from the comparable period in 1989 to 13,000 average trades per day.

Expenses excluding interest were $88.4 million, up 11 percent from the second quarter of 1989. The growth in expenses resulted from higher compensation costs and increased expenditures to support the company's planned expansion of its branch office network, customer service facilities and product offerings.

During the second quarter, Schwab further expanded customer service with the completion of its Branch Service Extension Center, added the first of 15 new branch offices scheduled to open this year and purchased the customer accounts of New England Discount Brokerage Inc. These new accounts contributed about 60 trades per day to Schwab's average daily trade volume since their purchase in May.

For the six months ended June 30, 1990, the company reported net income of $8.5 million, or 31 cents per share, on revenues of $304.4 million compared with net income of $8.3 million, or 30 cents per share, on revenues of $261.4 million for the first six months of 1989.

The Charles Schwab Corp., through its principal operating subsidiary, Charles Schwab & Co. Inc., is the nation's leading provider of discount securities brokerage and related financial services. The company serves 1.4 million active investor accounts through 112 branches nationwide.

BALTIMORE (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Loyola Capital Corp. (NASDAQ: LOYC), the holding company for Loyola Federal Savings and Loan, today announced second quarter net income of $2.7 million ($.56 per share), compared with $2.7 million ($.54 per share) earned during the second quarter of 1989.

Six-month net income was $5 million ($1.03 per share) as compared with $5.3 million ($1.05 per share) earned during the comparable period last year. Average shares outstanding declined to 4,774,768 from 5,042,048 outstanding during the second quarter of 1989 primarily due to a corporate repurchase program.

Net interest income of $12.3 million for the second quarter was up 7.7 percent from $11.4 million earned during the second quarter of 1988. Year-to-date net interest income of $23.9 million rose 2.4 percent over 1989.

Several measures of loan quality continued to improve. At June 30, 1990, nonperforming assets totalled $27.4 million, 1.3 percent of total assets, compared with 1.4 percent a year earlier and 1.5 percent at the end of 1989. Loyola's provision for loan losses declined $1.6 million from $1.9 million during the second quarter of 1989. Net loan chargeoffs of $1.1 million declined 6.3 percent from the comparable period in 1989.

Joseph W. Mosmiller, chairman and chief executive officer, said that Loyola's consistent portfolio quality comes from a tradition of conservative lending in a stable market. "We've emphasized single-family mortgages and secured consumer loans," Mosmiller said, "and limited our exposure to the more volatile commercial sector." Mosmiller noted that the state of Maryland, home to more than 40 federal research laboratories and the National Security Agency, provides a diversified economy where income and employment levels remain high.

Mosmiller also said that Loyola's recent acquisition of five branch offices from Cartaret Savings Bank, to be completed in the third quarter, will further strengthen the deposit base by providing access to the Owings Mills and Parkville areas. "As a well-capitalized thrift, we now have unprecedented opportunities to selectively acquire deposits and assets as other institutions change strategies or downsize to meet capital requirements," Mosmiller said.

Loyola Capital Corp., headquartered in Baltimore, is the holding company for Loyola Federal Savings and Loan Association. Loyola's 31 retail branches are located throughout the state of Maryland and in the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area. With more than a century's experience in retail services and mortgage lending, Loyola has diversified through subsidiaries into real estate appraisal, auto financing, insurance and real estate development.

LOS ANGELES (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Hexcel Corporation (NYSE: HXL) has dropped all litigation against Euro-Composites and its sales of aramid honeycomb core, Euro-Composites announced today. Hexcel's cases had been pending in the International Trade Commission and courts in Europe.

Euro-Composites S.A. of Luxembourg has agreed not to import or sell its aramid honeycomb core in the United States for a period of five years, while its value-added or special process core will be restricted for only three years.

This settlement was agreed upon by both companies and is official upon acceptance by the ITC. The agreement provides that Euro- Composites, manufacturer of aramid honeycomb worldwide, will continue to supply honeycomb to its customers in Canada, Europe, and all other areas excluding the United States. In addition, Euro-Composites' customers worldwide can continue to import parts made of Euro-Composites honeycomb into the United States without any restrictions.

Euro-Composites will keep open its plant in Virginia and sale office in California because it plans to offer new products and services to its customers in the United States during the exclusion period. It will also be allowed to fulfill certain U.S. programs and orders placed before the date of the agreement.

Speaking on behalf of Euro-Composites, Rolf M. Alter, chairman of its executive board, said: "We are by no means out of business. It became impossible for us to continue this case given the enormous court costs and all the distractions that a case like this brings. We decided to settle rather than draining so much of our company's resources defending ourselves in court." The two competing companies had been in litigation in various forms for over five years.

BALTIMORE (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Nova Pharmaceutical Corporation (NASDAQ: NOVX), the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), and the National Cancer Institute (NCI) will collaborate in a $6.8 million grant to develop new drug delivery systems for the treatment of brain cancer. The five-year research and development program is funded by the NCI.

Researchers will build on previous work with biodegradable polymers that deliver anti-cancer drugs directly to the brain. Nova has been developing Gliadel(TM), a biodegradable polymer formed into a wafer containing the chemotherapeutic agent BCNU. Gliadel has been shown to be safe when implanted in 21 patients with brain tumors.

In 1985, researchers at Nova began working with Hopkins and MIT on a biodegradable polymer that safely dissolves in the body while releasing controlled amounts of chemotherapeutic drugs. Experiments with these polymers led to the commencement of clinical studies sponsored by Nova.

The principal target of these studies is the most common form of brain tumor called glioblastoma, which today is treated with aggressive surgery. Not all tumor tissue can be removed from the brain via surgery, so the remaining cancer cells must be killed by radiation and chemotherapy. However, in order to have any effect, the powerful chemotherapeutic drugs must be given in very high doses, causing severe side effects in patients. In addition, the blood brain barrier, a mass capillaries that bar some chemicals from entering the brain, poses major problems in treating patients.

Through the combined efforts of Nova, Johns Hopkins and MIT, the Gliadel wafer was developed to slowly release the chemotherapy agent BCNU into the brain. The wafers delivered a significantly higher concentration of the chemotherapy agent directly to the tumor site at much higher doses than was possible through intravenous injection of BCNU. Nova is currently conducting a 23-center, 220-patient clinical study to test effectiveness of Gliadel in treating brain tumors.

During the five-year NCI-sponsored collaboration, researchers plan to develop new polymers that can carry newly designed anti-cancer drugs, including NCI-developed experimental drugs, to the site of brain tumors.

Nova Pharmaceutical Corporation, based in Baltimore, is engaged in the research and development of new drugs and drug delivery systems, with a primary focus on central nervous system disorders and pain and inflammation.

WATERTOWN, MA (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Summit Technology, Inc. (NASDAQ: BEAM) announced today that the company's patented disposable corneal mask was successfully used in corneal sculpting (PRK) clinical trials. The procedures were performed at one of Summit's European clinical investigation sites.

By providing a template that erodes away as the excimer laser pulses, usage of the mask could result in a smoother cornea than conventional systems. Relative smoothness of the cornea may be a key factor in the quality of the corneal sculpting (PRK) procedure. In addition, the mask may provide the physician with greater ease and safety in performing the procedure.

The single use mask represents a significant disposables aftermarket for Summit. It is expected that the mask will be used in U.S. clinical trials before the end of 1990.

Summit Technology, Inc. has established the leadership position in designing, manufacturing and marketing medical excimer laser systems. A major focus of the company's business is in opthalmology where applications have been developed for the treatment of common vision disorders such as near-sightedness, far-sightedness, astigmatism and certain superficial diseases of the cornea. Summit is the only company using an excimer laser in multiple medical specialties and has received six approvals from the F.D.A. for clinical trials with its excimer laser systems. According to the Department of Health and Human Services there are about 140 million people with refractive disorders. To date, over 600 patients have been treated both domestically and internationally for all procedures.

ATLANTA (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Coca-Cola Company (NYSE: KO) reported today that earnings per common share increased 24.5 percent to $0.61 in the second quarter of 1990, and net income available to common shareholders rose 19.2 percent to $405 million. For the year-to-date, earnings per common share increased 20.0 percent to $1.02 and net income available to common shareholders rose 15.0 percent to $684 million. Worldwide gallon sales of soft drink concentrates and syrups increased 6 percent in the quarter and year- to-date. This strong volume growth comes on top of gains in the prior year of 10 percent and 9 percent in the second quarter and year-to-date, respectively.

Gallon sales of concentrates and syrups outside the United States advanced 8 percent in the quarter and year-to-date, on top of gains of 15 and 11 percent in the comparable periods of the prior year.

During the quarter, retail case sales in the Pacific advanced 10 percent. Gallon sales of concentrates and syrups in the Pacific grew 5 percent, impacted by bottler inventory accumulation in the second quarter of 1989. Gallon sales increased 8 percent in Japan and 9 percent in Australia during the second quarter of the current year.

Retail case sales internationally were strong, increasing 5 percent in the quarter and 7 percent year-to-date. During the quarter, international operating income benefited modestly from a 4 percent weaker U.S. dollar against key hard foreign currencies.

In the United States, bottle and can retail case sales grew 3 percent in the quarter while fountain gallon sales were in line with the prior year. In food stores, case sales volume for products of The Coca-Cola Company grew significantly faster than the soft drink industry, resulting in market share gains overall, and against our main domestic competitor.

Gallon sales of concentrates and syrups for the combined U.S. business advanced 1 percent, as slower restaurant industry traffic continues to impact fountain volume trends. However, early in the third quarter the Company's fountain business is achieving sales volume gains reflecting additional gallon sales coming from new distribution. These increases will accelerate during the balance of 1990.

Volume for the orange juice industry continues to be impacted by higher prices resulting from the freeze in Florida in December of 1989, which caused a substantially smaller crop and dramatic price increases. As a result, second quarter chilled and frozen juice and juice drink volumes declined 3 percent and 15 percent, respectively. However, volume for products in aseptic packagers increased 8 percent and total share for Minute Maid orange juice increased to 23.5 vs. 22.5 in the same period of 1989. Foods Division operating profits were ahead of the prior year and the company's internal plan during the quarter.

ROCHESTER, NY (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Service price increases of 3 to 9 percent for five high-volume electronic printing systems were announced today by Xerox Corporation. The increases, for U.S. customers, will be effective Sept. 1.

The electronic printing systems affected are the Xerox 4050, 4090, 4650, 8790 and 9790. The systems, generally used in medium and large data centers, range in printing speeds from 50-to 120-pages a minute.

FORT MILL, S.C. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Springs Industries (NYSE: SMI) today reported lower sales and earnings for the second quarter and first half of 1990.

Net sales in the second quarter were $485,361,000, down 0.7 percent from net sales of $488,933,000 in the second quarter of 1989. Net income was $10,660,000, or $.60 per share, down 36.2 percent from net income of $16,714,000, or $.94 per share, in the second quarter a year ago.

For the first six months of 1990, net sales were $944,562,000, down 1.7 percent from net sales of $960,795,000 in the first six months of 1989. Net income in the first half was $18,223,000, or $1.02 per share, down 43.1 percent from 1989 first half net income of $32,003,000, or $1.80 per share.

Walter Y. Elisha, chairman and chief executive officer of Springs, said, "Although our second quarter results show less of a decline from a year ago than the first quarter, there is no observable improvement in the sluggish market conditions that we have been experiencing all year. Our figures continue to reflect market weakness, especially in comparison with a quite favorable first half of last year.

"We face a real challenge in apparel fabrics where we have been compelled to curtail operations all year and to accelerate planned capacity reductions. The resulting costs as well as price erosion have caused this part of our business to operate at a loss throughout the year.

"Our home furnishings and industrial groups have continued to operate more fully than fabrics. Despite lackluster demand that keeps pressure on inventories, these groups have incurred only modest profit reductions as the year has progressed. While order positions have generally been below typical levels, this is partially due to understandably cautious purchasing by our retail customers in an uncertain economic climate.

"While there does not as yet seem to be any basis for predicting an upturn in business, we should benefit in the second half of the year from our usual seasonal factors. We therefore hope to incur less of a curtailment penalty in the remainder of the year despite our continued efforts to lower inventory levels. The year 1990 will not be a strong one for us or the industry, but we look for better comparisons in the months that remain."

DAYTON, OH (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Huffy Corporation (NYSE: HUF) today announced record sales and earnings for the second quarter ended June 30, 1990, marking the sixth consecutive quarterly record. Net sales for the period were $148,102,000 surpassing last year's record of $127,323,000 by more than 16 percent. Net earnings for the quarter were $7,052,000 versus $5,301,000 earned during the same period in 1989, reflecting a 33 percent improvement. Including the impact of the $30,000,000 Convertible Subordinated Debentures issued in July 1989, the fully diluted earnings per common share for the second quarter was $.72, up 20 percent compared to $.60 last year.

Net sales for the six months ended June 30, 1990 were up 14 percent, $276,930,000 compared to $243,089,000 reported for the same period last year. Net earnings for the current period were $13,105,000 as compared to $9,636,000 reported for the first six months of 1989, a 36 percent increase. Fully diluted earnings for the six month period were $1.35 per share, an increase of 23 percent compared to the $1.10 per share reported for the same period last year.

Harry A. Shaw III, chairman and chief executive officer, said "We are very pleased with our record-setting quarter and six months results. Our success throughout this period is primarily the result of the overall demand for our products and services, particularly the growing demand for our higher specification, all-terrain bicycles that produce better margins. In addition, the improvements that we have made to the productive capacity and flexibility of our factories enabled us to better service our customers."

Richard L. Molen, president and chief operating officer, added, "At the end of the first six months, all five Huffy companies have exceeded last year's sales volume and three of the five have improved upon last year's operating earnings. A strong performance by the Huffy Bicycle Company resulted in improved earnings for the Recreation and Leisure Time Products segment; while increased sales volume for Gerry(R) brand baby products favorably impacted earnings for the Juvenile Products segment. Earnings in the Services for Retail segment were somewhat below the levels achieved during the first six months of 1989, primarily as a result of investments at Washington Inventory Service, in anticipation of accelerated growth over the next few years.

"As reported earlier, second quarter results include the successful outcome of litigation with the U.S. Customs Service regarding the collection of excess duties on bicycle tire and tube combinations imported into the United States. We expect the duty refund resulting from this litigation, after consideration of legal fees and taxes, to be approximately $700,000, or $.07 per fully diluted share. This favorable impact was significantly offset during the second quarter by an increase in the company's reserve for bad debts equal to approximately $.04 per fully diluted share. We also recorded an increase to the bad debts reserve during the first quarter of 1990 which impacted operating results by $.04 per fully diluted share. These increases in the bad debt reserve are reflective of the negative financial news reported in recent months by several of the nation's more significant retailers."

Shaw concluded, "Although recent economic reports generate some concern, order backlog at the five Huffy companies appears to be stable. We believe the same favorable trends that we experienced in the first six months should continue into the third quarter. However, results will be adversely affected if the growth of the product categories in which we participate slows from current levels. Clearly, we are working to achieve another record year showing growth and profitability consistent with corporate objectives."

Huffy is a major manufacturer of bicycles, juvenile and basketball products and a nationwide supplier of assembly and inventory services to retailers.

STAMFORD, CONN. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Tosco Corp. reported today net income of $48.2 million, or $1.52 per fully diluted share, on revenues of $577.5 million for the second quarter ended June 30, 1990. These results include those of Seminole Fertilizer Corp., the acquisition of which was completed by Tosco on June 30, 1989. This compares to 1989 second quarter earnings of $28.0 million, or $.88 per fully diluted share, on revenues of $334.2 million. For the first half of 1990, Tosco earned $41.2 million, or $1.29 per share on revenues of $1,054.7 million compared to $20.0 million, or $.61 per share on revenues of $608.9 million in the same period of 1989.

Thomas D. O'Malley, Tosco Corp.'s chairman and chief executive officer, said, "Second quarter results were particularly gratifying not only on a net income basis, but on an operating basis for both Tosco Refining and Seminole Fertilizer. While both plants operated extremely well, the refinery, which enjoyed strong margins, had its best operational earning quarter in history. Seminole's earnings suffered from generally low but improving margins throughout the period and while not profitable during the quarter, it was reasonably profitable in June. The overall strong financial results were achieved net of a one-time $10 million accrual for costs associated with personnel reductions and costs of relocating Tosco Refining offices from both Santa Monica and Bakersfield, Calif., to Concord, Calif., close to the refinery." The Bakersfield closing, the result of a continuing strategic review, is being made in conjunction with the previously announced closing of the Santa Monica office.

Tosco also reported that previously announced negotiations for the sale of a 50 percent interest in Fort Meade Chemical Products, a phosphoric acid production venture, have been terminated.

Tosco Corp. is a large independent oil refiner engaged in refining and marketing wholesale petroleum products on the West Coast of the United States and is one of the largest U.S. manufacturers and wholesale distributors of phosphate-based fertilizer products.

#90198p5213 07/17/1990 ~PR Newswire

NEW YORK (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The examiner appointed to investigate the failed Revco D.S. leveraged buyout yesterday issued a preliminary report finding that the LBO of the drugstore chain may have left Revco with insufficient capital to conduct its business or rendered it insolvent.

In his report, filed with the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Akron, Ohio, Barry L. Zaretsky, counsel to international law firm Kelley Drye & Warren and a Brooklyn Law School professor, stated that causes of action as a result of the Revco LBO may include fraudulent conveyance and state law tort claims, as well as potential action against professionals involved in the failed LBO.

Zaretsky's findings, a landmark in bankruptcy law, represent the first time in which an independent party has been appointed to examine a junk bond financed LBO.

In his report, Zaretsky concludes that a basis exists for litigation against a panoply of defendants -- including former senior management of Revco, former Revco shareholders, current junk bond holders, various professionals involved in the LBO, and banks -- on the basis of fraudulent conveyance and multiple other legal theories.

However, the examiner recommends that no lawsuit should be brought immediately, in order not to interfere with the current Revco negotiations under way in bankruptcy court. To encourage the development of a consensual plan of reorganization, Zaretsky has set a deadline of November of this year for the estates to make substantial progress in confirming such a plan. If they are unable to do so by that time, he recommends that litigation should then be considered.

ATLANTA (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Micro Support Resource Corp. (MSR) today announced Help Desk Express, a complete family of personal computer support services designed to maximize productivity for all levels of corporate PC users.

This comprehensive PC "care plan," which can be tailored to meet the specific needs of individual corporations, is geared to contain the hidden costs associated with inadequate training and support.

Research conducted by international management consultants, Arthur D. Little Inc., has revealed that as much as 29 percent of the time spent at the corporate PC is wasted in resolving operational problems. MSR's extensive market research in both the United States and Europe corroborates this finding.

Help Desk Express consists of a number of interrelated services which cover all aspects of the selection, evaluation, testing, and on-going daily support of both existing and new hardware and software. This program is unique in two major respects: one, MSR's ability to capture and use its knowledge for future use allows it to offer fast, consistent service that benefits from the experience of all its users; and two, since the company has no involvement in the manufacture, creation, or sale of either hardware or software, it can provide totally unbiased service.

The central element and hub of the Help Desk Express plan is ANSWERLINE(R) a toll-free, fixed-cost, subscription service that is already providing support to more than 15,000 PC users of over 40 of the industry's most popular PC software packages. New services provided by Help Desk Express include software installation support, hardware maintenance call routing, software feature comparisons, product advisories, and advanced usage counseling.

The service is on-line from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Eastern time, and is staffed by highly trained support analysts augmented by an automated database that has been steadily expanded by MSR over the past five years.

This efficient approach to support means that, for the past three years, MSR has consistently been able to solve 95 percent of all problems within the first five minutes of a call. The remaining 5 percent are closely monitored by the system software, ensuring that the user is constantly informed of progress toward a solution.

The launch of Help Desk Express in the U.S. is being closely followed by its introduction in the United Kingdom, and then in mainland Europe later in 1990.

WHITE PLAINS, NY (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - A&W Brands, Inc. (NASDAQ: SODA) today announced net earnings of $2,502,000 or $.27 per share, on record net sales of $34,288,000 for the three-month period ending June 30, 1990. In the second quarter of 1989, A&W reported net earnings of $1,995,000 or $.22 per share, on net sales of $32,260,000. Operating cash flow for the second quarter of 1990 was $6,948,000 compared with $6,939,000 in the second quarter of last year.

For the first six months of 1990, A&W reported net earnings of $5,888,000 or $.64 per share, on net sales of $61,298,000. For the same period in 1989, A&W reported net earnings of $4,753,000 or $.52 per share, on net sales of $55,830,000. Operating cash flow for the first half of 1990 was $14,704,000 compared with $14,201,000 for the first half of 1989.

"Our 1990 second quarter sales were the highest in the company's history, increasing over 6 percent from the comparable 1989 period," said M.L. Lowenkron, president and chief executive officer. "Net earnings continued its steady growth, increasing 25 percent over 1989 results. Total unit sales for domestic bottlers grew 2 percent with our international business showing a substantial 49 percent increase over comparable 1989 results."

"The company's second quarter results were solid," added Lowenkron, "despite the negative impact caused by the transition period in the New York market, where we relicensed the A&W product line to New York Coca-Cola Bottling, Inc. This change, along with a similar relicensing in Miami, Florida to the Coca-Cola Enterprises (CCE) bottler, resulted in a one-time second quarter expense of $775,000. Over the longer term, we expect these new bottlers will provide a substantially higher level of sales in these key markets."

Lowenkron continued, "With our strong cash flows we paid the obligation on our non-compete agreement of $1,700,000 and reduced our senior debt by $1,500,000."

"The company had an outstanding first half of 1990," Lowenkron concluded, "with domestic volume up 5 percent, international volume up 50 percent, sales up 10 percent and earnings up 24 percent. In addition, we introduced Squirt in the entire state of Florida with CCE, began distribution of Vernors in Ontario, Canada with a Pepsi Cola bottler and strategically invested in new bottler systems in the New York and Miami markets. As a result, in the second half of 1990 we expect to achieve further revenue growth with corresponding excellent earnings."

A&W Brands, Inc., headquartered in White Plains, markets nine soft drinks in five flavor categories. The brands include A&W Root Beer, diet A&W Root Beer, A&W Cream Soda, A&W diet Cream Soda, Squirt, Diet Squirt, Vernors, diet Vernors and Country Time Lemonade in ready-to- drink form.

CINCINNATI (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The E.W. Scripps Company (NASDAQ: EWSCA) today reported a second quarter net loss of $162,000, including a non-recurring pre-tax charge of $36.4 million which reduced net income by $23.7 million, or 31 cents per share. Excluding the charge, net income would have been $23.5 million, 31 cents per share, vs. $25.2 million, 32 cents per share in the year-ago quarter.

The charge, announced June 8, is related to payments the company will make to Persis Corporation as a result of an agreement to terminate joint operations between the company's Knoxville News-Sentinel and The Knoxville Journal, owned by Persis. Under the joint operating agreement, which will terminate in December 1991, The News-Sentinel provides sales, production and distribution for The Journal.

Excluding the charge, consolidated operating income declined 1.4 percent to $57.8 million and operating cash flow (operating income plus depreciation and amortization) increased 1.2 percent to $85.1 million. Depreciation and amortization increased 7.3 percent to $27.4 million. Consolidated revenues grew 3.4 percent to $332 million.

Operating income declined 9.3 percent to $34.9 million, excluding the charge related to the Knoxville joint operating agreement. Depreciation and amortization increased 16.4 percent to $8.3 million, largely attributable to a new production facility for The Evansville Courier, completed in late 1989, and the acquisiton in 1989 of Sundance Publishers. Costs for newsprint and ink decreased 3.8 percent to $32.7 million.

Total publishing division revenues increased 1.6 percent to $217 million.

Newspaper advertising revenues were unchanged at $137 million. Broken down by category, local increased 0.9 percent to $64.4 million and classified increased 2.1 percent to $47.6 million. Preprints decreased 6.4 percent to $16.1 million and national decreased 5.3 percent to $9.0 million.

Revenues from the licensing of comic characters were off 5.6 percent to $15.3 million.

Operating income increased 15.9 percent to $21 million, largely due to improved results at the three Fox affiliates in Tampa, Phoenix and Kansas City. Total operating costs decreased slightly to $41.6 million. Costs for syndicated television programming declined 1.9 percent to $11.4 million. Depreciation and amortization decreased 11.7 percent to $3.9 million.

LOWELL, MASS. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Wang Laboratories Inc. (AMEX: WAN) today announced it will offer CALS/CE (Computer-aided Acquisition and Logistics Support/Concurrent Engineering) computer systems that provide customers with tools to convert computerized text, graphics, and document images into CALS/CE-compliant data streams and to create native-mode CALS/CE information.

"Wang's CALS/CE strategy is to help government and industry cut costs and raise productivity by offering products that conform to worldwide standards so data can be easily shared among multivendor systems and applications," said Dr. Paul Demko, Jr., vice president, Wang Government Applications Engineering.

The U.S. Department of Defense CALS/CE initiative requires its contractors to generate and provide weapons systems documentation as computerized information, rather than printed on paper.

In developing its CALS/CE hardware and software products, Wang is working with three strategic partners: SoftQuad Inc. of Toronto, Ontario, to incorporate text creation, editing and validation facilities; Avalanche Development Co. of Boulder, Colo., to supply text file conversion and automated mark-up capabilities; and Rosetta Technologies Inc. of Portland, Ore., to provide the ability to access, view, interpret, and convert graphics and images into CALS/CE format. Wang will develop a user interface that integrates SoftQuad, Avalanche, Rosetta, and Wang applications.

"Our CALS/CE products will allow customers to convert millions of valuable documents stored on Wang VS and OIS systems for use in CALS/CE environments. These products also offer native-mode CALS capabilities which enable end-users to produce, access, and distribute information in industry-standard format. This flexibility will facilitate electronic exchange of CALS-compliant data across government and industry enterprises " said Demko.

Wang's initial CALS/CE product, available first quarter, calender year 1991, will be priced under $20,000 per workstation, including hardware and bundled, installed software. Wang CALS/CE software and consulting services will also be available separately. The systems will be based on industry-standard processors from Intel Corp. and UNIX operating systems from The Santa Cruz Operation Inc. Target markets are government, defense and aerospace manufacturers, and air transportation companies.

"Our solution will meet needs ranging from the Department of Defense and its major contractors to the small- and medium-sized businesses that play important roles in government procurements and now must comply with the CALS/CE initiative," said Ian Adam, Wang's director of Manufacturing Applications Engineering. "Cost-effective pricing, combined with native-mode CALS/CE data creation capabilities, will ease compliance efforts and will move government and industry closer to realizing the benefits of CALS/CE, which is a key component of our manufacturing marketing strategy."

The CALS/CE initiative comprises a family of ISO and ANSI text and graphics standards mandated by the U.S. Department of Defense. SGML, a key component of the CALS/CE initiative, was declared the federal information processing standard (FIPS) by the U.S. Department of Commerce in 1988. SGML is also a full standard defined by the International Organization for Standardization as ISO 8879.

MINNEAPOLIS (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Inter-Regional Financial Group, Inc. (NYSE: IFG) (IFG) today reported results for the second quarter and first half, ended June 30, 1990.

For the second quarter, net earnings were $1,492,000, or 18 cents per share, compared with $2,645,000, or 34 cents per share, in the prior-year period. Net revenues (revenues less interest expense) totaled $63,186,000 versus $60,836,000 in 1989.

For the 1990 first half, net earnings totaled $1,641,000, or 19 cents per share, compared with $1,831,000, or 23 cents per share, last year. Net revenues rose to $120,680,000 from $113,780,000 in 1989.

According to Irving Weiser, IFG president and chief executive officer, "Like the rest of the securities industry, IFG's investment banking revenues are lagging behind last year. However, despite lower stock exchange volumes, our commission revenues have increased, and net interest income continues to grow."

"For both the second quarter and first six months of 1990, higher expenses at IFG's operating units more than offset the positive effects of increased net revenues and declining expenses at the parent company. The higher expenses at our securities firms are primarily the result of broker recruiting programs and installation of new communication and market data services," said Weiser.

Weiser continued, "The investments we have made in recruiting and technology support the key thrust of our two securities firms: to offer exceptional, client-based services in their respective markets. By knowing their customers and communities, Dain Bosworth and Rauscher Pierce Refsnes will be firmly established as strong, regional brokerage firms."

Inter-Regional Financial Group provides full-service securities and investment banking services in 20 states through its subsidiaries, Dain Bosworth Incorporated, Minneapolis, and Rauscher Pierce Refsnes, Dallas. PHILADELPHIA (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - CoreStates Financial Corp (NASDAQ: CSFN) today reported net income applicable to common stock of $62,190,000 or $1.14 per share for the second quarter and $122,558,000 or $2.24 per share for the first six months of 1990.

The second quarter earnings reflected a return on average assets of 1.11 percent and a return on average common equity of 17.07 percent.

In the second quarter of 1989 net income applicable to common stock was $1.08 per share, normalized to reflect the underlying operating results. Normalized net income applicable to common stock for the first six months of 1989 was $2.15 per share.

The 1989 results reflect the March 5, 1990, acquisition of First Pennsylvania Corp., accounted for as a pooling of interests. On a formally restated basis, also reflecting the retroactive adoption of FAS 96, Accounting for Income Taxes, 1989 results were $1.37 per share for the quarter and $2.74 per share for six months. The effect of the FAS 96 adoption is to recognize in 1989's results previously unbooked First Pennsylvania tax benefits.

Terrence A. Larsen, chairman, said the 1990 second quarter results reflected continuing progress toward the achievement of planned efficiencies from the First Pennsylvania merger, which he said remains "right on track."

He said the company met all its second-quarter target dates for interim steps in consolidating First Pennsylvania operations into CoreStates. While these were not expected to result in substantive impacts on second quarter earnings, they will begin to be felt in the second half as the consolidation program is completed, he said.

"More to the point for this quarter, we extended CoreStates' consistent pattern of improvements in net interest income and strong growth in revenues from fee-based services," Larsen added. He said CoreStates' net financial margin, one of the strongest among large banking organizations at 5.35 percent, was up strongly from 1989 and also improved by a few basis points over the first quarter of 1990.

Non-performing assets at June 30 were $264.3 million or 1.2 percent of total assets and 1.6 percent of total loans, an increase of $55.6 million from March 31. The increases brought the total of domestic non-performing assets to $218.1 million, or 0.96 percent of total assets.

Larsen said the increase reflected effects of a softening regional real estate market. He said the problem loans remain "well within the range of manageability, and on the basis of present evidence they do not appear to signal any major potential impacts on future earnings."

Consolidated loan loss provision was $30.6 million for the quarter and $61.1 million for the first six months of 1990, compared to a restated

$31.3 million and $66.7 million respectively in 1989. Net charge-offs were $31.1 million for the quarter and $341.7 million for the first six months. The six-month charge-offs included $260.9 million in connection with special first-quarter actions to deal with First Pennsylvania's former large portfolio of less developed-country (LDC) loans. The market value of remaining LDC loans now exceeds their $46.2 million book value, making it unnecessary and redundant to carry reserves on LDC loans.

Reserves for loan losses at June 30 were $221.3 million, or 101.5 percent of domestic non-performing assets.

Consolidated total assets at June 30 were $22.8 billion, including consolidated net loans of $17 billion. Consolidated total deposits were $15.1 billion, and common shareholders' equity amounted to $1.5 billion at the end of the quarter.

WALTHAM, MA (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Thermo Process Systems Inc. (AMEX: TPI) announced today that its TPS Technologies Inc. subsidiary has received several contracts totaling more than $1.5 million for its soil-remediation services. These services are conducted using the company's unique mobile soil-remediation units (SRUs), which thermally remove petroleum-based contaminants on site.

Under contract to a major airline service company, TPS has begun to process nearly 3,000 tons of soil at Washington National Airport. The soil was contaminated by three leaking gasoline tanks at the site of a former refueling station for the airport's ground vehicles. Several thousand tons of soil from tank fields operated by one of the world's largest airlines will also be treated at the site.

An SRU recently arrived in Miami, Fla., to begin treating approximately 8,000 tons of contaminated soil for a heavy equipment distributor. A contract has also been signed with a power company in Virginia for which TPS will process close to 10,000 tons of soil contaminated by leaking tanks at multiple sites.

Thermo Process Systems designs, manufactures, and sells advanced custom-engineered thermal processing systems for the incineration of hazardous wastes and the automated heat treating of metal parts. The company also provides services for the on-site remediation of hazardous waste and petroleum-laden soils, in additon to a comprehensive range of metallurgical processes. MANCHESTER, MICH. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Johnson Controls, Inc. (NYSE: JCI) has established a building recycling program at its plastics group office in Manchester. The program is now entering its third week, and employee participation is high. It was initiated by an "ad hoc" committee of concerned employees.

"We started with two objectives," explained Rebecca Ozuch, marketing administrator and recycling committee member. "First we canvassed communities to understand what they were doing so we could put this information into write-ups that our employees could use to participate in existing area programs. We wanted to make it easier, but not to duplicate what was already out there. Second, we wanted to put something together to recycle the greatest components of our office waste."

Within the building, this meant the involvement of a number of departments including purchasing, maintenance and janitors, human resources, and engineering. An outside waste hauler had to be contacted (potential haulers had to guarantee that no material would end up in a landfill). And, a physical recycling system had to be established. Before any of this however, the first task was to determine what would be included in the recycling system.

"Office and computer paper were first on our list," said Ozuch. "By far, these are the largest part of any office waste stream. After that, we wanted to include P.E.T and H.D.P.E. plastics, because we are in those businesses."

The Johnson Controls program works like this: Each employee has been given a box to collect recyclable paper (acceptable types of paper are listed right on the box). When these are full, the employees take the contents to central collection bins. In turn, these are emptied by building maintenance into larger receptacles, to be picked up by the contract hauler. Plastic containers -- which employees may bring in from home -- are dropped into their own collection bins and take a similar path to the recycling truck.

Johnson Controls is the largest manufacturer of P.E.T. containers in the world. Currently, the company is building a $3.3 million P.E.T. recycling facility in Novi. It will have an initial capacity to recycle about 20 million pounds of P.E.T. each year (the equivalent of 140 million 2-liter soft drink bottles). Johnson Controls employs nearly 2,500 people in Michigan, almost 1,000 of which are employed in Washtenaw County.

NORTH PALM BEACH, FL (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - FPL Group, Inc. (NYSE: FPL) announced today that it plans to add a leveraged Employee Stock Ownership Plan (ESOP) feature to the existing employee thrift plans of FPL Group and its wholly owned subsidiary, Florida Power & Light Company.

Under the leveraged ESOP, the company plans to provide shares for thrift plan matching contributions by selling shares of new issue FPL Group common stock to an ESOP Trust.

The ESOP Trust is expected to borrow up to $400 million in order to purchase new shares of FPL Group common stock on or before Jan. 1, 1991. The price per share will be equal to the closing price on the New York Stock Exchange on the trading day immediately preceding the day of issuance.

The ESOP Trust borrowing may be funded by the sale of company assets or by a loan from FPL Group, an affiliate or a third party. The trustee will repay the loan with dividends paid on FPL Group common stock held by the Trust and with employer matching contributions made in accordance with the terms of the thrift plans.

"The leveraged ESOP is a preferable alternative for raising capital to finance the utility's construction program than selling new shares through an underwritten public offering," Joe L. Howard, FPL Group vice president and chief financial officer, said. "The issuance of the shares to the leveraged ESOP will replace the public sales of common equity that, under current plans, were scheduled for 1990 and 1991.

"The thrift plans are an integral component of the corporation's compensation program, and by establishing a leveraged ESOP, we are demonstrating our commitment to continue to provide this benefit to employees," Howard added.

FPL Group is a holding company whose principal subsidiary is Florida Power & Light Company, one of the largest investor-owned electric utilities in the nation. FPL Group's non-utility operations include insurance, non-utility energy production, agriculture, technical services, real estate, and cable television. FPL Group's common stock is traded on the New York, Tokyo and London Stock Exchanges.

KING OF PRUSSIA, PA. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Nuclear Regulatory Commission staff has cited the Northeast Nuclear Energy Company (NNEC) for failure to promptly identify and correct conditions adverse to quality at their facility. As a result, Millstone Unit 1 operated for extended periods of time while not complying with certain requirements specified in the technical specifications to its operating license. The NRC staff proposes to fine NNEC $25,000.

Although the NRC staff recognized that the safety significance of both adverse conditions was low, it believes the failure to promptly identify and correct them to be sufficiently serious to merit this civil penalty.

The first condition involved incorrect settings on a mechanism intended to detect a large steam line break and the resultant high steam flow and to send a signal to automatically shut down the reactor and close safety valves to hold the radioactive steam in the containment building. The actual settings would have provided these automatic actions when steam flow reached 123 percent of normal, rather than the specified 120 percent. This condition existed since December 1976. A NNEC engineer, following up on a letter from the reactor manufacturer in June 1986, found the error and reported it to plant management in April 1987. It took NNEC until February 1990 to verify his calculations, and when the plant staff was informed in March, it shut the plant down and corrected the setting.

The second condition, which existed since 1978, involved Millstone plant staff performing required monthly tests on a gas turbine emergency power generator with an applied electric load of about 6 megawatts, when the plant technical specifications required the gas turbine to be tested at rated load which was determined to be almost 10 megawatts. The error in the test conditions was discovered in March of this year and reported to the NRC. When the gas turbine was tested at rated load, it performed satisfactorily.

In a letter informing the utility of the enforcement action, Thomas T. Martin, Regional Administrator of NRC Region I, said, "These failures demonstrate weaknesses in your program for prompt identification and resolution of safety significant deficiencies."

The State of Connecticut has been informed of this proposed enforcement action.

PRINCETON, NJ (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - UJB Financial Corp. (NYSE: UJB) reported net income of $6.4 million for the quarter ended June 30, 1990, compared with $30.8 million for the second quarter of 1989. Net income per share for the quarter was $.13 compared with $.68 per share for the same period a year ago.

The decline in second quarter earnings is principally the result of a higher provision for loan losses. For the three months ended June 30, 1990 the loan loss provision amounted to $40.0 million, compared with $11.3 million for the same three-month period during 1989.

For the first six months of 1990, net income was $31.1 million, compared to $62.7 million for the first half of 1989. Net income per share for the six months ending June 30, 1990 was $.68 compared to $1.39 for the comparable time last year.

"Non-performing assets have increased as a result of a general slowdown in the regional economy and a continued softness in the real estate market. We have increased the level of the provision for loan losses again this quarter in recognition of these factors," T. Joseph Semrod, UJB chairman, president, and chief executive officer said. "We cannot predict with any accuracy when the real estate market will return to more normal levels."

"We believe the overall economy of our region is fundamentally sound," Semrod observed. "Certainly we are not seeing the high level of growth we experienced throughout most of the eighties.

"However, the diversity of the regional economy provides a stability which should prevent any major deterioration such as that experienced in other parts of the country. Our challenge, at UJB Financial, is to support this economy by offering quality services to quality businesses in a way which will enable us to outperform our peers."

Total loans at June 30, 1990, were $8.6 billion, up 9.1 percent from $7.9 billion the prior year. Total commercial loans at the end of the second quarter were $4.8 billion, up 7.6 percent over June 30, 1989. Installment loans were $1.8 billion compared to $1.5 billion a year ago, an increase of 15.5 percent.

At the end of the second quarter, non-performing assets, including other real estate owned, were $288.7 million or 3.34 percent of total loans. This compares to $120.6 million or 1.53 percent a year ago, and $244.6 million or 2.91 percent at the end of the first quarter this year.

The provision for loan losses for the quarter ended June 30, 1990 was $40.0 million compared to $20.0 million for the first quarter of 1990 and $11.3 million for the second quarter of 1989. At June 30, 1990 the allowance for loan losses was $144.3 million, or 1.68 percent of total loans.

RICHMOND, VA (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Reynolds Metals Company (NYSE: RLM) today reported second quarter net income of $103.0 million or $1.75 per common share, compared with $150.7 million or $2.55 per share in the second quarter a year ago.

Revenues in the latest period were $1,545.2 million compared with $1,676 million in the second quarter of 1989.

Earnings for the second quarter represented a 33 percent improvement over the first quarter of this year.

William O. Bourke, chairman and chief executive officer, said, "We expect our business to continue to improve in the second half of the year, with a very strong 1991, as demand increases and we begin to see results of our companywide expansion and improvement projects.

"Our flexible packaging and consumer product businesses are exceptionally strong, and we continue to see robust sales in the aluminum can, aircraft and distributor markets," he said.

"While the price of aluminum ingot has improved in recent months," Mr. Bourke said," for the second quarter as a whole it still was down significantly from a year ago."

Mr. Bourke noted that shipments were up more than 10 percent over the first quarter and nearly even with those of the second quarter of 1989, "indicating a continued healthy demand for aluminum despite the slump in the automotive and construction markets and the current slowdown in the electrical cable business."

The company's shipments in the latest period totaled 354,800 metric tons compared with 360,200 in the year ago quarter and 319,700 in the first quarter of this year.

For the first half, the company reported net income of $180.7 million or $3.06 per share, compared with $275.2 million or $4.70 a share, fully diluted, in the same 1989 period. First- half revenues totaled $2,941.9 million compared with $3,131.5 million a year ago.

Total shipments in the first half were 674,500 metric tons compared with 673,100 in the first half of 1989.

ATLANTA (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - A subsidiary of Southern Electric International (SEI) has been selected from a field of 78 bidders by Virginia Power as one of three firms that will provide the Richmond-based utility with additional generating capacity to meet growing demands in that utility's service area.

SEI - an affiliate of The Southern Company - designs, constructs, owns and operates cogeneration and independent power production facilities in the United States. SEI also provides a broad range of technical services to industrial companies and utilities outside the Southern electric system.

Other Southern Company subsidiaries include Alabama Power, Georgia Power, Gulf Power, Mississippi Power, Savannah Electric, Southern Company Services, and The Southern Investment Group.

SEI will furnish Virginia Power with 198 megawatts of capacity from a coal-fired generating unit that will be built north of Richmond, Va. The unit is expected to be operational in November 1996. SEI will own 50 percent of the facility.

Energy Resources and Logistics of Baltimore, will also participate in the project. The generating unit will be a qualifying facility under the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act (PURPA). PURPA was designed to ensure alternative sources of energy and to encourage conservation.

"We're very proud to have been selected to provide a major portion of the generating capacity which Virginia Power will purchase as a result of its 1989 solicitation," said Jeff Hamburg, president of SEI. "We think our selection from such a competitive field was a result of our attention to the specific needs of our client and our ability to draw on the resources of The Southern Company."

SEI will arrange financing, provide overall project management, and operate the unit. Energy Resources and Logistics will oversee fuel purchases and delivery, Hamburg said. The total value of the project is estimated at $300 million.

In August 1989, Virginia Power solicited competitive bids for more than 1,000 megawatts of capacity to come on line between 1995 and 1997. Some 448 megawatts of that capacity will be provided by independent generating sources. In addition, Virginia Power plans to build and operate a 400 megawatt coal-fired unit scheduled for completion in 1997.

PHILADELPHIA (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Philadelphia Electric Co. (NYSE: PE) said today it would not contest the $75,000 civil penalty proposed by the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission for technical specification violations at the Peach Bottom Atomic Power Station.

Dickinson M. Smith, PE senior vice president, Nuclear, said the company agreed with the NRC that the violations lacked aggressive initiation of corrective action and it will pay the penalty.

However, he pointed out that the basic violation involved technical specifications -- specifically, ei?neering evaluation of design flow rates of the plant's emergency service water (ESW) system -- rather than any operational error.

The ESW system provides cooling for the plant's emergency core cooling system equipment.

The system, as noted by the NRC, would only be activated during extreme accident conditions at the plant and would be questionable under the worst case design assumptions and environmental conditions.

Smith said that if such conditions ever had been present, he was confident that alternative actions could have been taken to maintain proper cooling for plant equipment.

He said PE was pleased that the NRC noted that once the deficiency was recognized the company's corrective actions were "prompt and comprehensive " and he noted that the company has assured the NRC it will accelerate its previously scheduled program of engineering reviews of other plant systems.

Smith said that "Peach Bottom's overall record since its restart more than a year ago has been that of a well-operated nuclear power plant that continues to improve, month by month, reliably providing more than 2000 megawatts of electricity to homes and businesses in our region."

Peach Bottom Unit No. 2 was restarted in April 1989, after being shut down since March 1987. It began producing power in May, reached full power in August and generated 3.7 million megawatt-hours (mwh) of electricity for the year.

In 1990, the unit to date has operated at a capacity factor of 63 percent of full power and has produced 3.1 mwh of electricity.

The Steel Group reported second quarter sales of $124,511,000 and operating earnings of $18,165,000. This compared with sales of $116,497,000 and operating earnings of $13,606,000 for the 1989 second quarter.

The 178,000 tons of second quarter plate steel shipments represented a 12 percent increase from the 159,000 tons shipped for the same quarter last year. Although the average price per ton was lower by 4-1/2 percent, operating earnings were 34 percent higher.

"Higher volume certainly helped earnings," said Wilson. "In addition, we increased productivity and benefited from reduced energy and raw materials costs. Our quality performance also contributed to earnings," he said.

The Steel Group backlog at the end of the quarter was $115,783,000 compared to $177,930,000 at the same time last year. Wilson said the backlog, which usually reflects orders that will be shipped within a year, was given an unusual boost by a five-year, $74 million order in 1988. The drop in backlog since then in part reflects shipments made against that order. Also, higher productivity levels and a concentration on the timely shipping of products have reduced our lead times. "The average weekly volume of new orders does not reflect a weakening in our plate steel markets," said Wilson. "There may be some seasonal adjustment due to vacations in customer shops, but we do not anticipate any major change in our markets through the balance of the year," he said.

The continuing recovery underway in the natural gas industry fueled a 51 percent improvement in sales for the Corrosion Protection Group. Operating earnings were almost three times better than in the second quarter of last year. Second quarter sales were $26,773,000 compared to $17,722,000 for the same quarter in 1989.

Operating earnings were $2,324,000 compared to $787,000 one year ago. The backlog at the end of the quarter was $20,933,000 compared to $12,569,000 at the end of the 1989 second quarter.

"We are especially optimistic about future business. The current volume and backlog have been generated without receiving the pipe coating orders for the major pipelines now being considered for construction," said Wilson.

The Safety Products Group second quarter sales of $20,499,000 and operating earnings of $1,522,000 were similar to the $20,837,000 in sales and $1,692,000 in earnings reported in the same quarter last year. Wilson said that second quarter operating earnings this year were reduced as a result of costs associated with the closing of old facilities.

Lukens earlier this month announced the construction of a modern, highly efficient glass bead production plant near Lexington, Ky., which will be operational in the spring of 1991.

The Safety Products Group backlog at the end of the quarter was $6,360,000 compared to $5,467,000 at the same time last year.

The Diversified Group had second quarter sales of $7,087,000 and operating earnings of $215,000. By comparison, sales were $7,633,000 and operating earnings were $1,776,000 for the same quarter last year. Second quarter operating earnings last year, however, included a gain of $935,000 from the sale of a subsidiary. The backlog at the end of the quarter was $3,166,000 compared to $3,778,000 one year ago.

Wilson said, "Considering the performance of Lukens through the first half of this year, we have an excellent opportunity to improve on last year's results. Steel industry plate shipments are running at an annualized rate slightly higher than earlier forecasts. Steel service centers -- the largest buyers of steel plate -- report healthy plate shipments and lean inventories. Assuming no change in this situation, steel plate shipments should continue at a good level.

"Our corrosion protection sales are almost half again higher than last year and the backlog at the end of the quarter was up from the first quarter. While safety products sales are flat, improved pricing should generate better earnings than last year."

Lukens Inc. is a Fortune 500 company whose subsidiaries supply plate steel reflective and industrial glass beads, highway safety products, pipe coating and cathodic corrosion protection services, woven wire cloth, heavy materials handling equipment and transportation services to industrial, energy, construction, defense and transportation markets.

BOSTON (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Citizens Energy Corporation today announced that its subsidiary, Citizens Corporation, has repurchased the interest in Citizens Corporation acquired by Apache Corporation in December 1988.

Citizens Corporation, a Boston-based marketer of crude oil, petroleum products, natural gas, and electric power, reacquired the interest from Apache on Friday, July 13, for an undisclosed cash amount.

The shares of common stock had represented 50 percent of Citizens Corporation's equity, and the transfer restores Citizens Energy Corporation's sole ownership of the company. On June 5, Citizens Corporation exercised its right to repurchase the shares.

In a joint statement announcing the transaction, Citizens Energy Corporation Chairman Michael LeM. Kennedy and Citizens Corporation Chairman William E. James said, "We part company with Apache on an amicable basis. We believe that the interests of Citizens Energy and the commercial operations of the Citizens Corporation subsidiaries are best served at this time by the restoration of Citizens Energy's ownership.

"We will continue to work with Apache in areas where we have ongoing commitments, such as Citizens Energy's oil exploration and production partnerships with ARCO and Apache International in the Congo."

Citizens Energy Corporation, a non-profit organization established in 1979 by Joseph P. Kennedy II and William E. James to provide energy and other forms of assistance to low-income people in the U.S. and other nations, incorporated Citizens Corporation in 1983.

Michael LeM. Kennedy became chairman of Citizens Energy following his brother's election to the U.S. House of Representatives. Since its founding, Citizens Energy has expended approximately $26 million in assistance programs.

Citizens Corporation is the sole shareholder of Citizens Gas Supply Corporation (domestic natural gas supply and marketing); Citizens Resources Corporation (international petroleum marketing); Citizens Fuels Corporation (retail heating oil distribution); Citizens Power & Light Corporation (electric power marketing); and Citizens Health Corporation (marketing of mail-order pharmaceutical distribution).

Related companies include Citizens Housing Access, a subsidiary of Citizens Energy, and Citizens Conservation, an independent non-profit energy-conservation engineering company.

MINNEAPOLIS (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Consul Restaurant Corporation (NASDAQ: CNSL), the largest franchisee of Chi-Chi's Mexican restaurants, today reported increased net profits for the fourth quarter and fiscal year ended May 31.

Revenues for the fourth quarter rose 13 percent to $23.5 million from $20.8 million a year ago. Net profits totaled $515,000, or 4 cents per share, compared with $476,000, also 4 cents per share, in last year's quarter.

For the fiscal year, revenues reached $88.3 million, up 10 percent from $80 million in 1989. Net profit was $247,000, equal to 2 cents per share, versus $65,000 last year, or 1 cent per share.

"We are pleased that we achieved our objectives of improving revenues and profits for the year while contending with a more difficult economy and increased competition in our markets," said James H. Crivits, chairman and chief executive officer. "We also made important progress toward achieving our long-range financial and organizational objectives by continuing to improve our control of operating expenses as a percent of sales, to build up comparable-unit revenues, and to strengthen overall staff. Our energies in fiscal 1991 will remain focused on further improving our profitability."

For the year, restaurant operating expenses as a percent of sales were down slightly from the previous year. Meanwhile, comparable-unit revenues increased almost 3 percent. The remaining growth came from new units. Four Chi-Chi's dinner houses were opened -- three in the Minneapolis-St. Paul market and one in Toronto -- and three new Chi- Chi's el Pronto! quick-service units were added -- one each in Minneapolis, La Crosse, Wis. and Saskatoon, Sask. Consul's year-old Foodservice Division brought in three new corporate accounts in fiscal 1990.

Consul operates 51 Chi-Chi's Mexican restaurants and one Magnolia's seafood dinner house in the Upper Midwest and Canada. Its common shares are traded on the NASDAQ National Market System.

RIVERHEAD, NY (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Suffolk Bancorp (NASDAQ: SUBK) today released the results of its operations during the second quarter of 1990. Net income was $1,400,000, up 7.5 percent compared with $1,302,000 posted during the same period last year. Earnings-per- share were $0.42 versus $0.39 for the quarter. Net income for the first six months was $2,808,000, up 5.4 percent from $2,664,000 during the first six months of 1989. Earnings per share for the half were $0.85 versus $0.80 for 1990 and 1989 respectively. A financial summary appears on the back of this page.

President and C.E.O. Edward J. Merz commented, "We are quite pleased with the company's performance during the first half of 1990. This is the best second quarter and first half in the history of Suffolk Bancorp. Our net interest margin continued to widen during the past six months, adding significantly to net interest income even as assets have grown only slightly. While loan demand in our service area has remained slack, our historically conservative lending practices have enabled us to avoid the kind of losses which have plagued our industry during the past 12 months, therefore protecting our earnings. We are hopeful that the stock market will recognize our comparative stability, and distinguish our stock from less consistent performers."

NEW YORK (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Dime Savings Bank of New York, FSB (NYSE: DME), today reported net income of $10.1 million, or $0.44 per share, in the 1990 second quarter, compared with $5 million, or $0.22 per share, in the second quarter of 1989. Income before extraordinary item was $9.1 million, or $0.40 per share, compared with $2.2 million, or $0.10 per share, in the 1989 second quarter.

Richard D. Parsons, president and chief executive officer, commented, "Despite the continuing rise in non-performing assets, The Dime remains solidly profitable. Core earnings (income before loan and securities sales and before taxes and extraordinary item) for the 1990 second quarter were $13.6 million, compared with $6.3 million in the 1989 second quarter.

"The principal contributing factor to the improved results," Parsons noted "was an increase of $17.9 million in the bank's net interest income; from $46.4 million in the quarter ended June 30, 1989, to $64.3 million for the second quarter of 1990. Partially offsetting this increase were a $4.8 million higher loan loss provision and a $6.4 million rise in other operating expense."

The bank reported net income for the first half of 1990 of $30.4 million, or $1.33 per share, which compares to $15.5 million, or $0.68 per share, for the same period last year. Core earnings for the first half of 1990 totaled $36.4 million, almost twice the $18.7 million reported for the six months ended June 30, 1989.

The Dime's loan loss provision for the second quarter was $9 million, of which $6.8 million was related to the commercial real estate and multi-family loan portfolios. Commenting on this provision, Parsons said "We deemed it prudent to add to our reserves for commercial real estate and multi-family loans in light of the further deterioration of the regional market for these types of properties and the $31.6 million increase in commercial real estate and multi-family non-performing assets during the quarter." He noted that the average size of commercial real estate and multi-family loans in The Dime's portfolio was a relatively low $1.4 million and that the bank had only $135.1 million of construction loans.

DEERFIELD, Ill., July 17 /PRNewswire/ -- Premark International, Inc. (NYSE: PMI) today announced a $25.3 million pretax charge in the second quarter for manufacturing restructuring and organizational changes at its Tupperware unit.

The charge will reduce second quarter earnings by approximately $15.9 million or $.50 per share, but the company expects to generate savings of approximately $25.8 million pretax through 1992 and $12.5 million pretax annually after that as a result of the actions associated with the charge.

"Tupperware's new management team is taking aggressive action to reduce manufacturing and operating costs, strengthen its sales and marketing functions, improve the company's ability to develop new products, and streamline the headquarters organization," said Warren L. Batts, Premark chairman and chief executive officer.

"These actions will help improve results in the near term, as well as position the company to generate increased growth and broaden its customer base over the long term."

Batts added that while Premark earnings for the quarter will decline substantially compared to 1989 as a result of the charge, the company does not expect to report a loss for the quarter. Full results for the second quarter will be released in about two weeks.

Major actions associated with the charge include a recently completed workforce reduction of more than 300 in Tupperware's U.S. manufacturing plants and the closing of the company's Rhode Island facility. In addition reorganization of the Orlando, Fla., headquarters operation will reduce management layers, eliminate duplication and trim staff by about 15 percent.

Restructuring plans also include strengthening Tupperware's U.S. field sales management and marketing organizations, consolidating all new-product development functions for North America, expansion of new product development capabilities in its international operation, and the creation of a worldwide strategic planning function. These steps are designed to increase sales, improve response to customers and penetrate additional markets.

Premark International is a $2.6 billion multinational company that markets premium products under leading brands such as Tupperware, West Bend, Wilsonart, Hobart, Vulcan, Precor and Hartco. The company's stock is listed on the New York, Pacific, and London Stock Exchanges.

NEW YORK (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Merrill Lynch (NYSE: MER) today reported second quarter net earnings of $74.1 million, or 64 cents per common share. Earnings from continuing operations were up 13 percent from $65.7 million, or 58 cents per common share in the 1989 second quarter, and were 80 percent ahead of 1990 first quarter net earnings.

The 1989 period also included earnings of $4.5 million, or 4 cents per common share, from the discontinued operations of the firm's real estate subsidiary, which was divested in the third quarter of 1989.

Revenues for the quarter of $2.87 billion declined 1 percent from $2.9 billion in the 1989 second quarter, but were up 8 percent from 1990 first quarter revenues.

Operating expenses, excluding insurance, were reduced 4 percent, reflecting ongoing, intensive cost reduction efforts. Total expenses for the second quarter were $2.75 billion, down 1 percent from $2.78 billion in the 1989 period.

Investment banking, asset management and custodial fee and insurance revenues advanced from those of the prior year's quarter, while commission principal transaction and other revenues declined.

Investment banking revenues -- up 8 percent over the 1989 second quarter and up 31 percent over the 1990 first quarter -- were boosted by corporate underwriting and advisory services activity. Also in the Capital Markets sector, swap revenues increased significantly versus the prior year's quarter.

For the tenth consecutive quarter, Merrill Lynch maintained its number one ranking in domestic and global underwriting.

Asset management and custodial fee revenue also advanced 14 percent, and net interest and dividend profit increased 9 percent over the comparable 1989 period.

The 4 percent reduction in operating expenses, exclusive of the insurance business, reflects the declines in virtually all operating categories. Compensation and benefits expense was down 4 percent, communications and equipment rental down 12 percent, and professional fees down 11 percent, while occupancy including depreciation and amortization remained essentially flat compared with the prior year's quarter.

Net earnings for the six months advanced 14 percent to $115.4 million, or 98 cents per common share, compared with earnings from continuing operations of $101.2 million, or 87 cents per common share, for the year earlier period.

STAMFORD, CT (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - GTE (NYSE: GTE) reported today that consolidated net income for the second quarter of 1990 increased 11 percent to $364 million, compared with $329 million in the second quarter last year.

Earnings per share were up ten percent, increasing to 54 cents per share from the 49 cents earned in the year-ago quarter when there were two percent fewer shares outstanding. Earnings per share for both periods reflect the two-for-one stock split which became effective on May 23.

"I am pleased with GTE's strong second-quarter performance particularly considering the softening economy, as well as continuing competitive pressures," said GTE Chairman and Chief Executive Officer James L. "Rocky" Johnson.

"These excellent results would not have been possible without the contributions of our many thousands of dedicated employees who are responsible for our continued solid performance levels. We achieved these results despite the challenges brought about by previously announced consolidations and reorganizations of our businesses to achieve future cost savings and improved competitiveness."

Consolidated revenues and sales rose six percent to $4.6 billion, compared with $4.3 billion the previous year.

For the first half of 1990, consolidated net income increased nine percent to $719 million, up from the $658 million in the first six months of last year. Earnings per share were $1.06, also nine percent higher than the 97 cents reported a year ago. Consolidated revenues and sales for the six-month period totaled $9.1 billion, up eight percent over the $8.4 billion reported for the first six months of 1989.

On July 12, GTE Corp. and Contel Corp. jointly announced that their boards of directors had agreed in principle to merge the two companies in a tax-free exchange of common stock valued at approximately $6.2 billion, as of the July 11 closing price.

The merger will result in an organization that ranks as the largest U.S.-based, local-exchange telephone company and the second-largest cellular-telephone operator. The final merger agreement will be subject to approval by the directors and stockholders of both companies as well as various regulatory agencies.

Revenues from telephone operations for the second quarter increased three percent to $3.2 billion, while operating income rose seven percent to $729 million. These improvements reflect a 12 percent increase in minutes-of-use of GTE'S local-exchange networks for long-distance calling, higher foreign revenues, and a four percent increase in access lines in service.

HOUSTON (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Conoco's unleaded gasolines have been granted BMW's highest rating, "an unlimited mileage approval," following tests of the fuels containing the new Intake Valve Deposit (IVD) control additive.

The new additive controls intake valve and combustion chamber deposits, cleans injectors, and provides rust and corrosion protection.

"The BMW rating results from Conoco's commitment to provide gasolines that meet the high demands of today's automotive engines," said Dave Kem, general manager of Conoco marketing, North America.

The BMW test measures the ability of gasolines to control fuel related deposits on the intake valves of the engine. BMW developed the test when a number of their late model cars experienced engine problems. The test has since become an industry standard.

Conoco's regular, mid-grade and super unleaded gasolines contain the new additive.

MINNEAPOLIS (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Honeywell Inc. (NYSE: HON) said today that income from continuing operations in the second quarter of 1990 was $92.4 million, compared with $60.0 million a year ago. Earnings per share from continuing operations were $2.40, compared with $1.39 in the 1989 period.

Honeywell said the 1990 second-quarter results showed strong improvement in operating performance and also benefited from a lower tax rate. Operating profit from continuing operations in the second quarter was $161.1 million, compared with $121.9 million in second-quarter 1989.

Honeywell said its effective tax rate for first-half 1990 of approximately 30 percent is less than the statutory rate, primarily due to the effect of newly issued tax regulations that reduce taxes to be paid by Honeywell in connection with the sale of Yamatake-Honeywell common stock.

Earnings from discontinued operations totaled $6.7 million in the second quarter, or $.18 per share, compared with $14.8 million, or $.34 per share in second-quarter 1989.

Honeywell's worldwide sales from continuing operations in second- quarter 1990 were $1.548 billion, compared with $1.516 billion in 1989. Company orders in second-quarter 1990 declined moderately, excluding results from businesses that were sold in 1989.

Honeywell's total sales for the first half of 1990 were $3.074 billion, compared with $2.948 billion in 1989. Six-month income from continuing operations was $175.8 million, compared with $111.0 million in the first half of 1989. Six-month earnings per share from continuing operations were $4.52, compared with $2.57 last year. The 1990 first- half figures include an after-tax gain of $18.1 million, or $.46 per share, from the sale of Yamatake-Honeywell shares in the first quarter.

Honeywell is a global controls company that provides products, systems and services for homes and buildings, industry, and aviation and space. The company had 1989 sales of $6.059 billion.

FARMINGDALE, NY (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Medical Action Industries, Inc. (NASDAQ: MDCI) reported their results for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1990.

MEDICAL ACTION INDUSTRIES INC.

Year ended March 31	1990	1989
Net sales	$24,223	$26,626

Wtd. avg. no. of shrs. outstg.	5,003,518	5,038,406

Sales for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1990 were $24,223,000 which were 9 percent lower than last year's fiscal year ended March 31, 1989 sales of $26,626,000. The company experienced import quota problems on its O.R. Towel product line which severely limited the sales of this product for the year ended March 31, 1990. The company's laparatomy product line continued its strong unit sales growth, showing a 15 percent unit increase for the year.

Net loss for the year ended March 31, 1990 was ($514,000) or ($.10) per share compared to net income of $475,000 or $.10 per share for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1989. The net loss for the year ended March 31, 1990 was attributable to lower net sales and gross profit dollars caused by the lack of supply of operating room towels due to import quota problems, and competitive price pressures on laparatomy sponges.

Medical Action Industries Inc. is a leading domestic supplier of medical disposable lap sponges and markets a variety of surgical-related products.

SAN ANTONIO, TX (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Cullen/Frost Bankers, Inc. (NASDAQ: CFBI) today reported net income for the second quarter of 1990 of $622,000 or $.07 per common share, up from $511,000 or $.06 per common share for the first quarter of 1990. Net income for the second quarter of 1989 was $762,000 or $.09 per common share.

"While earnings remain modest, we are pleased with the consistency of these results. This is the fifteenth consecutive quarter in which we have reported a net profit," said T.C. Frost, chairman of the board. "As the economic recovery in Texas continues, we look forward to earnings progress."

In addition to improved earnings, the corporation's Trust Division reported growth in both the number of accounts held and the market value of assets managed during the quarter. Total trust assets increased $275 million primarily from new business during the first six months of this year to close the quarter at $8.3 billion.

"One of the most positive areas of our business has been the outstanding growth reported by our Trust Division, which ranks among the top 100 trust operations in the country in terms of fee income," Frost said. "Our investment performance has earned us added customer confidence."

Non-performing assets were $136.7 million at June 30, 1990, compared with $136.9 million reported at March 31, 1990. Combined reserves of $47.8 million at June 30, 1990 (including both the allowance for loan losses and the separate reserve for foreclosed assets) were equal to the previous quarter.

Other financial highlights during the quarter included: -- Net interest income on a non-taxable equivalent basis was $27.5 million, up $430,000 from the previous quarter, primarily due to wider spreads between earning assets and deposit costs.

-- Non-interest income increased 7.6 percent from March 31, 1990 to close the quarter at $12.8 million. Revenues derived from service charges and Trust Department fee income contributed to this increase.

-- Non-interest expenses totalled $34.0 million for the second quarter, compared with $31.8 million for the previous quarter. More than $1.3 million of the increase was due to costs associated with foreclosed assets.

-- Salary and benefit expenses declined slightly from the first quarter of this year.

-- Sales of foreclosed assets year to date have been approximately double the level achieved during the same period in 1989.

Cullen/Frost Bankers, Inc. is a multi-bank holding company with assets of $3.3 billion at June 30, 1990. The corporation has four member banks and 21 offices in five major Texas banking markets -- San Antonio, Houston/Galveston, Austin, Corpus Christi and Dallas.

BASKING RIDGE, N.J. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - AT&T announced today the selection of three insurance companies to manage a new medical- delivery system meant to contain the company's medical costs and retain quality care for about 100,000 non-management employees in major metropolitan areas around the country.

The new program is based on an agreement reached last year with the Communications Workers of America (CWA) and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW); both unions were part of the selection process.

The insurance companies selected are Empire Blue Cross/Blue Shield, based in New York; The Travelers Insurance Co. of Hartford and The Prudential Insurance Co., based in Newark, N.J.

The program, which begins in October, will be the largest "managed care" network in the country. It will initially roll out in Atlanta; Minneapolis/St. Paul; Columbia, S.C.; Charleston, S.C. and Oklahoma City. By July of 1991, employees in 23 metropolitan areas across the nation will have their medical needs covered through this program.

Essentially, the new AT&T health care system is delivered through networks that bring together medical institutions and physicians offering standard care at below-standard costs based on a higher volume of AT&T patients sent to them via the new program.

Employees will continue to have the option of using doctors and facilities not associated with the AT&T program, but they will pay higher out-of-pocket expenses by doing so.

For example, people who select network physicians will pay a $150 deductible, up to 10 percent of most other medical charges and nothing for hospitalization -- compared to a $200 deductible and 20 percent for charges, including hospital care, incurred outside the program.

AT&T spends about $3 million a day on health care costs, which have been rising by an average of 10 percent a year since 1984; the new plan is expected to help hold annual increases to single-digits by 1993.

AT&T also used Blue Cross/Blue Shield and the Travelers for its traditional "fee-for-service" plan, now open to both management and non-management employees. The new "point-of-service" program will be available only to non-management employees and their 225,000 dependents.

CHICAGO (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - U.S. household refrigerator/freezer manufacturers have asked the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to move quickly in establishing a national program to capture and recycle CFC 12 by 1992.

A proposal submitted to EPA on July 2 by the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers (AHAM) outlines procedures to capture CFC 12 during refrigerator service and also insure recycling or proper disposal.

Manufacturers are confident they can comply with a 1992 capture requirement for their respective factory service branches, AHAM told EPA. These companies will also advise independent servicers and assist them in identifying available capture equipment and in training for the various capture methods.

The 1992 date parallels requirements in the pending Clean Air Act legislation. This time frame enables all manufacturers to put in place nationwide the necessary infrastructure including the development and purchase of capture equipment, service technician training and contracting with CFC recyclers.

"Refrigerator companies are already working on their respective programs to meet a 1992 deadline," reports Robert Holding, AHAM president.

"We are asking EPA for a uniform national program because it is more efficient and practicable than a patchwork of inconsistent state and local requirements," explains Holding. "Furthermore, state and local initiatives, no matter how well thought out, cannot resolve a global problem such as stratospheric ozone depletion."

CFC 12 is one of the chlorofluorocarbons thought to contribute to ozone depletion in the stratosphere. About six ounces are used as the refrigerant charged into the hermetically sealed system of these appliances at the time of manufacture.

The amount of CFC 12 potentially capturable during service is typically about 100,000 pounds per year, AHAM estimates.

DECATUR, GA (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - DFSoutheastern Inc. (NASDAQ: DFSE), the Decatur, Ga.-based holding company for Decatur Federal Savings and Loan Association, today announced the results of operations for the second quarter ended June 30, as well as declared a dividend in the amount of 5 cents per share for shareholders of record as of July 31.

The dividend will be paid on Aug. 10. Net earnings for the second quarter were $3,327,000, or 72 cents per share, increasing by 83 percent from $1,818,000, or 39 cents per share, for the same period last year. Operating earnings, which are net earnings other than gains or losses on sale or valuation of assets, increased by 46 cents per share to $3,134,000 or 68 cents per share, for the second quarter in 1990 from $1,034,000, or 22 cents per share, during the same period in 1989. Net interest income after provision for possible loan losses was $14,316,000 compared to $11,653,000 for the same quarter last year, a 23 percent increase. The net interest margin for the three months ended June 30 was 2.84 percent compared to 2.05 percent for the same quarter in 1989.

For the first six months of 1990, net earnings were $6,265,000, or $1.35 per share, up 22 percent over $5,129,000, or $1.11 per share for the same period in 1989. Operating earnings for the current six month period were $5,612,000, or $1.21 per share, up 55 percent compared to $3,620,000, or 78 cents per share in 1989. The net interest margin for the six months ended June 30 was 2.73 percent compared to 2.27 percent for the same period in 1989.

Nonaccrual loans, which are all loans 90 or more days past due, decreased from $21.1 million during the first quarter of 1990 to $19.2 million in the second quarter of this year. In addition, delinquent loans more than 60 to 89 days decreased from $7.7 million in the first quarter to $4.8 million in the second quarter of 1990. However, foreclosed real estate increased substantially causing total nonperforming assets to increase during the second quarter of 1990 to $58.1 million from $51.7 million during the previous quarter.

According to Robert C. McMahan, chairman of the board and CEO: "We are pleased with our earnings performance to date. We remain sensitive to the rise in nonperforming assets and are taking measures to control future increases in this area. However, we will continue our plan of systematic additions to the allowance for possible loan losses.

"The increase in real estate owned did not come as a surprise since it is indicative of the saturated residential and commercial real estate construction markets that presently exist. However, in anticipation of this situation, we have instituted even more stringent underwriting standards on new residential construction loans and have down-sized our commercial real estate department. We have noted other healthy thrifts taking similar measures."

At June 30, the core capital to assets ratio for DFSoutheastern Inc. was 5.7 percent, well above the minimum requirements of 3 percent. Tangible capital was 5.0 percent at the end of the second quarter 1990 and the minimum requirement is 1-1/2 percent. Risk-based capital was 9.0 percent for the second quarter 1990, exceeding the minimum requirement of 6.4 percent.

At June 30, DFSoutheastern Inc. (DFSE) had consolidated assets of $2.4 billion and deposits of $1.7 billion. Decatur Federal Savings and Loan Association, the wholly owned subsidiary of DFSoutheastern Inc., has 28 branch offices and five Mortgage Loan Offices serving metropolitan Atlanta and north Georgia. GERMANTOWN, MD. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - More than two decades after its launch on Feb. 3, 1970, the Space Electric Rocket Test (SERT II) spacecraft is providing valuable data to help engineers design power sources for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's (NASA) space station Freedom.

Fairchild Space, a division of Fairchild Space & Defense Corporation, provided the spacecraft support unit for SERT II, which began a second phase of data collection for the space station program in June 1990.

SERT II was first reactivated in June 1989, after nearly a decade of dormancy, to transmit data from the Reflector Erosion Experiment (REX) for use in solar power studies at NASA's Lewis Research Center in Cleveland. REX data was gathered from June to December of 1989, before SERT II orbited out of constant sunlight -- its only power source. Its proximity to the sun this June will enable it to transmit data again until December.

REX contains two polished metal discs with temperature sensors that measure erosion and damage to the mirrored surfaces from the continual impact of tiny micrometeorites. This erosion data is used by NASA/Lewis engineers to study the comparative benefits of solar cells versus solar dynamics for use on the space station. Solar cells capture the sun's energy and immediately convert it to electrical power. A solar dynamic power source requires mirrors to heat fluids for driving turbo generators. REX provides more mirrored surface erosion data than available from any source.

Fairchild Space is an innovative, high-technology company specializing in the design, development, manufacture and test of spacecraft and spacecraft subsystems for scientific, military and commercial applications. Fairchild Space is a division of Fairchild Space & Defense Corporation, a U.S. space and defense electronics company based in Germantown, with operations in Manhattan Beach, Calif. The corporation, a member of the Matra Group, has annual revenues of approximately $230 million and a workforce of 2,000. Matra, headquartered in Paris, France, is an internationally diversified company with annual revenues in excess of $3 billion. Matra's lines of business include aerospace, telecommunications and transportation.

LOWELL, AR (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - J.B. Hunt Transport Services, Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: JBHT) announced today revenues and earnings for the second quarter ended June 30, 1990.

Consolidated revenues for the second quarter increased 8 percent to $140.9 million, compared with $130.8 million for the corresponding period in 1989. Earnings per share increased 9 percent to 36 cents per share, or $8.5 million, compared with 33 cents per share, or $7.9 million, for the corresponding quarter a year ago. Earnings per share are based on 23,650,704 and 23,609,118 weighted average number of common shares outstanding, respectively.

Earnings were affected positively by improvements in pricing and empty mile factors. Fuel prices increased slightly when compared to the same period in 1989; however, fuel efficiency continues to improve. Insurance and claims expense increased for the quarter when compared to the same quarter last year due to increases in the reserves for accidents. Slower growth in the size of the fleet and slightly longer trade cycles on equipment have allowed the company to use its cash flow to significantly reduce long-term debt and interest expense.

For the six months ended June 30, 1990, revenues increased 15 percent to $278.2 million from $242.0 million in the first six months of 1989. Net earnings increased 13 percent to $14.6 million, or 62 cents per share, compared to $12.9 million, or 54 cents per share. Earnings per share for 1990 and 1989 are based on 23,644,691 and 23,607,141 weighted average number of common shares outstanding, respectively.

NEW YORK (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - ICM Property Investors Incorporated (NYSE: ICM), a real estate investment trust, announced today its declaration of a distribution of $.12 per share for the second quarter of 1990, which ended on June 30. This distribution, payable on Aug. 21, 1990, to stockholders of record on Aug. 1, 1990, is the same as that paid for the preceding four quarters.

The company reported that it incurred a net loss of $3,043,000 in the second quarter, which includes the write-off, for financial reporting purposes, of its $2,364,000 joint venture investment as of June 30 in Koll Plaza, Scottsdale, Ariz. This compares with a net loss of $662,000 in the same period last year. For the first half, net losses were $3,633,000 in 1990 and $973,000 in 1989.

Arthur W. Viner, chairman of the board and president of ICM Property Investors, said, "The Phoenix economy has been weak and there is a large overhang of office space throughout the market. The leasing of Koll Plaza has been disappointingly slow, and at low effective rents. Discussions in which we and our partner are engaged with our mortgagee have so far been inconclusive. Accordingly, we have written off our investment in the property."

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Davy McKee Corporation, an internationally recognized engineering firm, has delivered to North Lily Mining Company, the operator of the Taltal Joint Venture, the final feasibility study for the iodine nitrate property in northern Chile.

The feasibility study concludes that the project is feasible and that there are no technical obstacles from either the mining, processing or environmental standpoints.

The ore reserves for the Yumbes and Yolanda properties are in excess of 120 million tons.

The combined Yumbes and Yolanda ore bodies contain an estimated recoverable resource of 40,500 tons of iodine and sodium nitrate adequate to produce 13,310,000 tons of potassium nitrate. This resource can generate gross revenues of about US $4.4 billion.

Davy McKee concluded that development should commence on the higher grade Yumbes area. High grade ore can be produced from the Yumbes deposit for a period of 14 years. Lower grade ore will be available after 14 years for continued operations in both the Yumbes and Yolanda deposits. The development of the Yumbes high grade ore reserve to produce iodine and potassium nitrate will generate for the 14 year life, an estimated revenue of US $1.28 billion. This results in a gross margin of US $710 million from the production of 18,900 tons iodine and 3,500,000 tons of potassium nitrate.

The ore will be mined at a rate of 5,120 tons per day. Mining consists of removing an average of 0.3 meters of barren overburden and then mining the 0.8 meters of callche ore. The ore will be trucked to heap leach pads where the soluble salts are leached. Water is pumped from the sea for leaching. Crude iodine is recovered from the pregnant solution by precipitation. The pregnant leach solution is pumped to evaporation ponds and converted to potassium nitrate with imported potassium chloride salt.

This daily production rate has been established as the optimum given current market conditions. The mining rate can be increased significantly to react to market conditions.

The sales prices for iodine and potassium nitrate of US $15.00 per kg and US $285.00 per ton respectively, are substantially below current market prices for these products. It should also be noted that total development capital, for production of iodine and potassium nitrate, of $69,237 million includes $17,441 million for the construction of port facilities in the community of Taltal. The joint venture expects to separately finance this cost given the economic benefit and multiple end users who will gain access to a port facility.

CINCINNATI (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Cincinnati Milacron Inc. (NYSE: CMZ) today reported second quarter 1990 sales of $205 million -- up from sales of $191 million in the previous quarter and from $192 million in the second quarter of 1989.

Net earnings were $3.1 million, or 12 cents per share -- improved over first quarter net earnings of $2.5 million, or 10 cents per share, but down from 1989 second quarter earnings, before non-operating items, of $4.4 million, or 18 cents per share. Net earnings in the year-ago quarter were $5.2 million, or 21 cents per share, and included $0.8 million, or 3 cents per share, from discontinued operations and extraordinary items (see table below).

"Earnings were held back by the same factors that adversely affected first quarter results," Daniel J. Meyer, president and chief executive officer, explained. "Specifically, our mix of sales consisted of a smaller percentage of higher-margin products, such as injection molding machines, and more lower-margin products, such as industrial robots. We've made good progress in all our machine tool operations, but we're still experiencing losses in our grinding machine focus factory," Meyer said. "We also incurred greater marketing and distribution expenses to support higher levels of activity overseas."

New Orders and Backlog New orders in the second quarter were $173 million, compared to $206 million in the first quarter and $196 million in the second quarter of 1989. "The decline reflected lower levels of demand for certain machine tools, injection molding machines and coordinate measuring machines," Meyer said. With shipments exceeding new orders, the backlog fell to $330 million from $362 million at the beginning of the quarter and $384 million a year ago.

Outlook "The industrial economic outlook for the second half of the year is uncertain," Meyer said, "as general demand for machine tools and plastics machinery is currently soft and capital spending by the automotive industry is still at very low levels. On the other hand, orders from commercial aircraft manufacturers remain very strong.

"Independent of the economy, we are entering the second half of the year with a solid backlog and we are also encouraged by the recent success of our newly introduced products. So, despite continued softness in the third quarter, we remain optimistic about new orders and improved operating results in the second half," Meyer concluded.

PHILADELPHIA (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) today issued citations against the Carson Concrete Corp. of Conshohocken, Pa., and proposed penalties totaling $143,900 for safety violations.

The firm was performing construction work at the Life Sciences Building at Thomas Jefferson Hospital in Philadelphia.

Eduardas J. Skladaitis, area director of the OSHA Philadelphia office, said a comprehensive inspection of the 12-floor building under construction was initiated as a result of a fatality that occurred on May 3. An employee of Trap Rock Industries was struck and killed by a piece of plywood that fell seven floors from a concrete form stripping operation being performed by Carson Concrete.

Skladaitis said the construction firm was cited for 14 willful violations with proposed penalties totaling $131,000; 14 serious violations with $11,300 in penalties and $1,600 for a repeat violation.

The repeat violation, with a $1,600 penalty, related to the accumulation of construction materials and debris which interfered with the safety of workers. The firm was cited for this violation on a previous inspection at other job sites.

The firm has 15 working days to contest the citations and proposed penalties before the independent Occupational Safety and Health Review Commission.

Willful violations are those committed with an intentional disregard of, or plain indifference to, the requirements of the OSHA laws and regulations.

A serious violation is where a substantial probability exists that death or serious physical harm could result, and the employer knew or should have known of the hazard.

TAMPA, FL (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - First Florida Banks, Inc. (NASDAQ: FFBK) today reported net income for the three months ended June 30, 1990 of $11,849,000 ($.75 per share) as compared with $12,681,000 ($.80 per share) for the second quarer of 1989. Earnings for the second quarter of 1990 were up from the first quarter earnings of $6,457,000 ($.41 per share). These results produced returns on assets and equity for the second quarter of 1990 of .85 percent and 11.40 percent, respectively, as compared with .98 percent and 12.67 percent for the second quarter of 1989.

Net income for the six months ended June 30, 1990 was $18,306,000 ($1.16 per share) as compared with $25,607,000 ($1.61 per share) for the same period in 1989. Returns on assets and equity for the six months ended June 30, 1990 were .66 percent and 8.95 percent, respectively, as compared with 1.00 percent and 12.96 percent for the first six months of 1989. First Florida's equity to asset ratio at June 30, 1990 was 7.51 percent compared with 7.70 percent at June 30, 1989 and 7.35 at March 31, 1990. The primary capital to asset ratio at June 30, 1990 was 8.47 percent compared with 8.50 percent at June 30, 1989, and 8.26 percent at March 31, 1990. First Florida's book value per share at June 30, 1990 was $26.41 compared with $25.46 at June 30, 1989, and $25.91 at March 31, 1990.

"Our results, while positive, reflect the difficult business environment we face today. The banking and financial services industries are under great pressure to produce non-interest related income, and reduce non-interest expenses, while faced with the reality of a troubled credit and real estate market," said A. Bronson Thayer, chairman and chief executive officer.

"For these reasons, we look to see growing return on our investment in non-interest related income generating sources and the value of a new corporate organizational structure," Thayer said.

Non-interest inocme for the quarter ended June 30, 1990 increased 30 percent over the second quarter of 1989. For the first six months of 1990 non-interest income was 27 percent higher than for the same period in 1989. This growth in an indication of management's success in redirecting income sources. Significant sources of non-interest income, including service charges, credit card discounts and fees, trust income and data processing fees, have increased over the past year.

First Florida's total loans outstanding as of June 30, 1990 were $3.81 billion, an increase of $120 million over the same date in 1989. The allowance for possible loan losses was $57.2 million at June 30, 1990 compared with a June 30, 1989 amount of $45.2 million. Net charge-offs were $4.3 million in the second quarter of 1990 and $11.8 million for the six months ended June 1990. The ratio of the allowance for possible loan losses to net loans outstanding was 1.50 percent at June 30, 1990, compared to 1.23 percent at June 30, 1989.

"As for our loan portfolio, we are quite confident the quality of our loans far outweighs the marginal loans for which we are well reserved. Yet, we are very concerned about the impact the plight of the thrift industry is having on all financial markets," Thayer said.

The net interest margin for the second quarter of 1990 was 4.67 percent compared with 4.73 percent for the second quarter of 1989, and 4.69 percent in the first quarter of 1990. Earning assets continued to grow to $4,778.6 million at June 30, 1990 compared with $4,543.8 million at June 30, 1989.

Non-performing assets were $65.4 million at the end of the second quarter as compared with $57.5 million at March 31, 1990, and $33.1 million at June 30, 1989. At June 30, 1990, the ratio of non-performing assets to loans and other real estate was 1.72 percent compared with .90 percent at June 30, 1989, and 1.53 percent at March 31, 1990. As a result of this increase in non-performing assets, a provision for loan losses of $7.0 million was made during the quarter ended June 30, 1990 compared with $3.3 million for the second quarter of 1989. The ratio of the allowance for loan losses to non-performing loans was 98 percent at June 30, 1990, compared with 164 percent at June 30, 1989 and 106 percent at March 31, 1990. The ratio of the allowance for loan losses to non-performing assets was 87 percent at June 30, 1990 compared with 137 percent at June 30, 1989 and 95 percent at March 31, 1990.

At quarter end, total assets for the company were $5.55 billion compared with $5.24 billion at June 30, 1989. Total deposits were $4.65 billion at June 30, 1990, compared with $4.27 billion on the same date in 1989.

During May of 1990, the company consummated the acquisition of Financial Processors, Inc. of Miami, greatly expanding First Florida's statewide data processing operations for financial institutions.

On July 2, 1990, as was previously reported, First Florida Banks, Inc. and Mid-State Federal Savings Bank entered into a new agreement to provide for the acquisition of Mid-State Federal by First Florida. The new agreement reduces the cash consideration to be received in the acquisition and replaces the previous agreement, now terminated. Under the new agreement, the aggregate purchase price has been reduced to $48 million, or approximately $22.43 per share, in cash, for all outstanding shares and stock options of Mid-State Federal, as compared with a potential total purchase price of $59.7 million, including contingent payments, under the original agreement. Subject to the receipt of appropriate regulatory approvals and approval by the stockholders of Mid-State Federal, it is anticipated that the transaction will be consummated during the fourth quarter of 1990.

During the second quarter of 1990, First Florida opened several full-service retail branches located inside Kash n' Karry supermarkets. Supermarket banking has become a significant trend across the country and has allowed First Florida to emerge as a leader in providing non-traditional banking options for improved customer convenience. Additional in-store branches will continue to open during the year.

PHILADELPHIA (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Scott Paper Co. (NYSE: SPP) today reported that second quarter earnings per share were up 9 percent to a record $1.01 from $0.93 in 1989.

Net income for the second quarter of 1990 rose to $74.6 million from $71.5 million last year. Dollar sales for the second quarter increased 5 percent to a record $1.32 billion from $1.25 billion a year ago.

Philip E. Lippincott, Scott's chairman and chief executive officer, commented that "the record level of earnings in the second quarter of 1990 is principally due to the impressive performance of Scott Worldwide's U.S. tissue business. The performance of our S.D.Warren printing and publishing papers business was improved but still behind our plan and 1989 results. We also continue to be impacted by higher interest expense."

For the first six months, earnings per share declined 11 percent to $1.83 this year from $2.05 in 1989. Net income for the first six months was down 15 percent to $134.7 million in 1990 from $158 million in 1989. Sales grew 4 percent to $2.6 billion, a six-month record. The second quarter and the first six months of 1989 included special items that resulted in a net gain of $0.05 in earnings per share.

Lippincott indicated that second quarter sales revenue for the total consolidated Scott Worldwide personal care and cleaning business increased 7 percent, while income from these operations rose 16 percent. Excluding special items in 1989, income from operations increased 10 percent.

Earnings from Scott's largest business, the tissue portion of Scott Worldwide's U.S. personal care and cleaning business, were up 21 percent to a record for any quarter, and dollar sales also established an all-time quarterly high. These records reflect ongoing improvements in pricing and product mix, and were achieved despite continuing inflationary pressures, including the high cost of pulp. The overall U.S. personal care and cleaning results continue to be impacted by costs related to building Scott's foodservice business.

Sales revenue from S.D. Warren's printing and publishing papers business in the second quarter of 1990 increased slightly, to a second quarter record, while unit volume was up approximately 2 percent. Income from operations, however, declined 7 percent. Lippincott said that Warren's manufacturing performance, particularly at Muskegon, Michigan and the Somerset mill in Skowhegan, Maine, where major capital expansion projects are in progress, has improved over the last two quarters. He noted that Warren still has not returned to past levels of profitability and continues to be affected by the costs associated with the capital expansion program. The demand for Warren's coated papers was stable during the second quarter and has improved since the end of the quarter. The uncoated papers business began to strengthen over the first quarter of this year, but Warren's prices remained below last year's second quarter level.

Scott's overall results in the second quarter of 1990 continued to be impacted by higher interest expense due to an increase in the Company's debt level resulting from the financing of its aggressive capital expansion program, higher working capital needs, and the purchase in 1989 of its common stock warrants. In the second quarter of 1990, earnings per share were calculated on the basis of fewer shares, reflecting the purchase of these warrants.

HOUSTON (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - American Capital Management & Research, Inc. (NYSE: ACA) today reported net income of $5.0 million, or $0.21 per share, for the second quarter of 1990, compared with $5.0 million, or $0.21 per share, for the same period a year ago. Second quarter 1990 revenues totaled $24.5 million, down from $25.7 million during the second quarter of 1989.

For the six months ended June 30, 1990, net income was $10.1 million, or $0.41 per share, compared to $10.1 million, or $0.42 per share, for the first half of 1989. Revenues for the first six months were $48.9 million, compared with $51.3 million a year ago.

Assets under management as of June 30, 1990 were $13.0 billion, down from $13.6 billion a year earlier, but up from $12.8 billion for the first quarter of 1990. Excluded from the comparison are assets of affiliated insurance companies, which totaled $1.2 billion at the end of the second quarter of 1989. As reported previously, these assets are no longer being managed by the company as of Jan. 1, 1990.

Sales of fund shares, at net asset value, were $369.6 million in the second quarter, up from $335.2 million a year earlier. Such amounts include sales of the family of funds under the Common Sense Trust of $198.3 million and $134.5 million for the respective periods.

While the company has experienced a decrease in management fees and commission income, net income was stable when comparing the 1990 and 1989 quarter and year-to-date periods, attributable primarily to reduced expenses and higher earnings from its equity investment in the Common Sense Trust joint venture with A.L. Williams, a wholly owned subsidiary of Primerica Corporation (NYSE: PA).

Primerica, which owns approximately 83 percent of the outstanding common shares of American Capital, announced in the second quarter a proposal to the stockholders of American Capital that Primerica acquire the publicly-held shares of American Capital it does not presently own.

The proposal is subject to the approval and recommendation of the boards of directors of Primerica and American Capital, the approval of a merger committee composed of independent directors of American Capital, the rendering of a fairness opinion by an independent investment banking firm retained by the merger committee, and, if required, the approval of the stockholders of American Capital.

The proposed transaction is also subject to the execution of a definitive agreement, filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, and certain regulatory approvals and clearances.

LAFAYETTE HILL, PA (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Home Unity Savings Bank PaSA (NASDAQ: HUSB) today reported net income of approximately $284,000 or $.12 per share, for the second quarter of 1990.

This reflects substantial improvement from the second quarter of 1989, when the bank reported a net loss of approximately $761,000 or $.36 per share.

Net interest income after provision for possible loan losses for the second quarter of 1990 was $4 million, an improvement of $900,000 (29 percent) over the comparable figure of $3.1 million for the second quarter of 1989. The bank's net interest income for the second quarter of 1990 reflects continued improvement in the bank's net interest spread from 1.72 percent at June 30, 1989, to 2.16 percent at June 30, 1990. The bank's other income also increased substantially for the second quarter of 1990 to $451,000, up $242,000 (115.8 percent) over the comparable figure of $209,000 for the second quarter of 1989.

Second quarter results also reflect continued reduction in general and administrative expenses, to $3.8 million for the quarter, down approximately $300,000 (7.3 percent) from general and administrative expenses of $4.1 million for the second quarter of 1989. The bank's losses on real estate owned ("REO") for the second quarter of 1990 were $161,000, an increase of $101,000 (168.3 percent) over losses on REO of $60,000 for the second quarter of 1989. However, the bank also realized a gain of $104,000 on the sale of REO during the second quarter of 1990, classified as "Other Income."

Michael C. Rush, Home Unity's president and chief executive officer, commented: "We are very pleased to report a profit for the second quarter. This represents our third consecutive quarterly profit, and is our first profit realized from our core, retail banking operations in several years. These results reflect the prudence of the bank's determination and restructuring since 1987 to return to its basic business of retail community banking.

"The bank's net interest spread and operating expenses, which provide the basis for our core, operating profits, continue to improve. At the same time, our exposure to changes in market interest rates remains low. We believe that the bank's return to recurring operating profitability will facilitate our continued efforts to obtain our required capital infusion."

Home Unity is insured by the FDIC, and has 15 full-service offices in Philadelphia, Bucks and Montgomery counties. Corporate headquarters are located in Lafayette Hill.

Home Unity common stock is traded in the Over-the-Counter market.

CHICAGO (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - FMC Corp. (NYSE: FMC) today announced second quarter net income of $55 million, or $1.52 per per share, compared with $56 million, or $1.54 per share, of income before extraordinary charges in 1989. Second quarter net income after extraordinary charges in 1989 was $51 million or $1.41 per share.

Sales rose 8 percent in the quarter to $1 billion with higher sales in all segments except Precious Metals.

Operating earnings of $106 million before unusual items declined 3 percent primarily because of start-up expenses for two major industrial chemicals plants and declining gold prices. Heavy rains in the Midwest slowed profit growth for the agricultural chemicals business.

Net debt levels remained steady despite high capital expenditures, and interest expense declined because of lower average interest rates. At quarter's end, book stockholders equity turned positive, overcoming the $591 million negative gap created by the company's 1986 recapitalization.

Quarterly Review of Operations: Industrial Chemicals sales rose 6 percent to $268 million in the second quarter of 1990, but profits declined. Generally strong markets in soda ash and hydrogen peroxide were offset by start-up expenses related to two major chemical plants and by a weak phosphorus chemicals market.

Performance Chemicals sales and profits rose modestly compared with 1989 second quarter results, despite a difficult domestic market for agricultural chemicals. Heavy rains in the Midwest reduced corn plantings and limited the use of pre-plant incorporated soybean herbicides such as Command. The strong worldwide food and pharmaceuticals additives business and higher international agricultural chemicals sales offset the domestic shortfall.

Precious Metals sales of $48 million decreased 8 percent compared with 1989, and profits dropped because of lower average realized precious metals prices and higher operating costs. Operating costs increased because of lower grades at Paradise Peak and the higher cost per ounce of gold at the new Royal Mountain King mine. During the quarter, FMC Gold Co. completed the acquisition of Meridian Gold for 8 million shares of FMC Gold stock. The Meridian properties contain proven and probable reserves of approximately 1.2 million ounces of gold.

Defense Systems sales of $262 million increased 26 percent from 1989, and profits rose. The profit increase was mitigated by higher bid and proposal spending associated with the revision and rebidding of a number of military contracts, and higher spending for research associated with a development contract. Actions to downsize the tracked vehicle business began during the quarter, reflecting reduced longer-term expectations for the Bradley Fighting Vehicle and M113 armored personnel carriers. Defense Systems backlog of $1.6 billion at the end of June was 6 percent higher than in June 1989.

Machinery and Equipment sales rose 1 percent in the quarter to $223 million, and profits improved. Food Machinery compared unfavorably with a strong 1989 second quarter, but full year results will benefit from strong worldwide demand for food processing equipment. Petroleum Equipment and Specialized Machinery results improved in the quarter.

Outlook: "FMC's commercial businesses are generally experiencing favorable worldwide market conditions, allowing us to build upon already strong positions," said Robert H. Malott, FMC chairman and chief executive officer. "At the same time we face near-term, weather-related weakness in our domestic agricultural chemicals markets, and the costs of restructuring our defense business. In this environment, our operations continue to generate high levels of cash flow, supporting important investments in the businesses and allowing us to continue our debt reduction program."

MOUNT CLEMENS, MI. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - First National Bank Corp. (NASDAQ: MTCL) reported today earnings climbed 11 percent in the second quarter 1990, to $761,000 from $686,000 for the same period in 1989. Primary earnings per share for the quarter rose to $0.63 as compared to $0.57 a year earlier.

Earnings for the six months ended June 30, 1990, rose 7 percent, to $1,464,000 from $1,366,000. Primary earnings per share increased to $1.21 compared to $1.13 for the first six months of 1989.

Corporate assets reached an all-time high, totaling $408,091,000 at June 30, 1990, up 15 percent from June 30, 1989.

Net interest income rose 11 percent to $7.4 million in the first six months of 1990, largely as a result of the increase in the volume of loans and leases.

In addition, to keep pace with continuing loan growth, the corporation increased the provision for loan and lease losses to $300,000 from $215,000 in the year-earlier period.

Noninterest income rose 23 percent in the first six months of 1990, to $1.3 million. A 35-percent increase in service charge income from deposit accounts, to $907,000 from $673,000, was primarily responsible for this increase. It was offset by a 13-percent increase in noninterest expense, to $6.7 million. These increases were largely the result of the corporation's continued growth.

At June 30, 1990, the corporation's loan portfolio totaled $262 million, up nearly 17 percent from $225 million at June 30, 1989. Total deposits increased 13 percent, to $365 million at June 30, 1990, from $322 million a year earlier. And stockholders' equity rose 8 percent, to $26 million from $24 million.

MIAMI (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - After extensive consumer and product research, Burger King Corporation announced today that it will begin immediate roll-out of cholesterol-free, 100 percent vegetable oil for its french fries. The roll-out will be completed by Oct. 1.

CHICAGO (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - FMC Gold Co. (NYSE: FGL) today reported second quarter net income of $9.9 million, compared with net income of $13.8 million in the second quarter of 1989. Gold production was essentially flat, while silver production increased. However, lower precious metal prices and higher production costs caused by lower gold grades reduced net income from last year's quarter. Earnings per share in the second quarter were $0.14 compared with earnings per share of $0.21 in 1989, reflecting lower net income and the 8 million new shares issued to Burlington Resources on May 15 in exchange for Meridian Gold Company.

Sales for the second quarter of 1990 were $36.8 million compared with $40.2 million last year. The average realized price of gold declined to $365 per ounce from $376 per ounce in the second quarter of 1989. The average realized price of silver declined to $5.04 per ounce compared with $5.52 per ounce in the year-ago period.

In the second quarter, FMC Gold produced 83 thousand ounces of gold compared with 87 thousand ounces in the same period last year. Gold production in the second quarter included 6 thousand ounces from the Royal Mountain King, Calif., mine acquired as part of Meridian Gold Co. At the Jerritt Canyon, Nev., mine (30 percent owned by FMC Gold), start-up problems at the new ore-roasting circuit in the first quarter were largely resolved, and FMC Gold's share of production increased 25 percent to 25,000 ounces in the quarter. The ore-roasting circuit operated at near-design capacity during the quarter and is expected to operate smoothly during the remainder of the year. At the Paradise Peak, Nev., mine, gold production declined because of lower grades, and silver production increased as the richer silver portion of the orebody was mined.

Cash production costs increased during the quarter to $142 per gold equivalent ounce compared with $131 per gold equivalent ounce last year, reflecting the addition of the higher-cost Royal Mountain King mine. Costs at Jerritt Canyon declined, reflecting operation of the ore-roasting circuit during the quarter.

In June, a forward sales program for Royal Mountain King gold production was initiated for the remainder of 1990 to provide an average hedge price of $360 per ounce for 26 thousand ounces.

FMC Gold held $93 million in cash and cash equivalents at the end of the quarter, increasing interest income to $2.0 million, compared with $0.9 million last year.

Six Month Results: Net income for the first half of 1990 was $23.2 million compared with $27.3 million in the first half of 1989. Lower prices and higher production costs were responsible for the decline. Sales were $73.6 million compared with $77 million in the year-ago period.

Cash production costs increased to $137 per gold equivalent ounce compared with $123 per gold equivalent ounce last year. Lower grades at Paradise Peak and the addition of the higher-cost Royal Mountain King mine contributed to the cost increase.

As previously announced, FMC Gold acquired Meridian Gold Co. for 8 million new shares of FMC Gold stock. Meridian Gold holds approximately 1.2 million ounces of proven and probable gold reserves and several exploration properties. Exploration and development of these properties began during the second quarter.

Outlook: "Despite lower precious metals prices, our low-cost and efficient operations continued to produce a steady cash flow," said Robert N. Burt, chairman and chief executive officer. "At the same time our proven mining expertise will help us focus on opportunities presented by development activities at our existing operations and by the newly acquired Meridian Gold properties."

WYOMISSING, Pa. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Lawrence R. Pugh, chairman and chief executive officer of VF Corporation, (NYSE: VFC) announced today that net earnings for the second quarter of 1990 were $22.4 million, compared with $45.5 million for the same quarter in 1989. Earnings per share for the quarter were $.37, compared with $.67 in the prior year. For the first six months in 1990, net earnings declined to $45.6 million from $83.8 million in 1989, with earnings per share of $.76 compared with $1.23 last year. Sales for the second quarter increased to $635 million from $611 million in the 1989 quarter, and year-to-date were $1,202 million compared with $1,174 million last year.

Pugh reported the reduction in earnings was in line with his announcement on June 21. The downturn primarily results from several special charges during the quarter and first half, mostly related to the Lee division, and the continued unsatisfactory performance at the Jantzen division.

Pugh indicated, "To bring inventory levels and production capacity at Lee in line with expected demand, the division reduced production days and recorded provisions to close five sewing plants. The reduced capacity needs at Lee were primarily caused by a change to more basic and basic fashion products. Costs associated with these moves, in addition to the impact of reduced pricing on sales of excess inventories, approximated $20 million during the first half.

"In addition, due to increasing production efficiencies and expanded off-shore production, Wrangler has incurred high layoff days in domestic production facilities. Accordingly, the division has announced the closing of two domestic sewing plants. The impact of reduced production days at Wrangler and the cost of the plant closings total $6 million." As a result of these changes, the company believes that production capacities in its major jeanswear divisions are in line with current and future anticipated needs.

Second quarter earnings also include special charges related to two small businesses sold in prior years.

Pugh confirmed that, "Despite a weakened demand for apparel by the consumer, all other VF divisions are recording results above last year, many at their highest levels, and we believe this performance will continue throughout the remainder of the year. We are confident that operating performance at Lee will improve during the second half, but the outlook for full year results for the corporation remains cloudy due to the uncertainty in consumer demand for jeans during the back-to- school period. Our current expectations continue to be that results for the year will be flat to down 10 percent from 1989."

The board of directors declared a regular quarterly cash dividend of $.25 per share, payable Sept. 20, 1990, to shareholders of record as of the close of business on Sept. 10, 1990.

VF Corporation is the world's largest publicly owned apparel company and is a leader in the jeanswear, sportswear/activewear, intimate apparel and occupational apparel markets. Its principal brands are Lee, Wrangler, Rustler, Girbaud, Bassett-Walker, Jantzen, JanSport, Vanity Fair, Vassarette, Modern Globe, Red Kap and Big Ben. In 1989, VF ranked 173rd in FORTUNE's "500 Largest U.S. Industrial Corporations."

PITTSBURGH (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Mellon Bank Corp. (NYSE: MEL) today reported net income of $142 million, or $2.80 per common share, for the second quarter of 1990.

This result included a gain of $74 million on the corporation's previously announced sale of its Chicago-based consumer finance company. Excluding that gain, net income for the quarter was $68 million, or $1.19 per common share.

These results compare with income, excluding extraordinary gains, of $59 million, or $1.16 per common share, in the second quarter of 1989, and net income of $65 million, or $1.25 per common share, in the first quarter of 1990.

"We had a good quarter," said Frank V. Cahouet, chairman, president and chief executive officer of Mellon Bank Corp., who characterized the second quarter as "a period of continued progress in meeting our financial and strategic objectives." He noted that the corporation's core businesses -- retail banking, wholesale banking and service products -- continued to perform well, and cited the May 18 completion of the corporation's purchase of 54 PSFS branch offices from Meritor Savings Bank as "a critical strategic step in building on our leadership position in the central Atlantic region."

Compared with the second quarter of 1989, the quarter's results reflected increases in service fee revenue and other revenue which more than offset a modest decrease in net interest revenue and a reduction in trading revenue, as well as increases in the provision for credit losses and operating expense.

Net interest revenue was $207 million in the second quarter of 1990, compared with $209 million in the second quarter of 1989. Excluding the effect of a $7 million decrease in receipts on Brazilian nonperforming loans, net interest revenue increased $5 million from the prior year period, reflecting the acquisition of the PSFS branches.

Compared with the second quarter of 1989, operating expense increased by $7 million, to $288 million, resulting from the acquisition of the PSFS branches.

For the quarter, the provision for possible credit losses was $60 million, compared with $50 million in the second quarter of 1989. Net credit losses for the quarter were $36 million, down from $137 million in the prior year period. Nonperforming assets were $603 million, compared with $572 million at March 31, 1990. The increase resulted principally from an increase in the level of the corporation's nonperforming commercial real estate loans, which was offset in part by the removal from nonperforming status of the corporation's investment in GSNB's senior preferred stock.

With assets of $31.7 billion at June 30, 1990, Mellon Bank Corp. is one of the largest bank holding companies in the United States. Through its subsidiaries, it provides wholesale, middle market and retail banking, as well as numerous service products including trust and investment, cash management and financial data processing.

NEW YORK (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Pfizer Inc (NYSE: PFE) today reported an increase in net income of 11 percent on a sales gain of 15 percent for the second quarter.

Worldwide sales for the quarter were $1,495.7 million, compared to $1,302.7 million in 1989. Net income for the quarter was $151.2 million compared to $135.7 million the previous year.

Earnings per share for the quarter were $0.90, up 13 percent from $0.80 in 1989.

For the first six months of 1990, sales were $2,977.7 million, a 9 percent increase over the $2,739 million reported for 1989. Net income was $403.1 million, a 7 percent increase over the $376.5 million in 1989. Year-to-date earnings per share were $2.40, an 8 percent increase over the $2.23 reported last year.

Sales gains were reported for the quarter in two of Pfizer's business segments: health care, 26 percent; and specialty chemicals, 4 percent. Animal health sales were flat and consumer product sales declined 2 percent. Specialty minerals sales declined 20 percent due to the sale of the pigments business. On a continuing basis, sales for this segment would have increased 13 percent.

Within the health care segment, pharmaceutical sales increased 32 percent, and sales of hospital products increased 13 percent.

Edmund T. Pratt Jr., chairman and chief executive officer, said, "Pfizer's strong investment in research and development through the last decade is clearly beginning to aid the company's sales and earnings growth and to strengthen our strategic commitment to research. Pfizer is continuing its strong investment, not only in research and development, but also in the launch of new products. In the consumer area, Plax, our pre-brushing dental rinse, is being introduced in many countries abroad with significant up-front expenses. In specialty chemicals, we are launching Chy-Max, which is used in cheesemaking.

"The outstanding 26 percent sales growth in health care was fueled by the increasing number of new products entering our worldwide markets," Pratt said. "The newly launched cardiovascular drugs Procardia XL, Cardura, Minipress XL, and Norvasc; the antifungal Diflucan; and the Monorail Piccolino coronary angioplasty catheter added well over $165 million in new product sales in the second quarter. Our net income is beginning to benefit from the earnings momentum these products promise for the 1990s."

"While sales of our newly launched products build, our pipeline of products in development continue to progress through the approval process " Pratt continued. "In April, we filed with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) for approval of Zithromax, an exciting new class of antibiotic, and in May we received FDA approval for our Optilume prostatic dilatation catheter, which is used to relieve symptoms of an enlarged prostate. In our U.S. pharmaceutical business alone, we hope to have six new drugs approved over the next 24 months," he added.

"This quarter, we also reached an agreement in principle to sell our citric acid business," Pratt said. "Pfizer routinely evaluates its worldwide organization and divests those businesses that no longer fit our long-term strategic focus. This active reassessment has resulted in a number of divestitures over the past several years and positions us well to meet our long-term growth objectives for the future."

WYOMISSING, PA. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - VF Corporation (NYSE: VFC) announced today that its board of directors has voted to exempt VF from coverage of all optional provisions of the recently passed Pennsylvania anti-takeover statute. The legislation, signed into law on April 27, includes provisions that allow publicly owned corporations to exempt themselves from certain provisions of the law on or before July 26.

Lawrence R. Pugh, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, explained the board's actions. "VF has carefully constructed defenses to protect the company and its shareholders from unfair and coercive takeovers while preserving management's accountability to its shareholders. In our view, the Pennsylvania anti-takeover statute goes too far in disenfranchising shareholders." However, Pugh further said, "The board will continue to consider the interests of other stakeholders in the company in discharging its duties."

Under the statute, any person who acquires or attempts to acquire 20 percent or more of the voting power of a Pennsylvania corporation loses his voting rights unless the shareholders vote to restore the voting rights to the acquiror's shares. In addition, the statute provides that if a person acquires or attempts to acquire 20 percent or more of the voting power of a Pennsylvania corporation and within 18 months disposes of shares of the corporation, any profits on the sale must be paid to the corporation. The statute also provides that the directors of a Pennsylvania corporation may give equal weight to the interests of employees, suppliers, communities and other stakeholders in taking corporate actions.

A spokesman for VF said it is unaware of any takeover activity related to the company.

Per share earnings were $.53 and $.61, respectively. Earnings for the second quarter of 1990 resulted in a return on average assets of .80 percent and a return on average equity of 13.4 percent. First half, 1990 net income of $6.4 million or $.15 per share was significantly reduced by the unusually large addition to the loan loss reserve during the first quarter. By comparison, net income for the first half of 1989 was $46.6 million or $1.21 per share.

In addition, Dominion's balance sheet reflected solid growth during the past 12 months. At June 30, 1990 the Corporation's total assets were $10.3 billion up 9.2 percent, consolidated deposits of $7.8 billion were 8.1 percent higher and loans, net of unearned income, totaled $7.1 billion an increase of 6.2 percent over June 30, 1989. Shareholders' equity increased 3.8 percent to $615.6 million on June 30, 1990 producing a primary capital ratio of 8.1 percent, a risk-based capital ratio in excess of 9.5 percent and a period end book value of $15.96 per share. An expanded table of additional key financial data is attached.

The Board of Directors declared a third quarter cash dividend of 22 cents per share of common stock at its meeting today. The dividend is payable September 10, 1990 to shareholders of record at the close of business on August 10, 1990.

Warner N. Dalhouse, Dominion's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, noted that considerable progress has been made in Dominion's current efforts to refine the Corporation's strategic direction for the 1990s. Several in-depth studies initiated before the end of 1989 focus on the reassessment of those factors that will keep Dominion competitive and profitable during the 1990s. Priorities include long-range strategic planning, corporate structure, branch and product profitability, employee productivity and efficiency, and cost control. While final results of these studies will not be available until late summer preliminary indications are very encouraging.

Dalhouse also announced that the Board of Directors has adopted a detailed comprehensive plan developed by management to assure that credit policies procedures and monitoring systems are effective, comprehensive and applied consistently throughout the Corporation. The formal plan, which followed extensive reviews of Dominion's credit portfolios during recent months, is consistent with both the Board's and management's long-term commitment to monitor and control the Corporation's credit risks. Among other benefits, the plan is expected to more quickly identify the impact of changing economic and market conditions on credit portfolios, improve the relative quality of the Corporation's earnings assets, and assure compliance with applicable regulatory requirements. The plan (and resulting management reports) will be monitored by the Board and reviewed with bank regulators.

NEW YORK (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - McGraw-Hill, Inc. (NYSE: MHP) today reported net income of $37,203,000 for the second quarter, a decline of 26.7 percent from the same period last year. Revenue for the quarter increased 6.8 percent to $457,770,000. Earnings per share for the quarter were 76 cents versus $1.04 last year.

For the first six months of 1990, net income was $53,692,000, a decline of 34.5 percent. Revenue for the period rose 7.2 percent to $877,792,000. Earnings per share for the first half were $1.10 compared with $1.68 last year.

"As expected in the second quarter, we contended with increased interest expense and the impact of non-repetitive gains and related additional tax benefits last year, which were only partially offset by approximately $9 million of pre-tax savings from the realignment of operations in 1989," said Joseph L. Dionne, chairman and chief executive officer of McGraw-Hill Inc.

-- Non-repetitive gains: "McGraw-Hill realized a net gain of 26 cents per share in the second quarter last year from the sale of properties, including additional tax benefits which lowered our effective tax rate to 27 percent. This year the tax rate is 43 percent."

-- Interest expense: "Financing acquisitions in late 1989 and earlier this year has boosted interest expense by nearly $6.3 million over the same quarter a year ago.

"All four operating segments registered revenue increases in the second quarter, but only Financial Services showed an increase in operating profits.

"In Financial Services, the Standard & Poor's Ratings Group, with its growing international activity and a strong performance in municipals, produced solid gains. MMS International and commodity information products also contributed to the 32 percent increase in the segment's operating profits. Financial Services also benefited from an absence of losses because of the shutdown of McGraw-Hill News and the sale of Numerax earlier this year.

"In Information and Publication Services, gains by F.W. Dodge and other construction information providers could not offset advertising declines at Business Week and Aviation Week and a shortfall in certain computer and communications operations. As a result, the segment's operating profits fell by 20 percent.

"The revision cycle for products at Shepard's skewed results in Educational and Professional Publishing. Last year in the second quarter, Shepard's had substantial income from the revision of one of its most significant citator projects. Softness in healthcare magazine advertising also contributed to the segment's 55 percent decline in operating profits.

"Broadcasting's operating profits were flat, reflecting market conditions.

"In the second quarter, we are beginning to see the benefits of recent major investments in educational publishing. Our share of the profits from the new joint venture, the Macmillan/McGraw-Hill School Publishing Company, is $11.6 million. But because of the seasonality of the educational marketplace, we expect that even more substantial gains will be realized in the third quarter from both the joint venture company and our college division.

"Strategic investments have shifted the business mix at McGraw- Hill, substantially increasing our earning power in the second half of the year. Despite softness in advertising, I am confident that we are coming out of the first half prepared to hit our target for 1990 -- $3.50 to $4.00 per share."

DENVER (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Colorado National Bankshares Inc. (NASDAQ: COLC) announced today net income of $1,237,000, or 11 cents per share, for the second quarter of 1990, compared to $518,000, or 5 cents per share, in the second quarter last year. For the first six months of 1990, the company earned $2,787,000, or 25 cents per share, compared to $2,921,000, or 27 cents per share, for the like period a year ago.

Will F. Nicholson, Jr., chairman of the board and president, noted several areas of improvement, including an increase in net interest income and increases in all categories of other income.

Negatively impacting this year's results, however, were a higher provision for loan losses and writedowns of the carrying value of foreclosed real estate. "We have said for some time that the area's commercial real estate market continues to be an area of particular concern to us," said Nicholson. "Intensifying our concern is the potential effect that the disposition of nearly 2,000 Colorado properties owned by the Resolution Trust Corp. (RTC) will have on real estate values. The manner in which the RTC markets these properties could have a further unfavorable impact on the Colorado real estate market. These uncertainties continue to depress the slowly developing recovery of the Colorado economy."

The provision for loan loss expense during the recent quarter was $11.2 million, up 86 percent from the $6 million recorded in the like quarter of 1989, but flat when compared to the three quarters since the middle of last year. For the six months, the provision was $22.5 million, up $9.6 million (75 percent) from the $12.9 million recorded in 1989.

Other real estate expense (including writedowns and operating expenses) was $5.2 million during the second quarter of 1990, up $2.7 million from the $2.5 million recorded in the like quarter of 1989. For the six months, other real estate expense was $6.2 million, up $2.9 million from the $3.3 million recorded in 1989.

Problem assets at June 30, 1990, totaled $122.8 million, down $5.9 million from June 30, 1989, and down $4.3 million from March 31, 1990.

At June 30, 1990, the allowance for loan losses was $52.4 million, up 2 percent from $51.5 million a year ago. The allowance provides an 81 percent coverage of problem loans.

~HL:IRISH FOREIGN MINISTER TO DISCUSS HOSTAGES IN LEBANON ON MIDDLE EAST VISIT
DUBLIN (JULY 17) - Irish Foreign Minister Gerry Collins intends to raise the case of Brian Keenan, an Irishman held hostage in Lebanon, when he makes an official visit to the Middle East next week, officials said here Tuesday.

Mr. Collins is due to visit Israel on Monday, travelling on Tuesday to Tunisia to meet leaders of the Arab League in the context of a mission for the European Economic Community (EEC).

Efforts by the Irish government to obtain the release of Mr. Keenan would dominate the visit, an Irish Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

Ireland, which has condemned recent Israeli air raids against south Lebanon, last week sent diplomats to Beirut and to Damascus in search of information on Mr. Keenan, a teacher from Belfast in Northern Ireland.

English-language press reports have suggested that Mr. Keenan might be released because the official IRNA Iranian news agency said early in July that a Westerner being held hostage was likely to be released.

But an informed source in Teheran said on Friday that nothing was being prepared.

Mr. Keenan, 39, who has British and Irish nationality, was seized by unidentified people in west Beirut in April 1986.

NEW YORK, NY (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Texaco Inc. announced today that it will become a major co-sponsor of television's longest running performing arts program, "Great Performances," for the next two broadcast seasons. In addition, the company will extend for two years its sponsorship of "The Metropolitan Opera Presents," also aired on public television.

And, for the first time, due to Texaco's sponsorships, "Great Performances" will present a production by the world's premier opera company, The Metropolitan Opera. Verdi's "A Masked Ball," with Luciano Pavarotti, Aprile Millo, and Leo Nucci, will be telecast on Wednesday, April 10, 1991, as part of the "Great Performances" schedule.

"A Masked Ball" will be conducted by James Levine and directed by Piero Faggioni. Another major Metropolitan Opera production will be presented on "Great Performances" during the 1991-92 season.

James W. Kinnear, president and chief executive officer of Texaco Inc., said: "Our new co-sponsorship of 'Great Performances' and our continued sponsorship of 'The Metropolitan Opera Presents' on television are a reflection of our determination to make performing arts accessible to a broad cross-section of the American public - as we have demonstrated over the past 50 years with our sponsorship of The Metropolitan Opera radio broadcasts.

"Through our support of such stellar productions of classical and contemporary music, drama, dance and film, Texaco can contribute significantly to a more universal appreciation of these rich art forms - for sheer enjoyment, for the enhancement of cultural literacy, and for the future vitality of all performing arts."

William F. Baker, president of Thirteen/WNET, the PBS station which originates "Great Performances," said: "The performing arts need corporate friends. The additional funding will allow us to continue to bring 'Great Performances' to the attention of a broad, diverse audience and, hopefully even more people will find themselves captivated by these touchstones of our heritage and culture."

James Marcus, chairman of the board of the Metropolitan Opera Association, said, "The Metropolitan Opera is extremely grateful for Texaco's long-standing, generous sponsorship of Met radio and television broadcasts. We are delighted that 'A Masked Ball' will be a special presentation in the distinguished 'Great Performances' series on PBS, and that Texaco is continuing its commitment to bringing great opera to a wide audience through 'The Metropolitan Opera Presents' television series."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Florida Progress Corporation (NYSE: FPC) released its second quarter 1990 unaudited report of earnings today, it was announced by Richard Korpan, executive vice president and chief financial officer. The company's earnings per common share for the second quarter of 1990 were $.85 as compared to $.89 in 1989.

Florida Power Corporation's retail sales for the second quarter of 1990 increased 4.2 percent over 1989 due to warmer weather conditions and steady customer growth. This sales growth helped to nearly offset the second quarter impact of higher depreciation rates and the rate reduction from an extension of customer billing credits by the Florida Public Service Commission. The second quarter utility earnings per share decreased to $.76 in 1990 from $.77 in 1989.

Second quarter earnings per share for Florida Progress' diversified operations decreased to $.09 in 1990 from $.12 in 1989. This difference resulted primarily from a gain on the sale of an aircraft in 1989 and depressed market conditions in real estate and building products.

Talquin Corporation, the development subsidiary, also announced today that it has retained the investment banking unit of Chemical Bank of New York to assist it in evaluating options for its building products operations. Among the alternatives being considered are possible restructuring or divestiture of some or all of those operations. Divesting some of the operations could result in losses as well as gains.

DALLAS (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - ENSERCH Corp. (NYSE: ENS) today announced that the first well on Garden Banks Block 387 in the Gulf of Mexico (the fourth well on the prospect) is in the process of being permanently plugged and abandoned. Net interest income improved 7.5 percent in the second quarter of 1990 compared to the similar period in 1989. Reduced-rate loans, comprised almost entirely of reduced interest rate Mexican bonds received in exchange for Mexican loans, were $11.2 million at June 30, 1990, compared to $120,000 at June 30, 1989, and unchanged from the $11.2 million at March 31, 1990. Other real estate was $26.6 million at June 30, 1990, compared to $20.0 million at June 30, 1989, and $34.3 million at March 31, 1990.

NEW YORK (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Gannett Company, publisher of USA Today, is discussing a possible acquisition of a stake in Mizlou Communications' Sports News Network (SNN) cable channel, according to a story in the July 18 issue of Inside Media, a biweekly magazine covering the media business.

Although neither Gannett executives nor SNN would comment on the record, an industry source told Inside Media that the two companies met last week to discuss Gannet's purchase of a "substantial" stake in the fledgling network, launched in February. SNN has grown from 4.5 million homes to 7 million in its first five months of operation.

Also in the July 18 issue of Inside Media: -- CBS plans to give away J.R. Ewing's Mercedes in a contest promotion planned for this winter. The promotion is a reprise of its "For Love and Money" contest, held earlier this year, which offered a lucky winner a replica of the South Fork mansion seen on "Dallas." Contest details will be inserted in 50 million inserts in newspapers across the country.

-- CBS Broadcast Group President Howard Stringer said he doesn't think advertising agencies have gotten his network's message. So he and CBS CEO Laurence Tisch are planning on taking their pitch directly to major advertisers, circumventing those clients' agencies. "We have to reinvent the way we do business," Stringer told Inside Media's Chuck Ross in an exclusive interview. "I have already talked to some very big companies..."

-- The Cable Guide, a monthly magazine that circulates to some 9.5 million cable customers, is planning on launching a weekly edition across the country. The idea is to compete more directly with TV Guide, which now has a circulation of more than 15 million. Both the Cable Guide and TV Guide are planning on conversion to full-size formats later this year.

WEST LAFAYETTE, IN (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Great Lakes Chemical Corporation (NYSE: GLK) today reported its best quarter in the company's history for both net income and revenues.

Record earnings for the 1990 second quarter rose 11 percent to $34,535,000 or $.98 per share, versus $31,231,000, or $.90 per share, recorded in the same three-month period last year. Revenues also increased to an all-time high, jumping 29 percent to $267,707,000 from the $207,288,000 generated during the second quarter of 1989.

For the first six months of this year, net income totaled $68,843,000, or $1.96 per share, gaining 15 percent over the $59,806,000, or $1.72 per share, achieved for the first half of 1989. Revenues grew to $532,040,000, or 46 percent higher than the $365,364,000 for the first six months of 1989.

Emerson Kampen, chairman, president and CEO, commented on the company's success, saying "We are extremely pleased with the outstanding financial performance for the first half of the year. Given our progress to date, plus the prospects for continued improvement, this year we will surpass the one billion dollar mark in total revenues -- a feat resulting from the company's sustained growth over the past two decades during which earnings and revenues have multiplied some one hundred times."

He went on to point out that the company continued to benefit from the healthy fundamentals in most of its principal businesses. "Flame retardant sales outside of the United States, and revenues from the company's clear drilling fluids, were at record levels. Octel Associates enjoyed its best quarter ever, bolstered by its recent acquisition of the remaining portion of its Italian affiliate, SIAC, in May of this year. Our Great Lakes Chemical (Europe) subsidiary maintained its excellent level of performance benefiting from inroads into markets with products designed to meet specific European requirements."

Great Lakes Chemical Corporation, a Fortune 500 company, is the world's leading producer of bromine, brominated chemicals and furfural derivatives for such applications as flame retardants, agriculture, oil and gas well completion fluids, water sanitizers and other specialty applications. The stepped-up, multi-million-dollar program to prevent stress and strain for thousands of its employees who work at computer terminals.

New adjustable furniture, including chairs with back and footrests, built-in wrist supports, and offices with indirect lighting and soft pastel colors are among key features of the program, expected to be completed in hundreds of company facilities statewide over the next two years.

The first office containing many of the new features was unveiled at a Pacific Bell directory assistance facility in Concord.

"It's specially designed for the protection, safety and comfort of our employees and to minimize physical strain," said Dr. Jake Moll, Pacific Bell medical director of health prevention and wellness programs.

"Computer terminals will become even more a feature of our work in the future, and improving employees' level of comfort allows them to provide better service to our customers."

Moll said about 75 percent of Pacific Bell's 61,000 employees, including operators, service representatives, managers, and clerical personnel, use video display terminals.

In the Concord office 60 employees are working in a room painted in subdued pastel tones with walls covered in textured fabric and fabric inlay workstation partitions to reduce noise levels.

Operators in the office are able to adjust their chairs for height and comfort and to place their wrists in a neutral, straight-wrist position that allows using computer keyboards while avoiding strain. Desks are equipped with easy-to-use adjustment levers to allow workers to perform duties while sitting or standing at a convenient height.

Moll said the new program is estimated to cost a total of $8 million. A key feature of the program is training designed to show computer operators how to maximize the benefits of the new equipment and to avoid health problems by maintaining correct posture and doing special body and eye exercises.

Training will begin soon for some 20,000 frequent keyboard users. By the end of 1992, all users will have been trained, Moll said.

HARRISBURG, PA. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Pennsylvania's state- chartered banks earned less money in the first quarter of 1990 than they earned for the same period last year, according to the Department of Banking.

Earnings for 162 banks were $68 million for the first quarter, 58 percent less than the $162 million reported by 160 banks in March 1989.

State Banking Secretary Sarah W. Hargrove said the decrease is due primarily to losses incurred by three of the 11 savings banks, as well as to lower first quarter net income for commercial banks, private banks and trust companies.

Hargrove said that total assets grew by 2.4 percent, to $72.1 billion. She attributed the increase primarily to a 7.4 percent increase in total loans.

Total deposits grew by 6.4 percent, from more than $56 billion to $60 billion.

The 162 institutions reporting include 135 commercial banks, 11 savings banks, five private banks, and 11 trust companies. The institutions maintain 1,917 branch offices, 293 of which are remote service facilities housing automated teller machines. Also included in the number of branches are seven foreign bank offices located in Pennsylvania, three of which are required to file reports of their condition.

Eight of the 162 banks reporting are new banks, but the net increase in state-chartered institutions is two because of consolidation among existing banks.

MINNEAPOLIS (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Honeywell (NYSE: HON) will teach a "Radon 101" course to more than 40 Los Angeles-area heating, ventilation and air-conditioning contractors today at the Howard Johnson's Plaza Hotel in Monrovia, Calif. The program is being offered to respond to contractor and consumer interest in radon generated by recent news reports.

According to the Los Angeles Times, the Los Angeles County Department of Health and Human Services has advised all county residents to test their homes for radon. The recommendation was based on a county survey that showed 2.2 percent of 1,860 homes tested for radon at levels above 4 picoCuries per liter (4 pCi/1).

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) currently recommends further testing if radon levels are 4 pCi/1 or greater. It has been speculated that the EPA may reduce the action level to a lower concentration in the future. The U.S. EPA, U.S. Surgeon General, American Cancer Society and National Cancer Society attribute 20,000 annual deaths to radon-induced lung cancer.

In September 1988, the U.S. Surgeon General issued a national health advisory stating that most of the nation's homes should be tested for radon. The public, however, has remained apathetic, responding slowly to the advisory.

Radon is an odorless, colorless radioactive gas that is produced by the natural decay of radium and uranium in rocks, soil and water. Radon can seep from the ground into buildings. Once inside, the gas transforms into a series of decay products. Regular inhalation of elevated concentrations of these decay products over a number of years can greatly increase the risk of lung cancer.

The half-day Honeywell course in Monrovia will be led by Honeywell's radon business manager, Michael Schell. Schell is recognized as a radon technology expert both in the United States and Canada. The course will cover basics including what is radon, health risks associated with radon exposure and some solutions to the problem.

It is intended as a general overview course and a primer for a three-and-a-half day Honeywell course designed for contractors who want to prepare to take the national EPA radon certification test.

According to Schell, Honeywell was invited to present the course by Air Supply Inc., a North Hollywood-based distributor and wholesaler for Honeywell radon products. Air Supply is sponsoring the class for its customers, contractors in Los Angeles, Ventura and Santa Barbara.

Honeywell was the first major industrial company to produce radon monitors both for home use and use by professional air-quality experts. The company also trains radon contractors in EPA-approved testing and reduction methods and provides a broad range of consumer information on radon.

Honeywell is a global controls company that provides products, systems and services for homes and buildings, industry, and aviation and space. The company had 1989 sales of $6.1 billion.

This gain was the result of the partial recovery by First Financial of its deposit with the Financial Institutions Assurance Corporation which had been written off in its entirety in 1985.

Mr. Summerlin further reported the Company's interest margin and fee income had each increased approximately 5 percent in 1990 versus 1989 while operating expenses had increased less than 1 percent and its provision for loan losses had decreased.

Mr. Summerlin further stated that he was extremely pleased to report a continued increase in profitability for 1990 over 1989 given all the negative publicity surrounding the financial industry and a weakening economy. The Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act of 1989 has placed many additional regulations on financial insitutions, thrifts in particular. AKRON, Ohio (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Telxon Corporation (NASDAQ/NMS: TLXN) today reported net income of $3.7 million, or $.28 per share, for its first quarter of fiscal 1991 ended June 30, 1990. That compares with net income of $557,000, or $.04 per share, for the same period a year ago. The fiscal 1990 period included a $344,000 net loss, or $.03 per share, from its Information Management Group Division divested in March 1990. Income after tax and before the extraordinary items for the fiscal 1991 first quarter was $1.5 million, or $.11 per share.

Revenue for the first quarter was $40.2 million, an increase of 14 percent over $35.3 million for the first quarter of fiscal 1990.

Results for the fiscal 1991 first quarter included an extraordinary after-tax gain of $2.1 million, or $.16 per share, as a result of the company's April 1990 purchase of $10 million of its subordinated convertible debentures and an extraordinary credit of $130,000, or $.01 per share, from the utilization of state tax carryforwards.

Average shares outstanding for the first three months of fiscal 1991 and fiscal 1990 were 13.3 million in both periods.

"Telxon's growth in profits is reflective of the steps we've taken to improve our business," said Raymond D. Meyo, Telxon president and chief executive officer. "Working capital management programs we've implemented have produced significant results. For example, there has been a steady decrease in accounts receivable as measured in days sales outstanding, which has been reduced to approximately 73 days as of June 30, 1990, from 94 days at March 31, 1990."

Cash balances continue to be strong at more than $53 million in June 1990, he continued. The company received income tax refunds of approximately $10 million in June 1990.

Meyo estimated that Telxon's revenue for the fiscal 1991 second quarter will be in the $41 million to $43 million range, and earnings per share for the quarter in the $.12 to $.15 range. He also reconfirmed estimates of fiscal 1991 revenue in the $160 million to $165 million range, and earnings per share for the year in the $.66 to $.71 range, including the extraordinary gains discussed earlier.

WASHINGTON, DC (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - As the U.S. Senate voted to establish a global quota on textile and apparel imports, the U.S. Department of Commerce reported that imports of those products in the first five months of this year reached a record 4.9 billion square meters.

Today the full Senate voted 68 to 32 in favor of the Textile, Apparel and Footwear Trade Act. This vote, more than two-thirds of the Senate, is larger than the 60-to-39 vote in 1985 and the 59-to-36 vote in 1988 on similar measures.

The bill would estblish a comprehensive global quota system that would be based on the record-breaking import levels of 1989 and would allow imports to grow 1 percent each year, which has been the growth rate of the U.S. market.

The Commerce Department report also showed that the textile and apparel trade deficit of $9.2 billion was at a record level for the first five months of this year and accounted for 26.3 percent of the total U.S. trade deficit for those five months.

ATMI President Donald R. Hughes of Burlington Industries Inc. said the strong Senate vote is "a reflection of the deep concern in the Congress over the devastation that textile imports are creating throughout the economy and the strong commitment on the part of senators from areas across the country to correct the problem. The 2 million people employed in our industry are grateful for this strong support."

"We want to thank Senators Hollings and Helms for guiding the bill through the Senate and Senators Thurmond and Sanford for their efforts, as well," Hughes said.

According to the Commerce Department, cotton textile imports continued to rise during the first five months of this year, reaching 2.2 billion square meters, a 14.6 percent increase over the same period in 1989. Imports from China, the largest exporter of textiles and apparel to the United States, were up 5.5 percent over last year's record level.

Loren C. Adgate, the corporation's president and chief executive officer, issued the report and added, "Earnings for the first half of 1990 were lower than those reported for the same period last year." He went on to point out that there were three principal reasons for the decline:

1. The company recognized investment security losses amounting to $122,000. A portion of these losses reflect the write down of certain securities held for sale, and, as the remaining $4.5 million of the original $14.5 million of such bonds mature or, if bond yields fall, a portion of this loss will be recovered.

2. The expense of redeeming $2 million of 10 percent Convertible Subordinated Debentures in May was nearly $140,000. In 1991 and later years, this action will have little impact on reported earnings but, fully diluted earnings per share will increase by approximately $.05.

3. The company has incurred expenses associated with a review of operations totaling more than $90,000. Its effort will result in the consolidation of many lending functions and certain additional efficiencies and may result in annual savings of as much as $400,000 in subsequent years.

At the end of the first half of 1990, the corporation's total assets were $327,323,000. One year earlier, they had been $318,836,000. Total deposits stood at $294,797,000 compared to $283,653,000 at mid-year 1989. Net loans outstanding were $220,205,000, up from $205,810,000 12 months earlier.

Adgate concluded the report by stating, "As we move into the second half of the year, most trends are favorable and it is reasonable to expect a stronger earnings performance during the last six months."

He explained, "The pending sale of our credit card portfolios should result in a pre-tax gain of more than $300,000. And further consolidation of internal operations will not only reduce expenses but will also allow our affiliate banks to place even more emphasis on sales and customer service."

Independent Bank Corporation has three affiliate banks: Independent Bank, Ionia; Independent Bank - West Michigan, Rockford; and Independent Bank - South Michigan, Leslie. The three banks operate 26 offices in 23 communities in western and central Michigan.

The corporation's common stock is traded in the over-the-counter market and quoted on the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol IBCP.

ST. LOUIS (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Boatmen's Bancshares Inc. (NASDAQ: BOAT) reported second quarter net income of $33 million, or 95 cents per share, unchanged from the year before.

For the first half, net income rose 2.5 percent to $65.5 million, or $1.89 per share, from $64 million, or $1.85 per share, a year ago.

"While the second quarter was below our plan, the results were nonetheless reasonably satisfactory, particularly in light of the turmoil within the banking industry," commented Andrew B. Craig III, chairman, president and chief executive officer. He pointed out that during the second quarter federal and state regulatory agencies completed asset quality examinations of all of Boatmen's subsidiary banks. "We are encouraged that these examinations had no significant impact on the corporation's financial position."

The executive continued, "We remain concerned, however, about the continued sluggish economic conditions in our markets. Loans increased only about 2.5 percent over the year-earlier period, as well as the first quarter."

Reflecting the current economic environment, the provision for loan losses in the second quarter increased to $16.8 million from $14.7 million the year before and $14.4 million in the 1990 first quarter.

Domestic nonperforming loans at the end of the quarter were $196.6 million or 2.12 percent of loans outstanding, compared with $157.1 million, or 1.75 percent the year before, and $179.3 million, or 1.98 percent at March 31, 1990. At June 30, 1990, the reserve for domestic loan losses represented 1.62 percent of loans outstanding, compared with 1.50 percent a year earlier and 1.58 percent at the end of the 1990 first quarter. The corporation effectively has no LDC foreign loan exposure.

Net loan charge-offs in the second quarter totaled $10.2 million, compared with $11.6 million the year before and $11.6 million in the 1990 first quarter. Net loan losses for the first half were down $4.1 million and totaled $21.7 million, versus $25.8 million a year ago. Craig pointed out, "We continue to project 1990 loan losses below the prior year."

Net interest income in the second quarter increased slightly to $117.8 million from $116.4 million the year before, as the net interest margin of 3.90 percent remained relatively stable compared with the first quarter. However, recent declines in short-term interest rates should have a positive influence.

Boatmen's is the largest bank holding company in Missouri with 32 full-service banks in Missouri, Illinois and Tennessee; mortgage and insurance companies; and a credit card bank in Delaware. Total assets at June 30, 1990, were $15 billion. Boatmen's also ranks among the top providers of trust services in the nation with more than $25 billion in assets under management.

DALLAS (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - American Airlines will resume daily nonstop jet service between Nashville and its Caribbean hub at San Juan, Puerto Rico, on Oct. 1, the airline announced today.

The flight, operated with a 150-seat 727-200, will provide easy connections through the San Juan gateway to a number of other Caribbean island destinations. These include St. Thomas, Antigua, St. Maarten, Port of Spain, Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Aruba, Barbados, Anguilla, British Virgin Islands, St. Kitts, Guadeloupe, St. Lucia and Mayaguez.

The decision to restore the Nashville-San Juan service comes less than two months after American announced a major expansion of its Nashville hub that involves adding seven new cities and 20 new jet flights to the hub by the end of this year. The airline inaugurated Nashville-San Diego and Nashville-Las Vegas service on July 1.

"We are delighted to be restoring the San Juan service," said William C. Wallace, American's central division vice president. "We said when we discontinued the route earlier this year that we hoped demand would improve to the point where the service could be reinstated. That time has come, and San Juan will now become another key element in our plan to fully develop the Nashville hub."

Flight 1549 will leave Nashville at 2:10 p.m. and arrive in San Juan at 7:06 p.m. (AST). Northbound, Flight 594 will leave San Juan at 11:00 a.m. and arrive at Nashville at 2:01 p.m.

In addition to San Diego and Las Vegas, American will begin service from Nashville this year to Indianapolis, Kansas City, Miami, Columbus and Fort Lauderdale. The airline also will add a third daily flight to and from Los Angeles.

American will have more than 150 flights a day at Nashville by mid-1991.

ST. LOUIS (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Pulitzer Publishing Co. (NASDAQ: PLTZ) today reported a 33.6 percent decrease in second-quarter net income to $4.6 million, or 44 cents per share, compared with $6.9 million, or 66 cents per share, in the second quarter of 1989.

The decrease in net income for the second quarter of 1990 was primarily atrributable to lower profits in the publishing segment and increased depreciation and amortization with respect to the acquisition of WDSU-TV. In December 1989, the company sold WPTA-TV, Ft. Wayne (101st market) and acquired WDSU-TV, New Orleans (36th market).

Revenues for the second quarter of 1990 increased 0.5 percent to $103.9 million from $103.3 million for the second quarter of 1989. Publishing revenues decreased 3.2 percent, reflecting continued softness in advertising linage. Full-run linage declined 3.0 percent at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and 4.1 percent at the Tucson newspaper agency. Broadcasting revenues were up 10.8 percent, reflecting in large part the greater revenues generated by WDSU-TV than by WPTA-TV. Excluding these two stations from the comparison, consolidated revenues would have decreased

1.8 percent and broadcasting revenues would have increased 2.4 percent.

Operating expenses for the second quarter rose 6.6 percent to $92.1 million from $86.4 million for the second quarter of 1989. Publishing expenses rose 3.1 percent. Broadcasting expenses increased 18.6 percent, reflecting the greater expenses of WDSU-TV than WPTA-TV, including a $1.6 million increase in depreciation and amortization. Excluding these two stations from the comparison, consolidated operating expenses would have increased 3.0 percent and broadcasting expenses would have increased 2.3 percent.

Operating cash flow (i) for the second quarter decreased 10.7 percent to $15.7 million, compared with $17.6 million in the 1989 second quarter. Publishing cash flow decreased to $5.7 million from $8.4 million, principally reflecting a decline in the profits of the Post-Dispatch. Broadcasting cash flow increased to $10.8 million from $10.0 million, an increase of 7.8 percent. Corporate charges were flat, approximating $800,000.

Net income for the six months ended June 30, 1990 decreased 44.8 percent to $5.5 million, or 53 cents per share, from $10.0 million, or 95 cents per share, the year before. The decrease in earnings was principally due to a decrease in profits in the publishing segment and increased depreciation and amortization resulting from the WDSU-TV acquisition.

Revenues for the first half increased 0.8 percent to $199.0 million from $197.4 million. Publishing revenues decreased 2.6 percent while broadcasting revenues increased 10.6 percent. Excluding WDSU-TV and WPTA-TV from the comparison, consolidated revenues would have decreased 1.3 percent and broadcasting revenues would have increased 2.6 percent.

(i) Operating income after agency adjustment plus depreciation and amortization.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Polaroid Corporation (NYSE: PRD) today reported operating profits of $66.7 million for the second quarter of 1990, vs. $91.9 million for the same quarter in 1989, before deducting residual Shamrock-related expenses of $2.0 million in last year's second quarter.

Net earnings for the second quarter of 1990 were $32.9 million compared with $42.7 million in the same period last year. After deducting dividends on preferred stock, primary earnings per common share were 45 cents, vs. 62 cents per share for the second quarter of the prior year.

Worldwide sales in the second quarter of 1990 were $475.6 million, compared with $486.6 million in the same period a year earlier. U.S. sales were 10 percent lower than in the comparable 1989 period, while international sales increased 8 percent.

"The continuing uncertainty in the worldwide business climate, particularly in the U.S., adversely affected second quarter results," said I. MacAllister Booth, Polaroid's president and chief executive officer. "Despite a slight increase in worldwide retail sales of instant film, retailers were cautious about maintaining last year's levels of inventory, resulting in lower instant-film shipments. Camera shipments were approximately the same as last year, while video tape and conventional film continued to broaden in distribution. In addition, our higher levels of investment in marketing and in new product development are reflected in this quarter's results.

"Polaroid is developing a stronger customer orientation with a focus on producing imaging systems and providing the imaging media of choice. That is the core of our business strategy," Booth said. "We are building a foundation to take advantage of the growing market for imaging through the 1990s. The continued commitment to invest in Polaroid's future along with the impact of the uncertainty of worldwide economic conditions have led us to lower expectations for the year. We expect that Polaroid will achieve operating profits that are flat to moderately down from last year's levels.''

For the first six months of 1990, operating profits were $132.1 million, compared with $165.3 million in the first half of 1989, before deducting Shamrock-related expenses of $40.5 million for the first half of 1989. Net earnings for the six-month period were $64.7 million, compared with $68.6 million a year ago. After deducting dividends on preferred stock, primary earnings per common share were 89 cents, vs. 87 cents for the first half of the prior year.

Worldwide sales for the first six months of 1990 were $911.8 million, compared with $928.9 million for the first half of 1989.

The effective tax rate for the second quarter of 1990 was 31 percent, vs. 41 percent in the comparable period last year. For the first half of 1990, the effective tax rate was 33 percent, vs. 39 percent in the 1989 first half.

Polaroid Corporation, with sales of almost $2 billion, is the worldwide leader in instant imaging. The company supplies instant photography, cameras and films, conventional films, video tapes and electronic visual communication products to family, business, and technical and industrial markets.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Sealright Co. Inc., (NASDAQ: SRCO) the Kansas City-based manufacturer of packaging systems and round containers for grocery and dairy products, today reported record sales and net income for the second quarter ended June 30.

Earnings rose 7.4 percent to $5.5 million, or 50 cents per share, from $5.1 million, or 46 cents per share, the year before. Sales were up 3.2 percent to $56.8 million, compared with $55.0 million a year ago.

Record sales and net income also were reported for the first half. Net income increased 7.6 percent to $8.2 million, or 74 cents per share, from $7.6 million, or 69 cents per share. Sales increased 6.4 percent to $103.2 million, compared with $97.0 million in the first half of 1989.

"Sales for the second quarter and the first half reflect continued strength in paperboard packaging for both grocery products and frozen dairy desserts," said Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Marvin W. Ozley. "In the plastics packaging segment, sales and margins continued to reflect the impact of competitive pressures."

Ozley attributed improved earnings for the quarter to unit volume increases, lower interest costs, and the return of selling, general, and administrative expenses to more historic levels. "Start-up costs of the new Engineering Services Center are now behind us," Ozley said.

Earnings for the first half benefited from a non-taxable one-time $350,000 gain in the first quarter resulting from an 11-acre land transfer to Sealright from the city of Kansas City, Kan.

Ozley said the company continues to penetrate new markets and invest in the company's future through research and development, new machinery, and more efficient production processes.

Sealright is North America's leading supplier of packaging and packaging systems for ice cream and other frozen dairy desserts. The company also produces paperboard and plastic food and dairy packaging and, through a wholly owned subsidiary, flexible packaging for grocery products.

MCLEAN, VA (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Cordatum, Inc. (NASDAQ: CDAT) announced today that its board of directors has authorized the filing by the company of a voluntary petition under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act.

During the past several weeks, the company has been engaged in negotiations to provide for the repayment of a loan of approximately $150,000 with Signet Bank/Maryland. The loan, which is secured by a pledge of Cordatum's receivables and is guaranteed by a principal stockholder who has pledged certain real property as security for the loan matured on June 29, 1990, but was not repaid by Cordatum. In discussions conducted during the last several days, Signet had indicated a willingness to forebear any actions against the company's receivables or the stockholder's real property until July 27, 1990, provided that Cordatum furnishes to Signet assurances satisfactory to it that the loan will be repaid by that date. Cordatum has not been able to negotiate any arrangement it believes would be satisfactory to Signet and cannot make any predictions as to what actions Signet will take.

Cordatum further announced that the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has filed federal tax liens against the company in connection with unpaid taxes, penalties and interest. The existence of the unpaid taxes and claims for penalties and interest, all relating to previous fiscal years (1985-89), was recently discovered by the board of directors that was elected in May. As a result of the uncertainties as to the extent of tax and other liabilities, Cordatum was unable to continue its efforts to obtain equity financing, new credit sources or to make business acquisitions. The information presently available indicates that the total amount due the IRS will be approximately $45,000.

The following people have resigned as directors of Cordatum, effective at the beginning of business today: Richard S. Hickok; James S. Gracey; and George G. King. In addition, Bill A. Short has resigned as the company's acting chief financial officer.

NEW YORK (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Continental Airlines today said consumers purchased 190,000 sale seats during its five-day Independence Day sale, refuting an allegation by New York City Consumer Affairs Commissioner Mark Green that advertised fares were not available.

Continental said approximately 30 percent of travelers using its flights during the five-day sale period traveled at the drastically reduced fares. Consumers saved $16 million versus prevailing fares by purchasing the discount seats, Continental said.

"Tens of thousands of New Yorkers saved millions of dollars during this sale," a Continental spokesman said. "It is ludicrous for the commissioner to suggest that advertised fares were unavailable, since we sold them hand over fist. We even had seats left over on some flights."

At the outset of the sale, 90 percent of Continental flights had seats available at the sale fares. At the conclusion of the sale, 67 percent of Continental flights had seats available at the sale fares.

"Bait-and-switch is a serious charge which we vigorously deny," the spokesman said. "Commissioner Green's research is seriously flawed -- he neglected to request empirical data from the airlines -- and cannot be relied on to any extent."

Continental said Commissioner Green fails to recognize that some airplanes do "sell out." A selection of alternate dates or flight times may be required if a flight is sold out.

"The U.S. Department of Transportation has affirmed its right to be the sole arbiter of airline advertising fairness," the spokesman continued. "Our ads are clear and understandable, and our advertising policies continue to put the consumer's interests first."

The Department of Transportation oversees airline advertising so as to provide consistency in regulation on a national level. Allowing local jurisdictions to create a patchwork regulatory environment would actually harm the consumer by confusing the situation.

#90198p5649 07/17/1990 ~PR Newswire
TORONTO (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Abitibi-Price (NYSE: ABY) today reported a loss of $3.7 million or 6 cents per common share for its second quarter, which compares with earnings of $28.8 million or 39 cents per share in the same quarter of 1989.

The latest quarter includes a charge of $28.9 million for unusual items which consist largely of the cost of staff reductions associated with the company's restructuring plan. Without this charge, the quarter would have shown before-tax earnings of $23.9 million and after-tax earnings of $14.1 million or 20 cents per common share.

For the first half of 1990, the company reported a loss of $15 million or 23 cents per common share, compared with net earnings of $55.1 million or 74 cents per share in 1989.

The loss for the first half included unusual items of $42.6 million, consisting of the restructuring costs referred to above plus the $13.7 million charge to operations in the first quarter for the write-off of an old machine at the groundwood papers mill in Jonquire, Quebec, and of the Jaffe retail office products business in Florida. Without the charge for unusual items, the first half of the year would have shown before-tax earnings of $11.5 million or 15 cents per common share.

"While the restructuring plan has had a markedly negative impact on 1990 earnings, the long-term effect will be increased profitability," said Bernd K. Koken, chairman and chief executive officer, "The company will be better positioned to compete in the increasingly competitive international marketplace."

Sales in the second quarter of 1990 were $803 million, compared with $830 million in 1989, while sales for the six months were $1.6 billion, virtually the same as last year.

The June 1 newsprint price increase, improving demand and the successful startup of the Alabama newsprint mill were bright spots during an otherwise lacklustre quarter. The improvement in demand, however, was due to a buildup of publishers' inventories, not increased consumption.

Spurred by declining profitability for the company's Paper Group, the company challenged its employees to find innovative ways to manage for greater productivity. "Employees have responded to this challenge very positively with numerous innovations, many of which have already been implemented," stated Koken.

Operating profit, before the write-off of the Jaffe office product business, continued to improve in the Diversified Group, despite soft markets. Building Products operating profit rose on the strength of the division's exterior siding business.

Abitibi-Price is a major Canadian forest products company with manufacturing, sales and distribution operations in Canada and the United States plus other investments outside of North America.

LAFOX, Ill. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Richardson Electronics, Ltd. (NASDAQ: RELL) today reported sales and earnings for the fourth quarter and year ended May 31, 1990.

Sales for the fourth quarter were $45,273,000, compared with $46,998,000 the previous year. Net income for the quarter was $1,706,000, or $.15 per share. For the same period a year ago, net income was $3,106,000, or $.28 per share.

Total sales for the year increased to a record $160,101,000 from $156,630,000 in fiscal 1989. Net income for the year was $1,012,000, or $.09 per share, compared with $11,892,000, or $1.07 per share, a year ago. The average number of shares outstanding for the year was 11,075,000.

"It is obvious that the ongoing Justice Department investigation continues to severely affect our earnings performance, and to a certain extent our revenue line as well. Direct costs alone exceeded $2.5 million during the year, and it is impossible to put a dollar figure on the diversion of management time, lost sales and damage to the company's image in the marketplace," stated Edward J. Richardson, president and CEO of the company. "I am extremely impressed, however, with the performance of our people and their ability to produce yet another year of record sales despite the incredible adversity we faced throughout fiscal 1990."

Richardson further commented, "At the present time, we are awaiting a decision by the Department of Justice and anticipate some further information by Aug. 1. With respect to the indictment issued against myself and Dennis Gandy," Richardson added, "numerous pretrial rulings against the Department of Justice were appealed by the government and the trial is postponed until the appellate court reviews the trial judge's decisions. Richardson Electronics has requested an accelerated appeal and we hope the trial will proceed by October."

"During this process, the company continues to move forward with established marketing plans and an expansion program in the Far East. Our fundamental business is very strong and we are looking forward to another record sales year in FY91. If we can conclude the investigation, we should see strong improvement in our earnings performance as well," Richardson said.

Richardson Electronics is an international distributor and manufacturer of electron tubes and power semiconductors with 20 offices throughout the world.

WASHINGTON (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - This morning, at a meeting held in its hearing chambers at 450 Fifth St. N.W., the Public Service Commission (PSC) of the District of Columbia approved C&P Telephone Company's request to offer Return Call and Caller ID services in Washington.

Return Call allows subscribers to return their last incoming call without knowing the caller's number. Caller ID displays the telephone number of the person calling.

The PSC approved Return Call as filed, and Caller ID with per call blocking. As to Caller ID, the commission concluded that it did not violate federal statutes, the U.S. Constitution or district law, including both the federal and city wiretap statutes. The commission further concluded that Caller ID was in the public interest.

"We are pleased the Public Service Commission responded to the public's broad support for Caller ID," C&P spokesperson Ellen Fitzgerald said. "We can only hope that the commission's decision to require a charge for non-display of a calling number will be effective in addressing the problem of obscene, harassing and annoying calls."

The commission gave C&P 10 days to file data regarding the cost of per-call blocking. Once that data is received, the commission will decide what charge, if any, will be associated with providing the per-call blocking option.

Last November, the PSC directed C&P to separate other services such as Repeat Call, Priority Call, Call Block, Select Forward and Call Trace from its application to offer Return Call and Caller ID. The commission has not yet made a decision regarding these services.

ELMHURST, Ill. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Elm Financial Services, Inc., (NASDAQ: ELMF) the holding company of Elmhurst Federal Savings Bank and its subsidiaries today reported earnings for the second quarter of the 1990 fiscal year.

For the three months ended June 30, 1990, the first full quarter of operations following the conversion of Elmhurst Federal Bank to a stock company and its acquisition by Elm Financial Services, Inc., net income was $833,766 compared to $712,581 for the same period in 1989, an increase of 17.0 percent. The increase in earnings is directly attributable to an increase in net interest income due to the bank's investment of net conversion proceeds. Earnings for the second quarter 1990 equaled $0.36 per share. Earnings per share for the same period 1989 are not meaningful since the stock conversion wasn't completed until March 23, 1990.

Charles H. Walsh, Chairman, Elm Financial Services, Inc. and Elmhurst Federal Savings Bank stated, "The results of operations for the three months ended June 30, 1990, are in line with our expectations as we absorb the additional capital received in our conversion." He added, "It is important to note that the quality of the bank's assets remains very high as evidenced by our risk based capital ratio of 28.1 percent at June 30."

Earnings for the first six months of 1990 were $1,295,474 compared to $1,196,709 for the same period 1989, an increase of 8.25 percent. For the six month period earnings increased primarily due to additional interest income generated by higher balances of interest earning assets as the bank's interest rate spread remained level at 2.3 percent. The bank's tangible and leverage ratio of capital to assets rose to 13.1 percent at June 30, 1990.

Elmhurst Federal Savings Bank, the operating entity of Elm Financial Services, Inc., has its executive offices in Elmhurst, Ill., and operates through eight facilities, six of which are in Du Page County and two are in Chicago. The bank's deposits are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

PALO ALTO, Calif. (JULY 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Syntex Corp. (NYSE: SYN) said today that it would ask the trial court judge to render a judgement in its favor notwithstanding a jury verdict against the company in a wrongful termination case, or to grant a new trial. If these post-trial motions are not granted, Syntex said it would immediately appeal the verdict.

A jury sitting in Superior Court in San Jose, has held that the company wrongfully terminated the plaintiff, a former employee of Syntex Research, and that in terminating him, it violated public policy. The jury awarded $2.5 million in compensatory damages and assessed $15 million in punitive damages.

Syntex said it disputes each of the plaintiff's charges and strongly disagrees with the verdict.

"The plaintiff contends that he was terminated in retaliation for his conduct. We disagree. We deny that he was terminated at all, let alone 'wrongfully terminated.' In fact, he was urged to continue in his present position at Syntex. We also deny that Syntex violated public policy in the ways in which we managed our research activities or our relations with employees," a Syntex spokeswoman said.

Syntex said that it believes that its well-deserved reputation for developing and marketing high quality products and for being an excellent employer speaks for itself.

"We believe that we are in the right and we are determined to make every effort, including pursuing our appeals to the highest levels, if necessary to be vindicated," the Syntex spokeswoman said.

PANAMA CITY, PANAMA (JULY 17) UPI - A luxury helicopter owned by former military ruler Manuel Antonio Noriega will go on sale to the public with an asking price of $6 million, treasury officials said.

The helicopter, which Noriega purchased from the French company Aerospatiale and used to travel around Panama, will be sold Aug. 29 in a closed-bid auction, treasury official Jaime Correa announced Monday.

Correa said the sale would not only raise funds for the government, but would also avoid the high costs of running the helicopter, called ''The Super Puma.''

Correa said the government still owes $3 million on the chopper, which is costing $1,000 a day in interest. The original cost of the helicopter was $5.98 million, but new models are now worth $12 million, Correa said, adding he believed the government would get the asking price of $6 million.

Members of Panama's Public Force said the Super Puma, which has clocked up 942 flight hours, is now worth $2 million because of the extensive repairs it needs.

Noriega, who was ousted in the Dec. 20 U.S. invasion, is awaiting trial in Miami on drug trafficking charges.

(JULY 17) UPI - The House refused to yield any of its spending authority today when membersrejected a proposal to amend the Constitution to require the federal budget to be balanced each year. President Bush sent a message to the House this morning lobbying for the measure on grounds that it would ''restore integrity'' to government. But opponents of the proposal shot back that NEITHER Bush NOR Ronald Reagan ever submitted a balanced budget.

The Senate today voted to speed passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1990... and Republicans are NOT happy about it. G-O-P leader Robert Dole berated eight Republican senators who voted with Democrats to limit debate on the bill. He called the act a political attempt to- in his words- ''put our party on record against civil rights.'' President Bush has threatened to veto the bill.

A New York police officer told jurors today that one of three accused youths confessed to the rape and brutal beating of a Central Park jogger last year. Detective Humberto Arroyo said Raymond Santana signed a statement one day after his arrest describing how he and his friends went to the park to ''rip people off.'' Santana said the group attacked the woman, but he did NOT participate in the gang rape. Defense lawyers say police pressing to make an arrest coerced Santana's admission.

Federal investigators testified before Congress today that the government needs to impose new regulations on medical devices. The investigators said that devices such as pacemakers and infant crib monitors are often defective because they do NOT have to pass tests for safety and effectiveness. The General Accounting Office today attributed 70 infant deaths during a six-year period to a defective crib monitor.

LONDON (JULY 17) UPI - Europe's three leading animal rights groups formed an alliance Tuesday aimed at advancing their contention that using animals to test cosmetics is cruel and unnecessary.

Members of the three organizations said the merger was needed because as the 12-nation European Community moves toward integration in 1992, guidelines on the cosmetics industry are being reviewed to create laws that will be applicable in every member country.

The new group will bring together Europe's three largest animal rights groups - the 14,000-member British Union for the Abolition of Vivisection, the Dutch League for the Abolition of Vivescetion, and the German Animal Protection League.

The BUAV is coordinating the drive, and officials said its escalated campaign coincides with the European Community's current review of its 1976 Cosmetics Directive, which is scheduled to be completed in September.

Activists hope to collect more than 2 million signatures for a petition declaring ''living animals should never be made to suffer for such a trivial and dispensible purpose'' as cosmetics testing.

''The EC was intending to increase the testing,'' said BUAV spokesman Steve McIvor. ''They were dissuaded by massive public pressure.''

McIvor said the ultimate aim was to have a total ban on all animal testing but he reported relatively few creatures were used by the cosmetics industry, compared with the greater numbers used in the medical and food industries.

Cosmetics were tested on about 17,000 of the 3.5 million animals used in British laboratories in 1988, the most recent year for which statistics are available, he said.

McIvor said the most extreme practice was for researchers to feed doses of cosmetic ingredients to animals in gradually increasing quantities until half of the specimens died. The procedure is known as the lethal dose test.

Scientists also use the Draize test, in which animals, usually rabbits, are locked into head and body braces for extended periods to gauge their reaction to various substances applied to their eyes and skin.

McIvor said all the tests are unnecessary because about 8,000 basic ingredients have been thoroughly tested. Any new products could be tested on artificially grown cell cultures, he said.

A researcher for L'Oreal said the world's largest cosmetics company had eliminated the Draize test and reduced animal testing to about 5 percent of its new products. But he believed some testing was crucial.

''It is not possible to guarantee the safety of new products without animal testing,'' he said. ''It's rather more complex than some activists would like to make out.''

The researcher requested anonymity because he said he feared militant animal rights activists. Radicals last month planted a bomb under the car of one scientist, and the device destroyed the vehicle, wounding a baby.

One cosmetics giant, Body Shop International, markets its products on the basis that nothing has been tested on animals. A spokeswoman said all-natural ingredients were tested on employees or computer simulators.

Body Shop's stocks fell this year because of a rumor that the European Community was going to force it to conduct animal testing. Lobbying by activists prompted the EC to announce it had no such intention.

McIvor said the new animal rights alliance hopes to forge pacts with similar French, Italian, Irish and Danish organizations. He believed the most excessive animal testing took place in France.

(JULY 17) UPI - The death toll from Monday's earthquake in the Philippines has risen to at least 173. Officials in Manila say they expect the death toll to rise. The most severely affected area... about 120 miles north of the capital... is isolated, with downed powerlines. The shaker registered seven-point-seven on the Richter scale.

More than 500 people were injured by the earthquake... while hundreds are trapped in flattened or damaged buildings. In Washington, the Pentagon says it has NOT received any reports of deaths or injuries among the 15-thousand U-S military personnel stationed in the Philippines.

Fire officials in New York City are NOT sure what sparked a fire Monday evening in the Empire State Building. The blaze broke out on the 51st floor of the 102-story structure and burned nearly one hour before being declared officially out. About 30 firefighters were injured in the blaze... one seriously.

Environmental Protection Agency head William Reilly announced Monday that U-S and Canadian negotiators will begin work on a clean air pact next month. Speaking at a news conference with his Canadian counterpart in Ottawa, Reilly said the talks will deal with such issues as acid rain and other cross-border pollutants.

(JULY 17) UPI - Lawyers for a Texas death row inmate scheduled to die by lethal injection Wednesday have asked the Supreme Court to halt their client's execution. The request follows the denial by a federal appeals court to issue a stay of execution Monday. Convicted killer Mikel Derrick has admitted to the 1980 slaying.

The director of two of this summer's biggest box office hits offered NO comment Monday after he was hit with a half-Million-dollar lawsuit. Renny Harlin... who directed ''The Adventures of Ford Fairlane'' and ''Die Hard-2''... is accused by his personal manager of failing to pay a 10 percent commission February 1988.

A Los Angeles judge Monday issued a preliminary injunction to bar a woman who had been bothering actress Teri Garr to stay at least 100 yards away from the actress. Garr requested the court order after the woman repeatedly phoned her, came to her home and filled her mailbox with what were called assorted ''personal and UNexplainable items.''

WASHINGTON (JULY 17) UPI - Calling it a ''vital'' tool to help solve the federal government's fiscal problems, President Bush appealed to congressional leaders to help pass a proposed Constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget.

In a letter Monday to House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash., and other key leaders, Bush urged the House to adopt the measure that would provide ''greater accountability in the enactment of tax legislation.''

Bush said the amendment ''is the most fundamental change needed in the federal budget process,'' calling it ''necessary and appropriate to protect the interests of citizens not now able to represent themselves...''

The House, which rejected a similar proposal in 1982, was scheduled to vote on the measure Tuesday. Democratic leaders, who oppose the measure, were confident it would fail again, but backers said it could pass this time.

Bush's appeal coincided with a mid-year economic report from the administration that hiked the 1991 deficit by $10 billion to $168.8 billion, warning Congress that failure to reduce it would force huge spending cuts.

The new deficit figure did not include the estimated $62.6 billion it will cost the federal government during the next fiscal year to help bailout the collapsed savings in loan industry.

The 1991 fiscal year begins Oct. 1.

Administration officials said failure by White House and congressional budget negotiators to produce an agreement that reduces the 1991 deficit to roughly $64 billion would trigger about $100 billion in automatic spending cuts.

If the cuts, mandated by Congress through the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law, would divide the reductions between domestic and military spending programs.

''To allow them to occur without having made an extra effort to prevent them would be irresponsible,'' said Richard Darman, director of the administration's Office of Management and Budget.

Bush warned Gramm-Rudman cuts ''will affect almost all that the federal government touches.''

If Gramm-Rudman cuts go into effect a sample of reduction targets could read this way:

-A reduction of about 1 million U.S. soldiers.

-The firing or furloughing of thousands of federal employees.

-Cuts in air-traffic control personnel that would result in air travel disruptions.

-The closing of national parks.

-The revocation or reduction of federal education grants for 3.4 million students.

Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell of Maine said he hoped a deficit-cutting agreement would be reached soon, adding ''obviously'' the goal of reducing it by almost $60 billion will have to be re-examined.

When Bush submitted his budget last January, the administration estimated the deficit at $100.5 billion. That figure was revised in June to $159 billion without the S&L costs.

To avoid triggering automatic cuts, lawmakers are expected to raise the Gramm-Rudman targets from $64 billion to more than $100 billion - but only if Congress and Bush agree on a deficit reduction package of tax increases and spending cuts.

SAN JOSE, Calif. (JULY 17) UPI - Singer Harry Belafonte, 63, was admitted to Good Samaritan Hospital Monday after experiencing chest pains in his hotel room but was released later in the day, a hospital administrator said.

Doctors said the singer's chest pains were not heart-related, according to a hospital spokeswoman. Belafonte underwent a cardiac catheterization in which the interior of the heart is photographed, spokeswoman Judy Twitchell said.

Belafonte was admitted for tests at 6 a.m. after being transferred from nearby Los Gatos Community Hospital where his condition was assessed by a cardiologist, said administrator Truman Gates.

Belafonte became ill in his hotel room after appearing at a concert at a local winery.

A spokeswoman for Good Samaritan said Belefonte was discharged at about 4 p.m.

TOKYO (JULY 17) UPI - Major Japanese electronic firm Mitsubishi Electric Corp. said Tuesday it will reorganize its sales operations in the United States and launch a new finance subsidiary in a move to strengthen and boost its business in the country.

The Tokyo-based company said the move is aimed at boosting its sales in the United States to $4 billion in 1992, up 15 percent over $3.5 billion estimated for the current year.

Under the reorganization, effective Aug. 1, Mitsubishi Electronics America which handles sales of color TV tubes, floppy disks and electronic devices, will absorb Mitsubishi Electric Sales America, which engages in sales of home appliances and heavy-duty electric equipment.

The new firm, to be renamed Mitsubishi Electric America, will market wide-ranging products such as information processing systems, semiconductors and electronic products, automotive components, machinery and therman and refrigerating equipment, the company said.

The company will move its headquarters from New York to Los Angeles, California, where Mitsubishi operates main production bases, the company said.

The company said Mitsubishi Electric Finance Co., capitalized at $3.3 million, will be inaugurated in Cypress, California, to provide fund raising and other financial services to its affiliates.

With the reorganization, Mitsubishi will be operating 11 subsidiaries with a total of 4,500 employees in the United States, the company said.

In Japan, Mitsubishi said, it will expand its sales operations, giving emphasis to the marketing of information and communications systems and semiconductors and other electronic devices whose demand is growing rapidly.

The company said it aims to boost its annual sales to 3 trillion yen ($20 billion) in fiscal 1992, up 25.6 percent over 1989. Its sales in 1989 rose 7.1 percent over the preceding year to 2.388 trillion yen ($15.9 billion), the company said.

(JULY 17) UPI - Philippine officials say the number of deaths from Monday's severe earthquake is likely to increase. At least 173 fatalities have been attributed to the shaker, which was centered 60 miles north of Manila. Rescue workers used chainsaws and their bare hands to try and free people trapped beneath rubble. The quake downed powerlines and triggered landslides which have cut off a resort area 120 miles north of the capital.

The so-called two-plus-four talks on German re-unification resume Tuesday in Paris. The meeting takes place one day after the Soviets removed the most significant impediment to German unity. On Monday, Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev announced that he NO longer objects if the Germans are aligned with NATO. Initially, Gorbachev expressed deep reservations about Germany's alliance with the West.

However, the Polish government maintains that one significant issue remains to be resolved before German unity can be achieved... that of Poland's border with what is now East Germany. Poland wants a guarantee before unification occurs that the Germans will respect the borders as they currently exist. However, Bonn has hedged on the subject by saying any pledge on behalf of Germany can only come about after the states are united.

A federal appeals court in San Francisco Monday upheld a lower court ruling which prevented a convicted killer from acting as his own lawyer because of a severe speech impediment. Although he admitted that his stutter became more severe under pressure, Bobby Ray Savage argued that his constitutional rights were violated by a state court decision. Savage was convicted of a 1980 murder in which he threw acid on his victim.

(JULY 17) UPI - Singer Harry Belafonte has been released from Good Samaritan Hospital in San Jose, California, after experiencing chest pains in his hotel room. Administrator Truman Gates said the 63-year-old Belafonte was admitted for tests Monday morning. Belafonte became ill in his hotel room after appearing at a concert.

Marine scientists battled rough seas for three hours Monday to rescue a giant humpback whale tangled in a fishing net off the Massachussetts coast. The rescue occurred 20 miles at sea. One observer said the teams that freed the 40-foot, 30-ton mammal displayed incredible courage as they maneuvered their tiny rubber rafts on top, of and around the trapped whale.

RENO, NV (JULY 17) UPI - A civil trial brought by parents claiming their sons' suicides were triggered by subliminal messages in rock music is the latest volley against a record industry already besieged by charges of obscenity over lyrics that are easily discernible.

As the trial against the heavy metal band Judas Priest enters its second day Tuesday, audio experts for the plaintiffs were expected to present evidence that the band's ''Stained Class'' album contained subliminal messages that drove Raymond Belknap, 18, and James Vance, 20, to suicide.

The unusual product liability charges brought by the parents of the young men represent a new source of concern to record companies that have recently seen the arrest of members of the 2 Live Crew rap group on obscenity charges and efforts to put warning labels on recordings deemed to be harmful or obscene.

If successsful, the suit would force record companies to screen lyrics or face the possibility of having to pay huge punitive damages in similar cases.

Vivian Lynch, an attorney for the families, said the young men made a suicide pact and shot themselves in 1985 after listening to the Judas Priest album, which allegedly contained the hidden phrases: ''Try Suicide '' ''Let's Be Dead,'' and ''Do it, Do it.''

Members of Judas Priest and their attorneys contend there are no subliminal messages in their music.

The men's parents are seeking unspecified damages from the band, CBS Inc., which distributed the record, and Betagrange Ltd., a company associated with the production of the album.

Belknap and Vance on Dec. 23, 1985, drank beer, smoked marijuana and then listened to the album for hours. Afterward, they took a shotgun to a nearby school playground where Belknap shot and killed himself. Vance then blew away his jaw, mouth and nose but lived for more than three years before dying from complications stemming from the shooting.

In at least three previous incidents - in California, Georgia and New Jersey - fans of heavy metal have killed themselves after listening to the album ''Suicide Solution'' by the rock singer Ozzy Ozbourne, another artist who has recorded for CBS.

The California case was dismissed before coming to trial when a court ruled that song lyrics were protected by the free speech provisions of the First Amendment. The Georgia case is still pending, and heavy metal is no longer a factor in the New Jersey case.

In the Judas Priest case, however, lawyers for the plaintiffs argue that the young men were driven to shoot themselves by the alleged subliminal messages. Although he has yet to decide whether the recordings had such material, Judge Jerry Carr Whitehead has ruled that such subliminal messages were not a form of speech and therefore were not covered by First Amendment protections.

Members of Judas Priest denied they were responsible for the men's death.

''This trial will make it perfectly clear that Judas Priest could not be held responsible,'' said Rob Halford, one of the original members of Judas Priest, a pioneer in heavy metal music. Glenn Tipton, another band member, said there were no subliminal messages on ''Stained Class.''

Band members were scheduled to testify later in the trial that there were no subliminal messages in their music.

Attorneys representing the parents said audio and computer experts will show the album contained subliminal messages that were masked by being played backward in songs. Such messages triggered the young men's suicides the families contend.

Belknap and Vance were part of the culture that believed the words of Judas Priest were ''scriptures,'' Lynch said. The hidden messages ''pushed them over the edge,'' she said.

Halford said the allegations were ''completely false and untrue.'' He said band members were ''upset and concerned'' when they were accused of prompting the deaths. ''You must understand we all have families. This was very tragic.''

Suellen Fulstone, attorney for Judas Priest and CBS, told the judge, ''there are no hidden messages on the records. These two young men had many problems with drugs, alcohol, scrapes with law enforcement and loss of jobs.''

The trial is expected to last at least three weeks.

LOS ANGELES (JULY 17) UPI - The District Attorney's Office has launched a criminal investigation of the fire inside an underground Metro Rail tunnel that shut down a major freeway and threatened the subway project with further delays.

''We are investigating the circumstances surrounding the tunnel fire,'' Sandi Gibbons, a spokeswoman for the District Attorney's Office, said Monday night.

She declined to say anything else about the probe, which could focus on either arson or flagrant safety violations, among other things.

Fire Department arson investigators, meanwhile, completed gathering evidence inside the blackened 750-foot tunnel, but released no findings on the cause of the devastating three-day blaze.
